Charlevoix downtown news throughout 2014

New downtown event

Charlevoix's city council approved a new summertime event this year, sponsored by Bridge Street Tap Room and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority.

The event took place during the first weekend in June, and hosted a number of Michigan breweries with a tasting tent.

City council voted unanimously for the event. The DDA helped acquire the temporary liquor license, while Bridge Street Tap Room covered insurance, set up, event management and security. No public funds were used for the event, except for some time from city employees.

Outdoor dining

The city approved a new ordinance to allow outdoor dining, part of yearlong effort to consider the regulations through a subcommittee of the DDA.

The new rules include a minimum of 6 feet of unobstructed pedestrian walking space, and 1.5 feet of clearance between the barrier and curb, must have a well-defined area that incorporates live vegetation, may not operate outdoor dining between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m.

During the council meeting Dec. 15, the city council also required that chairs and tables are removed in the winter if they would impede the city's snow-removal process, and set the application fee at $50.

City clerk now appointed, not elected

Voters decided they wanted the city clerk position to be appointed, rather than elected.

The voters decided by a vote of 522-345 that the Charlevoix City Charter be amended to change the city clerk position to an appointed seat.

City manager Rob Straebel said the change to the charter will allow the city to find candidates with the experience needed for the job, rather than run for election.

City clerk Joyce Golding remains at the position. She was appointed in March after former Charlevoix County commissioner Larry Sullivan turned down the city post when the Michigan Attorney General opined that he couldn't hold both elected city and county positions at the same time.

Police and Fire chiefs combined

Charlevoix City Police Chief Gerard Doan took on the responsibilities of the fire and EMS chief in April, after Paul Ivan retired from his position as fire chief.

City employees will review the organizational change in September 2015 to determine the cost savings and overall benefit.

Chief Doan also received a 20 percent raise after completing both levels of firefighter certification, moving from $62,508 to $75,009.

Experts say get flu vaccine despite questions about its effectiveness

CRAIG CURRIER

(231) 439-9358 ccourier@petoskeynews.com

A recent warning from federal health officials indicates even those who received the flu vaccine aren't safe from the virus this winter.

Experts at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention are alerting doctors and health officials to prepare for a "more severe" flu season than normal and the concerns are already proving to be warranted as area hospitals are seeing a spike in patients coming in with flu-like symptoms.

Doctors are expecting the flu to continue spreading after analysts found this year's vaccine isn't as effective as you'd hope. The most prevalent strain of the flu being found in patients is a mutated one that leaves even those who were vaccinated susceptible to becoming ill.

"We definitely are seeing increased numbers of people coming in with influenza-like symptoms," said Karen E. DenBesten, infectious diseases specialist at McLaren Northern Michigan in Petoskey. "The predominant strain is a little bit of an antigenic drift from what was included in the influenza vaccine."

Flu season can start as early as September and last through April. Though it's not necessarily early or alarming to see flu cases increase at this time of year, DenBesten said the recent spike certainly indicates the virus is going around and it's important for people to be more vigilant if they want to avoid getting sick.

According to DenBesten, there was just one patient who tested positive for the flu at the hospital as recently as three weeks ago. The next week, though, there were 10 confirmed cases of the flu detected by doctors there and this week there were 21 more. DenBesten said it's hard to predict when and where that number will peak, but there's no reason to expect the spread to slow yet.

"It's hard to say, but I think the more cases you get the more that are going to contract influenza," she said. "I think we'll probably peak out early this year, but I would expect this trend to continue."

A similar uptick occurred at Orsego Memorial Hospital, where officials reported about 15 confirmed cases of the flu through early December, but in the last week have documented 30 more.

Charlevoix Marina expansion

In September the city council voted to move forward with the marina expansion. The proposed plans call for the creation of 6-7 additional 80-foot slips on a new pier, with space along the northern side to moor the Keweenaw Star passenger ship and space along the seawall for shoppers docks. The vote passed with some challenges after the council was divided on the issue.

Former council members Lyle Gennett, Shane Cole and Peggy Brennan voted for the expansion, with former mayor Norman Carlson Jr. casting the deciding vote. Council members Leon Perron, Shirley Gibson and Jeff Porter voted against the measure.

In October councilwoman Shirley

Gibson questioned the legality of the vote because of a possible conflict of interest for one of the former council members. Peggy Brennan, the former councilwoman in question voted in favor of the expansion. She also served as chairwoman of the city's marina expansion committee and testified about the proposal to the Charlevoix Planning Commission.

City attorney Scott Howard, wasn't sure if a law was violated. Council has not officially asked Howard to further investigate the legalities of the marina vote and committee process.

Elections

The November election provided some changes to city of Charlevoix offices.

After 10 years of serving as mayor, Norm Carlson was ousted by challenger Gabe Campbell. Campbell received 597 votes compared to Carlson's 534 votes. The two incumbent city council candidates for Wards 1 and 2 also lost to their challengers.

Bill Supernaw, won against Peggy Brennan for Ward 2 and Luther Kurtz won the Ward 1 seat over Mary Eveleigh and incumbent Lyle Gennett.

Fisherman's Island land swap proposal

Fisherman's Island State Park is a 2,678-acre state park south of Charlevoix with five miles of Lake Michigan shoreline.

Within recent months there has been much debate about a possible land exchange between St. Marys Cement and the park.

Officially, there is no proposed land exchange on the books between the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and St. Marys Cement. But, St. Marys officials have for years been working on an idea to swap land with the nearby state park for future mining purposes.

In June the Charlevoix Township Board was the first public entity to take a stand against the land swap. The five-member board vote against any potential swap. The Charlevoix City Council followed in November, also unanimously voting against swap.

Voters to have final say on road funding issues

CRAIG CURRIER
(231) 439-9368
ccurrier@charlevoixnews.com

Michigan voters will decide whether to increase the state sales tax from 6 to 7 percent, which would raise more than $1 billion to repair Michigan's crumbling roads and infrastructure.

The plan to put the issue on the ballot in May comes at the end of the state Legislature's three-week-long lame-duck session, which ended early today, Friday, after marathon sessions that began almost 24 hours earlier in the House of Representatives and Senate in Lansing.

On his last legislative day in office, state Sen. Howard Walker, R-Traverse City, said the sales tax hike is a solution he's supported all along. Walker called the end result of negotiations between state leaders in Lansing "a little complicated" but necessary solution to one of Michigan's biggest problems.

"I think there was a sense of urgency to get something done," said Walker, whose Senate district includes Charlevoix and Emmet counties. "I think the citizens in large number were expecting it."

The agreed-upon plan to increase road funding in the coming years relies on approval of the sales tax increase from voters. If that occurs, sales tax imposed on gasoline purchases will be removed and additional revenues from the 1 percent increase will be shifted to roads.

Lawmakers around the state — Republicans and Democrats alike — agreed the budget for transportation and infrastructure projects is significantly under-funded. Studies show as much as $1.5 billion more is needed annually to properly maintain roads and bridges around Michigan.

In recent weeks, the state House of Representatives approved a plan that would transfer sales tax revenues paid at the pump to roads, taking that money from public education and local revenue sharing funds. The House plan followed one approved by the state Senate that sought to remove the per-gallon tax of 19 cents also applied to fuel purchases and replace it with a percentage-based tax that would about double the gas tax.

The eventual solution sits somewhere in the middle, Walker said.

"I think that there is a fairly large percentage that believe this is a good and better way to get at road funding than increase the gas tax," he said.

Public transportation officials around the state were also concerned about the House plan because it reduced their funding significantly. The Legislature's announced solution Thursday raises about $1.3 billion for transportation, allocating $1.2 billion to roads and $112 million annually to transit.

The proposed road funding plan also restores the Earned Income Tax Credit for lower-income residents, as well as ensures school aid fund dollars will go to K-12 districts or community colleges and not state universities. If the sales tax increase is approved, the per-gallon gas tax will be replaced with a wholesale tax rate, though it won't amount to a significant net increase on consumers as the sales tax on gasoline will go away.

Leaders of both parties supported the proposal.

"Not only is this the comprehensive road repair plan that House Democrats and people around the state have been demanding, but it will also provide tax relief to Michigan families and take a great step forward toward restoring funding to our schools," House Democratic Leader Tim Greimel, D-Auburn Hills, said. "Asking voters to approve a tax increase isn't a step we take lightly, but taxpayers will get better roads and better schools in exchange, and provide income tax relief to offset the cost to working families."

Not all lawmakers agreed on the road funding plan, though. State Rep. Greg MacMaster, R-Kewadin, was among the 16 House members — two Democrats and 14 Republicans — who voted no on at least a portion of the bill package. In a news release, MacMaster said the plan "doesn't meet the ideals the residents of Northern Michigan expect of me as their representative."

"I have been proud to work in Lansing to protect taxpayers, but this plan is sure to grow into unaffordable tax and fee increases in the future for residents," MacMaster said.

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce, which had been calling on the Legislature to provide more money for road repairs, was among the critics of a solution that required voter approval. Gov. Rick Snyder, too, said he had hopes for a legislative solution, but said at a news conference Thursday his main concern is "solving a problem."

Wolves re-listed 'endangered'

Ruling suspends lethal control in Michigan

MARK JOHNSON
(508) 732-1111
mjohnson4@nyfordheraldtimes.com

NORTHERN MICHIGAN

— A recent court order placed wolves in the Great Lakes area on the federal endangered species list, prohibiting the killing of wolves, unless in self-defense.

A federal court judge made the ruling Dec. 19, ordering the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to return Great Lakes area wolves to endangered status.

The ruling comes in response to a lawsuit filed by the Humane Society of the United States, which believes wolves were not being managed responsibly.

According to a copy of the lawsuit, provided by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Humane Society claimed the Fish and Wildlife Service decision in 2012 to remove wolves in the Great Lakes Distinct Population from the endangered species list was in violation of the Endangered Species Act.

In a press release, Russ Mason, DNR Wildlife Division chief, expressed his displeasure with the ruling.

"The federal court decision is surprising and disappointing," Mason said. "Wolves in Michigan have exceeded recovery goals for 15 years and have no business being on the endangered species list, which is designed to help fragile populations recover — not to halt the use of effective wildlife management techniques."

Debbie Munson Badini, deputy public information officer for the DNR, said the agency has been examining the 100-page opinion with the state's attorney general's office and the Fish and Wildlife Service to determine the impact of the ruling and decide how to move forward.

Badini said she was just as surprised at the ruling as Mason.

"Wolves in Michigan are recovering," she said. "With over 600 in the state, we are far beyond our goals at this point."

The ruling suspends all lethal control laws, permits and control methods, including the killing of wolves attacking livestock or dogs and the killing of wolves by DNR officers to manage other wolf conflict.

Though these lethal methods of control have been cut, nonlethal methods remain legal.

Some of these nonlethal methods, including flagging, fencing and flashing lights, may still be used and are encouraged by the DNR.

Farmers and others who lose livestock to wolves may receive compensation from the DNR as well as the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development.

The DNR and others will continue to examine the lawsuit and look at what can be done moving forward. Badini said an appeal has not been considered yet, but she did not rule it out.

In the meantime, she said the DNR plans to continue with other wolf management plans and encourages people to be aware of these latest developments.

CREATIVEOUTLET.COM

She also asks anyone with trouble dealing with wolves to contact the DNR as other things can still be done.

Those in need of assistance can contact their local DNR wildlife biologist or Kevin Swanson, DNR wolf program coordinator, at (906) 228-6561.

Fending off frostbite

Actively check hands, feet during winter fun

MATT MUKUS
(231) 438-9394
mmukus@petoskeynews.com

Winter recreation and activities always carry a risk of frostbite if the right precautions aren't taken. While serious frostbite that causes the horrific images of blackened and blistered fingers, toes and ears is rare, it's important to know how to spot and how to prevent frostbite in the earlier stages.

"Frostbite is really a term that's used when we talk about any damage to tissue that's caused by the cold," said Mark W. Smith, a doctor at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

When exposed to extreme cold, the body naturally constricts blood vessels, and can cause a freezing of skin and body tissue.

Smoking and drinking alcohol can make you more susceptible to frostbite, since they also cause blood vessels to constrict.

When that happens, the skin becomes white and waxy, rather than pink or red when exposed to cold weather, said Tena Lechtanski, a first aid specialist at Boyne Mountain.

The most common spots for frostbite to occur are the ears, nose, cheeks, fingers and toes. But any skin that is directly exposed to the winter elements can suffer from frostbite.

Lechtanski said overcast, cold, and snowfall can lead to a higher risk of frostbite. When the wind hits your skin, it quickly pulls heat away from the body. Water can also draw heat away from the body, so any areas that are damp from either sweat or from melting snow and ice can cause an increase risk of frostbite.

Frostbite causes skin to appear white or waxy, and missing its pink hue. Severe cases can also result in blisters, like in the picture, or blackened skin.

"The body just can't keep up to keep warm," she said. "After you pass a certain point of cold, you just don't feel it. That's when it gets really dangerous."

"I think people think they're going to feel some pain or warning, but that's not really the case. It just happens. It's when things begin to thaw out, that's when it may become painful."

Because you can't always feel frostbite before it happens, she suggests doing any outdoor activities with a buddy, and frequently going inside to check your extremities.

While new fabrics for socks, gloves and mittens can help pull moisture away from the body, it's not a perfect solution. Boots could trap in water, and gloves might give a false sense of protection if the linings are soaked.

Smith says one way to help prevent frostbite in the hands and fingers is to wear mittens rather than gloves. Mittens keep the body heat shared between each digit. Gloves isolate each finger, requiring it to generate its own heat.

"If you have mild frostbite, you need to get to a warm place," Smith said. "Get out of the elements and the cold, take off any wet clothing."

"Don't rub the area, and don't put it over a fire or something. You might not be able to tell if you're doing more damage to your skin."

If the frostbite occurs on your feet, don't walk on any affected areas.

Severe cases of frostbite aren't quite as common in Northern Michigan. Lechtanski credits that to lots of shelter around, no matter what kind of winter activity you participate in.

"We've been pretty lucky here," said Smith, "the worst we've seen (at Charlevoix Area Hospital) have to do with someone, for whatever reason, spent the night in a snowbank. And in those cases, hypothermia is a more important concern."

Taking a different path

Bethany Pearson resigns from Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority

JORDAN SPENCE
(231) 438-9397
jspence@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX— After taking a new job opportunity, Charlevoix Community Economic Development Director Bethany Pearson resigned.

Her letter of resignation was effective Dec. 19 after it was submitted to city manager Rob Straebel. The motion to accept her resignation at the Downtown Development Association meeting was accepted unanimously.

"I just want to say first and foremost for the last 19-20 months I've had such a great time working with you," she said while addressing the DDA. "I've learned a lot in a very short time. I want to continue whatever I can in assisting the city."

Pearson said she will be working for the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance as their community development specialist. She added she will be helping communities with any of their larger scale projects.

Pearson said she has worked with the NLEA throughout her time in Charlevoix and once the position was open she applied for it.

In order to help cover administrative duties at the DDA Pearson suggested someone should be hired on an interim part-time basis.

The DDA agreed and Pearson will be in charge of hiring the person. To fill the permanent position a hiring committee consisting of DDA members, council members and others will be formed.

Rob Straebel and other employees will help take over duties as well including helping with the Main Street Program presentation in February.

The Michigan Main Street program is a community-driven, comprehensive strategy that encourages economic development through historic preservation. It is a best practices strategy to run a more effective DDA.

A roundup of recent Michigan newspaper editorials

The Bay City Times Dec. 15.

Bay City fitness freaks and nature lovers are soon to have a few new opportunities to crow about thanks to the Saginaw Basin Land Conservancy.

Having protected more than 6,000 acres of land since its inception in 1997, the SBLC is now focusing on several projects that should draw the public's interest: cleaning up the Golson Nature Area near the Independence Bridge; building a new pavilion at Discovery Preserve on South Euclid Avenue; constructing a canoe and kayak launch at the Bay City Rowing Club and developing a mountain hike trail on Middlegrounds Island.

The first three projects are the targets of a new $100,000. Newell and Elizabeth Eddy Grant from the Bay Area Community Foundation. The Middlegrounds project joins the others as part of a bigger project called OUR Bay City, an acronym for Outdoor Urban Recreation.

Talk about getting more hang for the buck, each of those projects provides its own unique right-in-our-own-backyard chance to get outside, get healthy and experience more of Michigan's natural resources.

And each was made possible because a small organization wasn't afraid to reinvent itself. After spending years protecting acres and acres of local land — by securing permanent easements to keep the parcels natural and free from development — SBLC has proven itself a strong link in the chain that makes Bay City a better place.

This organization is looking at ways to promote Bay County like never before, and to steal a much over-used phrase from the past, it has taken a true outside-the-box approach. And it's an approach that provides residents and visitors easy access to many under-used resources in Bay City.

It's tough sometimes to actually make things happen as an organization — plans are made, ideas exchanged, money spent with little to no action. So it pays to play well with others to get that ball rolling, either in a project partnership or grant opportunity. That's just what the Saginaw Basin Land Conservancy has done to provide these niche improvements to Bay City's natural infrastructure.

Last week, SBLC Executive Director Zachary Branigan said, "Not only are these projects a path to permanent land protection, they're a path to a better community and we're fortunate to be a part of that."

We couldn't agree more because after all, wouldn't it be fun to enjoy a Flotilla Friday with a group of paddlers launching from the Bay City Rowing Club each week in the summer? Or how about Mountain Bike Mondays on the Middlegrounds?

So make it your New Year's resolution to get outside in 2015 and check out those four new urban recreation offerings right in our own backyard. We'll see you out there.

Jackson Citizen Patriot, Dec. 19. Restoring former Merriman house shows Jackson is committed to preserving its history

The city of Jackson made a smart move when it allocated about $70,000 in federal funds to help preserve part of Jackson's history.

City Council unanimously voted to spend $69,545 of Community Development Block Grant funds on renovations to the former Merriman House — a mansion once owned by philanthropist Ella Sharp's parents.

The structure at 407 W. Michigan Ave. is now owned by nonprofit Home of New Vision, which is responsible for addiction recovery services, and leases apartments in the building to recovering addicts.

The grant funding — which has restrictions on where and how it can be used — will be used to cover a number of renovations, such as insulating the attic, granite countertops and appliances in the kitchen, drywall in the bathroom and asbestos abatement.

While the renovations may not necessarily be historically accurate, it's important to not let our historic homes fall into disrepair by neglect.

The home, which records indicate was built in the 1860s, is recognized for its historic significance because of its ties to Ella Sharp.

Dwight and Mary Merriman, Ella Sharp's parents, moved into the mansion in 1883 — leaving their farm, which would become Ella Sharp Park, to their daughter and her new husband, John Sharp.

The mansion was owned by Ella Sharp after her father's death in 1905 and transferred to the city after Ella Sharp's death in 1912. According to previous Citizen Patriot reports, the city sold the home after 1919 and it was converted into apartments under private ownership.

Hopkins Radio & Television later built a structure on the northwest section of the front lawn. The store operated there from the 1950s to the late '80s. That structure was torn down in 1999.

In 2004, Home of New Vision Inc. of Ann Arbor bought the Merriman House and has used it ever since.

Jackson has been in a push in the past several years to demolish blighted building, but it's important they remember that keeping our historic treasures in good condition also brings value to the city.

With this funding move, it seems city officials realize that

But the buck shouldn't stop with the Merriman house. We urge the city to explore using that grant funding on other worthy projects to preserve the city's history.

Make a resolution to be a blood donor

The American Red Cross asks eligible blood donors to make a resolution to give blood regularly in 2015, beginning with National Blood Donor Month in January.

National Blood Donor Month recognizes the importance of giving blood and platelets while honoring those who roll up a sleeve to help patients in need. It has been observed during January since 1970, and that's no coincidence. Winter is an especially difficult time to collect enough blood to meet patient needs.

Unpredictable winter weather can result in blood drive cancellations, and seasonal illnesses, like the flu, may cause some donors to be unable to make or keep blood donation appointments.

Donors of all blood types are needed, especially those with O negative, A negative and B negative. With a shelf life of 42 days, red blood cells must be constantly replenished to maintain an adequate supply for patients. Individuals who come out to give blood Jan. 1 through Jan. 4 will receive a long-sleeve Red Cross T-shirt, while supplies last.

To learn more about donating blood and to schedule an appointment, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

It's easy to donate blood. Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Even with a deal, lawmakers still on roads

If you like your potholes, you can keep them.

For at least another season, and that's if we're lucky.

After nearly a year of wrangling over a way to raise more money for Michigan's roads, the Legislature has finally come to something like consensus around a deal that should ultimately make for smoother rides, but also fails spectacularly to demonstrate any leadership.

Difficulty is not an excuse for inaction. And to admit paralysis by indecision is churlish.

That's exactly what lawmakers did by kicking the decision about how to fund new roads to voters, who'll cast ballots in spring of 2015 to do what their elected representatives lacked the courage to accomplish.

The roads deal on parade Thursday would rely largely on a 1 percent-increase to the state sales tax, currently 6 percent, which must be approved by voters next May — assuming the ballyhooed compromises pass both chambers today by a two-thirds vote.

Lawmakers had other options that could have been enacted with no delay. They couldn't come to agreement, so instead, we wait. And our roads continue to deteriorate.

Worse, there's no fallback. If Michiganders vote the tax increase down, lawmakers must start from scratch.

It's a stunning abdication of legislative leadership. Because the tax increase is framed as a ballot measure, it cuts Gov.

Rick Snyder out of the loop entirely. Snyder, it's worth noting, has been one of few responsible Republican grown-ups in the room during these negotiations.

Fixing our roads shouldn't have been a hard sell, especially in a lame-duck session in which this should have been a priority. But that's the final petty victory of outgoing Republican House Speaker Jase Bolger, who won by thinking smaller than everyone else. His proposal to pilfer road dollars from a tax that currently funds schools and local governments badly distorted the conversation, pushing the poles too far apart to come to a reasonable compromise.

That's a win for Bolger in the sense that he got some of what he wanted. But it's a loss for the people he represents, who needed him to think more grandly about what Michigan needs and deserves. The ovations he may be getting from a narrow-minded caucus do not drown out the cries for not only better roads, but better governance in Michigan.

Democrats, on the other hand, scored a few more high-minded wins in the road deal. They secured a restoration of the Earned Income Tax Credit, which benefits low-income, working Michiganders. And they managed to move the vote on roads late on Thursday's agenda, ensuring their conditional support could be withdrawn if right-wing Republican instincts run amok on other measures.

Bottom line: We still have a tax on fuel at a time when we're hoping to discourage its use, guaranteeing we'll reach this cliff again. The sales tax, though commensurate with other Midwestern states, is regressive, with an outsized impact on the state's poorest residents. And it could all fall apart in May, if residents vote it down.

It's a fitting end to this legislative session, surely one of the most troubling in recent memory. We know who won. But we also know who lost.

New workers' comp reimbursement rules take effect

COREY WILLIAMS
Associated Press

LANISING — Changes in how doctors are paid for treating some injured employees covered by workers' compensation are expected to address the long-term use of pain relievers and help cut medical costs for Michigan job providers, according to state officials.

The new rules prevent reimbursements for opioid treatment beyond 90 days for non-cancer-related chronic pain unless physicians meet detailed reporting requirements, the Michigan Workers' Compensation Agency said.

Pain relievers covered under the rules include morphine, codeine and methadone. The changes to the Workers' Compensation Health Care Services rules and fee schedule took effect Friday.

"These amendments aim to limit potential addiction problems for injured Michigan workers, will help to keep them healthy and put them back to work," Workers' Compensation Agency Director Kevin Elsenheimer said in a news release.

The agency has been focused on administering a fee schedule, which controls medical costs for work-related injuries.

effort to contain costs for our job providers, stabilize the system and keep the promise of compensation for injured

Michigan employees," Elsenheimer said. "All of these adjustments assure that injured Michigan workers have access to quality medical care." The Michigan Chamber of Commerce, Michigan Manufacturers Association, Michigan State Medical Society and Michigan Pharmacists Association are among the groups that supported the changes, according to Jason Moon, spokesman for the state Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs.

Leadership Charlevoix County obtains 501c3 status

Individuals looking to donate toward a non-profit organization enhancing leadership opportunities in Charlevoix County now have a new opportunity — Leadership Charlevoix County.

The board of directors of the Leadership Charlevoix County program announce the organization has received its 501c3 nonprofit status, allowing the organization to now accept financial gifts.

A special Leadership Charlevoix County committee led by board member Lori Meeder worked diligently with the Certified Public Accounting firm of Mason, Kammermann & Rohrbach to prepare the required documentation and file the application for nonprofit status.

"Obtaining 501c3 nonprofit status not only elevates the credibility of the program, but allows businesses and individuals to support leadership throughout Charlevoix County through financial donations and they will receive tax benefits for doing so," said Leadership Charlevoix County board chair Dianne Litzenberger.

Leadership Charlevoix County began in 2011 as a joint effort of the Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan and Beaver Island chambers of commerce. The program features nine monthly day-long sessions and has served a total of 55 participants — including this year's class of 16 individuals.

With leadership enhancement as part of its strategic plan, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation was also instrumental in providing grant money to help the program get off the ground.

As a result of the new nonprofit status, Leadership Charlevoix County is continuing its relationship with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation to develop the "Leadership Charlevoix County Fund" through which donations will be used to sustain the program, enhance offerings, and provide scholarships for future participants.

"This new opportunity for businesses and individuals to financially support the program will allow us to elevate our offerings to the community. Our next step is to identify areas where LCC can further enhance leadership by considering programs for LCC alumni, as well as services provided directly to businesses and organizations," said Scott Gillespie, Leadership Charlevoix County program

Top 5 stories in state politics from 2014

CRAIG CARRIER

(231) 438-9358
ccarrier@petoskeynews.com

The following are the top five stories from 2014 as compiled by the Petoskey News-Review:

Chatfield surprises Foster
Lee Chatfield, a 26-year-old private school teacher from Levering, was the only challenger to defeat an incumbent state lawmaker in the August primary when he upended state Rep. Frank Foster, a Republican from Petoskey.

Chatfield's victory seemed more and more likely as the campaign wore on. He rode a wave of support from tea party and church groups, campaigning as the more conservative candidate in the race to represent residents of Emmet County, part of Cheboygan County and the eastern Upper Peninsula.

Chatfield targeted Foster for his votes in favor of implementing the Common Core State Standards for education and Medicaid expansion, as well as the lawmaker's public support for prohibiting housing and workplace discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity in the state's Elliott-Larsen Civil Rights Act

LGBT rights

Foster's proposed expansion of the state's anti-discrimination law seemed to gain steam early in the year when Republican Gov. Rick Snyder and House Speaker Jase Bolger each offered support.

Toward the end of 2014, though, Republicans backed off their push to include such protections in the law, saying they feared it would force some to violate their religious beliefs or face a lawsuit.

In the final days of the 2014 legislative session, Republicans in the state House moved forward on a bill proposed by Bolger, referred to as the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, while simultaneously dropping Foster's legislation.

The religious freedom bill passed in the House, but state senators never voted on it in the other chamber.

Under construction

After months of public debate on the issue, state lawmakers settled on a solution (sort of) for Michigan's chronically underfunded road repair budget.

The plan, however, relies on voters to approve a 1 percent increase of the sales tax in May. If that occurs, additional revenues generated will go toward transportation and infrastructure budgets. If not, the Legislature is back where it started, searching for a solution to a problem that is of primary concern to voters and businesses in the state.

Snyder re-election

Depending where you were looking earlier this year, political analysts were calling Snyder a potential sleeper choice for the GOP's presidential nomination in 2016 or a likely candidate to be upset in his bid for re-election in Michigan's gubernatorial race.

Snyder went on to earn nearly 51 percent of the vote to the 47 percent of ballots that were cast in favor of Democratic challenger Mark Schauer. The victory spurred even more presidential talk, though Snyder hasn't said anything publicly about a national campaign.

Benishek wins third term

If Snyder was considered vulnerable in the gubernatorial race, Congressman Dan Benishek, R-Crystal Falls, was prime for an upset with the threat to his seat posed by Democrat Jerry Cannon, a retired Army general and former Kalkaska County sheriff.

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee put a focus on Michigan's 1st Congressional District, which spans most of Northern Michigan and the entire Upper Peninsula. In the final weeks of the campaign, though, Cannon started to look like an underdog again. Benishek won comfortably on Election Day, earning 52.1 percent of the vote to Cannon's 45.3 percent.

Amos 'Jerry' Greene, 86

Amos "Jerry" Greene, 86, of Charlevoix, passed away Thursday, Dec. 25, 2014, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

He was born Aug. 12, 1928, in Lafayette, Ga., to Amos Garrett and Annie Pearl Greene. Jerry moved to Charlevoix with his family in 1953. He had various occupations until he was permanently employed by American Mold Manufacturing/D.M.E. for 30 years. He retired in 1989.

Jerry proudly served in the U.S. Army. He was an avid hunter, fisherman and enjoyed all the outdoor activities Northern Michigan had to offer. He went camping in his trailer and searched for more mushrooms in season. After his health failed, his favorite pastime was watching old Westerns on TV.

He is survived by his daughter, Glenda (Don) Watkins of Lewisville, Texas; stepdaughter, Frances Young of McDonough, Ga.; stepson, Thomas (Merchal) Martin of Wesley Chapel, Fla.; and Nancy Brodin Higbee of Ellsworth, who was like a daughter; 10 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; sisters, Mary Ellen Dearing of Summerville, Ga., Betty Holbrook of Cloudland, Ga.; and nephews.

Viewing will take place at 10 a.m. Friday, Jan. 2, with the funeral beginning at 11 a.m. at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Jimmy Young, grandson, and the Rev. James Green of Parker Memorial Baptist Church in Lansing will officiate.

Following the service, family and friends are invited to gather at the Bible Baptist Church, 5855 M-66 N., in Charlevoix for a meal. Burial will take place at Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey.

Hayes will begin his term after current judge Richard M. Pajtas' term expires on Dec. 31.

School board seat remains open

Despite the election in November there is still one seat open on the school board.

During the election there was one candidate, Douglas Bergman and two write-in candidates, Matt Peterson and David Moon. These people will be joining vice president Dick Joseph, Nancy Allison and treasurer Valerie Snyder.

In order to fill the position the board will take applications from interested people and begin the vetting process in January.

School superintendent resigns

Due to health concerns and another job opportunity Charlevoix superintendent Bob Gendron resigned from the position.

I'm going to be moving to Indiana where I can go back to the classroom and back to coaching," he said. "I can go back to my first love and a lot less stress."

His last day was Wednesday, Nov. 26. Tom Stobie of Frankfort was named the interim superintendent until a permanent replacement is found. Stobie is from Frankfort and was the superintendent of the Frankfort-Elberta Area Schools from 2004 to 2013.

His contract runs through June 30 of this year.

woman Cathy Fischl said her facility's emergency room has been "slammed" this week with people complaining of flu-like symptoms, too. With news that the flu vaccine doesn't provide as much protection as it typically would, Fischl said doctors are reminding people of the basic preventive measures that can go a long way in dodging the virus.

"We're telling people to wash their hands and stay home from work if they're sick and that can't be stressed enough," she said. "Washing your hands is the number one thing you can do. People don't wash their hands long enough, either. They rinse them off and think they're done. You're supposed to wash your hands as long as it takes to sing, 'Happy Birthday.'"

Northern Michigan communities aren't the only ones seeing the flu spread in December. Statewide, officials are reporting cases have "increased drastically" in recent days. The state is reporting a "widespread" flu activity level and saying this year's predominant strain is associated with more severe illness, especially in young children and the elderly.

While it's too late for a new flu vaccine — the virus is constantly changing and medical experts prepare the upcoming year's seasonal flu vaccine every February in an attempt to predict the most prevalent form far enough in advance for mass distribution — it is still recommended that you receive the one that exists.

"It's unfortunate that people feel the flu vaccine isn't effective," said Dan Reynolds, a spokesman for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "The truth is it's effective against most forms of the flu."

Even if it doesn't protect you from becoming ill, the vaccine can decrease the flu's severity and will also prevent other less prevalent strains from affecting you.

"It's still the number one best method of preventing it," Reynolds said.

Bridge Street closed for Venetian Festival

City council members and Venetian Festival organizers paid about $5,660 to pay for state-required traffic signs in order to close the downtown stretch of Bridge Street during the festival's finale.

Traffic was diverted off of U.S. 31 using West Hurlbut Street to State Street, then Park Avenue and back to the highway.

Many city council members viewed the shift of traffic to an added measure for pedestrian safety. With one council member estimating up to 10,000 visitors for the fireworks display, the council believed the $5,000 could help reduce risk of injury.

SPEED SKATING

Cain thinking big

Petoskey native Tyler Cain harboring Olympic dreams after blazing start to speedskating career

JAMES CHRISTENSEN
(231) 439-9343 • jchristens@schurz.com

PETOSKEY — Watching the Vancouver Olympics in 2010, Tyler Cain had no idea that someday he might be in line for an Olympic bid of his own.

Taking it in as Shani Davis won the 1,000-meter race to give the U.S. team its lone gold in Vancouver, Cain had no clue that four years later he would be the top junior speedskater in an America's Cup event in Milwaukee, beating out every other under-18 skater at the most elite of America's speedskating events.

All that Cain, a 14-year-old who had never raced competitively in his life, knew was that speedskating looked like a lot of fun — and he wanted to give it a try.

"We were watching the Olympics, and speedskating came on," Cain said. "All I remember is thinking that this looked awesome, like everyone doing it was having a blast, and I wanted to try it."

"A couple days later, I found out Petoskey had a speedskating club, so I joined, and fell in love with it on the first day."

From Unlikely Beginnings Speedskating, like most Olympic sports, is dominated by early starters.

By the time they reach the age of 18 and begin contending for spots on their national teams, most elite speedskaters have been competing for almost a decade — sometimes, more than a decade. The ones who are new to the sport tend to come from an inline skating background and are used to racing competitively.

That makes Cain, now 18 years old and with three years of competitive experience, an anomaly at the upper echelons of the sport.

Cain grew up playing hockey in Petoskey's youth leagues, and learned to skate at an early age in the city's outdoor Winter Sports Park.

But after a few practices with the Petoskey Speedskating Club, coached by Ed Russell, Cain decided to leave a decade of playing hockey behind and jump into the speedskating world headfirst.

It proved to be a wise decision, as within two years Cain was winning state titles in the junior men's division and attracting attention from some of the sport's biggest names.

In the summer of 2013, former Olympic Gold Medalist and short-track legend Katherine Reutter called up Cain and his family and offered him a chance to train with her club, Academy of Skating Excellence, in Milwaukee.

"I went out there and spent the whole summer there training, and I had a blast," Cain said. "When I started competing with the other skaters in the club and seeing where I stood, that's when I started to realize that I might actually be really good."

With only two years of competition under his belt, Cain started out well behind his peers at the Academy, but in a few short months was able to catch up and stand on an even footing with some of America's most promising young skaters.

"His coach (Kreg Greer, with Competitive Edge Racing in Milwaukee) put it best when he told us that he'd put in three years of work in three months to close that gap," Tyler's mother, Sarah Cain, said. "It took a lot of hard work and a lot of discipline to maintain that level of training."

All that hard work paid off this December, in the season's first American Cup race on Dec. 5-7 in Roseville, Minn.

The Cup is the premiere speedskating series in the U.S., and Cain had a breakout performance in the first long track event, finishing sixth overall in points among all skaters.

Against his peers in the 18 and under group, Cain finished first, putting up the fastest time in the 500 meter race and finishing the race as the only junior to post a top-three time in every single distance, from 500 meters to 3,000.

Cain's 500 meter time also was faster than the qualifying time for the U.S. Olympic Trials in the event, meaning that if he can match it in a race two years from now he'll get a berth in the 2017 Trials and give himself a chance to earn a spot on the U.S. Olympic

BASES' Scott Kelly reflects on opportunities

Softball hall of fame inductee has played the games he loved for a lifetime

NOAH CERTA
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Many kids dream of growing up and playing our favorite sport beyond high school. Some of us do, however many of us do not.

Charlevoix's Scott Kelly has had the privilege of playing baseball and fastpitch softball his whole life.

Kelly, who graduated from Charlevoix High School, played football, basketball and baseball for the Rayders. His one love though, was baseball.

One of Kelly's biggest mentors came from when he was in high school.

"One of the key people would've been Pete Spieles, who was my baseball coach in high school."

Kelly didn't stop there when remembering the people who helped him along the way.

"Roger Gowell, Hal Evans and Don Carey," Kelly said. "Charlevoix when I was in high school had a great athletic class that I was surrounded with, with a couple grades above and below. So there were always great opportunities."

Kelly's high school baseball accomplishments earned him a scholarship at Ferris State University to play baseball. Kelly earned this scholarship with help from Charlevoix native Dean Davenport, then the athletic director at Ferris State.

"He helped me open some doors to help me play at Ferris," Kelly said. "Just having that opportunity to go on to the next level was really important."

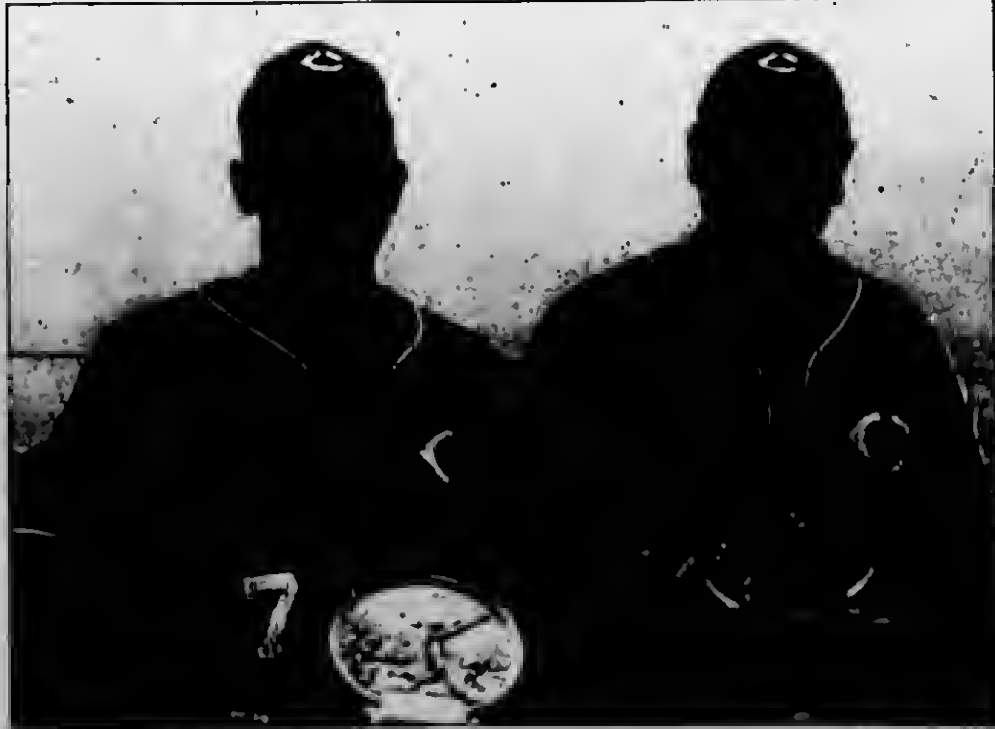

The game of baseball at the college level has no doubt made an impact on Kelly's life.

"Playing college baseball taught me a lot of discipline," Kelly said. "It gave me a great opportunity to meet a bunch of people, further my education and grow as a person. One of the things people don't understand, is that I got sober so I could stay in college and play baseball. If I didn't have college baseball to do that with when I was 18 years old, I wouldn't have this business (BASES)."

BASES, which stands for Bay Area Substance Education Services, was founded in 1993. BASES is dedicated to providing a drug free environment for young people and to providing substance abuse prevention. These services are available to young people and their families in northwest lower team for the 2018 Games in Pyeongchang, South Korea. Hard Work and Determination

While Cain's results have been encouraging, they haven't come easily, or without sacrifice.

The life of an elite athlete is a long and arduous one, starting with the training.

To compete on a national level, Cain spends six to eight hours training six days a week, starting most days at 6 a.m.

"We'll get up early and lift weights at the local YMCA, and then hit the ice for two practice sessions every day at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.," Cain said. "In between there's a lot of stretching and yoga, and we occasionally mix in a 20 to 30 mile bike ride as well."

On top of that time commitment are mental exercises and film analysis, which eats up even more of the clock.

"Technique is so important at this level, because if any little thing is off in your form, your breathing, your concentration; it can lead to disaster," Cain said. "The national team has four cameras positioned around the track so they can capture skaters from every angle, and they'll spend hours going over the film looking for anything off in the skater's form so they can correct it."

On top of the time commitment, there are other pressures as well.

High-level meets take place across the country, and that means trips throughout the year to places such as Salt Lake City, St. Louis and Lake Placid.

All those travel costs add up, and combined with the cost of equipment (high-end skates cost thousands of dollars) and training, it can make paying for it all a daunting proposition.

"It's an expensive sport, and there's not much in the way of endorsements for speedskaters," Sarah Cain said. "Like most winter sports, the U.S.

Olympic Committee doesn't give out much in the way of financial help, so for the most part we have to pay our own way."

Sarah Cain and Tyler's father, Mark, have scraped by financially with assistance from family and friends, and Tyler, who graduated high school last spring, has put off college and gotten a job to help defray the costs.

"It hasn't been an easy road to walk," Tyler Cain said. "It really forces you to make hard choices about where you want your life to go, and prioritize what matters most to you."

"I've been very lucky to get the support I need so far, and I'm very grateful for that."

Dreaming of South Korea

If Cain maintains his current rate of growth, there's no doubt he'll be a serious contender for a spot on the U.S. speedskating team at the 2018 Games.

While Cain is currently fastest right now in the 500 meter, long-term his best race will likely be the one favored by Shani Davis, the Olympic gold medalist who first inspired him: the 1,500.

"(Tyler's) coach calls the 1,500 the king's race, because it's the hardest one to figure out," Sarah Cain said. "It's too long to be a sprint, but it's too short to be a distance race."

"You really need both the raw speed of the sprinters and the endurance of the distance skaters to be good at it."

That mix plays to Cain's strengths, and despite some short-track experience, Tyler definitely prefers the long track version of the sport.

"Short-track is very aggressive and cutthroat, and it's definitely a lot more of a race against others," Cain said. "In long track, it's more about racing the clock and racing yourself."

"You can stay calm and settle into your race, and I definitely like that better than just going all-out."

With the Olympics still three years away, Cain is focused in on the present.

His current goal is to give a good performance at the U.S. Junior Championships in hometown Milwaukee on Jan. 9-11, and earn a spot on the U.S. team heading to the World Junior Speedskating championships in Warsaw, Poland, on Feb. 14-15.

"The world championships is an Olympic-level event for our sport every year, and skating there will give me a pretty good idea of what big meets like that are like," Cain said. "The preparation, the feelings of a big meet, learning all that will be very useful down the road."

The next few meets will be a big step for Cain on a road that could end at the start line of the Olympic speedskating finals in South Korea in 2018.

Regardless of whether or not he can make it there, however, Cain said he is grateful for the experience he's had, and looking forward to whatever comes next.

"It's very rare that people make money off of speedskating, even gold medalists, so it really has to be something you love," Cain said. "For me, going out there and competing, and possibly getting the chance to represent my country on the world's biggest stage, I can't think of anything better."

You can follow Tyler's career and journey on Facebook by liking the Tyler Cain Speedskating page.

KELLY

Michigan.

For the kids interested in playing the game beyond high school, Kelly's biggest advice would be understanding the levels of play.

"They need to understand that there are a lot of different levels of college baseball," Kelly said. "You've got the different levels of junior college, Division I, Division II, and Division III. It's a matter of finding a place where you fit for your level. I see some kids try and go too far, or go too high, and then don't get the opportunity to develop the correct way."

Once Kelly graduated from Ferris State, he knew his baseball playing days were all but over there, although he continued to play the sport at the semi-pro level in Manistee and was put into that community's hall of fame a few years ago.

He also found the next best thing — fastpitch softball.

Kelly saw the difference between the two respective sports.

"Playing baseball was always about trying to get to the next level. In 1988, I went to my first national softball tournament, and that was a really cool experience to do that kind of stuff," Kelly said. "The baseball world was very, very politically oriented and very difficult to get into. Fastpitch softball was actually a lot of tougher competition."

Kelly's competitiveness transferred from baseball to fastpitch softball.

"The competitiveness that I found in baseball, I now started to find in fastpitch softball playing at the national level," Kelly said. "I liked fastpitch softball more actually. Two of the guys that I played college baseball with played for team U.S.A., where they pick the top 18 players in the entire country."

The difficulty of facing pitching is different between the two sports.

"In baseball, rarely would I see a 90 mph fastball at the levels that I played at," Kelly said. "In fastpitch softball when I started playing in the upper-levels, guys would typically throw 75 mph. Because of the closeness of the mound it's comparable to a 90 mph fastball."

Kelly's hardest pitcher he had the opportunity to face came from a different country.

"The fastest pitcher I've ever hit off of was Lucas Mata from Argentina. He was clocked at 85, so from 46 feet the equivalence marks out to be 112 mph. I hit a groundball to second, and I was really proud of that," Kelly said laughing. "Talk about having a split second to make up your mind."

With all organized team sports, there are bonds to be made. Kelly has developed quite a few of them.

"When I was inducted into the Ferris hall of fame in 2007, of the five players that came down to participate in my induction ceremony, four of them were my fastpitch softball buddies," Kelly said. "The fastpitch is very much of a family oriented opportunity. There were always some really good teammates."

Kelly's relationship with his former teammates has paid dividends toward the fastpitch softball community.

"As a result of those relationships, we actually started a pitcher classification committee utilizing the websites and the Internet," Kelly said. "We would have 15 guys that were overseeing the pitcher classification in the entire state of Michigan. About three years ago that became a national model, so they used what we started right here, and applied it to the whole nation. That was a direct result of those relationships with all of my buddies that I met over the years."

Kelly has no doubt made some great memories over the years through fastpitch softball.

"All of the different times at the waterfront, (softball field in Petoskey) — from June bugs invading the field in the middle of summer, to the fog rolling in and you can't see the outfielders and the fly ball hits the fence, and then you know where to get the ball," Kelly said. "Missing a pitch on occasión because of the sunset behind me."

A highlight of Kelly's career was being a director and a sponsor.

"Some of the highlights were being involved in organizing teams and sponsoring teams and these types of things," Kelly said. "The greatest satisfaction for me are a lot of the team trophies. Having teams involved in national championships."

With all of these amazing accolades Scott Kelly has achieved over the last 20 plus years, he will be inducted into the Michigan Amateur Softball Hall of Fame on Saturday, Jan. 24. The Hall of Fame banquet will be held in Midland at The H Hotel.

Wishing you and yours a happy and healthy 2015!

2013 Charlevoix graduates killed in Jan. 2 crash

MANTON — Authorities are investigating a crash that killed two 20-year-old members of the Charlevoix High School class of 2013 who were Michigan State University students after their car went out of control and struck another vehicle on a bridge over the Manistee River Friday, Jan. 2.

The Wexford County Sheriff's office identified the deceased as the driver Carolena Elowsky and passenger Maura Brandi, both of Charlevoix. Both died at the scene. The crash happened about 11:30 a.m. Friday on U.S. 131 in Wexford County's Liberty Township, near Manton.

Elowsky

The driver of the other vehicle, Robert S. Campbell, 61, and passenger Stacy Campbell, 50, both of Kingsley, were taken to Munson Medical Center for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries, authorities said.

Sheriff's officials said their initial investigation showed that Elowsky was driving a vehicle north on U.S. 131 when she lost control while crossing the Manistee River Bridge, crossed the centerline and collided with the vehicle traveling south. The sheriff's department says it doesn't know if road icing caused the crash.

The National Weather Service says light snow stopped falling overnight and skies were clear at the time, with temperatures about 22 degrees.

A memorial service for Elowsky and Brandi has been scheduled for 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 7, at the Charlevoix High School auditorium.

Hayes sworn in as Charlevoix County Circuit Court judge

CRAIG CURRIER
(231) 439-9358 • courier@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — For the first time since 1985, a new circuit court judge was sworn in Friday, Jan. 2 in Charlevoix County.

Judge Roy C. "Joe" Hayes III put on his robe for the first time during a ceremony inside the county courthouse. Outgoing Judge Richard M. Pajtas, who has served as the county's circuit court judge since Jan. 1, 1985, administered the oath of office.

"It's hard to get my head around, but I am now replacing Judge Pajtas on the bench and I couldn't be more proud," Hayes said. "I feel very lucky to have practiced in your court for 20 years and watch the way that you do the job and serve the people. I'm going to try to follow in your footsteps."

Pajtas, 71, never faced a challenger in an election after he took over for Martin B. Breighner 30 years ago. He was forced to retire, however, by a state

City passes service plan

Agrees to ambulance, fire service contracts

JORDAN SPENCE
(231) 439-9357 • jspence@petoskeynews.com

The Charlevoix City Council unanimously passed an agreement for ambulance and fire services to be provided from the city to surrounding townships.

The agreement for ambulance services will cover Charlevoix, Eveline, Hayes, Marion and Norwood townships.

The city of Charlevoix's agreement for fire services will cover only part of Eveline Township.

City of Charlevoix Police and Fire Chief Gerard Doan presented the plan to the council Monday at its regular meeting.

"For the ambulance agreement it's 24 hour a day, seven days a week city of Charlevoix will provide to the townships for the next five years," he said.

Along with shared services.

TRAVERSE CITY — Last winter's deep freeze that slowed Great Lakes shipping to a crawl caused $705 million in economic losses and highlighted the need to bolster the U.S. Coast Guard's icebreaking fleet, a trade association said Tuesday.

The prolonged cold produced the thickest and most expensive ice cover on the lakes in 35 years. By early March, about 92 percent of their surface was solid. Coast Guard crews toiled more than five months breaking ice to keep shipping lanes open, finally calling a halt in mid-May.

Despite their efforts, the volume of freight hauled on the lakes by U.S.-flagged vessels between Dec. 1, 2013, and May 30, 2014, was nearly 7 million tons lower than during the same period a year earlier, according to the Cleveland-based Lake Carriers' Association.

Industries such as steel, power generation and construction depend on year-round delivery of cargo, said Jim Weakley, the association's president. The Great Lakes shipping fleet's 56 vessels transport bulk materials such as iron ore, cement, coal, salt, sand and grain.

At least two steelmakers cut production last winter and some power plants ran low on coal because of the slowdown, Weakley said.

"Steel that had been ordered was not made, which means either some products were not produced or made with foreign steel," he said. "Worst yet, some North American products were outright replaced with imports."

Martin Associates, a transportation economics analysis firm in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, calculated lost business revenue at $705 million and estimated that 3,800 jobs were lost, he said.

The U.S. Coast Guard deployed nine vessels with icebreaking capabilities and received assistance from the Canadian Coast Guard. The Lake Carriers' Association praised the crews' efforts but said it would ask Congress to fund construction of an icebreaking cutter similar to the Mackinaw, which is larger and more powerful than the fleet's other craft.

"We have to face the fact that we need two heavy icebreakers on the Great Lakes," spokesman Glen Nekvasil said.

But the Coast Guard doesn't believe another Mackinaw-type ship is needed, especially as most of its other icebreakers are being upgraded, said Lt. Davey Connor, spokesman for the agency's district office in Cleveland.

Last winter was "kind of a 30-year exception to the norm," he said. "If we had a fleet prepared to deal flawlessly with the worst-case scenario, then for 29 of the other 30 years we'd have too much. We feel that's not the best stewardship of taxpayer money and Coast Guard resources."

U.S. Rep. Candice Miller, a Michigan Republican and chairwoman of the House Homeland Security Subcommittee on Border and Maritime Security, said she joined a Coast Guard crew on an icebreaking mission last year.

Dexter woman, 63, training for Straits of Mackinac swim

DEXTER, Mich. (AP) — A 63-year-old Dexter woman is training to become the oldest person to swim the Straits of Mackinac.

Julie Woods, who has degenerative disc disease and is a victim of sexual abuse, hopes to inspire others to overcome obstacles when she achieves her goal next summer. She also wants to raise $5,000 for Gleaners Food Bank of Southeastern Michigan.

The Straits of Mackinac is about 5 miles from point to point, but Woods tells The Ann Arbor News that the swim will be closer to 8 miles as she follows the currents. She plans to start in St. Ignace north of the Mackinac Bridge and end near the lighthouse in Mackinaw City. Woods expects the swim to take between five and eight hours.

Two kayakers plan to record video of the feat as they accompany Woods on her swim.

Woods swims more than 2 miles per day. She lifts weights and is trying to gain weight to prevent hypothermia. The average summer temperature of the waterway is between 45 and 50 degrees.

An official from the United States Coast Guard's Sault Ste. Marie office says only four people attempted to swim the straits last summer due to unusually cold temperatures caused by a harsh winter.

Peters is lone Democrat out of 13 new U.S. senators

DAVID ROBERT
Associated Press

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Gary Peters, the lone Democrat among 13 freshmen U.S. senators who were sworn in Tuesday, pledged to find common ground with majority Republicans and said his top priorities are ensuring that the auto industry stays healthy and building a second bridge to connect Detroit and Windsor, Ontario.

One of the four committees on which he will sit is Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs. Peters said when he served in the House, he worked with Homeland Security Secretary Jeh Johnson.

"They know where I'm coming from on this bridge, and I'm going to continue to push very hard," Peters told reporters during a conference call. "The international trade crossing is perhaps the most significant infrastructure project for the whole country. It's absolutely critical for us in Michigan."

Republican Gov. Rick

Snyder has expressed frustration with the Obama administration for not committing to pay for a $250 million U.S. customs plaza as part of the planned multibillion-dollar, government-owned bridge linking Detroit and Windsor. Canada plans to cover almost the entire cost of the bridge in exchange for future toll revenues.

Asked about the Senate GOP's plan to vote on constructing the long-stalled Keystone XL oil pipeline, Peters was noncommittal on how he would vote, saying it would depend on amendments he supports dealing with petroleum coke — a byproduct of oil refining — and pipelines underneath the Straits of Mackinac, a major shipping lane between Lakes Michigan and Huron. The White House has threatened to veto the bill approving the pipeline.

Peters, a 56-year-old from Bloomfield Township who served in the House for the last six years, defeated Republican Terri Lynn Land in November. He succeeds Democrat Carl Levin, who did not run again after 36 years in the Senate.

Five new members of Michigan's 14-member U.S. House delegation also took office Tuesday. They include Republicans Mike Bishop, John Moolenaar and Dave Trott — who will be in the majority — and Democrats Debbie Dingell and Brenda Lawrence.

Bishop, a 47-year-old from Rochester Hills, is a former state Senate majority leader. Moolenaar, 53, of Midland, most recently served as a state senator. The 54-year-old Trott, of Birmingham, led a law firm that specialized in real estate issues including foreclosures.

Dingell, 51, of Dearborn, succeeds her husband John, the longest-serving member of Congress in history. She is a former General Motors executive who has long been involved in Democratic politics. Lawrence, 60, was Southfield's mayor and is the third African-American congresswoman in Michigan history.

Humane Society expansion should ease animal suffering

THE DETROIT NEWS

The Michigan Humane Society is raising money to expand its animal rescue and care services in Detroit's north end. That's good news for the 15,000 animals the Detroit facility handles every year, and for the thousands more strays that roam Detroit's streets.

Reports vary, but a Michigan State University study from February shows there are an estimated 7,500 dogs and 18,000 cats loose in the city.

Detroit, with chronically understaffed public services and just four animal control officers, has had a problem controlling the animal population and properly caring for it.

These creatures don't deserve to be neglected. As Detroit gets back on its feet, a new, improved and larger animal facility is a welcome development.

It's a challenge for Detroiters, many of whom struggle to meet their own daily needs, to properly care for and raise pets.

The city should also look to partner with nonprofits that do the important work of identifying and caring for animals in need, as well as educating owners on how to properly treat them.

There are limited pet supply stores in the city. Low-income residents often can't afford to properly feed and tend their pets. Many animals end up abandoned or abused, and dogs are organized for fighting or left tethered outside, where they can freeze to death.

Several nonprofits in Detroit work to educate animal owners on proper ways to treat and raise their pets, and they deserve credit for their work.

Education can include avoiding chaining dogs to fences, teaching owners why it's important to spay or neuter their pet, how often their pet should be fed, and even where to buy pet supplies.

The Humane Society is looking for $15.5 million to help build the new 34,000-square-foot facility.

The organization says improvements will include better housing for animals, an expansion of its veterinary services and a community dog park. It will also house the organization's Cruelty Investigation and Rescue Department.

As Detroit continues to restructure city services and improve the quality of life for residents, animals should not be left out.

Fresh leadership needed at Secret Service

DAILY PRESS
(Escanaba) Dec. 30.

Unless the Secret Service is shaken up at the very top, the agency charged with protecting the president and other top officials will not correct problems that threaten its mission, an investigation has concluded.

After scandal after scandal — including lapses in which the president was put at risk — a group of former government officials was asked to examine the Secret Service and propose solutions. Last week, their report was released.

Reform will not occur unless a new director from outside the agency is placed in charge of the Secret Service, those who studied it emphasize. They referred to the agency as "insular."

In other words, the Secret Service is a hureaucracy where inefficiency has become acceptable.

The outside director proposal certainly touches on the problem of insiders unwilling to rock the boat. But it does not go far enough.

Much of the federal bureaucracy has problems similar to those plaguing the Secret Service. Sending someone from another agency there may merely replace someone knowledgeable about it with someone else who is not — but who has the same sort of — insular mindset.

Far better would be a new director from the private sector with no allegiance to the live-and-let-live philosophy of the government bureaucracy.

Members of Congress and President Barack Obama should consider that approach.

Hagel hinted that $10B will improve US missile force

THE ALPENA NEWS
Dec. 30.

Nuclear weapons proliferation may mean that, if anything, the United States needs a strong, flexible deterrent force. Air Force officials finally are admitting there are questions whether their missile system measures up.

One of the keys to the U.S. nuclear arsenal is the network of underground missile silos in five states. They hold about 450 rockets that, theoretically, can be fired quickly and accurately at any enemy.

But during the past couple of years there have been serious concerns about whether all personnel manning the silos are up to the job. For example, one big scandal disclosed widespread cheating on tests the missile operators must take periodically.

As you might expect from the federal government, the initial reaction was to throw money at the problem. Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel said as much as $10 billion will be spent during the next six years to improve the missile force. Fortunately, Hagel also included dozens of other changes, some including personnel, in his response to the challenge.

But Hagel is about to depart as defense secretary. It remains to be seen whether his successor will consider the missile force a top priority.

It must be just that. Again, the missiles are vital to national security.

What about Common Core

Our political tendency to choose up sides and shout at one another over the gulf appears to have become a part of the concern with public education. Serious dialogue about what has come to be called "Common Core" has mostly given way to political argumentation that has little or nothing to do with education. Often the people doing most of the shouting appear to know little or nothing about what exactly Common Core is.

There are serious arguments to be made about the value or lack of value of frequent, high-stakes testing of students and about the use of such test scores to evaluate teachers' performances. Arguments should be separated from consideration about the content or teaching of Common Core. Surely no one can seriously argue against every student nationwide having an education of equal quality. Any concerns raised about Common Core must be about how the idea is to be applied, and how we might see how well it is working.

Common Core does not consist of some set of ideas or information that everyone must learn. It is more about process than content. As an example, a student could learn to read by studying the Bible or by studying almost any secular text. The important idea is learning to read, not just learning the content of the reading. Once a student can read, any text is available.

The same is true of problem-solving skills. When a student has learned how to approach and solve some set of problems, that skill can be widely applied to many other sorts of situations. The goal is not some specific information, but rather a set of skills. Information may be acquired in the process, but information is not the goal. The idea of Common Core is much more like true education and much less like the indoctrination that some fear.

I have a longtime teacher's concern about student testing as a way of evaluating teaching skills. There is pretty good evidence that such evaluation stifles classroom creativity and discourages teachers from trying new things. The Common Core actually encourages teacher creativity.

One important outcome of the application of Common Core in some states and its rejection in others will be the long-term examination of its success. Long after the fires of political warfare have cooled, we will know whether the idea has value. The sad part is that some sets of students will not have had the advantages it might provide. And some teachers will not be successful at making the transition. It is a grand experiment, and I hope we can learn from it.

CHARLEVOIX
HISTORICAL SOCIETY
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Members of the First Congregational Church of Chicago purchased land from pioneer settler John Dixon in 1880 and started building their resort the next year near Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix). From their southern bluff they looked down onto the woods and hush of an island, which they now owned, that stood beside the upper channel. In front of this island flowed the former outlet between Pine Lake and Round Lake.

In order to cross the little river onto their property other than by boat, the Chicago Club, as it later came to be called, built a wooden bridge. Boaters today along this "Old River" still pass under a bridge built on the very same spot. It has had basically only two designs over the past 120 or so years, a fanciful rustic one often decorated with flower boxes, or a solid barebones structure displaying no embellishment. At first the club members thought they might develop Old Island, or Park Island as they originally called it. But for some reason they left this bit of land in its natural state, so that now the bridge leads to nothing more than footpaths into a serene quiet. The bridge can be glimpsed from the upper channel at the west end of the Coast Guard wharf where Old River begins.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Community foundations welcome grant requests

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Petoskey Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation invite area nonprofit organizations, educational institutions and municipalities to submit grant requests to put local charitable dollars to work in our area.

Grant applications to support arts and culture, education, the environment, community and economic development, health and human services, recreation and youth are available by calling your respective community foundation office.

All applicants must call to discuss their proposals in advance.

Eligible nonprofit organizations must serve residents of Charlevoix County or Emmet County and work to enrich or improve life for local residents.

The deadline for submission is Monday, March 2. Applications will be reviewed by community members and the youth advisory committee members, and recommendations will be reviewed by the respective boards of trustees.

The community foundations accept contributions from donors and then use a portion of the income earned from the investment of these gifts to help foster positive change in the area. In this way, donors' contributions meet community needs now and in the future.

To apply for a grant or for more information, call or email your local community foundation program officer. In Charlevoix County, contact Maureen Radke at (231) 536-2440 or maureen@c3f.org. In Emmet County, contact Sara Ward at (231) 348-5820 or sward@phsacf.org.

College value focus of 'Community Conversation' seminar

CHARLEVOIX — In partnership with The Center for Michigan, a nonprofit and nonpartisan "think-and-do" tank located in Ann Arbor, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Charlevoix Public Library will co-host one of the center's "Community Conversations."

The session will be at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 27, at the Charlevoix Public Library.

This year's conversation will discuss college value and affordability issues, which are among several key issues that impact Michigan's job market. Participants will be able to share their experiences, priorities, needs and hopes during the session. The center will take the priorities identified and other conversations, and amplify them to state leaders.

The conversation will be one of more than 150 structured dialogues taking place from November through June. Altogether, the participants will include more than 3,000 Michigan residents.

To learn more about Community Conversations and the Center for Michigan, visit thecenterformichigan.net.

Citizens interested in reserving a space in the Community Conversation session should contact the Charlevoix Public Library at (231) 237-7340 or register online at host.evanced.info/charlevoix/evanced/eventsignup.asp?ID=5599&noheader=1&noattendance=1&pointer=inhouse.

OBITUARIES

Carolena Elowsky, 20

On Jan. 2, 2015, our beautiful daughter, granddaughter, niece and loving friend, Carolena Elowsky, went to join our heavenly father.

A celebration of her life took place at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7, at Charlevoix High School.

Carolena was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Nov. 12, 1994. She moved to Charlevoix, Mich., with her family in 1997. She attended Charlevoix Public Schools, and graduated first in her high school class in 2013.

She was an avid soccer player, a starter of four years, and earned Honorable Mention All State honors her junior and senior years. She was a member of the National Honor Society, student council, quiz bowl team, and was also a member of the volleyball.

basketball and cross country teams.

In the fall of 2013, Carolena began her studies in the honors college at Michigan State University. She was a member of the Tower Guard Honors Society, Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, and was employed as a teacher's assistant. Carolena was a true Sparty with a heart of green! She attended all of the home football and basketball games. These game days filled her with some of her fondest memories at MSU. Carolena loved her family, her Charlevoix friends and her new MSU friends.

She spent her summers as a gang leader/camp counselor at The Belvedere Club where she was loved by the Belvedere families and children.

Carolena's smile lit up a room. She was funny, smart, positive, kind and a born leader. She lived her life to the fullest and achieved all her dreams. Carolena will be missed by so many. Carolena leaves behind her loving parents, Grant and Bridget Elowsky; her two brothers, Parker and Hudson; her grandparents, Lowell and Jean Elowsky, and Patricia LaRue; her aunts and uncles, Jay Elowsky, Jennifer (Elowsky) and Daniel Fox, Greg and Jill LaRue, Mark and Sue LaRue, Brendan and Stephanie LaRue, Molly LaRue, Geoff and Michelle LaRue, and Megan (LaRue) and Brett Korbell; and many cousins. She was preceded in death by her grandfather Merrill LaRue.

Contributions in Carolena's honor can be made to the Carolena Elowsky MSU Scholarship Fund in care of the Charlevoix State Bank.

Share a memory or condolences in Carolena's guestbook at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

FOREVER YOUNG, FOREVER BEAUTIFUL, FOREVER IN SO MANY HEARTS. WE LOVE YOU, OUR SWEET DAUGHTER, CAROLENA.

Maura Elizabeth Brandi, 20, of Charlevoix, died on Jan. 2, 2015.

A celebration of her life took place at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7, at Charlevoix High School.

She was born on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey. She passed away in a fatal car accident on Jan. 2, 2015, with her good friend Carolena Elowsky. She was a 2013 graduate of Charlevoix High School in Charlevoix.

Maura was a sophomore at Michigan State University. She was a loyal Spartan fan, sometimes camping out overnight to get the best tickets, and sometimes attending three collegiate events a day. She excelled academically in high school and at MSU where she studied landscape architecture, with the goal of making the world a more beautiful place. Her passion for knowledge and drive to experience everything in life was unsurpassed. She was devoted to the many friends who blessed and enriched her life, and was loyal, kind and considerate of others. Maura was fun to be around and a beautiful person, both inside and out.

Maura's interests included all genres of music, dancing, running barefoot, soccer, football and encouraging others to recycle as a good steward of the earth. Maura loved to be outside, enjoyed all water sports, family camping, sailing and travel vacations. She was a team member with the City of Charlevoix marina crew, and enjoyed her time there immensely.

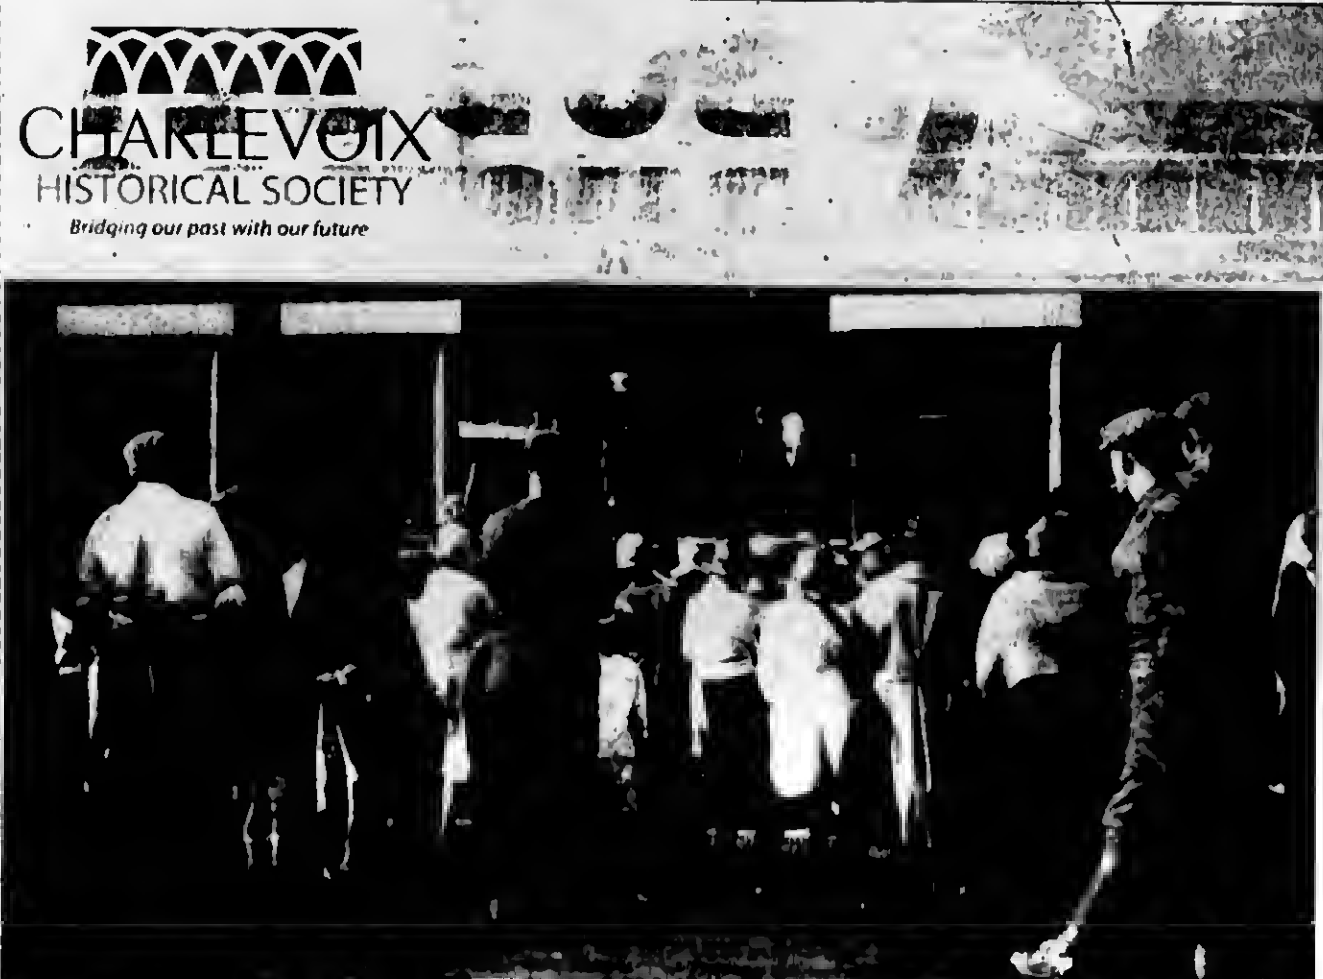

Maura is survived by her father, Richard Brandi, and mother, Maureen Radke, and one sibling, Nick Brandi; aunts and uncles, Roger (Karen) Brandi, Joy (Tim) Reade, Michael (Kate) Radke, Marybeth Radke, Gregg (Renee) Radke, Don (Carolyn) Radke, Joni (David) Coxton, Chris (Karen) Radke; and cousins, Michael, Heather, Frances, Chris, Alex, Olivia, Joan, Gabe, Lily, John and Brenna. Maura was preceded in death by her grandparents, Grace and Gerald Brandi, Michael and Joan Radke, Elise Brandi; and cousin, Mariah.

Arrangements were made at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The family invites friends and family to share memories/condolences on the online guestbook at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

To honor Maura's passion for our beautiful up north landscape and water resources, contributions can be made to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council Fund.

Her brilliant blue eyes, sunny outlook and radiant smile will live on in the hearts and memories of all who had the pleasure to know her.

LOOKING BACK...

In 1902, one of the most beloved cartoon characters in American comic strip history was introduced — Buster Brown.

For many, Buster, accompanied on his adventures by his faithful American pit bull Tige, came to represent American boyhood even though he looked a little fancy in his short pants and bangs. In 1904, the Brown Shoe Company adopted Buster as its mascot, introducing live boy and dog at the St. Louis World's Fair that year.

Soon, Buster and Tige, pairings of "small people" and various dogs, began touring all over the country and many years later reached Charlevoix. The exact date is in question because local shoe store owner Don Campbell claimed that when he hosted Buster Brown as a shoe symbol, the concept was then 35 years old, which would have been 1939. But Wikipedia says the touring stopped in 1930.

In any case, Buster and Tige drew crowds downtown both in the store, recently known as the Man Cave, and on Clinton Street, beside what is now the North Seas Gallery. Buster and Tige, sitting on a chair, entertained the crowd atop a wooden platform that stood above eye level. The crowd spilled over the curb into Clinton Street.

law that prohibits a judge from seeking election after age 70.

In addition to Pajtas, retired 90th District Court Judge Richard W. May, current 90th District Court Judge James N. Erhart, 57th Circuit Court Judge Charles W. Johnson and 7th Probate Court Judge Frederick Mulhauser also participated in Hayes' ceremony.

"I remember this day well when it happened for me and how proud I was and my family was," said Johnson, who serves in neighboring Emmet County.

May, who was the 90th District Court's judge from 1995-2012, offered some advice to Hayes.

"I would encourage you, Joe, to be yourself when you're on the bench, to enjoy the challenge, which it will be at times," May said.

Hayes is a longtime Charlevoix-based attorney who graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1986 and returned home in 1994 to practice law with his father, Roy C. Hayes Jr. He was elected in November, defeating fellow area attorney Mary Beth Kur in a hotly contested race.

Hayes and Kur were the top two vote-getters among five candidates in the August primary. Hayes eventually defeated Kur by a margin of 5,904 votes to 4,114, or 59 percent to 41 percent.

the costs will be divided between the city and townships.

To figure out the base funding there is four criteria — total taxable value, total population, share of the 9-1-1 addresses and total number of ambulance runs.

The shared fire services cost will be determined by using two prior years of call volume up to 2014. After 2014 a two percent increase was added for each of the five years based off of the 2014 costs.

Rob Straebel, city manager, said the city of Charlevoix and the county's lawyers both reviewed the agreements and approved of the plan.

"I believe this is a community effort," said mayor Gabe Campbell. "I just love it when the different communities get together."

Ferris State volleyball player Way positive on and off the court

MIAMI CORTA
Senior to the Courier

BIG RAPIDS — You have choice to make — whether not to surround yourself with bad influences or good influences.

Which road are you going to take? In life, it is a privilege to surround yourself with positive influences who are adventurous, brave, intelligent, capable and most importantly, faithful. One of these positive influences is Charlevoix graduate and current Ferris State volleyball athlete Jenna Way.

Way's family has had a big impact in making her into a Charlevoix athletic standout. "My family has been a huge influence in my life, parents specifically for giving me the chance to participate in sports with encouraging words, driving me to games and tournaments, my siblings for making me tough and competitive, and grandparents for always sharing their opinions and watching me whenever they could," Way said. "I couldn't have done it without anyone else in my life."

Way grew up liking many sports but fell in love with volleyball. The love of the game started at an early age.

"Ever since I could walk," Way said, laughing. "I am the youngest of four children and I was dragged to the gym with my older siblings constantly. I don't give them enough credit for who I am as a person and teammate because they showed me how to be competitive while also showing respect to my competition."

Way's competitiveness and respect toward the competition helped fuel the Rayders volleyball team to one of their best years ever in 2011.

"It was beyond magical," she said. "Ever since seventh grade, we wanted to go to the state finals and win a state championship, so our dream started young," Way said. "All through high school, my teammates and I pushed each other in and out of volleyball season to be in shape, make good choices and stay eligible in school, so we could make it to our dream our senior year."

This push led to the Rayders making it to the Class C Final Four in Battle Creek.

"I believe in the motivation that a team can only go as far as their seniors want to go," Way said. "I tell ya, we wanted to go all the way and we believed we could."

There were sure to be some great memories made that magical 2011 season.

"By far my favorite moment for me was winning quarterfinals on our home court against Houghton to make it to the Final Four," Way said. "It was my senior year and my fellow seniors, Kelsey Way, Kelly Greyerbiehl, Madison Zimmerman, Chelsie Hoffman, Megan Peters, and Allison Hankins all played together since seventh grade and wanted this so bad. I remember the feeling of screaming on the court when Jennaca Holecheck won the game, with an ace and having our entire student section rush the court. It was by far the most memorable high school volleyball moment, and it was with my team."

Way wasn't just recognized as a volleyball player, and has accomplished a good looking resume.

"I was a 12 varsity sport athlete all throughout high school," Way said. "In the REED CITY — The Charlevoix wrestling team was back on the mats on Saturday, Jan. 3, competing in the Reed City Team Tournament after a two-week layoff for winter break.

Although it took a while for the Rayders to shake off the rust from the layoff, Charlevoix still ended the day with a positive 3-2 record, posting dominant wins over Elk Rapids (54-9), Evart (60-6) and Reed City's B squad

Freshman Jeremy Chernauckas (103 pounds), sophomore Tyler McCallum (130) and senior Devin Largent (215) each finished a perfect 5-0 on the day to lead Charlevoix in the tournament. Senior Sam Hovie (160) and junior Mick Hinkle (189) went 4-1 for the Rayders, and sophomores Jordan Chernauckas (112), Camden Alden (125) and Elliot Bartelli (135) each went 4-1 as well. Heavyweight and senior Spencer Bruce finished 3-2 overall for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix competes in another invitational Saturday, Jan. 10, hosted by Kingsley.

Charlevoix/East Jordan ski co-op competes at Boyne Highlands

HARBOR SPRINGS — The Charlevoix/East Jordan co-op took seventh overall on the boys side and 11th on the girls side at Tuesday's Petoskey/Harbor ski invitational at Boyne Highlands.

Brad Klinger led the Charlevoix/EJ boys with a 13th place finish in the slalom (1:30.78) and a 17th place finish in the giant slalom (1:17.20), and Matt Gogd chipped in a 16th place finish in the slalom (1:31.59) and a 20th place finish in the giant slalom (1:17.74).

Ben Peterson finished 39th in the slalom (1:40.92) and 42nd in the giant slalom (1:23.23) for the Rayders. Hunter Cox finished 51st in the giant slalom (1:32.05) and Walker Fogle finished 53rd in the slalom (2:00.04).

1340 MISC. ITEMS FOR SALE

BE A WISE SHOPPER
It's always wise to remember that if an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is. If you are offered merchandise at an unbelievably low price, check it out thoroughly. A call to the Better Business Bureau (serving Eastern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula) will tell you whether other consumers have had problems with the firm that has offered the merchandise. (248)273-9400. But call the Bureau BEFORE you make a purchase. You'll be glad you did.

New Year's Eve celebration

G. RANDALL GOSS/COURIER

Dressed for the chilly weather and wearing a promotional hat, Charlevoix Area Convention and Visitors Bureau director Amanda Wikdn is all smiles despite the cold, wind and long day involved in putting together Charlevoix's New Year's Eve activities.

G. RANDALL GOSS/COURIER

Revelers walk across the Charlevoix bridge immediately after the "Bridge Drop" Wednesday, celebrating the New Year. Fireworks, originally scheduled for the event, were canceled by the vendor because of excessive wind, but no one seemed to mind and made the most of the event despite the weather.

County's worst roads will have to wait for repair

CRAM CUMMER

CHARLEVOIX—If you were hoping East Deer Lake and Ellsworth roads — largely considered to be the two worst primary highways in Charlevoix County — would be resurfaced in the near future, officials say you will have to wait a little longer.

Despite acknowledging the extensive work that each road needs, county leaders said Wednesday they don't expect to have the necessary funding to do the work until at least 2016. Road Commission officials are planning to resurface East Deer Lake Road then, but as of now there is no

Community mourns loss of two of their own

Brandi and Elowsky remembered for their love of life

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Maura Brandi and Carolena Elowsky were two young ladies who were known for their infectious smiles that would brighten anyone's day, said friends and teachers remembering the 2013 Charlevoix High School graduates.

"They lived every moment of their lives in the absolute fullest with smiles on their faces," said Charlevoix Middle and High School principal, Suzanne Klinger. "Each of them had such bright smiles, which would light up a room. Everyone they came in contact with loved to be around them."

The two young women lost their lives in a car accident in Wexford County on Jan. 2. A memorial was held in their honor at the Charlevoix High School on Jan. 7, and had nearly 2,000 people in attendance with another 1,500 watching the service stream live on the Internet, Klinger said.

"It was a wonderful tribute to who these two girls were," Klinger said. "Maura and Carolena brought laughter, smiles and happiness to whoever they touched and that's what people remember most about them. It's obvious those girls impacted the lives of many in our community."

Elowsky and Brandi were top athletes on the varsity soccer team, and graduated as the top two in their class.

Charlevoix High School soccer coach, Pete Scholten, knew Elowsky and her family from church. Elowsky also was a member of the Charlevoix High School quiz bowl team he advised and he worked with her at the Belvedere Club as a children's camp counselor.

"I have known Carolena most of her life," Scholten said. "I am the father of four daughters. Carol joked with me that between school, quiz bowl, soccer and working at the Belvedere that she was pretty much the fifth daughter of my family. Carol was an intensely focused individual and a true task master. She was extremely witty and knew how to have fun. She was one of my 'go to' girls who could always be trusted to get the job done."

Scholten had both Elowsky and Brandi as students starting their freshman year.

"They both had lovely personalities that would light up any room," Scholten said. "They were both best of friends."

Scholten said he had the privilege of coaching each of them their senior year.

"These girls and their teammates were always laughing and having a good time," Scholten said. "They both had a tremendous amount of passion for the game. Carolena was a stand-out defender. She was an All State Honorable Mention both her junior and senior year. She was the constant communicator of the team. She literally talked the entire game. She was extremely fast and could run down most any attacker."

"Maura was a very hard worker at both practice and games and a very solid player," he added. "She always gave 100 percent in both practice and games. She always had a positive attitude and would never complain. She was always smiling and always in a happy mood. She led by example and epitomized what it is to be a good teammate."

Elowsky and Brandi had a boundless energy about them. The two of them would bring out the best of those around them, he said.

"I feel extremely blessed that they were a part of my life," Scholten said. "These girls were two of the finest human beings I have known. They were just great people who were destined for the brightest futures."

Kate Cwikiel and her family were good friends with Brandi and her family. Cwikiel and Brandi grew close during the summers when the two families would camp together. She describes Brandi as fun loving and nice to everyone she would meet.

"I never heard her say a bad thing about anyone, ever," Cwikiel said. "She was super nice, kind, giving and wanted to make the world a better place for everyone. She was a free spirit and would bring joy to the room. She made everyone comfortable and she was a wonderful to be around."

Many times the two families would camp together and their favorite spot to camp was on Lime Island in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Cwikiel said.

"Maura was adventurous and numerous times on the island she would do things that many of us were hesitant to do," Cwikiel said. "One tradition we carry on because of her, is jumping off the break wall on the island. If it wasn't for Maura that tradition would not exist. She was kind, encouraging and she helped people overcome fear in many of our island adventures."

Cwikiel said she will miss the way Brandi would make people feel when she was around them.

"When she was with you, she was really with you," Cwikiel said. "She cared about you and would really pay attention to you. She was very open minded and non-judgmental. She always put others first and she made others feel like she was there for them."

Weighing options

St. Marys considers 130 million upgrade to cement plant

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX TWP. — St. Marys Cement Inc. is considering a $130 million upgrade to modernize the cement plant in Charlevoix.

Marty Fallon, CEO of Votorantim Cement North America/St. Marys Cement Inc., presented the potential project during a public hearing on Monday with the Charlevoix Township Board of Trustees meeting. The plan in Charlevoix calls for the hiring 200 to 300 full-time employees for two years to handle the construction of the plant. Once construction is finished, the company would hire 10 full-time plant employees, Fallon said.

The other option for St. Marys would be to reopen their plant in Dixon, Ill., Fallon said. In 2008, the construction market dropped off and St. Marys decreased their production of cement, but now the company seeks to increase production to meet market demands.

"We closed our facility in Dixon during the economic downturn," Fallon said. "We now see the market recovering and with the demand for our materials coming back we have two options, expand in Charlevoix or reopen Dixon."

Approximately 1.3 million tons of cement is produced annually in Charlevoix, but the expansion and modernization would allow for the production of nearly 2 million tons of cement, Fallon said.

"Government leaders in Illinois would like to see us put the money there and reopen," Fallon said. "There are pros and cons for each site, and both are attractive. In the end it depends on the numbers and our return on the $130 million investment. If the Charlevoix plant is improved and modernized, it would set us up for another 40 to 50 years of production."

The public hearing took place to Charlevoix Courier gets new editor

JORDAN SPENCE
(231) 439-9397 - jspence@charlevoixcourier.com

The Northern Michigan Review has hired a new editor for the Charlevoix Courier, Lonnie Allen.

Allen, 46, was born and raised in Greenville. After graduating high school in 1985 he joined the Marines. He served for four years, and then moved to be a cook during his time. After the Marines he worked in various restaurants across the country.

Allen eventually moved back to Michigan and continued to cook.

"It was about in 2000 I was fed up in the kitchen I basically decided to keep my sanity and do something else," he said. "I decided to pursue another passion which was writing."

Allen made the decision to go back to school at Grand Rapids Community College where he became the editor of the school newspaper. He graduated from the college with an associate degree in liberal arts.

He then enrolled at Central Michigan University and graduated in 2013 with a bachelor of science in journalism.

While he attended CMU he interned with the Grand Rapids Press and the Greenville Daily News. After graduation Allen went to work for the Big Rapids Pioneer as a cops and courts reporter.

Allen said he felt the opportunity to work in Northern Michigan would be a good fit.

"I love to hunt. I'm an avid deer hunter but I'm not good with a bow — I'm better with a rifle," he said. "Ice fishing is one of my favorite sports."

He said his mission at the Courier will be to focus on telling the stories of the Charlevoix community.

"I believe everybody has a story to tell. No matter what it is, somebody's challenges and struggles could be a guiding light for somebody else. All these stories make a community, that's why I believe it's the number one priority of any newspaper."

Charlevoix Area Hospital patients have online access to medical information

LOUISE ALLEN
Senior Editor

CHARLEVOIX — With the launch of Charlevoix Area Hospital's secure Internet patient portal — MyCAH — both inpatients and outpatients can now securely view most of their medical record online, at no additional cost.

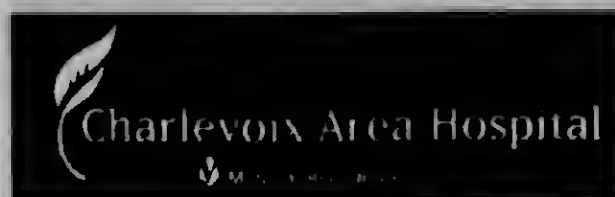

"Medical information is now available in a timely, convenient manner," said Cathy Fischl, communications coordinator for Charlevoix Area Hospital. "Before the portal, patients had to return to the hospital to request their medical records, which some patients found difficult to do. Now they can view their records when and where they desire to do so."

MyCAH is a unique online health management tool that has been active since mid-July, said Matt Perkins, MyCAH clinical applications coordinator.

Patients supply hospital staff with a valid email address during a visit. Upon discharge, they will receive an email invitation with login instructions, Perkins said.

"MyCAH provides a convenient and easy way for our patients to access their medical records," Perkins said.

"Patients can sign up for MyCAH at the hospital or at home. This new tool is easy to use, secure and free to the patient. MyCAH makes it possible for patients to access critical health information maintained at their physician offices at their convenience."

Not all information is available to view online though. Some records like certain lab results and information that would require a doctor consultation are still done through an office visit.

"MyCAH still is maturing," Perkins said. "X-ray information, radiology study and sensitive lab tests still require a medical records release."

Approximately 3,800 people have been sent the invitation to log into the MyCAH portal and 1,370 people are active users on the portal, Perkins said.

Fischl said the hospital expects more people to start using the portal because of its convenience factor.

"MyCAH empowers the patient so they can be proactive about their health," Fischl said. "I think once more people start using the portal it will change how many of us make our appointments because it helps patients keep track of their health history, keeps an updated list of medications and allows them to communicate with their provider's office and more."

In a day of instant access to critical personal information, MyCAH enables patients of Charlevoix Area Hospital to:

— Send messages to their doctor's office

— Request an appointment

— Review previous clinic office visits — Review non-sensitive test results

— Manage medications

— Renew and refill medications, even when out of town

— Find out when to be seen for your next preventive care screening

— Ask for information about lifestyle changes

MyCAH also helps simplify the medication renewal process and reduce error.

Patients are able to see their current medication list, and clinicians are automatically presented with the previous scripts. Patients can also specify which pharmacy they wish to receive the prescription.

Patient instructions from their visit also are stored in MyCAH so the patient always has access to their medical provider's advice. It improves the accuracy of patient records by letting the patient view their own charts. Patients can track their information and alert the office of any inaccuracy, such as missing an allergy shot or an outdated medication.

For providers, MyCAH offers ways to keep them in contact with their patients, relay information and maintain detailed medical records. It allows the medical professionals to explain lab results with a rapid turn-around time, typically within 72 hours.

"This service gives patients the ability to access their medical information instantly," Perkins said. "Accessibility to one's health history is so important today and we've invested the time and resources to make this information available virtually anywhere the patient is."

The new tool also gives a patient who is traveling or resides somewhere else during the winter the ability to share medical information with another doctor without having to call and set up a medical record release, Perkins said.

"We have a lot of people who live in the area during the summer, but travel to warmer climate in the winter," Perkins added. "MyCAH allows a patient to bring up medical information no matter their location."

Dogman Challenge scheduled for Feb. 21

CHARLEVOIX — The mass start for the third annual Dogman Challenge is scheduled for noon on Saturday, Feb. 21, at the base of Mount McSaubia ski hill, in Charlevoix. Fat tire bike riders will race on a 1.5 mile loop through the trails of Mount McSaubia and North Point Nature Preserve. Bikers are urged to come prepared and get Dogman serious.

The rider to complete the most laps in two hours is the champion and will be awarded the Dogman trophy and a cash prize. First, second and third place winners will also be awarded trophies and prizes in both women's and men's divisions.

Competition isn't necessary to enjoy the Dogman Challenge. The public is invited to gather around the fire and enjoy some chili, cocoa, s'mores or a brew while you ring a Dogman cowbell and cheer the racers on.

To register or for more information, contact Revolution Bike at (231) 237-0900, or email art.bicycles@yahoo.com or visit the Dogman Challenge on Facebook. Registration also is open at OneStopRace.com.

Benishek sworn into Congress Jan. 6

WASHINGTON — Dan Benishek was sworn in to the 114th Congress on Tuesday, Jan. 6. House Speaker John Boehner (R-OH) conducted a ceremonial swearing-in for Rep. Benishek following the oath of office on the floor of the House of Representatives.

"I am humbled and honored to have the opportunity to represent the hardworking families and individuals that live here in Northern Michigan," Benishek said. "Over the past four years we have made some significant strides — from working to improve

veterans' care, to protecting our Great Lakes, to providing our farmers the support they need — but our work is not complete. In the 114th Congress, we must go even farther to ensure that our veterans get the care they have earned, to grow our economy and create jobs here in Northern Michigan, and to continue to improve our health care system."

Congressman Benishek was born and raised in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, where he served as a doctor, both at the Oscar G. Johnson Veterans Affairs Hospital and in private practice. In Congress, he chairs the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee on Health where he works to ensure that all veterans receive timely access to quality, affordable care.

Congress should extend federal funding for family health centers

JACKSON CITIZEN PATRIOT
Jan. 1.

The chief objective of the Affordable Care Act — or what's more commonly referred to as Obamacare — was to increase the number of Americans with health insurance.

On that front, at least, it's been successful.

Recent federal data show an estimated 11.3 percent of Americans are without insurance — the lowest percentage in about 50 years. But what does that really look like?

For many newly insured Americans, it means they have coverage with high premiums for catastrophic care, but likely little help to pay for more routine health services.

That's a step forward, but it doesn't mean those who are underinsured are necessarily getting access to all of the care they need.

That's why we're concerned about the planned sunset of $5.6 billion in federal funding for the 1,300 centers for family health centers across the nation, which provide a critical safety net for our most vulnerable populations.

The Center for Family Health in Jackson, for example, would lose as much as $1.4 million, or 8 percent, of its $20 million annual budget if federal lawmakers can't be persuaded to extend the federal funds for health care centers.

While we support Congress' efforts to be fiscally judicious, we believe dollars spent on community health care centers are dollars well-spent, and as such, approving an extension is the right move.

Consider these facts:

— The Center for Family Health served more than 27,000 patients in 2013. And while some of the center's patients have traditional health insurance, the majority have no insurance or rely on Medicaid, which is not accepted by many family practitioners because of low reimbursement rates. In other words, many of these patients have few, if any, other options.

— Jackson's Center for Family Health also fills important gaps in dental health, providing dental services to more than 10,000 patients in 2013. The center expects to grow that number significantly — particularly among adult patients — with plans this year for a new 20,000-square-foot dental facility.

The loss of $1.4 million in federal funds wouldn't force the Center for Family Health to close, but it would have to cut back.

We believe that's a move in the wrong direction.

Snyder must step up on social issues

LANSING STATE JOURNAL
Jan. 3.

Rick Snyder kicked off his second term as governor this week insisting that he will step on the gas to get things done and will not accept lame duck status just because he's term-limited.

Snyder has been a pragmatic leader willing to face down partisanship from Democrats and his fellow Republicans when the goal is fiscal reform. Michiganders should look forward to a continuation of level-headed budgeting and extra effort to resolve problems like the Detroit bankruptcy.

Yet there is room for some concern as the governor begins his next four years. A primary worry is where Snyder will stand on divisive social issues should the new Legislature — expected to be more conservative than the last one — pursue such topics.

Example: Widely supported revisions to Michigan's Elliot-Larsen Civil Rights Act would have granted protection to the state's gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender citizens. A strong business coalition favored the change, touting such protections as essential to attracting top talent to live and work here. Lawmakers tried to piggyback a Religious Freedom Restoration Act with the civil rights expansion. That bill would have protected people with "sincerely held religious beliefs." Supporters of LGBT civil rights believed wording of the bill made it possible — even probable — that RFRA could be used to diminish LGBT protections of an expanded civil rights act.

In the end, neither bill passed. But Michigan's reputation was damaged nonetheless. Not only did the state fail to extend civil rights to LGBT citizens, but it raised the possibility of increased discrimination.

Snyder also cannot afford to let lawmakers and special interests make end runs around him the way they did in his last term with, for example, abortion insurance riders. The governor can say he vetoed the bill, but lawmakers and special interests then worked to pass it through an initiative, a method that eliminates the governor's signature — or veto.

Snyder must work actively against special interest efforts that diminish Michigan's reputation. He's shown he can do it. He did not allow conservatives to refuse aid to Detroit, fighting to get the support he needed for the deal that brought the state's largest city out of bankruptcy.

There are sound economic reasons for pushing back on those who would undermine LGBT civil rights or erode the safety net for Michigan's neediest. Snyder must fight such divisive efforts in 2015 and beyond.

DNR announces changes to Master Angler program

MICHIGAN — The Department of Natural Resources recently announced that, effective Jan. 1, 2015, multiple changes have been made to Michigan's Master Angler program, which allows anglers to submit large fish they have caught for recognition. The program has been in place since 1973.

The Master Angler program recognizes two categories of catches — catch-and-keep and catch-and-immediate-release. Previously, the catch-and-keep category was determined by the weight of the fish caught, but that requirement has been removed and replaced with a length requirement. Now recognition in both categories will be awarded based on an established minimum length for each recognized species. Verified entries will receive the Master Angler patch. Only one patch will be awarded for both catch-and-keep and catch-and-immediate-release entries. No more than one patch per species will be awarded to each angler per year.

"Eliminating the weight requirement for part of the Master Angler program really helps to streamline both the application and the verification process, especially as anglers will no longer have to find a certified scale to have their catch weighed," said Lynne Thoma, the program's coordinator. "We hope this change will make it even easier for anglers to have their large fish recognized."

In addition to the change to the category criteria, some changes were made to the submission procedures. A witness signature is no longer required and each application must have a color photo submitted with it. Anglers can now submit their applications in hard-copy or electronic formats.

Please note, state-record fish still are recognized by weight and still require identification by a DNR fisheries biologist.

The 2015 Master Angler entry application is available online at michigan.gov/masterangler.

The New Club House of The Belvedere Golf Club

This drawing is from the Belvedere resort's 1926 brochure, announcing the opening of their new golf course on Marion Center Road that year. It was designed by the renowned Willie Watson, a legend in course architecture, who had laid out the Chicago Club's course, now the municipal course, on the north side thirty years before.

The Belvedere's intended 18 holes were not yet finished at the time of opening, but even the first nine caused a stir in the golfing world when it was immediately recognized as one of the finest courses in the country. Soon national champions were competing in tournaments here, such as legendary Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour together in August of 1929. Even the immortal Bobby Jones played the Belvedere. Sammy Snead and Ken Venturi did likewise, and Tom Watson claims that "My favorite course is the Belvedere ... it's a delightful course ... The 16th is one of the best holes in golf." The prestigious Michigan Amateur tournament has been played at the Belvedere more times than on any other course in the state (39) and will be making a return visit soon.

CHARLEVOIX — Real People Media, of Charlevoix, will be offering "Creating Stories on Video," a free, basic video production workshop 1-4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 24, at the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., in the library's community room.

Learn to create interesting and compelling stories on video from seasoned professionals. Rebecca Glotfelty will discuss composition, lighting and interviewing techniques. Joe Carter will share the secrets of sound recording and video editing. Completion of this class will allow participants to check out video production equipment at the library.

Glotfelty is the founder and director of Real People Media, a nonprofit organization helping people tell their stories through digital and electronic media. She has worked in the field of video and television production since 1996. Her cultural documentaries have been shown and utilized by educators, universities and organizations across the U.S. and abroad. Locally, she has produced programs for numerous nonprofit organizations.

Joe Carter is an award-winning production management professional with extensive experience in all phases of digital media production.

Registration is required by calling the library at (231) 237-7340.

MAKING THE GRADE

Brennan Ackerman

Ackerman named to Albion College Dean's List

ALBION — Charlevoix High School graduate Brennan Ackerman was named to the Albion College dean's list for the fall 2014 semester.

Students named to the dean's list must achieve a grade point average of 3.5 or above at the completion of the semester. This GPA must be based on at least three units in graded courses and a minimum of four units completed.

Ackerman is majoring in business and organizations and minoring in political science and history, with a concentration in the Gerald R. Ford Institute for Leadership in Public Policy and Service. He is the son of Dean and Lisa Ackerman, of Charlevoix.

Larsen Makes Dean's List at Michigan Tech

HOUGHTON — Michigan Technological University has released its dean's list for the 2014 fall semester. To be included, students must achieve grade point averages of 3.5 or higher.

Among the honorees is William Larsen, who is studying mechanical engineering and is a graduate from Charlevoix High School.

Charlevoix County Community Foundation adds four new trustees

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is announcing the appointment of four new trustees: Scott Diller, Dana Hodgson, Perry Irish Hodgson and Lori Meeder.

Scott Diller is the vice president of operations at East Jordan Plastics Inc., a leading manufacturer of horticultural containers in North America. Scott has served the community foundation as a member of the East Jordan Advisory Committee for the past five years, and also is active in the community, coaching Pop Warner football, little league baseball and serving, most recently, as an assistant varsity football coach. Diller will serve on the foundation's distribution committee, which oversees the organization's grant-making activities. Diller lives in East Jordan with his wife, Charlotte, and their three children.

"It's a real honor to serve the community foundation as a trustee," Diller said. "I'm looking forward to working with the other trustees to help the foundation continue its good work."

Perry Irish Hodgson grew up in Harbor Springs, and for the last five years has lived in Charlevoix with her husband, Rich, and their two children. Hodgson worked for many years as a professional fundraiser for the University of Michigan, Stanford University and St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. An active volunteer wherever she has lived, Hodgson currently serves on the board of Charlevoix Children's House and on the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library. Hodgson also is a member of the community foundation's Charlevoix Advisory Committee and also will serve on the foundation's distribution committee.

"The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is such an asset in the community and I'm so pleased to have an opportunity to serve such an important and worthwhile organization," Hodgson said.

Dana Hodgson lives on Beaver Island with her husband, Eric, and their son, Liam. Dana comes to the foundation's board of trustees with a strong business background, joining her husband as proprietors of E.J. Hodgson Enterprises, which oversees four hospitality business locations. Dana is an active member of the Island community, and served for six years as secretary of the Beaver Island Community School Board of Education. A native Beaver Islander, Dana is excited to serve the community foundation as a trustee. She will join the other new trustees as a member of the distribution committee.

"I was humbled by the invitation to join the board," she said. "I feel like the foundation is the perfect place to work with others to make a positive impact on the Island, and throughout Charlevoix County."

Lori Meeder is a senior lender with Northern Initiatives. Lori provides access to capital, coaching and technical assistance for start-up and growing businesses in a 16 county service area in Northern Michigan. An active community citizen, Meeder serves on the Boyne City Planning Commission, the organization committee for the Main Street Program, and also as a member of Leadership Charlevoix County's Board of Directors. Meeder and husband, Heath, live in Boyne City. They have two grown children. Meeder also will serve as a member of the foundation's distribution committee.

"It's such a privilege to join the board of trustees of the community foundation," she said. "I'm honored, and I'm so proud to serve an organization that makes such a positive impact in the community."

John Kempton, chair of the foundation's board of trustees, is looking forward to working with the new trustees.

"Dana, Lori, Perry and Scott are a great fit for the community foundation," Kempton said. "They're committed, community citizens and leaders, and they bring a wide range of skills and experiences to the group. We're fortunate to be in a position to attract such capable people, and know that their engagement will benefit the foundation as well as the greater Charlevoix County community."

The foundation's board of trustees has 15 members, representing all regions of Charlevoix County. Other trustees include: Don Spence, of Beaver Island;

Bill Aten, of Boyne Falls; Hugh Conklin, Michelle Cortright and Jim Howell, of Boyne City; Ann Hollis, Dave Leusink and Paul Witting, of Charlevoix; John Kempton, Barbara Malpass and Jack Poindexter, of East Jordan.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of various funds — all of them established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come.

For more information about the grant-making process, establishing a fund or making a gift, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at (231) 536-2440, or online at c3f.nrg.

Q & A with Charlevoix interim superintendent Tom Stobie

JORDAN SPENCE
(231) 439-9397 jspence@charlevoixnews.com

CHARLEVOIX — Tom Stobie was named the interim superintendent for Charlevoix Public Schools after Bob Gendron resigned in November.

He began as interim superintendent in late November and his contract runs through until June 30.

Q: Could you tell our readers more about yourself and your history in education?

A: After high school, I served four years in the Navy during the Vietnam War and went to Eastern Michigan University and got a degree in special education. After I graduated college, my first job was in Frankfurt. I taught there and coached baseball and football. After five years, I moved to Jackson and continued to teach special education and coached. After 6 years, I moved up to assistant principal and then principal at Jackson High School. I finished in Jackson as deputy superintendent. Then, the people from Frankfurt called and asked if I would be interested in an interim superintendency and I agreed to that for one year. That lasted for nine years. I retired in December of 2013. I ran for the 101st state House seat in 2014.

I bring experience from a large school district and small district and had experiences some superintendents wouldn't have. I think I bring a lot to the table. I've been married for 48 wonderful years to my wife, Marsha, who is an architect. I have two girls. They're both married and we have six grandchildren, all being educated in public schools.

Q: Why did you decide to apply for and take the job?

A: To be honest, the day after I was defeated in the election I realized for the first time in my adult life I didn't have anything to do. I started to look around for interim positions. I had someone recommend to me that I call Charlevoix.

Q: What are your goals for this period?

A: Really my goals are to maintain the excellence that's been here. Try to improve in any area that is needed.

Q: What do you like about Charlevoix?

A: I like the community, it seems to be a close knit community. In many ways it's a lot like Frankfurt, especially since it's on Lake Michigan.

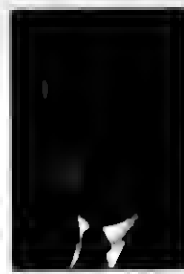

Q: What are some of the biggest challenges you are facing?

A: The finances and the lack of support from the state. The state really, that's the biggest issue, it's one we have to deal with all the time.

Q: Any ideas how to tackle that?

A: Now we're in a position where cuts are going to have come from personnel or programs and that's going to be painful. It's my plan to keep (this position) as interim. I told the board that. I am considering again running for the 101st state seat. I did not want to go any farther.

Stobie

OBITUARY

Josephine Nedwick

"She who is well loved has many names." Josephine Nedwick was well loved by those who called her: Josie, JoJo, Jo, Frenchie, Little Bitty, Mom, Ma or Little Grandma. Josephine was born in 1918 on Belmont in Hamtramck, Mich., to a Polish mother and a Russian father in a trilingual environment. She grew up during the difficult times of the Great Depression where she learned to be tough, self-reliant and resourceful. In 1940, she met and married Felix

Nedwick, the love of her life. They had two boys, David James and Thomas Mark Nedwick. In the 50's the Nedwick family moved out of Detroit, bought three acres "in the country" and started building a home from rocks, bricks, concrete and lumber reclaimed from buildings removed during the construction of I-94 in Detroit. It became a 15-year building project which involved the whole family and resulted in a unique and lovely home, where Josephine and Felix lived the "Mother Earth" life with a large organic garden, from which they harvested, canned and preserved impressive amounts of food in their root cellar. Felix died in 1984 and Josephine is survived by her two sons, David Nedwick of Charlevoix and Thomas Nedwick of Almont, Mich. Josephine's three grandsons, Lars, Kristofer and Nels Nedwick, all reside in Alaska with her five great-grandchildren, Otto, Arne, Svea, Max and Hunter. Josephine lived the last 10 years of her life in Charlevoix. From 2007-2015, Jo was well cared for in the warm, loving environment at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan, Mich. Josephine is fondly remembered by those who loved her and cared for her, for her warm sense of humor and her feisty spirit.

CHARLEVOIX — The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will host its annual meeting at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 20, in the library community room. This event is open to the public. The featured speaker is Thomas Bailey, executive director of Little Traverse Conservancy. Bailey will address current issues in land conservation. Bailey will discuss changes in land conservation issues at the local, state and national level. He will give an update on Charlevoix area projects in the last year and emerging local issues. At the state level, this will include a new state law that allows a conservation easement given in a person's will to create the same property advantages as one donated in life. On the federal front, tax advantages for donations have been extended by Congress, but only for a limited time, so there will be debate over charitable tax issues in the future. Bailey has been executive director of the Little Traverse Conservancy since late 1984. He currently serves on the Michigan State Park Advisory Committee, and was a member of Gov. Rick Snyder's Blue Ribbon Panel on Michigan State Parks and Outdoor Recreation. Bailey was appointed by former Gov. John Engler to the Michigan Water Resources Commission in 1993, and subsequently to the technical advisory board of the Michigan Great Lakes Protection Fund, which he chaired for two years. He also has served on the National Land Trust Council of the Land Trust Alliance. He is co-founder of the Top of Michigan Trails Council and also the Heart of the Lakes Center for Land Conservation Policy, which serves as a coordinator, policy voice and think-tank for Michigan's land conservancies. BUSINESS

Amy Wieland is new executive director of Hospice of Northwest Michigan

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County resident Amy Wieland has been named the new executive director of Hospice of Northwest Michigan. She replaces Cheri Hoffman, who resigned last month to relocate out of state.

In this role, Wieland will be responsible for fundraising, managing hospice volunteers and overseeing long-term grief services for loved ones as part of the end-of-life care the hospice provides in partnership with the Health Department of Northwest Michigan.

Tina Lamont, the health department's director of adult health, said Wieland's wide-ranging professional and volunteer experience make her a perfect fit for the job.

"Amy is a relationship builder," Lamont said. "She's organized, efficient and dedicated to this cause. We're one of few health departments fortunate enough to have hospice resources under the same roof, and our Hospice of Northwest Michigan families are fortunate to have Amy."

Wieland said expanding local fundraising is a priority as she enters her new role.

"As a nonprofit, Hospice of Northwest Michigan relies on donations and fundraisers for financial survival," Wieland said. "We sincerely appreciate the generosity of local business people who donate to our programs, who participate in our fundraising events, who volunteer to support our families and assist with events. Their support is vital to our success."

Wieland has held administrative positions within the health department for the past 12 years, and she was a corporate insurance broker for Arthur J. Gallagher, in New York, for five years before that. She's been active in local politics, business and volunteerism, including chairing the Sue DeYoung/Judy Edger Breast Cancer Walk in Charlevoix.

Wieland holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and fine arts from the State University of New York. She and her husband, Tim Wieland, reside in Charlevoix.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality health care, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties. discuss on whether the township should create an Industrial Development District. This would allow the township to give a tax abatement to the cement company if company officials choose this area over Illinois.

Tom Erhart, Northern Lakes Economic Alliance entrepreneurship director, explained to township residents and officials about creating the Industrial Development District and how the tax abatement would not effect the current tax revenue.

"If the township was to go this route it could provide a 50 percent reduction on the property taxes for any new properties," Erhart said. "It does not give abatement on the current property and it helps preserve the local tax base."

Township officials still would need state approval before their Industrial Development District could issue a tax abatement for St. Marys.

"The township does have a step in this process, but the state has final say on the ID and tax abatement," Erhart said.

The township board tabled the Industrial Development

The Charlevoix Township board listens to a presentation from Marty Fallon, CEO of Votorantim Cement North America/St. Marys Cement Inc., about the cement company's potential expansion in Charlevoix.

District discussion and will host another meeting at 7 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 26, to decide the direction, to take for St. Marys, said Charlevoix Township Board Supervisor Chuck Center.

"We want to do this right," Center said. "We have enlisted the help from the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance to guide us through the process. I personally feel this project would be good for the Charlevoix community." Approximately 40 people attended the public hearing. It appeared from the comments that the community also supported the project. "If somebody was coming to community to spend $130 million, as a board I would roll out the red carpet so they can come in so they could spend the money in this community," said John Haggard. "It is more important for them to expand and create the jobs in this area than to wonder what the tax benefit will be to our local government."

Tim Petrosky also would like to see the project move forward.

"One constant manufacturer in this area has been this cement company," Petrosky said. "This project is about providing good jobs to this area and I strongly urge the board to support this."

"It's quite a process, but it's $130 million of new construction and about 10 new jobs," he said. "The neat thing about it is the longevity of the plant — if they spend $130 million in Charlevoix, they are going to be in Charlevoix for awhile."

The township board would like to have more public feedback on the matter before the next meeting.

"We want to our residents to know about this project,"

Center said. "We are here to listen and answer their questions."

Residents are encouraged to call (231) 547-4611 or email charsupervisor@chartwp.com.

"St. Marys is an important entity in this community," Center said. "I think the numbers are there to show this is an important project. St. Marys employs 125 people here and that's money in our local economy."

timeline for Ellsworth Road construction.

"With Ellsworth, we're going to have to figure out something because it's bad, too," said John Vrondran, who is supervisor of Eveline Township and a member of the steering committee tasked with coordinating road projects throughout the county.

When the county's 15-year road millage passed in 2008, officials identified about 60 miles of roadway that needed repair or reconstruction. At a county Board of Commissioners meeting Wednesday, Vrondran said about two-thirds of those projects have been completed.

"What we have left are all had," Vrondran said. "Deer Lake is not the best, it's a patched mess."

With local millages in 11 of the county's 15 townships, the steering committee works to pair local projects with the bigger county-funded ones. When it's time for work to begin on East Deer Lake Road, Vrondran said the hope is to couple that with planned construction on Korthase Road to the south.

County Commissioner Ron Reinhardt said he'd like to see the same done with Marion Center Road when the Ellsworth Road project is started.

"East Deer Lake Road is really bad and Korthase Road is not as bad as part of Marion Center is," Reinhardt said. "When they do Ellsworth, they should do Marion Center at the same time. It's the same thing."

In the next year, commissioners urged Vrondran and county Road Commission leaders to work with Boyne Mountain Resort, which may be eligible for grant funding to improve pedestrian safety in the area of the Beach House Restaurant on Deer Lake.

"People come through those corridors at a pretty high rate of speed and you've got people walking across that road in addition to people trying to stop and turn," Commissioner Chris Christensen said. "They may be eligible through economic development funds to pull some grants in there and maybe kill two birds with one stone in terms of widening that road."

Even then, though, drivers will have to wait another year before road conditions are improved. Vrondran said during the upcoming construction season, the plan is to spend about $425,000 on widening Ferry Road. After about $2 million was spent last year to improve Kings Highway on Beaver Island, Vrondran said officials need to plan carefully to extend the road millage revenues as far as they can be. Borrowing money to complete the larger projects is not a desired strategy, he said.

"We don't want to get to the last three years and have it where everything is going back to the county and there are no roads going down any place," Vrondran said.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan offers grief support program

CHARLEVOIX — Hospice of Northwest Michigan realized that the weeks and months following the death of a loved one are very difficult.

Many find comfort in being with others who have had similar experiences in an environment that is confidential, safe and supportive as they learn together how to cope with the pain and emotions of loss.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan's grief support program provides support and education to people who are grieving the loss of a loved one — a spouse, parent, child, sibling, relative, friend or companion. Meetings are led by David Behling, an experienced grief counselor and support group facilitator.

The support program includes discussions of specific topics and provides optional personal sharing opportunities in a safe and accepted atmosphere. A five-week session from 6 to 7:30 p.m. begins on Tuesday, Jan. 20, and will meet each Tuesday through Feb. 17. Meetings will be held in the community room of the First Baptist Church, 6781 M-66 in Charlevoix.

It is the goal of Hospice of Northwest Michigan's grief support groups to walk with individuals and families as they journey through the pain of loss, providing emotional and personal support through the many emotions and pain they experience. Topics of the five-week sessions include acknowledging the reality of the death, embracing the pain of the loss, remembering the person who died, developing a new self-identity, searching for meaning and receiving ongoing support from others.

All sessions are free and and open to the public, although advanced registration is encouraged. For more information or to register for the group, call (231) 547-7659.

Charlevoix's Epping a testament to perseverance and belief

By JAMES GENSTERBLUM
jgensterblum@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Everyone has their own goals, dreams and aspirations grow up.

For Charlevoix State Farm insurance agent Mike Epping, a goal of playing professional baseball was looked on some, as unrealistic.

Epping, who was born in New Orleans and moved to Charlevoix later, found his love of baseball come to life.

"Just growing up it was a dream," Epping said. "I really didn't start playing until I was 8 years old, when I got my first glove in my Wednesday folder that had 'sign up for Little League.' I brought that home and talked to my mom and thought it would be fun."

Epping wasn't just a baseball player, he was a baseball fan as well.

"I became a fan as I was a player," Epping said. "Following Major League teams, Ken Griffey Jr. was the man when I started to play left-handed. Collecting sports cards and following baseball just being a fan is where it started."

During his high school baseball career, Epping saw himself get recognized by a few colleges.

"Out of high school I was pretty heavily recruited. I had a lot of accolades."

Some of Epping's credit goes to his high school baseball team.

"Our high school team in my senior year was actually ranked in the top 25 for U.S.A. Today in the nation," Epping said. "One kid on the team was a second- or third-round pick. We had a really good team, so I was seen by a lot of different colleges. I went on a few visits to Pepperdine University, and to Brown University. The education was a big part of it for me."

The start to Epping's college career started at Oklahoma City University, an NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics) school.

During his first year at OCU, Epping redshirted. That didn't mean he wasn't involved.

"I was actually the announcer in the press box," Epping said, laughing. "I would run the press box and do the scoreboard, play the music. That was a tough year, but it also kind of drove me to get out there and play."

Epping used the year as motivation to get better.

"I worked really hard and got a lot of motivation," he said. "You can take those things both ways, saying I suck and will never get out there and play. I used it as a positive and worked that much harder, so when I did get my chance I would be ready."

During Epping's second year, he saw more playing time and appearances throughout the spring season. Epping saw his game really take off that summer.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Rayders fall in heartbreaker to Cedarville, 75-72

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

CHARLEVOIX — No one can accuse the Charlevoix boys basketball game of taking the easy way out with their schedule.

The Rayders have opened the season with five losses against a murderer's row of opponents, the latest coming in a 75-72 heartbreaker to the top-ranked team in Class D, Cedarville, at home on Tuesday.

With 20 seconds remaining, Charlevoix's Walker Drost hit a 3-pointer to cut Cedarville's lead to five, and after a steal, Ryan Joy hit two free throws to make it a one-possession game with three seconds to play.

But the Rayders couldn't stop the clock with a foul in time and Cedarville managed to escape with the win.

It's the latest in a series of close losses against tough competition for Charlevoix, including a defeat at East Jordan, the third-ranked team in Class C in the most recent AP poll, and a one-point loss to U.P. powerhouse St. Ignace.

"We set our schedule up like this intentionally, to really test ourselves against some tough teams early," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "Hopefully, these losses make us better when we get deeper into our league schedule."

For most of the game, it looked like Charlevoix might pull off a season-defining upset against the state's top ranked team.

The Rayders jumped out to a 16-10 lead late in the first quarter, and led by as many as 10 in the second quarter thanks to hot outside shooting.

Senior Noah Jeakle hit three 3-pointers in the first half for the Rayders, and Nate Moon added another 3-pointer and 11 first-half points.

For the game, the Rayders finished 8 of 15 from beyond the arc.

"We've had a lot of time over the Christmas break to work on our shooting and our offense, and it's really paid off," Erskine said. "We've been working on pushing the ball upcourt and creating open shots in transition, and tonight our players were knocking them down."

Gaylord's depth, press slows down visiting Charlevoix

BRANDON FOLSOM

GAYLORD — Gaylord's win over Charlevoix was a true team effort Monday, as the Blue Devils emptied their bench to defeat the Rayders 66-37 in girls basketball action in Jim Mongeau Gymnasium.

Gaylord coach Frank Hamilla used nine of his 10 players in the first half, especially in the second quarter, after starters Casey Korte and Brandi Wagner each got into foul trouble.

But the reserves were dependable, each in their own way. Adrienne Edwards cashed in on four field goals, Mallory Marshall kept shooters at bay with her defense, and Cierra Woods and Ariveara Piehl each pulled down crucial rebounds during the eight-minute stretch.

"We told them in situations, we're going to have to use all of our players," said Hamilla, whose team is 6-1 overall. "In the beginning of the year, we had injuries and had to use all of our players. It's paying off for us now. I feel comfortable putting those girls in the game, and we can pretty much stay at the same pace that we're at."

The pace Hamilla spoke of was the Blue Devils' 2-2-1, full-court press they used to force Charlevoix into committing 23 turnovers.

Charlevoix's Kortney Putnam (left) drives to the basket against the defense of Gaylord's Mallory Marshall during the Rayders' 66-37 loss to the host Blue Devils on Monday.

Immediately after a made shot, Gaylord's defenders swarmed to whichever Rayder received the inbound pass. The press created 17 steals and over 10 uncontested layup opportunities.

"We wanted to get into a running game," Hamilla said. "We started out playing half-court defense. We were kind of lackadaisical, so we jumped into a press. But that's going to be our game this season — getting up and down the floor."

"In college you play summer baseball," Epping said. "If you're on a college team you travel and go play and live with a family, while playing college summer baseball."

Epping found himself playing in a league right outside of Washington.

"Through some connections I had, people I knew, I ended going out to Silver Springs Ta-koma," Epping said. "I played in a wooden bat collegiate league, it was called the Clark Griffith League, it is now called the Cal Ripken League. I lived with a host family while playing that whole summer."

As Epping saw success, he saw an opportunity in front of him. An opportunity he would ultimately take.

"I played that whole summer and did really well, that's when I had the opportunity to go to Texas Christian University," Epping said. "One of the coaches who was a coach for another team in the league, ended up getting an assistant coaching job at TCU. He liked the way I played, so he talked to me about transferring to TCU."

Epping went back to OCU to talk to his coaches about his transfer.

"I went back to talk to my coaches at OCU because they would have to release me from my scholarship, for me being able to transfer," Epping said. "I can remember it like it was yesterday. I went and talked to the head coach, and he told me that I wasn't good enough, not fast enough, you don't hit good enough. He basically told me everything I wasn't."

It was more of the same at TCU for Epping, as injuries accounted for lack of playing time. Epping played two games that spring semester for TCU. After a meeting with TCU coach Jim Schlossnagle, Epping knew going into summer ball that he needed to find another home. That home would eventually be the University of New Orleans.

Throughout his two years at New Orleans, Epping had to first persevere through one of the deadliest hurricanes in U.S. history.

"From summer ball I come back to school, moved into a house renting with another teammate," Epping said. "Not three, four days later Hurricane Katrina happened, making us evacuate that morning, really not knowing what was next."

Epping and the rest of the baseball team left Louisiana to go to New Mexico State University. Epping and company were students that fall semester at NMSU.

Through all of the chaotic-ness of Epping's start at UNO, he managed to still perform at a high level, and even set some new records.

"My senior year was awesome," Epping said. "I had a great year. I set some new records for UNO. I was third in the nation in stolen bases of all of Division I."

Epping's phenomenal senior season earned him Second Team All-American by the Baseball Writers Association in 2006. That spring brought the goal that was on his mind since high school. He was drafted by the San Diego Padres in the 13th round.

In 2007, Epping found himself starting at Single-A Fort Wayne, Ind., in the Midwest league, and ending in Triple-A Portland, Ore., of the Pacific Coast League.

Change was on the horizon for Epping that upcoming off-season.

"In the offseason the Padres called me and told me I had been released," Epping said. "They told me that they didn't have a spot for me anymore."

A short time later, Epping had an offer on the table for him.

"Jason Wuerfel with the Traverse City Beach Bums called me and asked me if I was interested and still playing and pursuing a career," Epping said.

In his first year as a Beach Bum, Epping found success. He was a Frontier League All-Star, and because of that he re-signed with the team to come back for a second year.

Now Epping, who has been out of professional baseball since 2010, still has been involved with the game.

"I have always felt blessed working with Major League hitting coaches in my career," Epping said. "It has always been something that I've wanted to try to pass on, and help other kids and other people. I have done lessons in Northern Michigan, closer to Traverse City, that I've worked with for five or six years that I still work with."

Epping has also connected with the Charlevoix Rayder baseball team over the past couple of years.

"In Charlevoix it has kind of been a blessing to get to know Allen Telgenhof and the baseball team the last few years, working with a lot of kids here in town," Epping said. "I definitely see myself as always being involved. I have a passion for the game. I love it."

Even with going through Hurricane Katrina, injuries, and other things that happened, Mike Epping has never stopped believing.

"Whatever it is, whether it's baseball or what you want to accomplish in life, it's just about believing in yourself, and going after after it."

Cedarville fought back late in the second quarter to go into the half down one, behind 13 first-half points from Brad Causley.

"It's the first time we've had a lead like that all season, and I think our heads just got a little bit," Erskine said. "We didn't handle it quite like we needed to, and it's something we talked about at halftime."

The second half was a hack-and-forth affair, with neither team taking more than a seven-point lead at any point.

Junior Austin Putman scored 12 of his 17 points in the second half to help Charlevoix stay in the game, and Putman chipped in 10 rebounds as well.

However, the Rayders had no answer for Cedarville senior Joey Duncan down the stretch. Duncan scored 20 of his 27 points after halftime and made several big shots late to help the Trojans pull ahead.

"(Duncan's) a great athlete and a four-year varsity player, and we just didn't do a good job of containing him," Erskine said. "Our help defense was late getting into position to take charges, and he made us pay for it."

Moon finished with 15 points as well for the Rayders, and Drost chipped in 10 points, four rebounds and four assists.

The Rayders (0-5, 0-2 LMC) are hoping close losses to some of the state's best teams will pay dividends for them this season, starting with a game against Harbor Springs on Friday.

"After starting the year 0-4, our guys were a little bit down as you'd expect," Erskine said. "But both the coaches and the players worked hard over break to start having fun out there on the court again."

"That's the key to being successful: enjoy what you do and who you're doing it with, and our guys had a blast tonight. I think soon that's going to start translating into wins."

Charlevoix (3-3) struggled with its own personnel issues, as the team has lost three players to season-ending injuries. Most recently, it lost standout Madeline Boss, the team's top scorer, to an ACL injury.

Because of their absences, the Rayders were forced to use some of their players out of position. It showed against the press.

"Not to make excuses, but we're playing out of position," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "Everyone is playing in a different spot. We're just trying to find our own identity without our top-two scorers for the rest of the season. I think the girls still play with a lot of heart and desire to keep working and improving. We need to continue to get better."

"But I just think (Gaylord) played tough, and they forced a lot of turnovers. We definitely struggled with that press."

However, the Rayders found success in their half-court offense throughout the game. They created scoring chances in the paint, including some open layups, but Gaylord limited them to 13-of-61 shooting.

Kourtney Putman led Charlevoix with nine points and eight rebounds, despite finishing 2-for-10 from the floor.

Also helping the Rayders, Hannah Zipp contributed eight points and six rebounds, Alexis Tribelner added six points and seven rebounds, and Ellie Way scored six points. Olivia Storm swiped five steals.

"(Putman) had great senior leadership out there," Shaw said. "Most of it, for most of these girls, it's finding them confidence offensively. That's really what it is. It's tough, and it's a mental game."

Despite playing limited minutes because of foul trouble, Gaylord's Wagner finished with 16 points, five steals and four assists, and Korte scored 13 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Ashley May scored 10 points, and Sydney Kassuba added nine.

Off the bench, Edwards had 10 points, Marshall pulled down five rebounds and recorded four assists, and Woods finished with two steals.

Report All Poaching hotline helps conservation officers connect with the public

MICHIGAN — The sign — Law Enforcement Communications Section — is as nondescript as the standard office door on an unadorned white wall deep within the recesses of Constitution Hall inside the state government building complex in Lansing. But inside that secured door is a nonstop center of activity — the RAP Room.

The RAP Room (Report All Poaching) is continuously staffed by as many as seven personnel. It is the main link between the public and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' Law Enforcement Division.

The Report All Poaching hotline was created in 1980 when the state Legislature designated a small percentage of the money raised by hunting and fishing license sales toward developing an easy method for citizens to report illegal hunting and fishing activity to the DNR. It has grown into a 1,000-square-foot room, outfitted with the kind of high-tech equipment one often finds at county or state regional dispatch centers. At each of the workstations, six computer RAP Room screens give dispatchers as much information as they could possibly need to direct the state's conservation officers to the scene of a complaint — and what the conservation officers need to know once they get there.

Computer screens display information on the current location of officers — through the GPS monitoring equipment on their patrol vehicles, as well as access to the state's Law Enforcement Information Network, the state's licensing records, the radio system, the internet and even the criminal history of those whom the officers contact.

"Our dispatchers try to gather the best information they can and send it to the officer as quickly as possible," said Lt. Steven Burton, who runs the RAP Room as part of his duties.

Each of the roughly 6,500 criminal complaints that come in by phone or the Internet to the RAP Room each year is recorded. Some of them are so vague or untimely that nothing can be done to resolve them, but the DNR's success rate in responding to these complaints is outstanding. So far, nearly 30 percent of the complaints — 5,665 through the beginning of deer season — this year have resulted in an arrest.

"Recently, we've made quite a few illegal deer cases," Burton said. "We are well upward of $50,000 in reimbursement to the state and many of those cases haven't been completed, as they are still under investigation."

As many as 50 percent of the calls that come into the RAP Room do not involve a criminal complaint, Burton said.

"We get a lot of calls about general rules or policy or people just seeking information," he said. "When people want information they often call the RAP line. We encourage these types of callers to try their local offices first, as this frees up phone lines for on-going criminal complaints."

"Our dispatchers are required to know all of our laws, rules and regulations — hunting and fishing, ORV, marine safety, land use — even environmental laws," Burton said. "Lots of laws. The RAP Room is busiest from October through December, during hunting season."

There also are seasonal bumps during other periods of high outdoors activity — fish migration seasons, holiday weekends, snowmobile season, etc. Calls tend to come in most often during early morning hours or the first hour or so after dark, though they filter in all day long, he said.

"Noon is busy, too," Burton said. "People who don't have cellphones and are out hunting in the morning might make their calls when they come in for lunch. Calls also come in after people return home from work for the same reason."

Dominique Clemente, a RAP Room emergency dispatch supervisor and an 18-year DNR veteran who has spent 16 years working at the hotline, calls it an interesting job.

"It's never the same day twice," Clemente said, adding that the line receives a wide variety of complaints, including an occasional supposed Sasquatch sighting.

Sometimes it takes some coaxing to get the information they need out of callers, Clemente said. Callers are reminded to stay patient during the call as dispatchers ask very pertinent questions related to the specific crime being reported.

"They want us to know about something illegal that's going on, but they don't want to be a snitch," Clemente said. "I just remind them the violator is stealing from you and me."

Rewards also are offered by the Report All Poaching program. Information leading to an arrest for a hunting or fishing violation reported through the hotline can net a caller up to $1,500 or even more depending on the case.

Clemente said the staff's main concern is giving the conservation officers the best information they can to help them do their job effectively and safely, though they do their best to satisfy the customer, too. In many cases, that involves answering broad questions — such as where's a good place to fish — or advising some callers that their reported complaints are, in fact, not crimes.

"The best we can do is point someone in the right direction," Clemente said.

As with any other office, the RAP Room is constantly changing, taking advantage of new and emerging technology. Right now, Burton said, the staff is figuring out how best to take complaints sent in by text messaging. A person sitting in a blind may not want to make the noise of the phone call, but is willing to text in a complaint. Other states have adopted this method of reporting violations and have seen a surge in contacts with the public.

"I think it will increase the timeliness of our response, as well," Burton said.

Besides interacting with the sporting public, the RAP Room also takes phone calls from 10 p.m. to 8 a.m. for the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality's Pollution Emergency Alerting System. This line alerts the DEQ to emergency spills and releases in Michigan.

More than a dispatch center, the RAP Room is a lifeline for officers patrolling remote areas of Michigan, often participating in critical search and rescue operations involving lost children, hunters or imperiled boaters on inland waterways or the vast waters of the Great Lakes.

Being a conservation officer is a demanding job. It takes focus, dedication and professionalism. Every day a primary concern of the RAP Room is to ensure that all Michigan conservation officers return safely at shift's end to their families and communities. Those dispatchers play a vital role in Michigan's natural resources protection team, Burton said.

To report a natural resource violation, call the Report All Poaching hotline at (800) 292-7800. To learn more about the work of conservation officers or to access the online RAP reporting form, visit michigan.gov/conservationofficers.

Goodwill now open

Center to offer workforce training in February

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Residents in and around Charlevoix now have a brand new center to donate charitable items and become involved in career training programs.

Goodwill Industries had its grand opening on Jan. 16, for its eighth store in Northern Michigan, located at 402 Petoskey Ave., in Charlevoix.

The event took place with the first 200 people arriving receiving a free gift.

"Most people see us as just a thrift store. They don't see the wealth of services we offer the community," said Leah Bagdon-McCallum, Goodwill director of advancement.

Aside from accepting tax-deductible donations from local residents, Goodwill also offers free job-training services. Its Charlevoix location will offer retail workforce development training in February.

"Once that gets started, then at all times there will be one person in a 90 day training program," Bagdon-

Donated items are organized and sorted in the rear of the new Goodwill retail store and donation center in Charlevoix. The store had its ribbon-cutting ceremony on Friday, Jan. 16.

McCallum said. "The person participating will come in and learn every aspect from the cash register to managing a store, then we will help people find jobs in the community."

Goodwill also will offer hospitality training in March to area residents.

"We're excited to offer these programs and be part of the Charlevoix community," Bagdon-McCallum said.

City to spend $32,000 for street light upgrades

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The City of Charlevoix will spend approximately $32,420 to retrofit its downtown decorative street lights to LEDs.

Charlevoix city council members unanimously approved the upgrades during their regular meeting on Monday, Jan. 19, after hearing from City engineer, Don Swem. Swem explained to council members the process for the retrofit took time because LED lights have a higher temperature than a standard light.

"I have been working on this for the past few years," Swem said to council members. "It has been hard to get this set up because no one would guarantee the work because the fixture did not allow for heat to escape."

In his effort to come up with a way to make the streetlights more energy efficient, Swem contacted Lumecon LLC, based in Farmington Hills, about six months ago. The company worked with Swem to develop the kits that would work in the downtown lights, he said.

"They came up with a kit that cost $322 each and will guarantee the lights for 10 years," Swem said. "I think it is a good deal, it keeps the current look we have with our lights and the savings in electricity alone will pay this back six years."

Councilman Bill Supernaw is impressed with the power consumption savings from this proposal.

"Reading about the energy savings in the proposal seems to be a good deal," Supernaw said. "It really sounds like we got something that will work with this contract."

In other action council members approved language to allow businesses to leave their furniture and barriers up in the winter, so long as they meet certain criteria. The language was added to the ordinance passed in December that allows businesses outdoor seating for food and dining establishments.

In the ordinance it does require any seating and barriers placed on city property to be removed during the winter months, but now with the new language businesses can get approval to leave up the outdoor dining space from the City Manager.

SOUNDING THE BELL

Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron hosts 'Change of Watch' ceremony

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The sounding of ship's bells are well rooted in the history and tradition of the maritime industry. The bells would mark ship-board time and were used to organize a schedule that reflected the four-hour watch served by the crew.

On Wednesday, Jan. 14, at the Charlevoix Country Club the watch bell was rung to begin the Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron "Change of Watch" ceremony.

The ceremony was held to relieve the 2014 officers and swear in the officers for 2015 for the Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron.

"The ceremony honors our bridge officers for their work throughout the year in our organization," said Lt. Nancy Wood Loening, public relations officer and executive committee member at large.

Officers from Tip of the Mitt, as well as from District 9 in Michigan and the U.S. Coast Guard, took part in the ceremony. District 9 has 21 local squadrons, with 20 squadrons located in the Lower Peninsula of Michigan and one squadron in northern Indiana. The squadrons range in size from about 35 to 400 members.

Lt. Cmdr. Dawn Flynn, a junior navigator of District 9, officiated the swearing in of Cmdr. Tom Tietjen. The balance of the bridge officers were sworn in by Tietjen.

"I'm looking forward to another year serving our organization and the community at large," Tietjen said. "This is a great organization to be part of, especially if you love anything to deal with boating."

Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron is one of 450 squadrons that make up the United States Power Squadron (USPS), with a membership of 45,000. Founded in 1914, the USPS is the world's largest nonprofit boating organization. It is an educational organization, which focuses on making boating safer and more enjoyable by teaching classes in seamanship, navigation and related subjects, said Mike LeButt, executive committee member at large.

"Our members are boating families who promote safe boating through education," LeButt said.

DOING GOOD

Officials from Goodwill, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and residents were on hand to celebrate the opening of the new Goodwill retail store and donation center in Charlevoix on Friday, Jan. 16. Glenn Hirt, Goodwill of Northern Michigan chairman of the board, Allison Hubbard, chamber president, Patti Brannon, store manager, Wendy Steele, Goodwill board member, and Cecil McNally, Goodwill CEO, prepare to cut the ribbon for the official store opening on Friday.

Goodwill of Northern Michigan operates within the 19 counties in the top-half of the mitten. With stores in Petoskey, Traverse City and Gaylord the organization believed more could be done to assist people in this region by adding a location in Charlevoix, said Patti Brannon, Goodwill store manager.

"We saw an unmet need in Charlevoix," Brannon said. "I see us being a large part of Charlevoix and its community. People have a lot of need for some of the services we offer and I'm glad we are able to bring these services closer to home."

Inside, the old IGA grocery store now resembles a small version of a department store. Shoppers of the retail location will find the store well organized and items easy to find.

"It's an amazing transformation," said Allison Hubbard, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce president. "They've invested a lot of work into this store. It is a great addition to this community."

The Charlevoix Goodwill has six employees operating its store and Brannon plans to add two more positions. Volunteer opportunities are also available through the Goodwill website, Brannon said.

In May, officials for Goodwill are planning to have another grand opening event at the Charlevoix store, which will feature a special gift for one family in need.

"It will be an exciting day because we will give a way a vehicle to a local family in need," Bagdon-McCallum said. "We already have staff going through files to select a family who who is qualified to receive a vehicle from our program."

Store and donation hours are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Charlevoix's city manager is Petoskey's pick

rbentley@petoskeynews.com

Petoskey officials decided Saturday to move toward the appointment of Roh Straebel, Charlevoix's current city manager, to fill a similar job in their city.

City council members deliberated on a manager choice Saturday following interviews with three finalist candidates the previous day. Along with Straebel, those interviewing included former Detroit Planning and Development Department director Robert Anderson and current Lake Isabella village manager Timothy Wolff.

The decision to move toward Straebel's hiring is contingent upon a contract for his employment being successfully worked out.

Straebel, 49, has been Charlevoix's city manager since 2007, and has more than 16 years of local government management experience in all.

When asked in his interview by Petoskey Mayor Bill Fraser what makes him uniquely qualified for that city's manager job, Straebel noted his work experience as well as a personality that can help him work well with a variety of city stakeholders. He noted the values his parents instilled in him, including a diplomatic approach to situations similar to his father's. Straebel added that he likes to see people working around him receive due credit for city government's successes.

"My management style is not ego-driven," he said.

Of the three candidates interviewed, council member Kate Marshall said Straebel's work experience showed the closest match to a local government operation such as Petoskey's, and that he had a record of applying both traditional and new approaches in city management.

"I was very positive to his answers, his presence," she said. "I think he has very good experience. I think he is an effective communicator."

Petoskey's manager position became available following Dan Ralley's resignation from it last year to pursue another job in Ohio. City finance director Al Terry has since been handling manager duties on an interim basis. Petoskey officials have indicated a possible annual salary range of $94,500 to $110,000 for the next manager.

City of Charlevoix begins review of budget proposal

LOUISE ALLAN
(231) 547-8558 • lan@charvoix.com

CHARLEVOIX — Future revenue and spending was the topic of discussion during the budget workshop for Charlevoix city leaders and staff on Jan. 12.

Council members and city staff reviewed budget amendments to the 2014-15 budget and reviewed the proposed 2015-16 budget. City manager Rob Straebel said the proposal puts forward a sound budget for the city without raising taxes.

"A lot of communities may see stagnant tax revenues and propose increases to keep up with expenses," Straebel said. "An increase hasn't been proposed by us.

Charlevoix city manager Robert Straebel (right) shows a budget document to council members Bill Supernaw (center) and Jeff Porter during the city's budget workshop on Monday, Jan. 12. City council members, staff and department heads attended the five-hour long workshop to discuss the 2015-16 budget for Charlevoix.

I think that is sound government and sound fiscal management when we ask all of the city departments to live within our means." Straebel went over the city's general fund balance and pointed out that revenues will be about the same as they were in 2014-15. He expects there will be a small dip into the general fund balance to make up for some shortfalls in the proposed budget. The general fund balance is about $1 million.

"We are much more fortunate than a lot of communities," Straebel said. "Our general fund reserve balance is right where auditors recommend we should be. I think our general fund balance is sound, although we are going to dip down a little bit in 2015-16, but I see our revenues to turn around as the economy improves."

Straebel also went over the proposed infrastructure improvements for State Street and the Lake to Lake trail improvements. The city received a $580,000 grant for the State Street project, which will include replacing underground utilities, including storm water improvements and road resurfacing and a realignment of the intersection at Antrim and State streets. The city also received a $314,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Transportation for the Lake to Lake trail project.

"We are fortunate to receive grant funding for both of those projects," Straebel said. "The grant funds will help us complete those projects in the coming year."

Residents can view the proposed budget presentation at cityofcharlevoix.org

Arts program sponsors Charlevoix's Got Talent

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix middle-high school performing arts program will sponsor the 2015 Charlevoix's Got Talent competition at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 25, at the Charlevoix High School Auditorium, 5200 Marion Center Road. Charlevoix's Got Talent serves the dual purpose of chasing away the winter blahs and supporting the school's under-funded yet bright performing arts program.

Mike Washburn will emcee the show that will feature 17 acts ranging in age from elementary to adult and will feature a variety of talents including singing, dancing, instrument playing and art-work. Washburn is a graduate of Petoskey High School, the Food Service Director, of Charlevoix Middle/High School, ski instructor at Nub's Nob for 11 years and 20 years at Mount McSaubia and he is CEO of Mike's Mustard, of Charlevoix.

The show will be judged by a celebrity panel made up of Chris Dominic, Charlie Witthoef and Holly Keller. Singer and songwriter, Chris Dominic is a Charlevoix native. He has performed on his own and also has sung lead with Hank Williams Jr.'s band. Dominic has opened for some of country music's greatest artists such as Ronnie Milsap, Chrystal Gayle, Pam Tillis, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers, Sammy Kershaw, Darryl Worley and Cowboy Crush. He has been a crowd favorite at the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, the Mancelona Bass Festival, Victories Casino and Hotel and Leelanau Sands Casino.

Charlie Witthoef is a father as well as a musician and artist.

He has toured the country in various bands since the 1990s, including Mojo and the Boogiemans, Hipps n Ricco, Charlie's Root Fusion and C2. Witthoef is a master player and teacher of the harmonica. He has shared the stage with BB King, Duke Dumano and many others.

With three studio albums under her belt, Holly Keller has been performing in the area for more than 10 years. Songwriting has been a huge part of her life since she picked up a mandolin and guitar and at 18 years she combined it with voice. Keller can be found playing shows with her cousin Lee Dyer in a duo called "Keller-ville," and she hopes to keep making music for many years to come.

The three acts which receive the highest ratings will be awarded a cash prize at the conclusion of the program. A special "Rising Star" award will be awarded to a younger act that gets the highest score.

A silent auction will be held during intermission. The bidding will be on a half hour before the show at 1:30 p.m. and will conclude at the end of intermission. Baskets to bid on will include Arbonne, Premiere Design Jewelry, Mike's Mustard, gift cards, baked goods, coffee, a one-week cottage rental on Central Lake and more. Auction items must be paid by cash or check. Proceeds from this fundraiser will go toward production costs for the upcoming musical, "Mary Poppins," which is scheduled for presentation on Feb. 27 and 28 and again on March 7 and 8. Tickets are available at the door for $5 for adults and students.

The group introduces themselves to the elementary school.

Northwest Academy students rock out

CHARLEVOIX — Northwest Academy students — preschool through sixth grade — were treated to interactive live performances from a group featuring Seth Bernard, Dan Rickabus, of the Crane Wives; and Mike Lynch, of Steppin' In It, on Wednesday, Jan. 14.

The musicians are part of the collective called Earth Work Music — earthwork-music.com — and they use music to help bring people together all over the world. Currently, the group is sponsored by On Stage for Kids to help get students excited about music and its endless possibilities.

EAST JORDAN

Martha Wagbo Farms and Education Center offers Northwoods Family Nature Club

EAST JORDAN — The Northwoods Family Nature Club will meet at 10 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 1, at the Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center, 5745 M-66, in East Jordan.

The Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center offers year-round monthly gathering for families with children of any age. Their simple mission of giving children opportunities for unstructured playtime with each other in the natural world is an almost foreign concept these days. It's also a great time for adults to meet and talk to other adults while the kids romp and explore.

Local field trips and planned activities also are offered at the center. This month, they are building a small igloo-style shelter from hundreds of homemade bricks of ice. Save your empty, rinsed half-gallon cardboard milk or juice cartons and bring them along. They will be working on their Winter Dwelling as part of an ongoing process.

Walks around the property also will be encouraged in an effort to view any animal "housing" in the area. This is an excellent opportunity for kids to see how the animals survive Old Man Winter.

To register for the event, call (231) 536-0333, email info@wagbo.org or find them on Facebook.

Lights of Love event is a success thanks to Eta Nu

Dear Editor:
Hospice of Northwest Michigan would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone involved with the 2014 Lights of Love event in Boyne City.

In 1987, Eta Nu, of Boyne City, found a way to support the growing community needs through its support of Hospice with the Lights of Love event. This year, Eta Nu raised $6,000 for Hospice, $100,000 over the last 27 years. Like anything important it takes a community and there are many who worked to make this meaningful event happen.

We at Hospice greatly appreciate this event, as we know how much it benefits our hospice families and those in our community. To John Vrontdon for donating a beautiful tree; to Andy Poinneau for creating the hearts; to Jim Bauman for facilitating the flow of the evening; to Ace Hardware for candles; to Park Street Grill for hot chocolate; to the East Jordan Community Band for the holiday music; to the Girl Scouts for directing the carols; to Café Sante, Red Mesa, Beyond Borders, Inspired Living, Kilwin's and the Bird's Nest for donating a percentage of the monies you took in back to the event; and to Marsha Newkirk and the Eta Nu committee who organized and coordinated the event and hand wrote all the names of the loved ones on each heart ... You are all a part of our Hospice Heart and only with your support are we able to be the very best at what we do.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan is the only 501(c)3 nonprofit, community-based, locally managed hospice in northern lower Michigan, meaning it is not owned, operated, regulated or supported by corporate interests. We serve Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. For more information, call (800) 551-4140 toll-free or visit hospicwnm.org.

Wonderful support for Charlevoix Community Christmas Project

Editor,
The 2014 Charlevoix Community Christmas Project touched many families and children, because of the generosity of the community. Many people and groups contributed countless hours to ensure its success. A special thank you and recognition needs to be given to Charlevoix's children, youths and teenagers.

Thank you St. Mary's

Youth Group, the Jeakle and LaCroix children for helping to set up and organize the food boxes.

Thank you Charlevoix Elementary School's second graders who organized the penny drive and shopped for gifts. Thank you to the third graders for making blankets and donating them to the project. Thank you to the sixth graders that volunteered to stuff envelopes, bag potatoes and help display the toys.

Thank you to Charlevoix Middle School's Jr. N.H.S. that raised money to purchase gifts for the "Teen Room."

Thank you to Charlevoix High School's N.H.S. for helping with the distribution of foods and gifts and cleaning up of the work area and tables.

To all these youth groups, children and teenagers, the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project would like to thank you for raising money for Christmas gifts, volunteering and working together so that we could continue our mission to make sure every child in Charlevoix has a Merry Christmas.

Joppa House expresses appreciation

Dear Editor:
Joppa House Ministries would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of the board and its residents, to express our sincere appreciation, gratitude and thanks for all that the Charlevoix Community has done to make our dream a reality. Christmas 2014 we were truly blessed with many donations from so many individuals and groups. Words cannot express our gratitude. You have truly proven to us that "Every one Can Do Something." We truly have tried to thank everyone personally, but sometimes we were blessed anonymously. So please accept this public thank you.

Our wish list was truly met in each and every way, and we continue to be blessed with the pantry and household items that continue to arrive, especially the toilet paper. A special thank you to the "pink butterfly" group. We don't know who you are, but your creativity with our wish list is really appreciated.

Again, please accept our sincere thanks. May God bless you all as you have blessed us.

Time after Time

Processes that are either very slow or take a very long time are difficult for us humans to understand. Therefore we have a difficulty with concepts like evolution or climate change or even what is called geological time, usually measured in hundreds of thousands or millions of years.

Evolution can be extremely rapid in organisms like bacteria that can reproduce themselves in less than an hour. But for organisms like us with a generation time measured in decades, significant evolution takes maybe 40,000 years. We can't keep track for that long. For those kinds of living things that have even longer generation times, like Sugar Maple Trees, for example change is slow that if we were to be transported 100,000 years back in time, the Sugar Maples would look like they do now. That does not mean that evolution has not occurred; it is just too slow for us to have noticed.

When we are told that the average temperature on earth may rise by 5 degrees in the next century, it hardly seems like an emergency that has to be addressed promptly, even though it is.

Crisis related to human population growth were predicted for many decades before humans paid any attention to the problem. Geological time measured in millions of years is mostly beyond our comprehension.

Fortunately, we have a fine local example of something that happens quite slowly, but that can still be understood by ordinary observation. I'm talking about the sand dunes.

Lake Michigan has been making sand out of rock for a very long time. Since we are on the eastern shore of the lake the prevailing winds are out of the west, all that sand piles up on our shore. And having piled up there, it slowly and even majestically moves inland. The sand always moves inland on our side of the lake.

The sand dunes at North Point provide sterling examples that should help us understand slow but definite processes. One of those sand dunes is moving into the long established forest back from the shore. Sand is pouring (slowly) down the inland side of the dune and gradually covering. Walking around to the lake side of the dune, we can see the trees that the dune covered a century ago when it was nearer to the lake. The sand is moving inland and uncovering those ancient trees.

Even the sand that is not currently part of the dunes is moving inland. Should you have any doubts about the sand moving, take a sheet of black of very dark paper with you when you visit next spring. March a few hundred yards away from the lake and place the paper on the forest floor. If there is any wind as all from the lake — there is on most days — visible grains of sand will filter down through the trees and land on the paper. Multiply that bit of sand by a century and it is not difficult to visualize the slow but certain march of sand and dunes away from the lake.

Winter is probably not the best time to make the observations suggested above. Wait until spring, and spend a few minutes enjoying the early flowers. This time of the year it is good to have plans for those first warm spring days. Use them to get connected to the past and begin understanding something about the slow but certain processes. We have been using sand to measure time since before clocks when we depended on sand-filled hourglasses.

We need to have some appreciation for those long-term processes like evolution, climate change and population growth, that we cannot observe directly. Go to the sand dunes and be wise.

LOOKING BACK...

This classic image was taken on River Street, now Pine River Lane, atop the north embankment of the lower channel. From the formal dress of the group at center, it appears it may have been taken on a Sunday and they plus the family dog were out for a stroll. Tied up at the channel revetment is the schooner Rosa Belle, about to be towed into Lake Michigan by the tug J. V. Taylor. Boats often did this if they found the big lake was kicking up too much for comfort, and decided to hide their time here until it calmed down enough so they could venture out. The stiff northwest wind can be seen in the billowing skirt of the woman in the light dress standing in front of the Charlevoix Roller Mills building, later to be known as the Argo Milling Company until 1953. At left is the Fountain City House hotel, Charlevoix's first; beside the channel at center stands the Lewis Grand Opera House. Both the grist mill and the opera house went up in the mid 1880s. The hotel was partially up in the late 1860s. Close inspection reveals six more people in the photo—two at the hotel, two in the schooner's rigging, and two connected to the tug.

CHARLEVOIX

Library to host 2015 WinterFolk Series

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., is pleased to announce the first in its 2015 WinterFolk Concert Series. Peter Bergin will be the featured performer beginning 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 26.

Bergin is a pianist and vocalist whose refined singing and energetic ragtime has entertained audiences for more than 25 years. After a long career as a software architect, Bergin now pursues full-time his life-long desire to share his music with the world. Bergin enjoys playing to audiences of all ages and his concert schedule brings his music to libraries, churches, retirement communities, corporate events and private parties. He teaches piano to people of all ages and abilities, and enjoys guiding his students to success through the art of listening. Bergin resides in Traverse City with his wife and two children.

WinterFolk celebrates local folk artists with an evening of music. The featured performer kicks off the evening with a 45-minute concert, which is followed by an open mic session — an opportunity for the public to share talents. Open mic sign-up begins at 6 p.m. the night of the concert, and is limited to five performers. Other performers in the series will be Ben Hassenger on Feb. 23, Gary Shackelford on March 30, and The Whiskey Charmers on April 27.

For more information about the Folk Concert Series, talk to Dwain at the library. (231) 547-2651.

Community foundation, library team up for Community Conversations

CHARLEVOIX — In partnership with The Center for Michigan, a nonprofit and nonpartisan "think-and-do" tank located in Ann Arbor, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Charlevoix Public Library will co-host one of the Center's "Community Conversations." The session will take place at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 27, at the Charlevoix Public Library.

This year's Community Conversation will discuss college value and affordability issues, which is among several key issues that impact Michigan's job market today. Participants will be able to share their experiences, priorities, needs and hopes during the session. The Center will take the priorities identified and other conversations to state leaders.

The conversation will be one of more than 150 structured dialogues taking place from November 2014, through June 2015. The participants include more than 3,000 Michigan residents from all over the state.

To learn more about the Community Conversations and the Center for Michigan, visit thecenterformichigan.net.

To make reservations for this event, call the Charlevoix Public Library at (231) 237-7340 or register online at charlevoixlibrary.org under the "Adult Events" tab.

Charlevoix Public Library to offer tech classes

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., announced its new upcoming winter technology classes.

Managing Your Digital Photos will be offered 10:30 a.m.-noon, on Tuesday, Jan. 27. The class will teach the basics of taking, storing and using digital photos.

Make a Digital Photo Book, will be offered 10:30 a.m.-noon, on Thursday, Jan. 29. The class will show participants how to take their photos and make them into a digital photo book that can be saved or printed.

Microsoft Word 2013 Basics will offer an overview of this popular word processing program. It is scheduled 6-7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 3, and Thursday, Feb. 5.

In order to be comfortable in any of the classes, participants are asked to know how to use a mouse, operate at least one basic software program, and search the Internet. The librarians at the Charlevoix Public Library also offer assistance by appointment with using the library's downloadable collection, using mobile devices and using our new catalog.

Register for all technology classes either online at charlevoixlibrary.org/calendar or call (231) 237-7340. For more information about classes, visit charlevoixlibrary.org.

Hospital, Oleson's partner for annual Shop For Your Heart instructional CHARLEVOIX — In recognition of National Heart Month, Charlevoix Area Hospital's Cardiac Rehabilitation and Nutrition Services departments have teamed up to offer Shop For Your Heart, an informative grocery store tour to help people make smart, informed food choices when doing their weekly shopping.

The event will be from 1 to 3 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 5, at Oleson's Food Store, 112 Antrim St., Charlevoix.

"This annual event is held at no cost to the public in an effort to make heart healthy shopping easier for the community," said Tina Foltz, Charlevoix Area Hospital's Cardiac Rehabilitation nurse coordinator.

"The goal of the tour is to provide a fun new perspective for how people approach grocery store shopping, to answer nutritional questions that shoppers may have, help learn easy ways to plan and make healthy meals at home."

The tour includes brief sessions throughout the store regarding label reading, how to navigate the aisles and general shopping tips. There is no cost to attend, but space is limited and preregistration is required.

For more information on Shop For Your Heart or to reserve a spot on the tour, call Foltz at (231) 547-8525.

OBITUARIES

Betty Pittman, 93, of Charlevoix, passed away Saturday, Jan. 17, 2015, at her home.

She was born Mary Elizabeth Brady in Albion, Mich., on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, in 1921. She was the oldest of five children.

Her father died during the Depression and she helped her widowed mother raise her younger siblings, two of whom had special needs.

She graduated from Albion High School in 1939 and went to Jackson to study cosmetology. She got a job in Ann Arbor and moved there where she lived with her cousins. There she met and fell in love with Bob Pittman, the love of her life.

During the war, she went to work at the Bomber Plant in Willow Run making B-24s that her husband later flew. She and Bob were married at Midland Army Air Base in Midland, Texas, in June 1943. Betty moved with Bob to 11 different military assignments before they settled in Ann Arbor where their five children grew up. The family moved to Menominee in the Upper Peninsula in 1966 where they lived for eight years.

When Bob changed jobs and began working for the FAA in the Chicago area, Betty got her associate degree in education and library science. After having devoted her life to her now grown family, she got a job in a school library. Following four years there, they relocated to New Hampshire where they resided for six years.

After years of planning, Betty and Bob built their dream retirement home on Beaver Island where they had summered since 1963. The 10 years from 1984 to 1994 were busy years as they had an almost self-sufficient farm of 20 acres with livestock. From Beaver Island they made the short relocation to Charlevoix where they have lived since 1994.

No matter where they resided, Betty always was an avid volunteer in school, church and community whenever she was needed. All of her 93 years her first thoughts were for her husband of 71 years and her children.

She is the last surviving member of her family. She was preceded in death by her son, Bob, in 1963, and her son-in-law, Joerg, who just passed on her last birthday in November.

Betty is survived by her husband, Bob; children, Marilee Pittman-Rothaupt of Germany, Pat Dworkin (Bob) of Dallas, Phil Pittman of Charlevoix and Joanne Pittman of Clare; grandchildren, Helena James Moore (Matt) of Mount Pleasant, Larissa James McGinnity (Patrick) of Beaver Island, Meghan (Derek) Dworkin McClain of West Warwick, R.I., Erin Dworkin Santos (Rob) of Nashua, N.H., and Rob Dworkin of Rhode Island; and six great-grandchildren, Sydney, Colin and Nathan Moore and Lysander, Leif and Killian McGinnity.

She will be remembered by all for her gentle spirit, diligent working attitude, lady-like demeanor, uncompromising character, steadfast disposition and fighting spirit.

Visitation was 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where the rosary was recited at 7:30 p.m. Funeral Mass was at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. Matthew Wigton officiating. Burial will take place in St. Mary's Cemetery in the spring.

Memorial contributions may be made to Food For The Poor, P.O. Box 979005, Coconut Creek, FL 33097-9005. www.foodforthe poor.com

Fritz A. Puffpaff Jr., 89

Fritz A. Puffpaff Jr., 89, of Charlevoix, passed away Wednesday, Jan. 14, 2015, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, surrounded by his family.

He was born July 25, 1925, in Greenville, to Fritz A. and Edna E.

(Brathwaite) Puffpaff Sr.

He is survived by his wife of 61 years, Ann (Gill) Puffpaff; sons, Ronald (Linda), Gary (Paulette) and Kurt (Amy); daughters, Debra Godfrey and Ann Marie (Leon) Boettger; many grandchildren; nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his son, Stephan; daughter, Colleen; grandson, Job; his parents, Fritz and Edna; sisters, Georgia, Christine and Joyce; and brothers, Martin and Keith.

Fritz was a World War II veteran. He loved bowling, softball, gardening, cooking kielbasa for the Kiwanis Club, and he was a successful owner of Puff's Appliance, not to mention — the best dill pickle maker — ever! ... and Go Michigan!

He was very proud of his children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 11 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 31, at the Christ Episcopal Church, 200 State St., Charlevoix.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests contributions in his honor to Mid-Michigan Home, P.O. Box 385, Mecosta, MI 49332; the Christ Episcopal Church, 200 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720; or to Charlevoix Area Hospital, 14700 Lake Shore Drive, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

A summer military service will take place at Brookside Cemetery.

Sign Puff's guestbook at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

Jeanette Boss, 92

Jeanette Boss, 92, went to heaven and was reunited with her husband of 65 years on Wednesday, Jan. 14, 2015.

Jeanette was a lover of the Lord and deeply faithful; she was devoted to her family, was passionate about baking, and enjoyed caring for and observing flowers and birds. She was renowned for making cinnamon rolls for her grandkids' sporting teams, school events and church events.

Jeanette, with her husband Lawrence, hosted an annual Halloween party for the neighborhood and church children and their families. She loved to cook and bake and always opened up her home to anyone she felt needed a meal or a place to belong. Her gift of hospitality and her welcoming spirit touched many people across the years.

She was an active member of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix, where she and her husband taught the 2-year-old students' Sunday school class for many years. She served on the RCW board, volunteered at the Rainbow Shoppe, the Food Pantry and the Community Christmas project.

Jeanette is survived by her children, Beth Ann (Boss) and Milo Broadwater of Preston, Minn., Wilson (Bud) and Judy Boss of Charlevoix and Jan Boss of Charlevoix; grandchildren, Mark and Rachel Boss of Morristown, Tenn., Kari (Boss) and Chris Maki of Charlevoix, Robert and Megan Boss of Marquette, Amanda (Boss) and Matt Thompson of Charlevoix, David Broadwater of Preston, Minn., and Larry Broadwater of Preston, Minn.; great-grandchildren, Grace, Lilly and Joshua Boss of Morristown, Tenn., Quinn and Tinsley Maki of Charlevoix and Caiden Thompson of Charlevoix.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Lawrence; infant daughter, Judy Jean; parents, Nick and Anna DeYoung; sister and brother-in-law, Lucy and Marvin Roesch; brother and sister-in-law, Harold and Marie DeYoung.

Services were Monday, Jan. 19, at Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. John (Chip) Sauer officiated and arrangements were by Winchester Funeral Home.

Memorials honoring Jeanette may be made to the Community Reformed Church or to Heifer International, which helps eliminate hunger and poverty worldwide, <http://www.heifer.org>.

Thomas Michael Hamlin, 82

Col. Thomas Michael Hamlin, USMC (Ret.), 82, beloved father, grandfather and great-grandfather, passed away peacefully Tuesday, Jan. 13, 2015, surrounded by his family.

Tom was born on May 17, 1932, and raised in Charlevoix. His childhood dreams were realized when he graduated from The University of Notre Dame and became an officer in the Marine Corps.

During his service, Col. Hamlin served in various Marine Corps and Joint Commands, including the U.S. European Command in Stuttgart, Germany. He attended the U.S. Army Infantry Career Course, the Marine Corps Command and Staff College and the Army War College. He received master's degrees from Northwestern University and Webster University. He served two tours in Vietnam and commanded the 2nd Battalion, 5th Marines at An Hoa and the Que Son Mountains. His decorations included the prestigious Defense Superior Service Medal and the Legion of Merit (two awards, one with Combat "V"). After retiring from the Marines, Tom enjoyed a second career with Prairie State

Legal Services.

Tom cherished his family above all else and is survived by his beloved wife of 61 years, Elizabeth Ann (Hillyard); children, Ree (Tom) Lewis, Washington, Mo., Tom Hamlin, Atlanta, Ga., Charlie (Becky) Hamlin, Lake Bluff, Ill., and Dubai, UEA, Theresa (Clay) Grumke, St. Louis, Mo., and Jeff (Leisa) Hamlin, Eureka, Mo.; grandchildren, Zach (Mandy), Jee (Jeff), Tyler, Betsy, Jake (Lauren), Stevie, (Ben), Shore, Troy, Emily, Kate, Maggie, Eric; and nine great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by daughter, Paula Hamlin; parents, Charles and Pauline Hamlin; and sister, Patricia McCort.

Funeral service with military honors was conducted at Church of St. Mary, Lake Forest, Ill. Interment ceremony will follow later this summer at St. Mary's Cemetery in Charlevoix.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations to Prairie State Legal Services, Administrative Office, 303 N. Main St., Suite 600, Rockford, IL 61101 and the Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society, 875 N. Randolph St., Suite 225, Arlington, VA 22203.

Go Green Youth Challenge encourages kids to raise money for tree planting

MICHIGAN — The Michigan Arbor Day Alliance's (MADA) Go Green Youth Challenge (GGYC) program celebrates all that trees give us by engaging Michigan's youth in community development and service-learning through a friendly, statewide competition. The program has two parts, a fundraiser and a writing contest, and K-12 students are able to participate in both.

The fundraiser challenges students to come up with ways to raise money in plant trees in Michigan. Some ideas might be: bake sales, pop can drives, seed sales, classroom coin wars, get pledges for a walk-a-thon ... the sky is the limit. The individual or team who raises the most will win a tree planting for their community, as the grand prize winner. All money collected directly funds community tree plantings and statewide outreach efforts. Also consider incorporating an environmental message in order to teach, as well as fundraisers. There are resources on the Alliance's website to help.

The GGYC Creative Writing Contest seeks to engage

Michigan students by getting them to explore their imagination. All K-12 students are eligible to submit a creative writing piece of any type and tell us, "If you were a tree, which tree would you be and why?" Prizes are available to students for both the fundraiser and the writing contest.

The GGYC fundraiser began Jan. 12 and goes until March 30. The Creative Writing Contest began on the same date, but entries must be postmarked by March 9. Complete program details, rules and entry forms can be found at miarbordayalliance.org.

In only four years, this program and Michigan's youth have helped plant more than 900 trees in communities across the state. The Michigan Arbor Day Alliance urges communities to "Go Green" in 2015.

Arbor Day Alliance thanks everyone who participates, including sponsors; ITC Holdings Corp., Lansing Board of Water and Light, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Eaton Conservation District, Michigan State University Federal Credit Union and WKAR.

Local flying service marks 70 years on Beaver Island air route

FROM BENTLEY
(231) 347-2544 • bentley@charvoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Aircraft provide a key transportation link to and from Beaver Island, especially at times of the year when ferries and other boats can't travel on Lake Michigan.

And for one company, providing such air service is an endeavor that's continued for 70 years.

McPhillips Flying Service was established by Joe and Ané McPhillips in 1945, initially using a World War II-surplus Sikorsky Flying Boat to carry passengers and mail when water-based transportation was unavailable. While McPhillips Flying Service still exists as the airline's legal name, the company now does business as Island Airways — a name that went into use in the early 1980s when the McPhillips operation merged with Welke Aviation.

Paul Welke, who had co-founded Welke Aviation in the mid-1970s with now-deceased parents Bill and Betty, remains involved with Island Airways as its chief pilot and operations director. His wife, Angel LeFevre-Welke, joined the company about 13 years ago and now serves as its president.

Having flown planes for more than 40 years, Welke grew acquainted with aviation even earlier in life. The son of a World War II pilot, he grew up along an airstrip in downstate Michigan, becoming a student pilot at age 16 and a private pilot within another year or so. Welke moved to Beaver Island as a young adult, and flying would come to help him earn the income he'd need to live in his desired surroundings.

Today, Island Airways operates with a year-round staff of 18, with five to 10 more joining the company during the warm months when tourism peaks on the island. The staff normally includes six pilots.

With aviation evolving considerably in terms of regulations and safety standards, Welke believes his company's ability to adapt has contributed to its longevity.

"The (Federal Aviation Administration) has changed enormously, and we've been able to change with it," he said.

Island Airways has encountered a number of challenges within the past decade — including competition on the air route between Charlevoix and Beaver Island, volatile fuel prices and the late-2000s recession that prompted some Americans to cut back on travel. To respond to such challenges, LeFevre-Welke noted that the company streamlined staffing, revamped flight schedules to maximize efficiency and sought out additional ways to earn cargo revenue. In recent years, for example, the company expanded its long-running relationship with the U.S. Postal Service and began handling island mail service on a year-round basis.

"We've been incredibly aggressive about our contracting," she said.

Quick order turnarounds and low shipping charges have made online retailers popular with the remote island's residents in recent decades, and LeFevre-Welke noted that her airline has been able to take advantage by covering one leg of the delivery route for shipping companies.

As of late, Island Airways has been flying about 30,000 passengers as well as 1.5 million pounds of freight on an annual basis. The company delivers prescriptions to island residents, helps keep island businesses supplied with food and beverages during the winter months and carries a variety of other cargo — ranging from livestock to building materials to engines. The company's aircraft fleet includes four Britten Norman Islanders, a Piper Aztec and a Piper Apache.

Island Airways derives about 75 percent of its business from the regular route between Charlevoix Municipal Airport and Beaver Island's Welke Airport — covering a one-way distance of about 30 miles — with 20 percent more coming from charter flights and 5 percent from air ambulance services. The company is one of several aircraft operators that can transport Beaver Island residents in need of medical treatment to mainland hospitals.

For LeFevre-Welke, the air ambulance component of the business is an especially meaningful one, and a service that she'd like to perhaps see the company expand to other areas around Lake Michigan. As one of 600 or so year-round residents on Beaver Island, she noted that the patients transported are often people she knows.

"It's really rewarding to help one of your neighbors," she said.

To celebrate the 70th anniversary of McPhillips Flying Service, Island Airways will be entering its passengers in drawings for a variety of prizes — such as plane tickets, merchandise and travel discount coupons — during 2015, and plans a "Customer Appreciation Hangar Party" on the island, with more details to be announced in the coming months.

Historical society receives second grant for documentary

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Historical Society was recently awarded grant funding from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for a new historical documentary, "The Wizard of Boulder Park."

The documentary's focus is on the life and work of Earl Young, a self-taught architect who created 31 of the world's most unique homes and structures in Charlevoix using glacial boulders culled from the Northern Michigan landscape. Partnering with three-time Emmy-award-winning documentary filmmakers Brian and Anne Belanger, of Bon Ami films, the film will present "authentic" stories and perspectives of Earl Young's work from the viewpoint of historians, architects, current homeowners, friends and family members.

The project began in early 2013, with research and sourcing of archival images, filming exteriors, and on-camera interviews. The Charlevoix Historical Society's Museum Co-Director, David L. Miles, worked closely with the filmmakers providing a tremendous volume of archival images, research, contacts and rare footage that was shot by Earl Young. This footage will be digitized and seen for the first time in the documentary. Filming of home interiors was completed in September, 2014. The recent grant funding from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation helps to support digital restoration of this unusual footage of Earl Young's home movies to be used in the film. This historical, video footage will be preserved at the Charlevoix Historical Society's Museum at the Harsha House.

"We are very excited about the work being done for this film and its significance in bringing attention to and the importance of preserving these historical gems left to the Charlevoix community as the legacy of Earl Young," said Denise Fate, president of the Society. "This $5,500 grant, along with a similar one awarded from the CCCF for the production phase of the film in 2013, go a long way toward helping us achieve the funding required to create this film." Earl Young's homes have world-wide appeal with many visitors seeking to view and photograph these iconic structures. Brian Belanger, writer and director of the project, was recently asked why he chose this story for his latest project.

"I was inspired by the Earl Young homes when visiting Charlevoix just after sunset," Belanger said. "The Half House and Boulder Manor looked mysterious in that nebulous light. I had never seen anything like them before. I asked a friend who lives in Charlevoix about them, and thought about making a film on Earl Young and his creations. As I began doing research I became even more fascinated by Earl Young's personality."

"The Wizard of Boulder Park" is scheduled to be premiered at the Charlevoix Cinema III theater in June 2015 and will air on Public Broadcasting in Michigan following the premiere dates.

Ever-smiling 'Doc' Gels a staple around Charlevoix basketball

BRAD GUNN
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Rarely in life do you meet someone who has a smile on their face whenever you see them. No matter the time of day, they're always smiling. They live like each day is their best day. Day in, and day out. One person who lives by this unique standard is former Charlevoix assistant basketball coach "Doc" Gels.

Gels grew up in a town known for their sports teams. "I grew up in a little town in west central Ohio called Henry," Gels said. "It's a great little sports town — having won several high school basketball (boys and girls), football and other state championships over the years."

Gels has always been thankful for where he grew up as a kid.

"It was a great place to grow up, even though we thought it was boring at the time," Gels said. "We would go up and down the neighborhood putting together pickup games of baseball, football, and basketball, with no parents to bother us. I was a point guard in high school. Catcher in baseball." Gels had a few basketball players he idolized growing up.

"That's tough," Gels said. "I guess being from Ohio, my favorites were Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and the 'Big O' Oscar Robertson." It was in college when Gels saw his life really take shape.

"I went to Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, for four years of pre-med. I met my wife Carol there my senior year," Gels said. "Then I spent four years at Ohio State University College of Medicine, a year of internship at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, and then two years of Internal Medicine residency at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, and then to Charlevoix in 1975."

Gels owes becoming a doctor to his high school biology teacher. "My biology teacher, Ms. Winklejohn, was the one who suggested that I consider becoming a doctor," Gels mentioned. "It hit me out of the blue because back then all I was interested in were sports and girls — mostly sports. But I was a good student too, and she planted the seed, as there were no doctors in our family tree."

Coaching basketball was next on the agenda for Gels. "I started coaching youth basketball when my daughter, Sherry, was in sixth grade, and she liked playing," Gels said. "Rick and Nancy Grunch started up the Saturday rec-league girls youth basketball program. Rick and I then started the Charlevoix Northern Lakers AAU club which initially was girls basketball."

Working with the youth has meant a lot to Gels for many years.

"The kids keep me young. I love their energy and spirit," Gels said. "I have had the opportunity of seeing so many kids grow up from second graders in Saturday morning basketball camps, all the way through high school graduation and beyond."

The majority of graduates haven't forgot about the impact Gels has made in their life.

"Many graduates still come back, say 'hi' and are my friends," Gels said. "I truly believe I have gotten back a lot more than I have given over the years — many special memories."

Gels promotes others to volunteer and be a part of young peoples lives.

"I strongly advise anyone interested in volunteering and coaching to do it, even if it's been awhile since you played," Gels said. "Kids need us, but we also need them."

To any young basketball player, Gels knows what it takes to be the best player you can be.

"Be coachable. Work hard, work on fundamentals, footwork, ball-handling, dribbling, shooting, dribble moves, passing, etc.," Gels said. "Don't let it consume you; maintain balance. Always remember that it is just a game and it's supposed to be fun."

Gels discusses getting scholarships athletically, compared to academically.

"Don't believe that you will get a scholarship to play in college, it's very hard and not always much fun," Gels added. "If you want a scholarship, study hard and get good grades."

Making relationships through basketball has made all of this worth it for Gels.

"By far the best thing about coaching all these years are the many wonderful people you meet and get to know — coaches, players, parents, fans, etc.," Gels said. "My closest friends have been Keith Haske and Bret Erskine. Keith invited me on as an assistant, first CHARLEVOIX — It's amazing how things can change in a week.

Just last Monday, the Harbor Springs girls basketball team was stuck in the LMC basement and hadn't won a game in over a month.

Now, after following up a blowout win over Northport on Wednesday by stunning LMC co-leader Charlevoix on the road in a 51-49 thriller, the Rams are looking like one of the hottest teams in the area.

"We went a month without a win, and while we played some good teams during that stretch, it was still tough for us," Harbor Springs coach Tom Brogger said. "To get a couple of wins in a row and get past that stretch is huge for this team's confidence."

Harbor Springs felled Charlevoix on the back of its free-throw shooting.

The Rams went 13 of 18 from the line in a 19-point fourth quarter to go from five points behind entering the final period to a five-point lead with two minutes to play.

And despite a late Rayder run to get back in it, made free throws from Shallon Grawey, Perry Bower and Haley Rushing in the final two minutes gave the Rams just enough to hold on.

"In a situation like that, you're just trying to block everything out, go through your routine and not think about it too much," Brogger CHARLEVOIX — All season long, the Charlevoix boys basketball team has had no trouble scoring points.

On Friday, the Rayder defense finally caught up to its offense, and the result was Charlevoix's first win of the season, a 61-37 victory over visiting Harbor Springs.

After giving up an average of 71.2 points per game in its first five contests, all losses, Charlevoix held Harbor Springs scoreless for the first seven minutes of the game, and to just 11 points at the half in what was their best defensive performance of the season to date.

"We spent a lot of time over break working on defense, and then after (Tuesday's loss to) Cedarville, we sat down and really broke down that film," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "We saw that a lot of our problems defensively were coming from our positioning, and we worked on correcting that in practice."

"Tonight, I thought most of our players were in the right defensive position for the situation all night, and they were able to deal with everything they saw."

The Rayders came out and hit Harbor Springs with aggressive pressure up and down the court defensively in the first quarter, and the Rams struggled to adapt, turning the ball over several times and failing to create open shots.

By the time the Rams began to adjust to the pressure and create scoring chances in the second quarter, they were behind by 20 points and with no easy way back.

"I'll give Charlevoix credit, they came out very aggressively on defense and, as a young team, we didn't handle it well," Harbor Springs coach Adam Wood said. "I think we panicked a little bit early and played too passively in the first quarter, and it seemed like it took us a quarter to really adjust to the speed of the game."

"I thought we did play better as the game went on, but

Rayders leave with Onaway tournament with momentum

DREW HICKEY
(231) 439-9045
dhickey@petoskeynews.com

ONAWAY — The Charlevoix wrestling team traveled to the annual Dick Dunn Memorial tournament on Saturday, where a number of Rayders brought in wins and success on the mat.

Once again leading the Rayders on the day was senior Sam Hovie, who earlier this season brought in his 100th high school victory.

On Saturday, Hovie, wrestling at 160 pounds, earned a first place finish in the tournament, along with Rayder teammates Devin Largent and Spencer Bruce, in the 215 and heavyweight classes, respectively.

Bringing in second place for the Rayders, Camden Alden at 125 pounds and Tyler McCallum at 130 pounds finished as the runners-up on the day.

Charlevoix would have a number of wrestlers take in third place finishes, including Jeremy Chernauckas, 103; Elliot Bartelli, 135; Malcom Williams, 145; Justin Adkins, 140; and Jake Seger, 171.

Charlevoix will next take to the mat on Tuesday, Jan. 20, when they travel to Traverse City St. Francis for a Lake Michigan Conference tri-meet against both St. Francis and Elk Rapids.

Injury mars key battle with Grayling

BOYNE CITY — It's every coach, parent and wrestler's worst nightmare.

Charlevoix's Camden Alden (back) runs the power half on Munising's Christian Cole during Saturday's tournament in Onaway. Alden finish as a runner-up in the 125 division.

And unfortunately, it's the way a dramatic dual between LMC co-favorites Charlevoix and Grayling came to a close on Wednesday night in Boyne City.

With the Rayders trailing 39-33 heading into the final match and needing a pin to keep hope of a victory alive, sophomore and 103-pounder Jordan Chernauckas was wrestling well, building a 9-0 lead and nearly pinning opponent Tim Burr of Grayling twice in the first two periods.

But with 1:34 to go in the third period, while trying to escape Burr's grasp, Chernauckas badly dislocated his elbow after an awkward fall, bringing an abrupt end to the match.

Chernauckas was taken to the hospital from the Boyne City gym.

"We're hoping it's just dislocated and there's a chance that he can come back this year, but it's too early to say," Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle said. "He's a great kid; when I got over there (after the injury) he was more concerned about the match and the fact he couldn't wrestle for his teammates than the fact he was hurt."

"The fact that he'd be thinking about his teammates in an extreme situation like that tells you what kind of a kid he is, and we really hope he's OK."

It was a difficult ending to what had been a classic match between the two teams that split the Lake Michigan Conference title last season.

Jordan's brother Jeremy Chernauckas opened the match with a second-period pin at 1:12 to spark the Rayders, and Tyler McCallum (130) and Sam Hovie (160) also pinned their Grayling opponents.

Down 39-24 heading into the final three matches, Charlevoix's Devin Largent (215) won a 14-7 decision and Spencer Bruce (285) pinned his opponent to give the Rayders a chance to tie heading into the final match.

Grayling ended up winning 45-33 after the injury default at 103.

"We had a plan for what it would take to win this match heading in, and guys wrestled really well," Hinkle said. "We knew we'd need a couple of wrestlers beating guys they'd lost to earlier in the season, and we had some guys step up big."

"This is the first time all season we've been healthy enough to field our full lineup, and it really shows what we're capable of doing when we put everything together."

Earlier in the night, Charlevoix beat Kalkaska 60-24 in another LMC dual.

Hovie and McCallum each pinned their opponents in under a minute to finish undefeated on the night, and Cam Alden, Elliott Bartelli, Miles Windon and Mick Hinkle also pinned their opponents in under a minute for wins as well.

Sports writer James Gensterblum contributed to this report.

with the girls, and then also with the boys. We have shared so many great memories over the years."

Gels has all-and-all been around special people in his life. Two more of them are current head basketball coaches at their respectable schools, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs.

"Bret Erskine is also my special friend. Bret, (yes I know he yells a little at times because of his great passion for the game) is one of the kindest, caring, most generous men I have ever met," Gels said. "I have also had the good fortune of working with Adam Wood for a few years. Adam is an upstanding, outstanding, young man, a great role model for students, and he really knows and loves basketball."

Gels has been doing what he loves for many years.

"I have been coaching about 25 years including youth level and the high school level," Gels said. "Being an assistant high school coach is great — you get to have all the fun and don't have to deal with the problems."

Things in Gels life that he would've done differently up to now might shock some of you.

"I still look forward to each day, and seeing what comes. There are still pars and birdies to be made," Gels said.

"But of course, I have regrets of not being nicer and more considerate, being self-centered, being a better husband, a better dad, etc. But we're all human — just say a prayer and keep trying. But major decisions — marriage, having kids, becoming a doctor, coaching basketball, playing golf. No regrets. Except there was this one game when I think I should have called a time-out."

Spending time with his family, living in Charlevoix, are all things Gels is fortunate to have in his life.

"I have been so blessed all these years with my wonderful wife, Carol, and our kids, Sherry and Andy," Gels said. "To have lived so many years in such a great place as Charlevoix — even though the locals will never consider me a 'native' — of course. I have known many patients that became my friends over the years, and have worked with many doctors, nurses and employees at the hospital that are my friends."

we have to play a lot better out of the gate if we want to have a chance in games."

Offensively, Charlevoix once again took advantage of a balanced effort that saw nine players score and three finish with double digits.

Junior Austin Putman led the Rayders with 14 points, and senior Nate Moon and sophomore Kevin Pearl each chipped in 10.

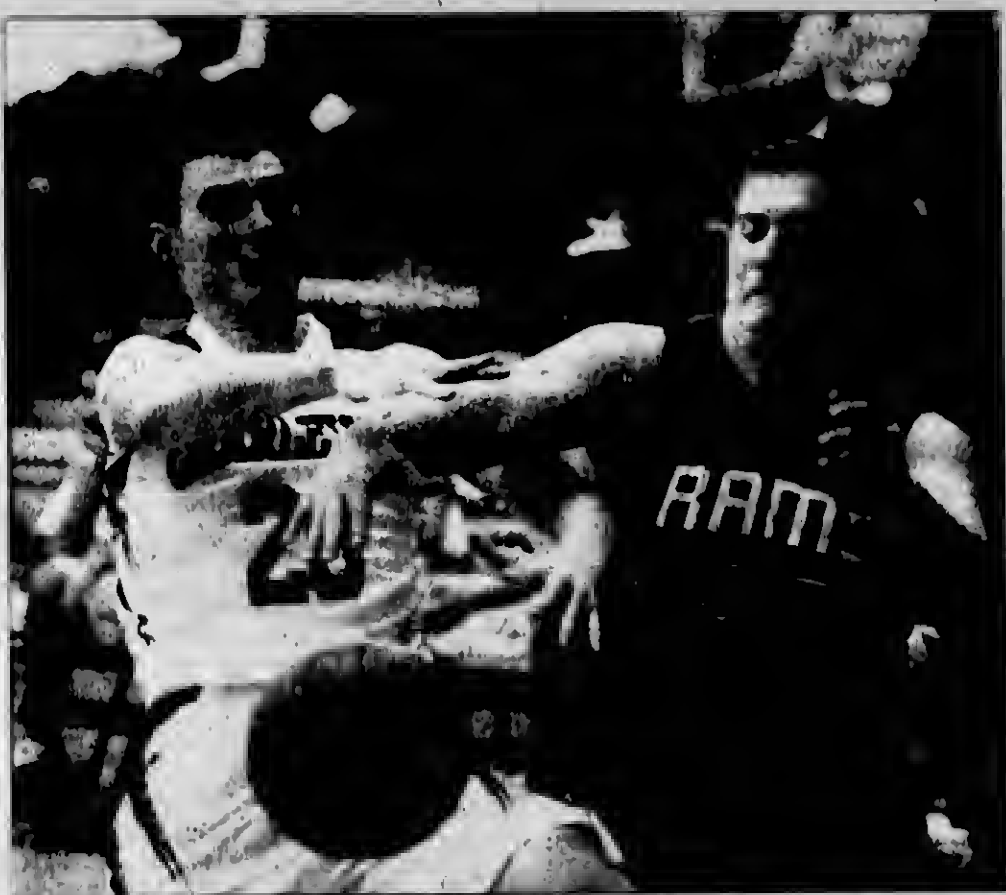

Junior Walker Drost added eight and Kenen Borths seven for Charlevoix.

"The coaches are always telling us to keep the ball moving and to keep working for a good shot, whether it's through the pass or off the dribble," Putman said. "We work hard to create open looks, and we've got a lot of guys on this team with the confidence to knock it down if they're open."

Junior Michael Erxleben had a strong game off the bench to lead Harbor Springs in scoring with 10 points, and junior Mark Leonard chipped in eight.

Freshman Joe Claramunt added seven for the Rams, and junior Mitch Hoffman and sophomore Noah Erxleben each finished with six for Harbor Springs, which struggled with the absence of Jack Carter, the team's lone returning starter from last season, because of injury.

"Part of it is just as coaches making sure we're continuing to develop our players and staying patient with them as they continue to grow and get better," Wood said. "When we did a good job with our defensive positioning, I thought we were able to get some stops, and that's something we can build on heading into the next game."

Charlevoix senior Nate Moon (left) and Harbor Springs junior Michael Erxleben battle for a rebound during the Rayders' 61-37 win over Harbor Springs on Friday night.

Charlevoix (1-5, 1-2 LMC) is hoping to build off Friday's momentum after suffering through a five-game losing streak to start the season that included close losses to the top-ranked team in Class D, Cedarville, and the third-ranked team in Class C, East Jordan.

"We knew we were playing good basketball, but any time you go through a stretch like that, you get a little down and start doubting yourself a little bit," Putman said. "To get a win tonight and get out of that is huge, and gives us a lot of momentum going forward for the rest of the year."

Charlevoix led at each quarter break which included at halftime, 27-20.

"We came out in the first half, strong," Erskine said. "They (Grayling) pressed and forced some turnovers, but we kept our composure and fought through it."

Grayling closed the gap at the end of third quarter, 37-32.

The Rayders would outscore the Vikings, 23-19 in the fourth for the win.

For Grayling, Scout Tohin scored a game high 16 points, and Darrin Nicholas added 13 points.

Charlevoix improved to 2-5 overall, 2-2 in league. The Rayders will travel to T.C. St. Francis on Saturday, Jan. 24.

SKI TEAM

Rayders compete at LMC ski meet

BELLAIRE — There's really no shortage of high school skiing talent in Northern Michigan.

Thursday in Bellaire, there was proof of that.

A number of area Lake Michigan Conference ski schools took to Schuss Mountain for their first conference ski meet of the season, one in which the Harbor Springs girls' team was on full display.

The Harbor girls' team got off to a fine start to the season at their dual hosted meet with Petoskey earlier in the month, then turned in two first place finishes on Thursday.

In giant slalom, Harbor placed first overall with 19 total points, as five Rams placed within the top five.

Following Harbor, Boyne City placed second with 32, Elk Rapids/Traverse City St. Francis took third with 53; Charlevoix, fourth, 58; followed by Grayling.

Charlevoix was led by Abbey Scholten in third place with a 59.16 combined score, Kyle Scholten took 15th; Grace Ochs, 18th; Madison Olach, 22nd; Desiree Vill, 23rd; and Sarah Rockafellow, 31st.

In Slalom, the Harbor girls' team placed first once again, earning 18 points, followed by Elk/St. Francis, 31; Charlevoix, 64; Boyne City, 68; and Grayling.

For Charlevoix, Abbey Scholten placed first overall in 1:21.12; Kyle Scholten, 18th; Grace Ochs, 20th; and Desiree Vill, 25th.

On the boys' side, Elk/St. Francis took first in giant slalom, just edging out the Harbor Springs boys' team with a 21 to 20 finish.

Grayling took third with 52 points, Boyne City, fourth, 66; and Charlevoix, fifth, 92.

Charlevoix was led by Ben Peterson in 18th; Braadon Clark, 23rd; Ben Boss, 25th; Hayden Dvoracek, 26th; Walker Fogle, 27th; and Hunter Cox, 31st.

The boys' slalom event would also go to Elk/St. Francis, as they led with 23.5 points. Grayling took second with 40.5; Boyne City, third, 43; Harbor Springs, 50; and Charlevoix, 64.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

id. "I was really proud of the way our players walked up to the line and hit some really important shots down the stretch."

Charlevoix had a chance to win or force overtime in the final 10 seconds, but missed a 3-pointer and a putback attempt to seal the win for the Rams.

"We had our chances down the stretch, but Harbor Springs made free throws and we didn't," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "Our effort and heart were there tonight, but our free throws weren't and it cost us."

Harbor Springs hit the ground running early, jumping out to a 9-2 lead halfway through the first quarter.

But Charlevoix caught up to the Rams by the end of the first quarter, and led by as many as eight points in the second and third quarters.

Senior Olivia Storm led the Rayders with 12 first-half points and finished with 16 points and seven rebounds on the night.

Harbor Springs hung around thanks to a balanced scoring attack, led by Grawey's 14. Harmony Lang chipped in 12 for the Rams, Bower added nine and Rushing finished with seven.

"Earlier in the season, we just weren't executing and creating the good shots we really felt we were capable of getting," Brogger said. "Tonight wasn't a perfectly clean game by any means, but the execution was much better in the half court."

The Rams battled foul trouble in the post all night, but got big performances from Lang and Libby Sylvain off the bench to power through it.

Sylvain hit a putback with 7:10 to go in the fourth that gave Harbor Springs its first lead since the first quarter, and was a big confidence boost for the Rams, Brogger said.

"When Libby hit that putback, I think that was the biggest shot this season in the eyes of our team," Brogger said. "It gave us the lead late after being way down, and our team really gained a lot of confidence from coming back like that."

Hannah Zipp added nine points and seven rebounds for Charlevoix in the loss, Ellie Way chipped in eight points, three steals and three assists, and Alexis Tribelfner added six points, five steals and nine assists.

Grayling 52, Charlevoix 37

GRAYLING — Host Grayling built an early lead and never fell behind to beat Charlevoix 52-37 on Tuesday.

Olivia Storm led Charlevoix with 14 points and four steals in the loss, and Beth Veenstra chipped in seven points and six rebounds.

Rachel Nesburg finished with six points for the Rayders, Alexis Tribelfner added six rebounds, and Ellie Way chipped in three assists.

In the JV game, Charlevoix won 33-23 over Grayling, led by Isabel Hess' 10 points and six steals.

Natalie Nesburg added six points and eight steals for the Rayders, and Olivia Jeakle chipped in five points.

Charlevoix (4-5, 2-2 LMC) travels to Traverse City St. Francis on Saturday, Jan. 24, for its next game.

Sports writer Kurt Grangood contributed to this story.

Charlevoix senior Alexis Tribelfner lines up a 3-point shot during the Rayders' 51-49 loss to visiting Harbor Springs on Friday.

Diocese of Gaylord

Diocese of Gaylord Catholic Schools MISSION STATEMENT

The Catholic Schools of the Diocese of Gaylord will work together to provide a faith-centered Catholic Education rooted in the Gospel Message and evidenced in Worship of God, and Works of service to others.

The mission and intent of Catholic schools in the Diocese of Gaylord is to provide a distinctly Catholic education and an environment with the highest standards of academic excellence for all who participate in the life of our school communities. As we look to the future of our Catholic schools, we must remember the words of Jesus as He sent His disciples into the world to "go and teach" and to "make disciples of all nations...teaching them to observe all I have commanded you."

St. Mary School PHILOSOPHY

St. Mary Catholic School is a Faith Community — students, parents, staff, parishioners and friends. Teachers, in partnership with parents, are dedicated to providing the spiritual and academic development of each child.

Each person is a child of God, a unique and gifted individual. The curriculum is designed to nurture creativity, academic excellence, and spiritual, physical and emotional growth.

We instill responsibility, respect and compassion for all people. We are committed to making our students aware of social issues while providing the foundation and experiences necessary to be living examples of the Gospel.

St. Mary School MISSION STATEMENT

The St. Mary Catholic School community empowers students to grow spiritually, academically, artistically, and physically so they may experience, understand and live their responsibilities to God, family, community and self.

Catholic Schools Week

Theme: Catholic Schools: Communities of Faith, Knowledge and Service.

Key elements of Catholic education are faith development, academic excellence, and dedication to service. These elements set St. Mary School apart from other educational options. These are reasons why families make sacrifices to provide their children with a Catholic education.

CHARLEVOIX — On Sunday, Jan. 25, the Charlevoix Middle-High School hosted aspiring young performers in the annual Charlevoix's Got Talent show.

The 17 acts performing that afternoon didn't just become as polished as they were by chance. The hopeful efforts of the young performers were the culmination of weeks of practice, in the school halls, in the dance studios and music rooms, in bedrooms and basements and living rooms all around town. Played to friends, family and probably the bathroom mirror, with the encouragement of parents,

Mother remembers daughter as the 'little bit extra' that made life special

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Friends and family members filled the Way family home during the week after news spread of the tragic loss of their 27-year-old daughter, Kari.

Kari Anne Way lost her life in a boating accident off the coast of Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands on Saturday, Jan. 24.

Way's mother, Kris, describes her daughter, as the "little bit extra" that made life special.

"She was a breath of fresh air," Kris said, holding back her tears. "She was the sprinkles on my ice cream. The Cool Whip to my life. She was the spark plug that would make things go and a bright light that was extinguished far too soon."

Born and raised in Charlevoix, and a 2005 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Kari will be best remembered for her love of water and her hometown of Charlevoix, Kris said.

"Kari grew up on the water," Kris said. "Kari and her cousins spent endless hours, at their grandparents home on Lake Charlevoix, playing kickball and volleyball."

In high school, Kari was known as a fierce competitor on the volleyball and basketball courts, said family friend, Lisa Carlson.

"She had a love of sports and she excelled in sports," Carlson said. "She was always setting an example during practices and she made it fun when she was competing. She always had a smile on her face even if it was a tough game. Kari would come out smiling. She always put everything she had into everything she did."

Her love for the community extended beyond her athleticism. She loved her community and she promoted Charlevoix wherever she was, Kris said. In 2005, Kari was crowned Miss Charlevoix Venetian Queen.

"She was always interested in what was going on in the community," Kris said. "Her love for Charlevoix was in her essay she wrote that won her Venetian Queen. She was an inspiration to this city and she left an impact on residents' lives and the boaters who visited here. She was a light to us and others."

Keeping promises
DDA approves plan to fund library pledgeLONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Downtown Development Authority board approved a plan to fulfill its $600,000 pledge to the Charlevoix Public Library, but the plan seems to have stipulations.

It appears that most members of the DDA will agree to not fund the library, if the Charlevoix City Council does not approve paying 25 percent of the salary for a future full-time DDA director in its 2015-16 budget. City council is currently reviewing the proposed budget for 2015-16.

DDA chair Daniel Barron read a letter from absent board member Kirby Dipert at a recent authority meeting. Dipert wrote he believes the DDA should begin funding the library again.

"Upon researching and discussions with both parties involved it is my opinion we fulfill the pledge to the library," Dipert wrote.

Dipert proposes in his letter that the money come from the lease payments of Charlevoix Brewing Company. That amount would be $15,000, and would show good faith while fulfilling the DDA's ability to make bond payments, according to Dipert.

Barron said Dipert's library proposal was sound and he is supportive of a plan to fund the library. However, Barron and other DDA members want to wait and see what city council members will do during their budgeting process after earlier comments from board member Mayor Gabe Campbell on the hiring a new DDA director.

Campbell said city council is still considering the budget for that position. He suggested there is no need for a full-time DDA director, but Barron and other board members disagree.

According to Barron the DDA director of the past could be paid Township board forms tax abatement district, approves redevelopment plan for St. Marys Cement

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX TWP. — The Charlevoix Township board unanimously approved three resolutions that would give tax breaks to St. Marys Cement for a period of 12 years, during a special meeting on Monday.

The resolutions will create an Industrial Development District, allow for a tax abatement and create a brownfield redevelopment plan for St. Marys in their expansion and modernization plan for their plant in Northern Michigan.

Before the vote, JoAnne Beemon, township resident and chair of Friends of Fisherman's Island State Park shared her concerns about the project with members of the township board.

In her statement to township officials, Beemon wanted to know if the demolition of buildings would have any impact on the users of Fisherman's Island and if production would increase by 40 percent, then where would the limestone sources come from?

"It is the responsibility of the elected leaders to ask these questions," Beemon said. "We want assurances that the company will not take the property of the state park to cover its need of limestone for its increased production."

Bill Henne, president of WATCH Inc. — Water and Air team for Charlevoix — also had concerns about the increased plant production and the impact on the area sur-

Judges for the competition, Chris Dominic, Charlie Witthoef and Holly Keller, musicians and performers in their own right, had their work cut out for them in choosing winners at the conclusion of the show. After tallying results they agreed First Place should be awarded to 10th-grader, Jacob Archey, and 12th-grader, Zack Crandell, students of Charlevoix High School, who performed a vocal and guitar duet, "Broken."

Second place went to sixth-grader, Autumn Graham, and seventh-grader, Makayla Clees, who performed a spirited dance routine to Pharell Williams' hit song, "Happy." In Third Place, 10th-grade student Jomar Williams, let out all the stoppers in his expertly executed break dance routine to Shawn Mendes' "Something Big."

In addition, sixth-grader Avery McCreadie was honored with the People's Choice Award for her vocal solo of "Colors of the Wind" from the movie Pocahontas, and the "Rising Star Award" went to sixth-grade pianist, Brandon Schwenke, who masterfully performed a piano medley including, "Star Wars," main theme, "Raiders March," from Indiana Jones, "Fur Elise" and "Linus and Lucy."

First case of measles in Michigan reported for 2015

LANSING — The Michigan Department of Community Health has confirmed Michigan's first measles case of 2015. Michigan is now one of seven states reporting the disease, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The case involves an adult in Oakland County, and may be associated with the recent Disneyland outbreak in California, but an exact connection has not yet been determined.

"As we are seeing with the recent outbreak in California, measles is a highly communicable disease that can affect both children and adults," said Dr. Matthew Davis, chief medical executive with the Michigan Department of Community Health. "The best way to protect our families and communities against measles is to get vaccinated."

Measles is a vaccine-preventable respiratory infection that can result in hospitalization, pneumonia, encephalitis and death. The illness initially presents with a high fever, red eyes, cough, runny nose, photophobia and is followed by a red, raised body rash starting on the head and face that then progresses to the rest of the body. Because measles is highly communicable, vaccination is the best line of defense, and successful prevention and control requires high levels of immunity in all communities.

Michigan Department of Community Health continues to coordinate with local health departments to monitor any potential secondary cases in individuals who may have been exposed to the initial case in Oakland County. Individuals may be contagious for a few days before they present symptoms, which increases the potential of exposing others to the infection.

Last year, there were a total of five measles cases in Michigan. From 2001-2012, the average number of measles cases reported nationally per year was about 60. According to the Centers for Disease Control, last year there were 644 cases in the United States, and the vast majority of cases were among persons who had no history of vaccination against measles. There have been more than 50 cases reported nationally so far in 2015.

The measles vaccine is highly effective and very safe. Adults who do not have evidence of immunity against measles should get at least one dose of the vaccine. The first of two routine childhood measles vaccine doses is given at 12 months of age. For international travel, infants as young as 6 months should be vaccinated against measles. The vaccination, or documentation of immunity to measles, is recommended for all persons traveling internationally.

Organizers prepare for first Shadow Fest

Winter event presents new spin on Groundhog Day

LONGIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Most everyone knows about Punxsutawney Phil the legendary groundhog in Punxsutawney, Pa., who emerges on Feb. 2 — Groundhog Day. According to legend, if Phil sees his shadow and returns to his hole, he has predicted six more weeks of winter-like weather. If Phil does not see his shadow, he has predicted an early spring. Regardless of whether Phil does see or doesn't see his shadow that weekend, downtown Charlevoix will be the location of Groundhog Shadow Fest.

Shadow Fest scheduled for Friday, Feb. 6 through Sunday, Feb. 8, will feature a weekend full of entertainment and activities. The event kicks off at 4 p.m. on Friday, at the Cinema III, with a free showing of the movie "Groundhog Day." There also will be horse-drawn wagon rides each night beginning at 6 p.m. On Saturday, Feb. 7, East Park will have an activities tent, euchre tournaments, and many kids activities.

"Our main focus is to have a festival in the winter to bring people to downtown Charlevoix," said Tim Fore, event organizer. "We want people to know our downtown community is here year-round. Our retail stores, bars and restaurants are open and Charlevoix is alive in the winter."

Since Thanksgiving, local businesses have handed out more than 3,000 postcards inviting people to come and celebrate Shadow Fest in Charlevoix.

The weekend event will offer fun for the entire family. There also will be prize giveaways for each child, Fore said.

"It's going to be a weekend of family fun," he said. "There will be something for everyone. We've got a magician and there will be kids games in the park, along with other activities for children at the library."

The entire event is patterned after the Groundhog Day event in Pennsylvania. Organizers plan to hold the event, each year, on the weekend following Groundhog Day, Fore said.

"We are six weeks out after the holidays and people are looking for something to do," Fore said. "Why not downtown and this event encourages all businesses to participate."

People also can get their picture taken with Chester or Chelsie the groundhog. Chester is stuffed and doesn't move much, but Chelsie will be walking around greeting attendees on Saturday. Fore wanted to have a live groundhog for the event, but that proved to be more difficult than he expected.

I have searched as far away as Texas to find a groundhog for our festival, but I had no luck," Fore said. "I inquired about getting Punxsutawney Phil, but in order for him to leave the state it takes about eighth months to get approval from the Department of Agriculture."

To get people who are attending Shadow Fest to visit the local businesses, event organizers have designed a card that has the names of each business participating in the festival listed on it. People will be encouraged to go in to the businesses to get their card marked. Once a card is completed attendees can return the card to be entered in a drawing for $250 of Charlevoix bucks, Fore said.

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce also is helping to promote the event.

"Tim has done an amazing job of bringing his idea for this event to life," said Alison Hubbard, chamber president. "The chamber has partnered with Tim from inception to offer in-kind services in the form of marketing and promotion to support this off season event. Community events like these, held in our shoulder season, encourage guests to stay beyond an event to shop, dine and further explore the Charlevoix area."

Cre8tive Cupcakes and Johan's bakery are expected to have specials and groundhog shaped desserts for sale. There also will be a beer tent and local restaurants will be judged on the best chili in the area. The Petoskey steel drum band will play from 5-7 p.m. on Saturday and a euchre tournament will take place.

"It will be really interesting to watch the cold butt euchre challenge," Fore said. "There are 16 teams that will sit on blocks of ice outside and play euchre. That should be fun to watch these people play cards without any heaters of any type."

Lovers of spirits also can try each local bar and pub's very own groundhog cocktail creation. Judges will go to each bar downtown to taste each cocktail before voting for the best Shadow Fest adult beverage.

"It will be like a pub crawl on Saturday night," Fore said. "The winner will get a trophy to display. It should be a great time for everyone who attends."

"Frozen"-themed event planned for Saturday

CHARLEVOIX — Parents and children will have the chance to build a snowman and enjoy other winter activities during a "Frozen"-themed event on Saturday at the Castle.

The Snowman Wonderland Story Time event will take place from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Jan. 31, and will offer snowman making, story time, interactive trains, along with some hot chocolate and cupcakes from Cre8tive Cupcakes. Attendees also will have the opportunity to explore the castle after story time.

The event is $5 per person and free for children ages 2 and younger. Story time will take place in the Queen's Tavern, while the snowman adventure will take place outdoors near Norm the Dragon, said Charlynn McBee, Castle Farms tour director, adding Norm is a favorite sight for visiting children.

"As a mom, I am always thinking about different activities to do with my children during the winter," McBee said. "Story time is a great way to showcase the castle and let people know there are fun things to do year-round with their children at a reasonable price."

When people arrive they will have the opportunity to enter in a drawing to take home their very own Olaf and storybook. There will be bins of coal, sticks, and carrots, so each child will have everything they need to create their very own Olaf.

"We also will have gloves and scarves to put on your snowman," McBee said.

If the weather does not reach snowman making temperatures, there still will be plenty to do, McBee said.

"We have planned crafts and other activities in the event children are unable to make a snowman," she said.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or online through the Castle's Gift Shop at shop.castlefarm.com.

For more information, call McBee at (231) 237-0884, ext. 224.

LETTERS to the editor

Thank you to the Charlevoix community

The Elowsky and Radke-Brandt families would like to extend our sincere appreciation to the many friends, family and community members who have uplifted our spirits by your efforts through this very difficult time surrounding the death of our daughters, Carolena Elowsky and Maura Brandt. This is not an all-inclusive list — rather a humble attempt to thank the army of individuals and groups who came together to produce a phenomenal celebration of their lives in a matter of about two stormy winter days.

Thanks to the:
Charlevoix Public Schools — Mrs. Klinger, Mrs. Barnum and the AV technical crew, Mrs. Holmes, the building trades class, friends who donated trays of delicious desserts for the reception. To the many volunteers who helped arrange the sea of gorgeous cut flowers on display in the commons area, the hallway and the auditorium. Thanks also to folks who transported flowers from our homes to the high school.

St. Mary's Church including: Father Matthew Wigton; Mary Plude; Rita McIntyre, pianist; the choir members; Eucharistic Ministers; and the numerous altar servers and ushers. Their orchestration of the memorial celebration, prayers and support continue to help both families with the grieving process.

The memorial service participants — Carolena and Maura's high school classmates, their MSU roommates Dianna and Alex, sorority Kappa Kappa Gamma and special thanks to our speakers Wil Cwikiel and Chip Hansen.

We wish to express our gratitude to the organizers of the memorial hallway located in downtown Charlevoix, adjacent to the Berkshire Hathaway Realty office, where friends and family could express their condolences at any hour of the day or night. The photos and tender moments with Carolena and Maura shared there brought comfort to many.

A special thanks to Rik Lobenhertz, John Murray, Mitts Lee, The MacDougall Bed and Breakfast, Bill Shuiling, Ron Braniecki and the many others who offered overnight accommodations for our out of town guests and family members.

For the Facebook page "Charlevoix Strong" organizers and the wonderful pictures, memories, poetry and support from all participants. The constant commentary on the process of remembering our daughters touches our hearts and helps the entire community in a continuing healing process.

We are grateful for the professional services provided by Winchester Funeral Home in the handling of details and coordination of the memorial celebration. Thanks for the additional assistance and arrangements provided by John Jarema, Sheriff Schneider and Chuck Vondra.

We extend our gratitude to the Romano family for the exceptionally tasty and lovingly prepared buffet dinner supplied by Grey Gables, hosted by Castle Farms and served by St. Mary's Church members following the memorial celebration. It sustained many friends and relatives, some who needed to continue immediately with travel plans to return home to places near and far.

To our friends and neighbors that provided support, food, lodging and transportation to and from airports for family members.

As we painfully try to make sense of our lives without Maura and Carolena, we thank you for the outpouring of support offered by so many people willing to help. We feel blessed to live in such a caring, loving community.

— The Elowsky and Radke-Brandt families.

FOIA reform measure adds much transparency

THE MICHIGAN JOURNAL (Marquette), Jan. 21.

Holding Michigan government more accountable just got a bit easier.

Gov. Rick Snyder recently signed into law HB 4001, which creates the most significant reform in Michigan's Freedom of Information Act since it was originally crafted in 1976 in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Basically, the state's FOIA allows the public to access certain public records. It also is an essential tool of a free press.

The Michigan Press Association, not surprisingly, was pleased about the FOIA reform bill. MPA Public Policy Committee chairman Dirk Millman said it addresses the two biggest concerns expressed by its members over FOIA in the state: costs and delays.

The bill, according to the MPA, will provide a more consistent cost structure and require more accountability from government by requiring itemization of costs when billing to fill a request.

Should entities not respond in a timely manner, they will have to lower fees they are charging by 10 percent each day the request isn't filled up to 50 percent.

Snyder said HB 4001 eliminates potential hurdles faced by some looking for records.

The North Wind, an independent student publication at Northern Michigan University, recently faced some of those hurdles. The newspaper had made a FOIA request, after which NMU invited North Wind staff to visually inspect 9,000 pages of computer serial numbers and data.

The inspection, NMU said, could have prevented an administrative employee from spending numerous hours copying and scanning pages. The North Wind declined the invitation.

After requesting emails sent by university administrators and general counsel, NMU sent The North Wind a bill for $613, which it later pared to $300.

NMU eventually waived the NMU charge, with President Fritz Erickson asking the requested materials be provided to The North Wind as soon as possible and within the required time.

The university, in a prepared statement, said it's important it demonstrates a commitment to an "open and transparent administration" and to establish "positive, working relationships."

The FOIA reform law that was recently passed could help avoid further scenarios as it sets fee limits, establishes an appeals process for fees and creates procedures for responding to and declining requests.

FOIA was created to make the government and public entities more accountable, and HB 4001 takes it a step further. The new law, therefore, is something to be applauded, both by the press and the public it serves.

Education is key to acceptance

Editor:

Homosexuality is an uncomfortable topic. Those who are heterosexual have not experienced what it is like to be attracted to someone of the same sex, or what it feels like to not identify with their birth sex. The unknown can be difficult to grasp, especially when it is outside of our comfort zone.

It's far past time to get uncomfortable.

Leshian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) youth are four times more likely to attempt suicide as compared to their straight peers. With each instance of verbal or physical harassment, the risk of self-harm among LGBT youth is two and half times more likely. 42 percent of LGBT youth have said the community in which they live is not accepting of LGBT people, while 82 percent report problems with bullying because of their sexual orientation.

Have I made you uncomfortable yet?

While different sources report different statistics, the consensus is undisputed: LGBT children face a wealth of issues based on something as simple as who they are attracted to. This is not a same-sex marriage or religion debate; this is about the children of Northern Michigan and their health.

The culture needs to change concerning the LGBT community and it is everyone's responsibility to bring about this change. No child should be bullied, or feel like their home and communities are unsafe places, or question their self-worth. We all accept these to be true, yet why aren't we addressing the root of these problems?

It's time to educate ourselves and our children about LGBT issues. It's time to take a stand against bullying of all forms, including of sexual orientation. It's time to make Northern Michigan a place where everyone can be themselves, whatever that may be.

It's time to get uncomfortable.

Visiting the Charlevoix Secretary of the State office

Editor:

In addition to all of their responsibilities, Secretary of State staff ask each patron if they want to be on the Organ Donor Registry. This month Michigan reached a new milestone with 50 percent of Michigan adults now on the Michigan Donor Registry. Five years ago that number was only 27 percent.

As an organ recipient, I was asked by the Gift of Life Michigan to visit the Secretary of State Office. I wanted to personally thank the clerks and manager for their efforts to sign people up on the registry. Signing people up saves lives.

However, even with the successes noted above, there are still 3,425 people waiting for life-saving transplants. I know people who have received transplants and I know people who have died waiting. Nearly 300 people will die in Michigan this year because enough people are not, yet, on the registry.

If you are signed up on the registry, thank you. Maybe you can encourage friends or co-workers to sign up. Each person who signs up to the registry can help save up to nine lives. How amazing to have part of your legacy that you have saved the lives of others.

We need to encourage churches and all religions to support organ donations, along with our local service clubs to become more involved with organ donation drives.

You can make a difference. If you see staff from the Secretary of the State Office, tell them thank you.

Respectfully,
Jerry Leismer
Boyne City

LOOKING BACK...

The winter of 1917-18 saw the completion of most of the buildings at Loeb Farm two miles south of Charlevoix. The estate was built by Sears Roebuck vice-president Albert Loeb, seen here in the courtyard of his new, almost finished 12-bedroom mansion about a mile east of the farm buildings that now comprise Castle Farms on M-66.

The complex was modeled after a northern French agricultural chateau and built of local field stone. Loeb only had six years to enjoy his creation. His third son, Richard, was involved in the Loeb-Leopold thrill killing of 14-year-old Bobby Franks in Chicago in May of 1924, a "Crime of the Century" that gripped the nation like a vise. Loeb had suffered a heart attack just prior to the crime, and did not attend the quickly held trial in which the accused were defended by legendary attorney Clarence Darrow. Darrow argued vehemently against the death penalty, and succeeded with the result of the famous verdict "life plus 99 years."

Loeb brought Darrow to Charlevoix in September right after the trial to get both of them away from Chicago's tabloid frenzy. He presented Darrow with the check for defending the young men, the other being Nathan Leopold, in the rear of Fessenden's Drug Store, located where the Berkshire Hathaway realty company is now at Bridge Street and Park Avenue. Loeb died of heart failure the following month, in October of 1924.

Watershed council, foundation offer Lake Charlevoix Permit Guide

CHARLEVOIX — A Property Owners' Permit guide is now available for residents, local officials and development community within the Lake Charlevoix Watershed. The permit guide was produced by Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council with funding provided by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

According to Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, actions in and around the Lake Charlevoix Watershed can have direct, and often times adverse, impacts on the natural resources. For this reason, policies have been adopted at the federal, state and local levels that regulate certain activities to assure that local waterways are not only protected, but improved over time. These laws protect water quality, limit erosion, conserve wildlife and vegetation and preserve the natural beauty of the Lake Charlevoix Watershed.

Working through the maze of government regulations can certainly be confusing and overwhelming for many property owners, but it is critical to ensure our natural resources are protected for future generations. By providing a comprehensive permit guide, the Watershed Council seeks to help property owners navigate through the right permitting channels thus protecting our water resources.

The permit guide provides information to help property owners determine what permit is needed, which government agency to contact, and the basic requirements to get a permit.

The Lake Charlevoix Watershed Property Owner's Permit Guide can be viewed on the Watershed Council website at watershedcouncil.org. Hard copies of the Permit Guide can be requested by calling (231) 347-1181 or by emailing Jennifer at jennifer@watershedcouncil.org.

Hip Hop and Ballet Workshops to take place at Charlevoix Public Library

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Library, 220 West Clinton St., will hold two sets of dance workshops for children in February. Kristi Epping, a Magna Cum Laude graduate from Oklahoma City University with a Bachelor of Science in Dance Management, will teach the February workshops.

The Winter Hip Hop

Workshop is a four week series for children ages 6 to 10. It will introduce your child to hip hop dance to age appropriate music in a healthy and nurturing environment. The series will take place from 5:45-6:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Feb. 3, 10, 17 and 24, in the youth activity center.

The Prince and Princess Ballet Workshop is a four week series for children ages 5 to 9, using princess-themed music and props to introduce kids to ballet positions and movement, French terminology and classroom etiquette in a fun, yet disciplined manner. The series will take place from 4:45-5:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Feb. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

Epping concentrates her efforts on teaching creative movement, ballet, tap, jazz and musical theater since her relocation to Northern Michigan and starting her family. Epping previously danced professionally throughout the U.S., Canada and the Caribbean with Royal Caribbean International and Six Flags. For more information and to preregister, call (231) 237-7350. Cost is $10 for each series.

MAKING THE GRADE

Wertz Warriors to ride again for Special Olympics

MICHIGAN — On Sunday, Feb. 1, the Wertz Warriors will begin their seven-day, 900 mile snowmobile ride from Clinton Township to Petoskey, all while raising money for Special Olympics Michigan athletes along the way.

Former Detroit Tiger and Michigan Hall of Fame member Vic Wertz formed Wertz Warriors back in 1981, with a dream of completely underwriting the Special Olympics Michigan State Winter Games. The idea was to create an endurance snowmobile ride throughout northern Michigan that would help raise funds and awareness for those with intellectual disabilities. Since the first ride in 1982, Wertz Warriors has raised more than $9.1 million for Special Olympics Michigan athletes.

The Wertz Warriors will arrive at the 2015 Special Olympics Michigan State Winter Games at Grand Traverse Resort and Spa in Acme on Wednesday, Feb. 4. Wertz Warriors members will give athletes snowmobile rides from 3:30-5 p.m., hold an autograph session from 6-7 p.m. and present a check to the organization at 7:30 p.m., during an opening ceremony.

The Wertz Warriors accept male and female riders. Ten first-time riders from all across the state have signed on for the 2015 ride, and new riders are always welcome to join.

For more information about Wertz Warriors and how to join the ride, visit soml.org/whowcare/sponsors/wertzwarriors.html.

About Special Olympics Michigan:

Special Olympics Michigan Inc. provides year-round sports training and athletic competition for 20,752 children and adults with intellectual disabilities. Athletes build physical fitness, develop self-confidence and prepare for participation in society.

The organization is a nonprofit organization supported almost entirely by corporate and individual gifts and events. The generosity of Michigan organizations, individuals and statewide businesses enable the program to continue.

Michiganders can support Special Olympics Michigan when filing their 2014 income tax returns by asking for the Voluntary Contributions Schedule to donate or by looking for Form 4642 if filing electronically.

OBITUARIES

Kari Anne Way

On Saturday, Jan. 24, 2015, our beautiful, generous, and fun-loving daughter, sister, aunt, granddaughter, niece, cousin and loving friend, Kari Anne Way, went to be with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ in heaven.

Born on June 14, 1987, and raised in Charlevoix, Kari was a 2005 graduate of Charlevoix High School. She spent her high school years as a fierce competitor on the volleyball and basketball courts. Her love for the community extended beyond her athleticism when she was crowned the 2005 Miss Charlevoix Venetian Queen. Kari's vibrant personality as a dockhand at the Charlevoix City Marina from 2004-2008 made all who visited feel like a welcomed guest in the hometown she loved. She was an integral asset of the growth of the marina because of her ambassadorial admiration of Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Family was the most important part of Kari's life, along with her deeply rooted Christian faith. Kari treasured her parents and was taught at an early age to serve and follow Jesus. As the second of five daughters (Katie, Kari, Kim, Kandis and Kelsey), she was lovingly referred to as KWay2. Kari shared an incredible bond with each of them that will last "always and forever."

The family of seven enjoyed spending time together at Way Bay with the rest of the Way clan, boating on Salty Pepper around Northern Michigan, having fun wrestling around the house, and picking raspberries and playing on the ture swing with their cousins at Gram's house in Howell, Mich. Fond memories also include their yearly vacations to Sanlan Ranch in Lakeland, Fla., where they could be found baking in the sun and "chasing" alligators on the mopeds with Grandpa Dawson and Grandma Joann.

Family gatherings, with immediate and distant relations, were among her best memories. Kari could always be found cuddling babies and young children, especially her nieces Sophie, 4, Mackenzie, 2, and Adalynn, 1; she greatly treasured her time with them, and the rest of her family. Kari also adored animals, especially her beloved yellow Lab, Emma, 10. Demonstrating their compassion and displaying their love for the Lord, Kari and her cousin, Jon Boss, went on a mission trip to tsunami-stricken Sri Lanka to help build an orphanage. All who were acquainted with and loved Kari admired her generous spirit and were touched by her outpouring love for others.

Kari attended Grand Valley State University and graduated with a Bachelor of Applied Science in Health Professions in 2009. She had a vivacious personality that touched the hearts of all she met, making her friends become like family. During her college years, Kari was a beloved dockhand at the Bay Harbor Lake Marina, where she met David Johnson, chairman of Victor International and developer of Bay Harbor. Upon graduation she was employed by Mr. Johnson to aid in the development of Oil Nut Bay in the British Virgin Islands. During her five years traveling between Bay Harbor and Oil Nut Bay, Kari was blessed to have made a home-away-from-home.

She was noted for being a dynamic leader, which has had a direct influence in where the BVI development is today.

Kari will be deeply missed by the lives touched with her beautiful smile, sense of humor and the love she shared with everyone she met worldwide. Her family prays that she will be remembered for her love for Jesus, her generous heart and zest for life. Because of her compassion for children, the Way family suggests donations be made to F.A.C.E.S. (Foster, Adopt, Care, Educate, Support), an orphan care ministry at the Community Reformed Church, 100 Oak St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Kari is survived by her large and loving family: parents, Barney and Kris (Goff) Way; sister/brother-in-law, Katie (Way) and Paul Grotzboer; nieces Sophie and Mackenzie Grotzboer; sister/brother-in-law, Kim (Way) and Cyril Jones; niece, Adalynn Jones; sisters, Kandis Way and Kelsey Way; paternal grandmother, Joann Way; maternal grandmother, Peggy Goff; 10 aunts and uncles; 28 first cousins; and 18 second cousins.

Kari was preceded in death by her maternal grandfather, Robert Goff (who shared her birthday on Flag Day); and paternal grandfather, Dawson Way.

We will celebrate her life, knowing she is rejoicing with Jesus in heaven at 1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 31, at the Charlevoix High School Auditorium. Visitation is from 5-8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 30, at Center Point Assembly. The service will be streaming live at www.rayder.net for those who are unable to attend.

Share a memory of Kari, or your condolences at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

James 'Jim' L. DePriest, 79

James "Jim" L. DePriest, 79, of Charlevoix, passed away Tuesday, Jan. 20, 2015, at McLaren Northern Michigan in Petoskey.

Born on Feb. 24, 1935, in Flint, Jim was the son of Russell and Lou Ellen (Cumins) DePriest.

Jim retired from General Motors in 1994 where he worked in various capacities for 40 years as a mechanical engineer. He enjoyed woodworking, traveling, wildlife, crossword puzzles, walking his furry friend "Toby" and spending time with his family. He was the treasurer for Norwood Area Historical Society and active with the local community in that capacity.

Jim is survived by his loving wife of 41 years, Jackie; children, Larry DePriest of Columbus, Ohio, Tom (Kathy) Miller of Grosse Pointe Woods, Jim (Jill) Miller of Overland Park, Kan., Russ (Gretchen) DePriest of Ann Arbor, Mitch (Carla) Miller of Tequesta, Fla.; daughter-in-law, Anne Miller of Buffalo, N.Y.; sister, Peggy Brewster of Dewitt; sister-in-law, Marietta Hodges of Flint; 15 grandchildren; many nieces, nephews and friends.

He will be greatly missed.

Richard F. Lewis, 65

Richard F. Lewis passed away peacefully on Saturday, Jan. 24, 2015, in Warford Township.

"Dick" was born on Oct. 6, 1949, the son of Russell and Lois Lewis. He grew up in Charlevoix, graduating from Charlevoix High School in 1968. Dick lived and worked in Charlevoix and Alabama before settling in Oakland County to raise his family. In 2004, Dick retired from the city of Bloomfield Hills and enjoyed golf, gardening, playing guitar and spending time with his family and many friends.

He is survived by his wife; Diana; children, Emily (David) Higgenbotham of Florida and Jeffrey Lewis of Ellsworth; grandsons, Carson and Connor Higgenbotham; mother, Lois Lewis of Charlevoix; sisters, Kay Russell of Oden, Karen (Edward) Cole of Petoskey and Nora (Ken) Stiff of Wisconsin; and special sisters-in-law, Genevieve and Julie. He was preceded in death by his father, Russell Lewis, in 1999.

Dick was a loving and caring man, who will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

A memorial service is being planned for the spring.

The family is being served by the Lewis Wint Funeral Home in Clarkston.

Speaker highlights the need for libraries and conservancies

CHARLEVOIX — On Jan. 20, Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library's annual meeting, featured speaker Tom Bailey. He began by drawing parallels between the mission of his organization and that of libraries. Bailey, executive director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, is dedicated to the balance of land development with the preservation of the natural environment.

Both the conservancy and the library are nonprofit organizations created to address some basic human needs. The conservancy, like the library, attributes many of its accomplishments to the contributions and volunteer efforts of supporters. "People tend to see the work we both do as luxuries," he said, noting the fact that often they are viewed as expendable luxuries. "We need libraries and nature preserves and parks. They are necessities for our souls. We have needs in our very marrow for enlightenment and growth."

Bailey hearkened back to his own childhood memories of growing up in the Upper Peninsula, where he learned to love and respect nature.

"Do you remember as I do, when you were a kid you were told to 'Go out and play?' The outdoors was the place that kids went to be kids. Now kids are afraid of the outdoors," Bailey said. "If they are not plugged into their devices, they don't know how to play. They have also been conditioned to be fearful of strangers and dangers in the outdoors."

The conservancy hopes to fill an experiential void in many children's lives by providing outdoor education by way of the conservancy's many outdoor education programs.

"Our vision is that every child in Northern Michigan can get to a forest or a lake shore in a short amount of time," he said. "If you're teaching about a woods," he said, "you have to have a woods... kids, and adults as well, need a place to get away, to smell the air... to know what it's like just to be."

Which brought him to the subject of what the conservancy is all about — land stewardship.

"While once it was important to build and develop and protect the small population of people who first settled our country from nature, now it's the other way around," Bailey said. "We need to protect nature from the large population of man. We want to be remembered, not just for what we built, but for what we preserve."

He also noted the economic importance of preserving natural areas in our region.

"Our beautiful lakes, lake shores, forests and streams are ultimately what people come up here for... they want to get out of their car, breathe in deeply of the pure Michigan air and with a big 'ahhhh' say, 'yes!'

I'm home," Bailey said.

For the more than 30 years he has been director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, Bailey has led a campaign for land stewardship. Among the notable accomplishments of the conservancy are the acquisition of property for a University of Michigan biological station, the stewardship of nature preserves owned by the conservancy in a five-county area along with the maintenance and promotion of these areas, the "assist projects," whereby towns, cities and the state and federal government are able to acquire and maintain land for parks, state parks or national forests, the establishment of conservation easements (agreements between government agencies and land owners created to ensure land preservation), and education programs which have been successful in teaching children about the workings of nature right in their own backyard.

In 2012, Bailey was inducted into the Michigan Environmental Hall of Fame and has been honored and recognized numerous times over the years for his contributions and enthusiasm for the cause of environmental awareness and stewardship.

Businesses partner for bus wrapping competition

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix County Transit and partner Wade Promotions Inc. are stirring up some friendly competition as they determine which county fire and police department, school team or band to feature on the sides of their buses for a full year. One wrap for each of the three divisions will be awarded. The Charlevoix Transit buses travel a combined 500,000 miles per year in Charlevoix County.

"We're excited about converting the sides of our buses into an all year Charlevoix County Parade that will promote some of the groups, people and businesses we're proud of in our county. We simply don't have the room or resources to accommodate every organization and that's why we're having the competition," said Charlevoix County Transit manager Jill Drury.

From Feb. 9 to March 23, competitors will collect points for their "teams" by voting and participating in online and real world games such as county wide scavenger hunt and challenges.

"To the best of my knowledge this contest will be unlike any other conducted in Charlevoix County," Drury said. "We're really looking forward to it."

Businesses that participate by purchasing a wrap receive their own custom game in the contest. Contestants will receive points for visiting a participating business, completing a certain task or challenge and then commenting and posting a picture of the experience on Facebook. Another option is to direct the traffic to a Web or Facebook page.

"It's the business's decision, what they want the contestant to do," said Kirk Bedelion owner/partner of Wade Promotions, the contractor sponsoring the event. "It's an exciting combination of social networking and dynamic outdoor marketing. We saw hundreds of participants compete in Sanilac County. Both the contestants and the businesses loved it."

For full details visit the contest Facebook page at facebook.com/CharlevoixCountyProud.

Everyone is encouraged to nominate their favorite Charlevoix County departments, teams and bands as soon as possible. Be sure to "LIKE" the page so you're notified of all the events.

University, and she graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Health Professions in 2009. During her college years, Way was a dock hand at the Bay Harbor Lake Marina, where she met David Johnson, chairman of Victor International and developer of Bay Harbor. Upon graduation she was employed by Johnson to aid in the development of Oil Nut Bay in the British Virgin Islands, her family shared in a letter to the Charlevoix Courier.

She had a spirited personality that touched the hearts of all she met, making her friends become like family, said father, Barney Way.

"Kari would get to know you," Barney said. "She didn't just want to meet you she wanted to know you, she wanted to know who you were and hear your story. She was very resourceful and when someone had a issue she would make the calls to help take care of people. She would get things done."

Family was the most important part of Way's life. Each of her sisters, Katie, 29, Kim, 26, Kandis, 24, and Kelsey, 20, shared that sister bond. Family gatherings, with immediate and distant relations, were among her best memories, Kris said.

"She loved her nieces Sophie, 4, Mackenzie, 2, and Adalynn, 1," Kris said. "She greatly treasured her time with them, and the more, than 50 immediate family members she grew up around."

Way was deeply rooted in her Christian faith. Her compassion and love for the Lord, led Way and her cousin, Jon Boss, to take a mission trip to tsunami-stricken Sri Lanka to help build an orphanage.

"All who were acquainted with and loved Kari admired her generous spirit and were touched by her outpouring love for others," Kris said. "Kari's vibrant personality as a ROAD TOWN, British Virgin Islands — Authorities in the British Virgin Islands on Monday identified 27-year-old Kari Anne Way, of Charlevoix, as one of the two people who died in a weekend boat crash.

Way was among the six employees of the Oil Nut Bay resort on the island of Virgin Gorda, who were aboard the 38-foot inflatable boat when it slammed into a rock, killing Way and another employee, authorities said.

Way's mother, Kris, said the accident occurred when Kari and the others were returning from a trip to get pizza.

"People on the islands drive boats to get places like we drive cars," Kris said. "To my understanding Kari and the other employees were coming back to the resort after going out for something to eat. The marker light to the harbor sits back on the point and as they made the turn to come around its was too short and that's how the accident occurred."

Police are continuing investigations into the deadly crash because that marker light for boats is located in an area that is causing controversy.

"I guess there has been other incidents regarding that marker for boats," Kris said.

Because Kari's body was not found at the site of the accident a pathologist was called in, but that is just procedure, Kris said.

"Her death is not suspicious this is just something they do as part of the investigation," Kris said.

Because the location of the accident is under British territory, the family does not know when they will be able to retrieve their daughter's body.

"We can only do so much from here," Kris said. "We hope to have our daughter home soon."

Three other resort workers and one guest remain in the hospital in stable condition.

dock hand at the Charlevoix City Marina for three years made all who visited feel like a welcomed guest in the hometown she loved. I know many people who come back to Charlevoix because of Kari. She was kind, helpful and simply an ambassador to this community."

Way will be deeply missed by the lives touched, by her beautiful smile and the love she shared with everyone she met worldwide. Her family prays that she will be remembered for her love for Jesus, her generous heart, and zest for life. Because of her compassion for children, the Way family suggests donations be made to FACES (Foster, Adopt, Care, Educate, Support), an orphan care ministry at the Community Reformed Church, 100 Oak Street, in Charlevoix.

"She loved children," Kris said. "She could always be found embracing babies and young children. Because of her compassion for children we feel this is the best way people can help honor Kari's memory."

rounding the cement plant.

"A 42-percent increase in cement production and the associated increased need of limestone, must not threaten the value and use of our beautiful Fisherman's Island State Park," Henne said in his letter to township officials. "Our concern with the expansion of St. Marys is this idea of investment has blinded our elected officials to the environmental concerns caused from cement production."

The proposed $130 million expansion project to help boost production at the Charlevoix plant is not expected to affect the nearby state park, said Austin MacMurdo, St. Marys Cement corporate land manager.

"We have enough reserves to continue production until 2111," MacMurdo said.

MacMurdo added, environmental concerns and the talk about the Land Swap deal of Fisherman's Island have nothing to do with this project.

"Our plans for expansion are totally independent and completely economically driven," he said.

Tom Erhart, Northern Lakes Economic Alliance entrepreneurship, said the brownfield redevelopment plan for St. Marys Cement plant is one element of the modernization of the plant.

"The brownfield addresses the demolition of the buildings on this site," Erhart said. "It gives the company an incentive to build on a brownfield site by supplementing the investment cost to redevelop the site."

Andy Hayes, president of Northern Lakes Economic Alliance said everything will now move to the state level.

"The state should make a decision about the incentive package for St. Marys, within the next 60 days," Hayes said.

St. Marys officials are pleased with the decision to create the Industrial Development District, so the company can apply for the tax abatement status if it decides to expand in Charlevoix.

Courtney Schmidt, environmental manager for the Charlevoix plant, said the company has not decided on one location, yet.

"We are still looking at all of our options," Schmidt said. "Ohlivi-ously every step taken helps, but at the end of the day, it is still a business decision."

part time, but the DDA director of today is required to do much more.

"The scope of work that our DDA director has done the last year-and-a-half has increased enormously," Barron said. "The DDA is no longer focusing on brick and motor projects, its about promotion and events to bring people to the downtown."

Barron brought up the Main Street program commitment and the requirement for a full time DDA director if Charlevoix is accepted in the select level — select level is the next step after the associate level, which Charlevoix is currently part of.

"In order for us to implement the Main Street program we are going to need the staff resources to do it," Barron said.

The Michigan Main Street program is a community-driven, comprehensive strategy that encourages economic development through historic preservation. It is a best practices strategy to run a more effective DDA.

Members of the Main Street program steering committee also are in favor of a full-time director. Phil Parr, Bridge Street Tap Room owner and steering committee chair, said it would be a mistake to not have a full-time director.

"In order for the Main Street program to be successful we need a full-time director," Parr said.

Barron said the DDA is doing good things and has every intent to make good on the $600,000 library pledge, but if the city is going to reconsider funding the director position, the DDA may not be able to afford the library pledge.

"I support reinstating our payments to the library," Barron said. "However, if push comes to shove we need to keep the DDA on track and the Main Street program on track. If the DDA has to fully fund the salary of a full-time director, then that's where our revenue will go. I want to see the money go toward the library, but we have to keep our obligations to the Main Street program."

STURGEON RIVER POTTERY

ARTFULLY GROWING SINCE 2000

When my parents first opened Sturgeon River Pottery, they were building a business that reflected their passion to expand beyond their own work. They became a retail establishment and business grew like camp. The heart of Northern Michigan was beating during that time—giving advice, passion to expand, and even coming to grand openings. When I took over the family business, it was clear our business could flourish by taking it from a mom-and-pop shop to a multi-million dollar business. They've helped us grow to the point that, now and then again, after years of learning from them, personally and professionally, there's no greater joy than seeing our business and our lives grow together.

Diocese of Gaylord

Diocese of Gaylord Catholic Schools MISSION STATEMENT

The Catholic Schools of the Diocese of Gaylord will work together to provide a faith-centered Catholic Education rooted in the Gospel Message and evidenced in Worship of God, and Works of service to others.

The mission and intent of Catholic schools in the Diocese of Gaylord is to provide a distinctly Catholic education and an environment with the highest standards of academic excellence for all who participate in the life of our school communities. As we look to the future of our Catholic schools, we must remember the words of Jesus as He sent His disciples into the world to "go and teach" and to "make disciples of all nations...teaching them to observe all I have commanded you."

St. Mary School PHILOSOPHY

St. Mary Catholic School is a Faith Community — students, parents, staff, parishioners and friends. Teachers, in partnership with parents, are dedicated to providing the spiritual and academic development of each child.

Each person is a child of God, a unique and gifted individual. The curriculum is designed to nurture creativity, academic excellence, and spiritual, physical and emotional growth.

We instill responsibility, respect and compassion for all people. We are committed to making our students aware of social issues while providing the foundation and experiences necessary to be living examples of the Gospel.

St. Mary School MISSION STATEMENT

The St. Mary Catholic School community empowers students to grow spiritually, academically, artistically, and physically so they may experience, understand and live their responsibilities to God, family, community and self.

Catholic Schools Week

Theme: Catholic Schools: Communities of Faith, Knowledge and Service.

Key elements of Catholic education are faith development, academic excellence, and dedication to service. These elements set St. Mary School apart from other educational options. These are reasons why families make sacrifices to provide their children with a Catholic education.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Boyne City turns back rival Charlevoix with defense in 65-53 win

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
231-438-8343
jamesgensterblum.com

CHARLEVOIX — Over the past few years, the Boyne City boys basketball team has been lauded for its offensive ability.

But on the road against archrival Charlevoix on Tuesday, it was the Ramblers' defense that allowed Boyne City to pull away for a crucial conference win, 65-53.

Boyne City held the Rayders to 29 points through three quarters, building a 16 point lead that allowed the Ramblers to hold on when Charlevoix made a fourth-quarter run.

"Over the last few weeks we've been steadily improving, and I think the area we've come the farthest with is our defense," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "I thought tonight we did a good job of staying active and aggressive and forcing turnovers."

"I was disappointed that we couldn't sustain that intensity for four quarters, and avoiding letdowns is something we focused on in the locker room tonight, but I was happy to see us show what we're capable of."

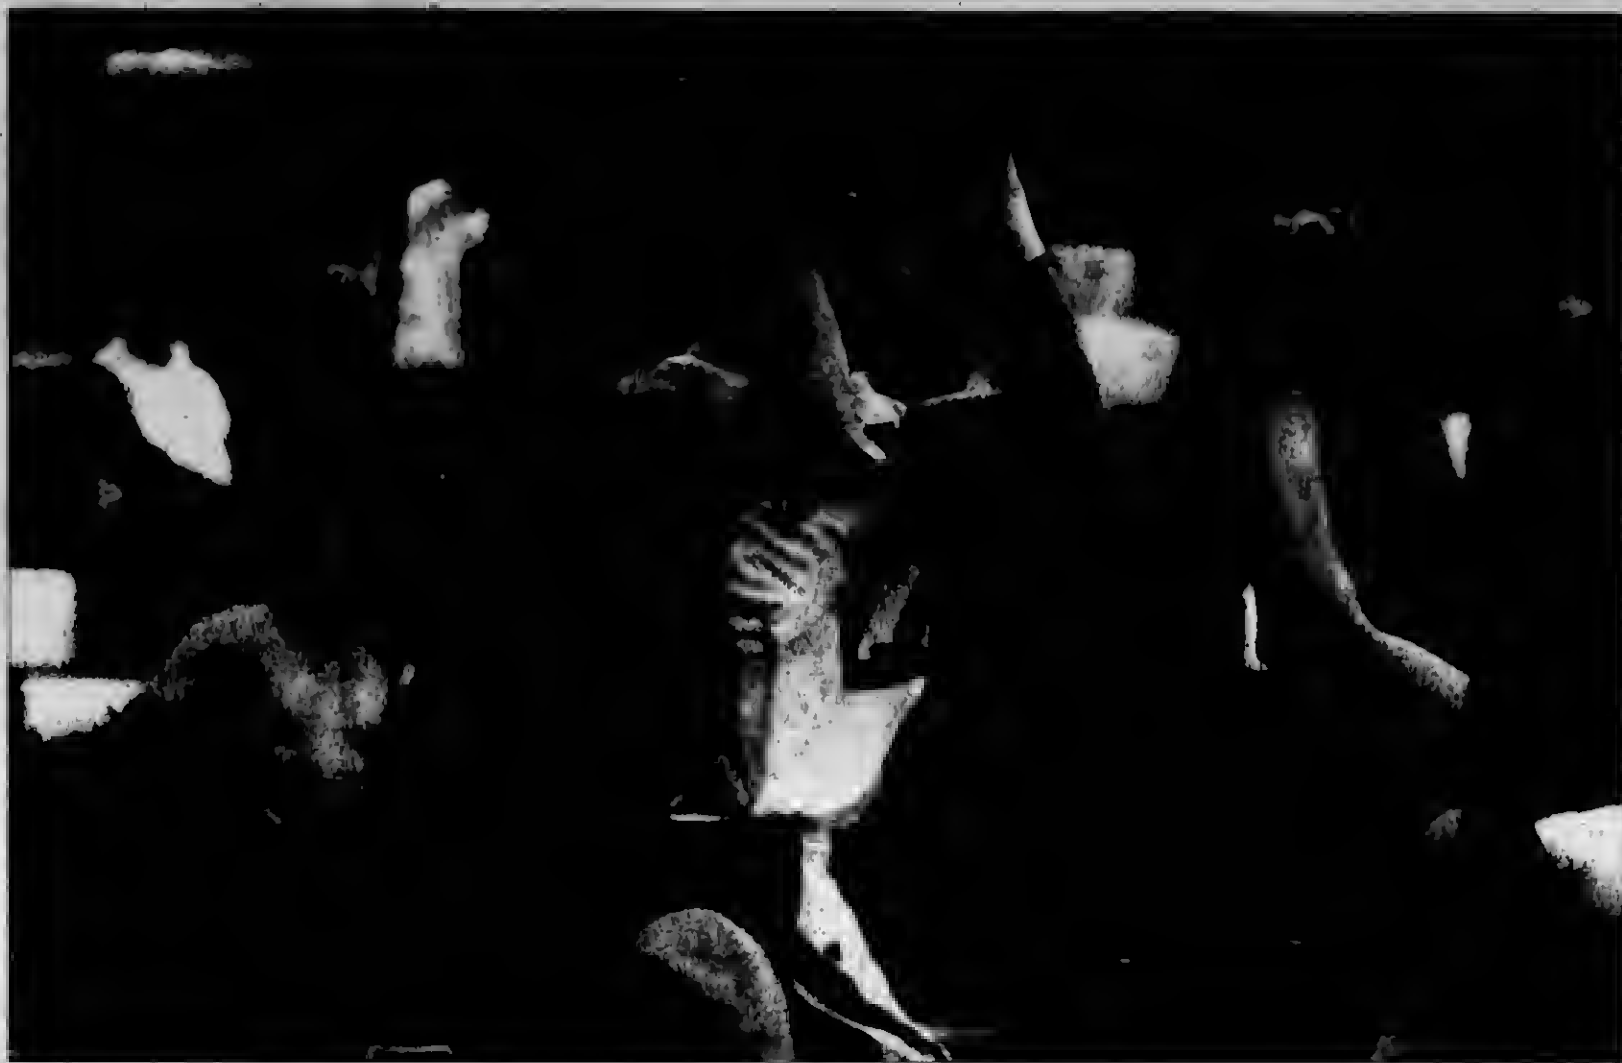

Boyne City jumped out to a quick 10-point lead at the end of the first quarter thanks to senior Cole Butler, who hit three 3-pointers and finished with 13 first quarter points.

"We saw right away that they were pitching in toward Corey (Redman), and Cole stepped up and took advantage of that space by hitting some big shots," Nick Redman said. "This was his best game of the season, and he found ways to help us at both ends all night long."

Butler, who finished with 18 points and 10 rebounds, was quick to credit his teammates.

"We had great passing in the first half," Butler said. "My teammates were drawing the defense's attention and setting me up with great looks, and I was able to take advantage."

Charlevoix junior Walker Drost (22) looks to pass off of a drive into the lane during the Rayders' 65-53 loss to visiting Boyne City on Tuesday.

On a roll: Rayders bounce back from tough start to season

NOAH CERTA
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Rayder boys varsity basketball team has been on a roll as of late.

The Rayders are coming off a big 59-49 win over conference foe Traverse City St. Francis Saturday.

Although Charlevoix fell to Boyne City Tuesday, the Rayders overcame a five-game losing streak to win three of their past four.

Currently, the team is 3-6 overall and 3-3 in the Lake Michigan Conference with a game today (Friday) at Kalkaska next on the docket.

The win streak included impressive victories against league foes Harbor Springs, Grayling and St. Francis.

One of the many keys to the Rayders' recent success is the play of senior shooting guard Nate Moon.

"We're starting to come together at the right time," Moon said. "In the beginning of the season we weren't very gelled. We picked up our intensity and have gotten closer to each other. We have started a hot streak."

Junior point guard Walker Drost also credits the team's success to high energy. "We're playing well and hopefully our winning streak keeps up," Drost said. "As a team we're playing with high intensity and good defense."

High intensity and solid defense from the whole team was something they had at the beginning of the season, but it didn't translate to victories.

Senior point guard J.J. Wachler said it's nice to see that energy begin to pay off.

"We're really looking strong right now. We had a tough first five games," Wachler said. "We played five very good teams, but we weren't blown out and we competed." Given that we're starting to win, you could say a storm's a comin'.

Charlevoix's Kylee Scholten makes a turn during the slalom race at the Rayders' dual match against Grayling on Tuesday at Mt. McSauba. The Rayder girls lost 35 to 38, led by Abbey Scholten's 1st place finish in the slalom and second in the downhill, and Kylee Scholten's third place finish in the slalom.

Charlevoix's Matt Good powers through a turn on the slalom course during the Rayders' dual meet with Grayling on Tuesday at Mt. McSauba. The Rayder boys won 29 to 43, led by Brad Kilrigger's first-place finishes in both the slalom and downhill, and Good's runner-up finishes in both events.

BASKETBALL

Charlevoix was able to hang in the game thanks to several trips to the free throw line, but the Rayders struggled to find a rhythm offensively for most of the game.

The Rayders hit 19 free throws but only 15 field goals, and the vast majority of those came in the fourth quarter as Charlevoix tried to claw its way back from a near 20-point deficit.

"We just weren't playing smart basketball," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "Usually we move the ball around, survey the floor and create good shots, but tonight we were forcing the ball in places where we got ourselves into trouble."

"Credit to the kids, they never stopped fighting and we were able to get back in it, but we have to be better earlier if we want to beat a team like Boyne City."

Junior point guard Walker Drost led the Rayders with 15 points, and senior Ryan Joy added nine points on three 3-pointers.

"The ball is in Walker's hands most of the time, and that gives him a chance to see the floor and figure out a plan of attack," Erskine said. "That's something he's been doing a better job of lately."

Corey Redman chipped in 14 points, five rebounds and three assists for the Ramblers. Zach Napont added nine points, and Dalton Gardner finished with eight points, four assists and five rebounds.

"It was true with our team last year and it's true again this year," Redman said. "We're finding when we've got three or four guys sharing the scoring load and getting at or near double figures, we're having success and winning games."

Austin Putman and Nate Moon chipped in eight points for Charlevoix.

In the JV game, Boyne City's Mason Gardner finished with 16 points and Dominik Archey added 14 as the Ramblers pulled away in the fourth for a 40-30 win.

Danny Nesburg led the Rayder JV with 16 points, and Christian Matye chipped in nine.

The win is Boyne City's seventh straight, and helps the Ramblers (7-2, 5-1 LMC) remain tied with East Jordan for first place in the conference race.

Charlevoix (3-6, 3-3) travels to Kalkaska today (Friday) night looking to return to its winning ways after having a three-game win streak snapped against the Ramblers.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Putman leads Charlevoix girls past Boyne City

BOYNE CITY — Senior Kourtney Putman scored 13 points and grabbed four rebounds, while Hannah Zipp scored 13 points as the Rayders defeated Boyne City 61-56 during a Lake Michigan Conference win over the Ramblers on Tuesday.

For Boyne City, Celenia Brzezinski scored a game high, 22 points and Keyrsten Girlinghouse added 17 points.

Boyne City had the early lead, 13-10, at the end of the first quarter.

Charlevoix would capture the lead, 26-25, at halftime.

"It was definitely a back and forth game all the way tonight," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "The girls really showed a lot of heart and desire especially on the offensive side."

The Rayders kept the lead to end the third quarter, 40-39.

The Ramblers made a early fourth quarter run, and were up, 46-40.

Charlevoix would out-score Boyne City, 21-10 for the remainder of the quarter.

"We had to apply some pressure on defense, and caused some turnovers, especially in the fourth quarter," Shaw said. "In the second half, offensively, we started driving the lane and making our shots."

Also for Charlevoix, Zipp had seven rebounds, Leah Davis scored 11 points, Alexis Tribfeller scored 11 points, six assists, and had six steals, while Ellie Way had seven assists.

Charlevoix improves to 4-7 overall, 3-2 in league and will travel to Kalkaska on Friday, Jan. 30.

Boyne City JV 32, Charlevoix 21

BOYNE CITY — The Rambler JV team improved to 3-8 on the season by defeating visiting Charlevoix 32-21 on Tuesday.

Katie Hoth led Boyne City with 12 points, Alayna Fiel chipped in eight and Hailey Fogo added six.

Alex Snabes, Isabel Hess and Isabel Buday each finished with four points to lead Charlevoix.

TC St. Francis 38, Charlevoix 28

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix fell at home to TC St. Francis 38-28 in a JV contest on Thursday.

Isabel Hess led the Rayders with 11 points and six steals, and Isabel Buday chipped in seven points, four steals and two blocks.

WRESTLING

Charlevoix stays in LMC title hunt with quad sweep

TRAVERSE CITY — A 12-point dual loss to Grayling earlier in the month means the Charlevoix wrestling team's hopes of an outright LMC title are unlikely.

But the Rayders are still very much alive in the race to earn a share of the LMC crown, and Charlevoix did exactly what it needed to do in last week's LMC Quad in Traverse City to give themselves a chance.

The Rayders downed Elk Rapids 48-19 and also knocked off Traverse City St. Francis 57-24 to stay one match behind the Vikings in the standings with only the LMC Conference Tournament remaining.

Seven wrestlers won both their matches for Charlevoix on the night, led by senior Devin Largent (215 pounds).

Camden Alden (125), Tyler McCallum (130), Elliot Bartelli (135), Justin Adkins (140), Malcom Williams (145) and Justin Bond (189) all went 2-0 as well for the Rayders, and Jeremy Chernauckas (103/112), Miles Windon (152), Sam Hovie (160) and Spencer Bruce (285) each went 1-1.

The Rayders travel to the Northern Michigan Championships Saturday, Jan. 31, in Gaylord.

Charlevoix then hosts the LMC Conference Tournament on Saturday, Feb. 7, where the Rayders can force a title split if they finish ahead of Grayling in the tourney standings.

Michigan's trapping tradition grows in popularity

MICHIGAN — Doug Reeves remembers his first time as though it were yesterday.

"The first thing I ever caught was an ermine, a white weasel," said Reeves, assistant chief of the Department of Natural Resources' Wildlife Division and a lifelong trapper. "I sold it for 50 cents to a traveling fur buyer. To me that was big time."

He was 9 years old and he was hooked. The next year he got three traps and started chasing muskrats. He progressed from there.

"Back then you had to be 12 years old to trap beaver," he said. "The first one I got I brought home in the basket of my sister's fat-tire bike."

Now, 50 years later, Reeves is still trapping — muskrats, raccoons, coyotes, fox — just about everything.

"You have to learn a lot," Reeves said. "The learning curve is very steep. The element of exploration and discovery is a lot of fun. It's a blast. I just love it."

Reeves isn't alone. In Michigan, trapping is growing in popularity.

According to DNR records, in 1994, more than 10,000 people bought a fur harvester license. Two decades later, that number has tripled.

"It's been increasing," said Adam Bump, the DNR's fur-bearer specialist. "Some of it may be because of pelt prices. When you have generally increasing pelt prices, you have an increase in trapping and the last three or four years the pelt prices for muskrats have been near or at record highs. But price for every species varies on its own, so just because rat prices are up, that doesn't mean they all are."

Indeed, it's not all about fur prices, said Dale Hendershot, president of the 1,200-member Michigan Trappers and Predator Callers Association, one of three fur-taker associations in the state. Hendershot is a 64-year-old retired diesel mechanic from Gladwin, who's been trapping since he was 14.

"The vast majority of trappers are not professionals," Hendershot said.

Most trappers are hobbyists, Hendershot said, recreationalists who "can probably make enough money to pay for their gasoline."

Hendershot said it's the challenge that intrigues trappers.

"You really have to know the habits of the animals to get them," he said.

"Trapping is not for the faint of heart," he added. "If you're hunting and it's below zero and the wind's blowing, you have an option — you can say 'I'm going to stay in the cabin today.' But if you have traps out there, you have to get out there in that stuff and check them. It's a huge commitment."

The Michigan Trappers and Predator Callers Association — formerly the Michigan Trappers Association — holds fur sales for its members and offers a landowner assistance program to connect folks who have issues with fur bearers causing problems.

"Typically it's either beaver- or coyote-related, but everybody's got a problem with raccoons," Hendershot said.

The association also helps the DNR with its trapper education program, which has been in existence since 2009.

"Trapping is misunderstood," Hendershot said. "We're trying to make it better understood. We do a lot of educational stuff. I would hope that the educational movement is paying off."

Like hunting and fishing, trapping is highly regulated by the DNR. There are prescribed seasons for all 17 of the species that fur-takers can harvest, and the means and methods of capture are regulated as well.

"We tend to set seasons when the pelts are most valuable," Bump said. "Most trapping gears up in fall and runs through the winter, though you can trap beaver and otter into spring. And weasels are open year-round."

Dwayne Etter, a research biologist with the DNR, is a relative newcomer to trapping.

"As kids we messed around with it, but we really didn't know what we were doing," Etter said. "I was fortunate enough to attend trapper's college. The Michigan trappers association and national trappers association sponsor a biologist every year for a week to go to trapper's college. It's a week of intensive learning — how to trap, how to put up fur, good stuff."

"I immediately got excited, so I got home, bought some traps, and started trapping. It's kind of an addicting hobby — it grows and grows."

Now Etter takes a week's vacation every year to go the Upper Peninsula and trap.

"It's kind of the same as deer camp — we go with the guys, hang out, cruise around the woods and we have the anticipation that we're going to catch something."

Trapping is also a tool for population management; when fur bearer populations begin to exceed the carrying capacity, disease inevitably follows.

"Whenever raccoons get too thick, you see a distemper outbreak," Reeves said. "When you get too many coyotes, you get mange. I've seen it where I live."

To Reeves, being an ethical trapper is critical to wildlife management.

"To me, it's important that the animal is well caught, that it's dispatched humanely, and the fur is handled in a respectful way," he said.

For others, the allure of trapping is reconnecting to times past.

"It's kind of a lifestyle to some people," Hendershot said. "It's a throwback to when our country was settled. And a lot of people like the feel of it."

Charlevoix native creates unique look for bottles of Michigan-made spirits

LONNIE ALLEN

PETOSKEY — There are many bottles of vodkas, gins, moonshines and rums that are available to purchase at local markets, but the bottles of spirits from Rusted Crow Distillery have consumers staring at artwork from a Charlevoix native.

Josh Skeel, 35, of Petoskey, is the man behind the design when you see a bottle of Detroit Steam Vodka or Davy Jones Rum and the other Michigan-made handcrafted spirits from Rusted Crow Distillery, in Dearborn Heights.

Skeel, a house painter by day and comic book artist at heart has always had a heart for drawing.

"Drawing is something I love to do," Skeel said. "As far back as I can remember I was that kid sitting and sketching something."

Skeel is a 1997 graduate of Charlevoix High School. After high school, he attended Central Michigan University and graduated in 2002, with a major in art and minor in broadcasting cinema.

After college, Skeel went to Ann Arbor to work on his art while doing some odd jobs to support himself. After a year, he moved back to Charlevoix and was employed at Harbor Fitness for a period of time before moving to Petoskey to take a job as a house painter.

"It's a job that pays the bills," Skeel said. "I'm an aspiring comic book illustrator and I need to survive. That starving artist saying is very true."

When Skeel is not painting houses he is painting the canvas or jotting down another idea, image or storyline for his comic.

"I love pen and ink work, but occasionally work in oil painting, watercolors and acrylics, whatever works for what I'm doing," Skeel said. "Most of all I love to draw, and I'm working hard to make that hobby into a career."

Skeel's hobby has landed him some work at the Charlevoix High School, where he painted some murals in the shop and construction rooms. He also has completed one comic book and is working on another and is excited about his future. It's his passion to draw that keeps him moving forward with the hope of turning his hobby into a career.

Straebel resigns to accept job with Petoskey

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — The decision to pursue the city manager position in Petoskey was not an easy one for Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel to make, but he feels it's time for him to take the next step in his career.

"It is important to look for change and new challenges," Straebel said. "The Petoskey position affords me the career advancement that I am looking for, while allowing me to live in Northern Michigan. I put a lot of consideration in this decision. It was not taken lightly."

Straebel submitted his resignation to Charlevoix City Council members on Monday, Feb. 2. His last day will be March 20.

The location and size of Petoskey is another reason Straebel said it is the logical step to make in his career. In 2013, Petoskey had a population of 5,756, which is a little more than double the population of Charlevoix, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

Straebel has served Charlevoix for the last seven years and during his tenure as city manager there have been some challenges. One of the most difficult times came in 2008, during the financial crisis, which is now considered the worst recession since the Great Depression of the 1930s.

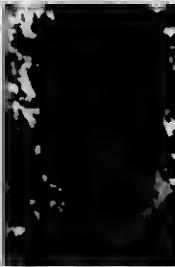

"Our tax revenues dipped and basically stagnated," Straebel said. "It's been and continues to be a big challenge to balance out the city budget with declining and stagnating revenues, but we've been successful. We saw revenue cuts from the state level and property values were lowered, which hit us very hard. We're trying to continue with the great quality of municipal services we offer our residents even with stagnating tax revenues."

At times it appeared bleak for Charlevoix after the housing bubble burst, but Straebel, city staff and council members worked together to conserve spending and build general

Fund money approved for part of DDA position

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — Members of Charlevoix City Council appear to be in overwhelming support of the Main Street program.

During their meeting on Monday, Feb. 2, council members voted 5-0 to pay 25 percent of the salary for a full-time community economic development director. Council member Jeff Porter was absent. The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will cover the other 75 percent of the proposed $42,000 to $47,000 salary.

"I am happy council sees the importance of keeping this position at full time," said city manager Rob Straebel. "There had been some question from council about the continued need for a full-time director, but their vote shows the community support for Main Street."

The Michigan Main Street program is a community-driven, comprehensive strategy that encourages economic development through historic preservation. It is a best practices strategy to run a more effective downtown development authority.

During the authority's meeting on Jan. 26, Mayor Gabe Campbell brought up the issue of the director's duties.

"There was some concern that this position did not include some of the citywide duties," Campbell said. "It was explained to council that the director would not only focus on Main Street, but also work to develop economic growth community wide. That is a good use of city dollars."

Before the vote, council member Luther Kurtz said that applicants have been told that there will be other duties besides Main Street.

Council member Shirley Gibson said Main Street is an important initiative and she hopes it helps the city, but she will feel more comfortable knowing that the director will present monthly progress reports that show the work completed in the job description.

"I want to see what has been done community-wide for economic development to justify our 25 percent," Gibson said. "Main Street is very important and I fully support the program, but Charlevoix is more than downtown businesses. As elected officials we are accountable for our taxpayers money."

Straebel said he believes the city will do well on its investment in this position.

"The monies and that both the DDA and the city contribute to funding the position will reap tremendous economic benefits," Straebel said. "This will really show a serious commitment toward economic development and job retention for the community."

In other actions, the city council approved a resolution for a new airport advisory committee and declined a resolution to raise airport parking rates until further study could be done.

"I would like to wait until I know what the impact will be for the airport on an increase, and how will this affect the people parking at the airport," Gibson said. "It's best to leave parking rates alone at this time."

SKEEL

"No matter what I do, I will not give up on my art," Skeel said. "It's what I love and I let what I do speak for itself."

It's Skeel's positive attitude and determination that landed him the work with Rusted Crow Distillery. In 2013, Skeel was promoting his comic book, "Detroit Memoirs," in Novi at the Motor City Comic Con, when Joe Schebel, owner of Rusted Crow Distillery, approached him. Schebel wanted someone who could take his ideas and draw them. Schebel wanted each of his bottles to have an image that would explain the work behind each of his handcrafted Michigan-made liquors. He found that in Skeel.

"When I met Josh I liked what I saw," Schebel said. "He was a storyteller and his artwork was along the lines of what I wanted for my products. Each of the spirits have a story to their name. I want to leave you in awe of how much beautiful, meticulous work actually goes into designing a single bottle. I want you chuckling when picking up a bottle of Phil McCracken, or smiling fondly when glancing at a bottle of Ginger Devil or Davy Jones' Rum with the sultry mermaid cover, knowing exactly which friend you want to buy that for. Josh's artwork tells that story."

Schebel also appreciates the art design Skeel developed because it makes his products stand out on the shelves.

"My bottles of spirits are already entering a saturated liquor market," Schebel said. "There are plenty of rums, vodkas and gins out there. To get someone to buy my product I need to grab the consumer. That's what Josh's artwork does. It tells the story I want while grabbing the consumer interest. From there, the product will do the rest. It's quality artwork to help sell quality spirits. It is a beautiful package. I couldn't be happier."

Skeel enjoys the work he does for Schebel, and said he will continue his venture with the distillery for as long as they like his artwork.

"Schebel is great and fun to have as a client," Skeel said. "He has ideas that fit my style of drawing. We really work off each other and he understands what my style and interest are. It's a fun project and that is the main thing for me. I don't want to be unhappy with my art or the work I do. It's got to be interesting and fun for me."

School board's new trustee brings experience

JOURNAL SPENCE

(231) 430-9317 · jspence@patodaynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — After a few weeks of deliberation, the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education no longer has an open trustee seat.

Tom Kirinovic was selected as a Charlevoix school board trustee at the board's Jan.

19 meeting. Charlevoix interim superintendent Tom Stobie said there were three people interviewed.

Stobie said it was Kirinovic's past experience on a school board in Big Rapids that drove their interest in him.

Kirinovic applied for the position because he thought his eight years served on the Big Rapids board would prove helpful in Charlevoix.

"I also went through the search for a new superintendent three times while on that board. My experience and their task (of searching for a new superintendent) matched," Kirinovic said.

Kirinovic lives in Charlevoix after he moved to the area this past year. He retired in 2010 as the athletic director at Ferris State University.

"My wife (Marge) and I have been in and out of the community for 37 years," he said. "My in-laws lived here and now we live in the home she grew up in. We have a lot of family ties to this community."

Along with Kirinovic, other new board members include Mika Moon, Douglas Bergmann and Matt Peterson.

Bergmann was named treasurer and secretary, Dick Joseph is now president and Valerie Snyder is vice president.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Hate and terror

The Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, Ala., has, for many years, documented and traced what they label as hate groups. A few years ago 35 such groups were known to be from Michigan, and more than a thousand nationwide. The groups range in size and importance from a few disgruntled people who hate "the government," to widespread and large groups who hate blacks, Hispanics, gays, immigrants, Jews and Muslims. Leaders and members of such groups often have serious criminal records and may attempt to live "outside the law."

Why should we care about such groups?

I have been interested for some time in the prevalence of the word "Christian" in the names of some of the groups. A few examples: Christian Identity is one of the larger and more violent groups. The Christian Defense League is a neo-Nazi, anti-Semitic group. The Traditional Christian Knights of the KKK has been with us for a long time. Others include: Christ's Gospel Fellowship, The Church of Jesus Christ, The Israelite Church of God, The Bethesda Christian Institute, Christian Phalange and Christian Ministries among others. There is at least one web site headed "The Church of Jesus Christ, Aryan."

Why would such groups identify with Christianity? I suspect for the same reason that other terrorist groups identify with Islam. In both cases, it provides some degree of potential legitimacy to what is basically a criminal enterprise.

In the Jan. 26 edition of Time magazine, former National Basketball Association star and best-selling author Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said, "Violence committed in the name of religion is never about religion. It's about money." It also may be about power. If calling yourself a Muslim or a Christian can get you access to money, power or both, that is a big incentive for some folks.

We in America have extremists calling themselves Christian and much of the rest of the world has extremist calling themselves Muslim.

If the Traditional Christian Knights of the KKK burn a cross on a black family's lawn, does the press usually identify them as a Christian group? Not likely. Would churches defend the KKK members as exemplifying Christian values? Certainly not.

I would ask that we give some of that same non-recognition to what have to be renegade Muslim groups. They are criminals before they are Muslims, just as KKK members are criminals before they are Christians.

Do all or most Muslims support Al Qaeda? No, only a few.

Do all or most Christians support racist and anti-Semitic Christian identity. No, only a few. Think about it.

What other editors SAY

Swatting isn't a prank, it's a serious crime

THE HOLLAND SENTINEL

It used to be that telephone pranks didn't get much more serious than someone calling in a bogus pizza order. No one really suffered except for the poor delivery driver searching for a non-existent address or showing up at the door of a mystified homeowner who hadn't actually ordered six large pizzas.

Telephone pranks are more serious today. Sometimes to harass particular people and sometimes just for their own cruel pleasure, perpetrators referred to as "swatters" place calls designed to spark a major police response, sending heavily armed officers with guns drawn to the homes of innocent people, or shutting down large schools for hours. There have been about a dozen such incidents of swatting — so called because they bring out police special weapons and tactics ("swat") teams — in Ottawa County in the past year. The most recent occurred Monday, when a phoned-in bomb threat forced police to lock down Allendale High School for more than an hour. Previous swatting targets have included the Coopersville public school complex, three local bank branches and, last April, a home in Zeeland.

Swatting is more than a matter of inconvenience and wasted police resources. Police put themselves and others at risk on the roads and at the incident scene during a high-speed response. An innocent move by a homeowner or student could easily be misinterpreted by a police officer responding to a call of an active shooter, resulting in irreversible tragedy. Then there's the danger that first responders begin to assume that any such calls are false, slowing the response to real dangers.

It's a frustrating and annoying situation. In a post-Columbine and Newtown world, police and schools simply can't ignore such threats, even when they suspect the calls aren't genuine. Swatters can be difficult to track down, too, since technology makes it easy to mask the phone numbers of incoming calls. In fact, they're often thousands of miles away; according to media reports, the Allendale High School threat Monday is believed to have originated in the United Kingdom, as was a threat that caused a lockdown at Coopersville Public Schools in September.

The FBI has reportedly been enlisted to help in the cases.

It's clear to us that swatting has to be prosecuted seriously, not as some unfortunate but excusable adolescent misdeed. Television station WZZM reported last week that a 14-year-old boy who had met the Coopersville Public Schools swatter online and was convicted as an accomplice in the crime was ordered to pay $10,000 in restitution; his mother told WZZM the conviction "ruined our life." That punishment might seem severe for a young person who didn't actually place the call in question and who cooperated with police. However, it sends an unmistakable message that swatting is a serious matter that comes with serious consequences.

The word "prank" doesn't really apply to swatting. Pranks are jokes that may sting at the time but carry no lasting harm; even the victims may laugh about them after the initial embarrassment. That's not the case with swatting, with all the costs and dangers that a high-level police response can bring. We need to back up police and schools and state clearly that swatting is not a prank, but a very serious crime.

Time for Congress to rein in White House

THE ALPENA NEWS

Some members of a U.S. Senate committee have the right idea — reducing federal mandates for public schools — but in the context of President Barack Obama's administration their approach seems naive.

Members of the Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee are discussing requirements in the 2001 No Child Left Behind law. One of their concerns is that the statute requires states to conduct too much testing of public school students.

But Obama's administration is not really enforcing NCLB anyway. Since 2011, it has been granting states waivers from complying with the law, in exchange for bowing to other mandates from Washington. About 40 states have been granted waivers.

And guess what? Waiver rules have their own testing requirements.

Lawmakers may want to stop discussing what amounts to a law rescinded by Obama and begin finding ways to rein in a White House that has decided, without sanction from Congress, to write its own rules.

CHARLEVOIX — Joseph Beauvais, born in 1854, of French stock in eastern Canada. He was one of the most versatile and prolific boat builders ever to put down roots in Charlevoix. During the winter of 1880-81 he manufactured 35 rowboats, and the Charlevoix Sentinel newspaper reported of their quality that "... the Beauvais boats have made themselves famous." He also operated a rental livery (pictured) on the west shore of Round Lake, north of the Clinton Street dock, plus liveries at both the Chicago and Belvedere Clubs.

In March 1889, at his boatyard on the southeast shore of the lake, Beauvais began constructing 45 clinker rowboats. When added to the 47 already at the three liveries, by midsummer he possessed what many people claimed to be the "largest and best built fleet" of any resort in Michigan. By 1890, the number of rowboats was up to 110. In 1886, the Sentinel had said of his entire range of boats: "In point of beauty, he has reached the highest degree of perfection." Six years later, the Beauvais Boat and Canoe Company's sterling reputation resulted in an invitation to show its wares in the Transportation Exhibit of the upcoming 1893 World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago. Beauvais and his men set to work immediately constructing "a number of magnificent boats and canoes for the competitive exhibit" that, as the Sentinel put it, "will take the shine from all others of a like character."

Great Lakes Energy awards $20,269 in classroom grants

NORTHERN MICHIGAN — Rising above the challenge of tight budgets, there are 13 teachers who received $20,269 in grants from Great Lakes Energy's 2014-2015 Touchstone Energy Classroom Grant Program. These teachers will launch projects this year that tap into creative technology.

To date, Great Lakes Energy has awarded more than $52,700 in grants and funded 39 projects during the program's history. The program funds innovative technology projects not covered by traditional school funding.

"These grants encourage teachers' efforts to better engage students and enhance classroom education at all grade levels through introducing projects that use new technologies. This year marks the third year of the grant program, administered by local rural electric cooperative Great Lakes Energy.

"Our grants provide the opportunities for schools to expand their learning environment beyond just the ordinary," according to Shari Culver, GLE's vice president of communications and marketing. "The innovation shown in many of the grant applications makes us proud to support our local schools with this program."

Touchstone Energy Classroom Grants are available to K-12 teachers who successfully apply each fall and whose schools serve children of GLE members. Grants are awarded up to a maximum of $2,000 per school district.

Great Lakes Energy collects applications mid-September to mid-November with winning projects selected by a panel of judges. The application process

Progressive partnership

Munson, Charlevoix Area Hospital affiliation continues to strengthen

LOUISE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Officials with Charlevoix Area Hospital have confirmed that hospital's current affiliation with Munson Healthcare is moving forward as planned.

Currently, Munson assists Charlevoix Area Hospital in providing some clinical and organizational services.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Communications Coordinator Cathy Fischl said as the two health systems continue to strengthen their current affiliation, at this time, what is next between the two entities is undetermined.

"Things are on track," Fischl said. "The relationship between Munson and Charlevoix Area Hospital has been very positive to date."

In June, the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors voted unanimously to "authorize management to enter into a letter of intent with Munson Healthcare to explore a fuller affiliation agreement without specific detail as to the ultimate structure of such affiliation."

The board agreed strengthening the hospital's relationship with Munson Healthcare could be the most effective way to ensure ongoing hospital success in the changing health care environment.

"Officially, we are in the 'due diligence' phase of our affiliation discussions and have not yet determined what the final partnership will look like," said Lyn Jenks, Charlevoix Area Hospital CEO. "Our board is working with Munson toward a June 1, final decision and or deal."

Munson Healthcare Corporate Communications Specialist Dale Killingbeck said the current relationship between Munson and Charlevoix Area Hospital has not changed since the announcement last June about the intent to explore a fuller affiliation.

In June, Munson Healthcare President and CEO Ed Ness said he looked forward to working with the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board toward a non-binding letter of intent between the two organizations.

"Our 2012 agreement with Charlevoix Area Hospital gave it access to a broader range of services from Munson," he said. "It also created an ongoing conversation about how the two organizations could best work together to serve patients with local health care services. We are excited to work with them to more clearly define the steps needed to secure their vision for local health care."

On Jan. 30 the sale of Mercy Hospital in Grayling and Cadillac to Munson Healthcare was finalized. Munson officially took over each hospital on Feb. 1.

The acquisition of Grayling and Cadillac adds two more hospitals to the Munson network — Munson Medical Center in Traverse City and Paul Oliver Memorial Health Hospital in Frankfort. Munson also manages Kalkaska Memorial Health Center.

Osego Memorial Hospital and West Shore Medical Center in Manistee have the same affiliation with Munson as Charlevoix does, Killingbeck said.

Hospital welcomes new chemotherapy-infusion center

CHARLEVOIX — The Sarah M. Foster, M.D. Chemotherapy-Infusion Center will be dedicated at a special ribbon cutting celebration at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 11.

The general public, friends, donors and all supporters of the hospital are invited to join the celebration. This ceremony will mark the official opening of the much anticipated chemotherapy-infusion center which offers local residents the option to receive chemotherapy-infusion treatments closer to home in a new, safe and scenic environment.

The new center is an important component to cancer treatment and recovery, as well as infusion treatment and is located within Charlevoix Area Hospital, 14700 Lake Shore Drive.

OBITUARY

Sally Dian Wynkoop, 76

Sally Dian Wynkoop, 76, of Charlevoix, passed away Wednesday, Jan. 28, 2015, at McLaren Northern Michigan in Petoskey.

She was born July 17, 1938, in Port Huron, the daughter of Weston and Virginia (Munro) Jury. She grew up in Port Huron, graduated from Port Huron High School, then graduated from St. Clair County Community College.

On April 7, 1955, she married Richard J. Wynkoop in Port Huron. They made their home there before moving to Charlevoix in 1985. Sally worked at the Charlevoix County State Bank, and owned Family Affair Arts and Crafts in Charlevoix.

She is survived by her husband of 60 years, Richard of Charlevoix; their children, Ricky L. Wynkoop of Charlevoix, Vicki Lynn (Ronnie) McWatters of Charlevoix, Jeffrey Scott (Cheryl) Wynkoop of Kewadin, Andrew John Wynkoop of Charlevoix; 15 grandchildren; 22 great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild; and sister, Barbara Scully of Charlevoix.

Sally was preceded in death by her son, Wayne; son-in-law, Terry Moses of Charlevoix; and brother, Ronald Jury of Port Huron.

Sally's life was her family whom she dearly loved. She never missed a Detroit Tigers game.

A private burial service will take place in the spring at the Norwood Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to Bethel Baptist Church, 812 Ontario St., East Jordan, MI 49727.

Share condolences or memories of Sally at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

Richard L. Potter, 61

Richard L. Potter, 61, of Charlevoix and Lansing, died Sunday, Feb. 1, 2015, at his home in Charlevoix.

He was born Oct. 21, 1953, in Charlevoix, to Harry and Betty (Clarke) Potter. Rick graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1971, then attended North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. He graduated from Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Science in Chemistry.

Rick worked for the State of Michigan as a social worker in Sandusky before becoming a systems analyst for the State of Michigan Department of Information Technology, retiring as manager.

He was an accomplished guitarist and was active in the vibrant local music scenes in Lansing and Northern Michigan. Rick had an extensive guitar collection.

He is survived by his sister, Anita (Steve) Valdes of Fort Collins, Colo.; nephew, Adam Valdes; uncles, Eldon (Anah) Potter, Robert (Maczie) Potter all of Charlevoix, Robert (Gloria)

Clarke of Houma, La., David (Sharon) Clarke of Tyler, Texas; aunts, Martha Oman of LaPorte, Ind., Janet (Bruce) Beattie of Cleveland, Ohio; and many cousins as he was part of a large extended family.

A celebration of music and prayer for Rick will take place at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 14, at the Charlevoix Public Library Community Room.

In lieu of flowers, consider making a gift in Rick's memory to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, 14700 Lake Shore Drive, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Sign Rick's guestbook at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

BOYNE CITY

Boyne City to host Charlevoix Area Hospital's next Wellness Wednesday

BOYNE CITY — Charlevoix Area Hospital's next "Wellness Wednesday" will be from 8-11 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 11, at Boyne Area Medical Center, 223 North Park St. in Boyne City.

The Wellness Wednesday Health Screens include: total cholesterol, HDL, TC/HDL ratio; glucose level, body mass index (BMI) score, fat percentage, and a blood pressure reading. No fasting required. However, if you are fasting an LDL and triglyceride reading can also be obtained. Cost for the service is $15. Hemoglobin A1C levels can also be done for known or borderline diabetics for an additional $5.

Participants will receive a blood pressure log and all test results at the time of the screening. A registered nurse will adapt health consultation and educational materials to individual results. No appointment is necessary.

For further information, contact the office of Community Health Education at Charlevoix Area Hospital at (231) 547-8906 or by email at communityhealth@cah.org.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Red Cross posts February blood donation drives

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY — The American Red Cross encourages eligible donors to help ensure a sufficient and diverse blood supply by giving blood this February.

Since the beginning of the year, widespread flu and inclement winter weather in some parts of the country have prevented many regular donors from making or keeping their blood donation appointments. Healthy and diverse blood donors are needed to help maintain a sufficient blood supply.

Diversity among blood donors is important because red blood cells carry markers that determine one's blood type, and certain blood types are unique to specific racial and ethnic groups. Blood must be matched very closely for those patients with rare blood types or for those who need repeated transfusions. Patients are less likely to have complications from blood donated by someone with a similar ethnicity.

All blood types are needed, especially types O negative, A negative and B negative. To learn more about donating blood and to schedule an appointment, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1 (800) 733-2767.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities:

14700 Lakeshore Drive.

EMMET

Petoskey
Feb. 27: 10 a.m.-3:45 p.m., Odawa Casino Resort, 1760 Lears Road.

To donate blood, call
1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or visit redcrossblood.org to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Wilderness adventurers to speak at college

Topics to include Lake Superior Water Trail and Heritage Coast

PETOSKEY — Gary and Joanie McGuffin's conservation efforts for the Lake Superior Watershed will be discussed in a presentation at North Central Michigan College.

During this one-hour presentation, attendees will explore the Lake Superior Water Trail and learn more about the McGuffins' efforts to protect and restore the Lake Superior Watershed. The presentation will take place at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 12, at North Central Michigan College in the library conference room. A book signing will immediately follow and their award-winning books will be available for purchase.

There is no charge to attend, however donations to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council are appreciated.

From their earliest years together, McGuffins have spent their lives in the wilderness. They have led canoeing and kayaking expeditions across northern Canada, the United States and elsewhere around the world. Along the way, they have married, raised a daughter and turned their wanderlust into a full-time career as award-winning writers-photographers and conservationists.

Thanks to many best-selling books and countless exhibitions, literally millions of people have looked through their eyes to see the beauty and mysteries of the natural world. The McGuffins' pictures will take visitors to new places of stunning beauty, and may well inspire several adjoining wilderness adventures. For more information, visit nemich.edu/ece.

The Ice Breaker Speaker series is organized by Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and this feature is presented in partnership with Lake Superior Watershed Conservancy and North Central Michigan College. Schuette urges swift and decisive measures regarding Asian carp and other invasive species

LANSING — Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette continues his fight against Asian carp by submitting formal comments on the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, to prevent the upstream movement of Asian carp and other harmful invasive species into the Chicago Area Waterway and the Great Lakes. This was in response to the Corps' request for comments on this extension of its Great Lakes Mississippi River Interbasin Study (GLM-RIS).

The Great Lakes Commission currently recommends "designing, engineering and constructing modifications to the Brandon Road lock and dam structure including electric barriers at the entrance and exit of the lock, use of fish deterrents, modifications to the gates on the dam, and other technologies."

"We must do everything we can to protect the Great Lakes, and that begins with safeguarding our ecological and economic resources from invasive species like Asian carp," Schuette said. "Michigan simply cannot afford to wait on a federal government that fails to act. We need to permanently separate these two bodies of water as soon as possible and until that is done, take other actions to prevent Asian carp from reaching the Great Lakes. The time for talk is over. We need action."

COURTESY GRAPHIC

Schuette supports taking swift action at the Brandon Road site, noting it is a logical "choke point" for reducing the risk that Asian carp can move upstream to the waterway. As the Corps itself has noted, the Brandon Road site has several advantages, and that "operation of the lock at this location currently provides the only known aquatic pathway that allows transfer of the Mississippi River ANS — aquatic nuisance species — to the Great Lakes through the CAWS — Chicago Area Waterway System." Schuette also noted that his April 2014 comments on the Corps' GLMRIS Report urged the Corps to move forward immediately with actions like those recommended by the Great Lakes Commission, which included interim measures at Brandon Road. Schuette's formal comments emphasized the following: Constructing additional measures in Joliet, Illinois, are only interim steps. They may serve as a "bridge" in time to reduce risks until an effective permanent remedy — hydro logic separation — is implemented, but they are not a substitute for it. Time is of the essence. The Corps' existing electrical barrier system cannot be relied upon to prevent the movement of Asian carp through the Chicago Waterway into Lake Michigan. With each day that this situation continues, the risk that enough Asian carp will enter the lake to trigger the establishment of a reproducing population increases. Thus, it is imperative that the Corps move as quickly as possible to design and implement measures to reduce that risk.

The Corps should not wait until it completes further study of all potential control measures for Brandon Road. Instead, the Corps should proceed in phases, and prioritize those risk-reduction measures that can be most quickly designed and implemented. For example, the Corps could expeditiously design and install technologies such as underwater cameras and/or sonar to monitor, in real time, for the presence of Asian carp within the Brandon Road Lock. The results of that monitoring could then be used to guide immediate responses, such as changes in lock operations or selective application of fish poison.

Schuette also states that the Corps need not wait for further Congressional authority before taking any additional action at Brandon Road, or elsewhere in or near the Chicago Waterway. Instead, it should use its existing legal authorities under 2012 and 2014 laws to the fullest extent possible in order to expedite action.

Savings of $500,000 in local prescription costs announced

CHARLEVOIX — The people living and working in Charlevoix and Emmet counties have saved more than $500,000 on everyday prescription costs, thanks to the United Way and FamilyWise partnership. The free FamilyWise drug savings card is distributed by Char-Em United Way.

"No one should be forced to choose between paying for food, rent or medicine because of the high cost of prescriptions," said Lorraine Manary, executive director of Char-Em United Way. "That's why we've partnered with FamilyWise to distribute free prescription savings cards to everyone in our communities."

Distributed through United Way, the FamilyWise card lowers the cost of medicine by an average of 40 percent or more for people without insurance or who take medications not covered by their plan. It's easy. You can keep using your card every time you need to fill a prescription. All you have to do is present a FamilyWise card at a local pharmacy to receive the savings.

"The FamilyWise card provides immediate savings on prescription medicines with no paperwork or forms to fill out," said Susan Gilmore, executive director of community engagement for the FamilyWise Community Service Partnership. "The FamilyWise card is for everyone without insurance or for medicines not covered by insurance."

FamilyWise cards can be found locally at any number of pharmacies or at the Char-Em United Way office, 2350 Mitchell Park Drive, lower level of the Red Cross building.

The FamilyWise card is easy to use:

- The card is free
- For immediate and unlimited use
- Anyone can use the FamilyWise card
- No registration or activation required
- Discounts applied automatically

The United Way in the U.S. has helped to save more than $700 million on prescriptions in their communities.

Char-Em United Way works to improve lives and strengthen communities — to advance the common good. It serves communities all across Charlevoix and Emmet counties, accounting for more than 70,000 residents.

United Way's focus is on education, income, and health: the building blocks for a good quality of life.

United Way creates a community of connected individuals, working together for the benefit of all. It recruits people and organizations from all across the community who bring the passion, expertise, and resources needed to get things done.

"Every challenge that fragile families face can lead to more significant problems — a health crisis creates insurmountable financial problems, an unreliable car can lead to loss of income, a job layoff means an inability to provide basic needs and maintain quality child care. This puts a serious burden not only on these individuals, but also on our economy, workforce, and local quality of life.

Almost every family in the U.S. today faces health or financial challenges. FamilyWise provides prescription assistance and information to help everyone be healthy, physically and financially.

Chamber orchestra presents "The Poetry of Love"

PETOSKEY — The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra series of Sunday Recitals will present Libor Ondras and friends in a program titled "The Poetry of Love" at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 15, at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, 1020 E. Mitchell St., Petoskey.

Ondras will be joined by soprano Diane Penning, pianist Sheryl Lott and Libor's son, Maxwell, cellist. The Sunday Recitals are presented free of charge through the generous support of Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra Board member, Carolyn Klender.

Performing a day after Valentine's Day inspired Ondras, music director of the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra, to choose the repertoire for the program.

"Love" serves as the theme for the performance, which includes works for the viola d'amore and arias for soprano Diane Penning by Mozart, Elgar and Ambrose Thomas. The program will conclude with César Franck's Sonata for Violin and Piano, completed in 1886 and dedicated to violinist Eugene Ysaÿe, who had persuaded Franck to write a violin sonata in honor of the violinist's wedding.

Ondras studied viola at the famous Moscow Conservatory and later received advanced degrees at Prague and at the University of Houston. In 2004, he played recitals for the American Viola Society and performed for and chaired the Viola d'amore Society International Congress.

The program, "Poetry of Love" will give the Northern Michigan community its first opportunity to hear a viola d'amore. Quoting the International Viola d'amore Society: "The Viola d'amore is a bowed, stringed instrument that started appearing with frequency on the European continent at the end of the 17th century ... The majority of violas d'amore have fourteen strings — seven playing strings and seven additional resonating or sympathetic strings that go through the bridge and between the fingerboard and neck of the instrument, held by individual pegs in the elongated pegbox."

She frequently appears with the Grand Rapids Symphony and has also performed with the Traverse Symphony. Penning received her Bachelor of Music from the University of Michigan and her Master of Vocal Performance from Western Michigan University.

Pianist Sheryl Lott is a frequent solo and collaborative performer, and is currently on the piano faculties of the Interlochen Arts Camp and Grand Rapids Community College. She has performed most recently on a tour of the British Isles with Big Rapids-based women's choir

She collaborates in performance frequently with many members of the Grand Rapids Symphony and Grand Valley State University faculty and Libor Ondras. She has studied with Ralph Votapek, Ian Holsen, Albertine Votapek and Joseph Evans, and received her DMA from Michigan State University in 2005.

The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra's Sunday Series provides the community the opportunity to experience an intimate musical event. Chamber music has a long history of musicians gathering to play and sing for one another and a group of friends. The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra's mission is to provide live orchestral performances that entertain, educate, and inspire communities across Northern Michigan.

Support for the orchestra is provided by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation, the Bay Harbor Foundation, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, the Frey Foundation, Meijer, Ann K. Irish Charitable Fund, Ted and Brenda Frey Dnnor Advised Fund and hundreds of individual patrons of the arts. Michigan DNR: "Get hooked on Ice Fishing"

MICHIGAN — Fishing is a year-round activity and when the thermometer plunges below freezing in Michigan, most anglers have little choice but to hit the hard water. Ice fishing becomes the go-to activity until spring.

For beginning anglers, ice fishing offers one significant advantage: access. Boat-less anglers, who otherwise are limited to shorelines or fishing piers much of the year, can often access entire lakes. That inspires some anglers to proclaim that ice-fishing season is their favorite time of year.

Fortunately, ice fishing can be relatively simple. All that's needed to start is a way to make a hole in the ice — an auger or spud — a way to clear the slush from it — an inexpensive scoop — and rudimentary equipment.

In February, anglers will have a good opportunity to ice fish without a license. Michigan's annual Winter Free Fishing Weekend is on Saturday, Feb. 14, and Sunday, Feb. 15. There are hands-on educational events scheduled at a number of areas. In addition, the Carl T. Johnson Hunting and Fishing Center in Cadillac holds on-the-ice fishing events every Saturday at noon.

Novice anglers often can find assistance nearby. Tom Goniea, a fisheries biologist at the Department of Natural Resources, says finding a mentor helps shorten the learning curve.

"Ask around," Goniea said. "Ask the guys at work or the folks at church. Ice fishermen make up a community that's usually quite willing to introduce others to the sport."

"And most ice fishermen have enough equipment that they can get you started if you go with them so you can see what you need."

DNR fisheries biologist Christian LeSage agrees.

"There's a big social component to ice fishing," LeSage said. "When you get out on the ice people are usually friendly; they're willing to tell you what they're doing, what they're using, and how they're catching fish."

Except for large mouth and small mouth bass — bass season closes Jan. 1 and doesn't completely reopen until the Saturday before Memorial Day — anglers who ice fish can pursue all species they target the rest of the year. Ice fishing can range from fishing for panfish on a farm pond to making miles-long sojourns on the Great Lakes in pursuit of walleyes, lake trout or other top-of-the-food-chain predators.

LeSage recommends people start with panfish. He likes bluegills.

"You can try it on a small pond in a park," he said. "And you don't need extravagant gear. If you go places where people have been fishing, you don't even need an auger — you can reopen a hole with a hammer."

"Most veteran fishermen know that the best fishing is at dawn and dusk, but you can catch bluegills throughout the day. You can catch them in shallow water. You can catch a lot in a small area. And they're delicious."

What's nice about bluegills is that they can be found almost everywhere and, as fishing quarry, are relatively unsophisticated. All you need is a basic gear. Small fiberglass rods with simple, spring-tension spoons can be yours for less than $10 and you will see accomplished ice anglers using them. Add some light line, a few low-cost tear drops — small weighted hooks — and a container of insect larvae — wax worms or spikes — the early life stages of bee moths or flies, respectively and you're in business. Lower your bait to the bottom, begin slowly working it upward in the water column until you start getting bites, and then fish at that depth.

It can and does get much more complicated with expensive rods, sonar fish finders, and a plethora of other equipment. But many anglers never acquire all that gear and continue to enjoy productive bluegill fishing.

As you progress in the sport and explore other ice-fishing opportunities, the equation becomes decidedly more complex. Get addicted to walleye fishing and you'll be into snowmobile or quad runners, insulated ice shanties, GPS, underwater cameras — the list is endless.

But some factors never change: The first rule of ice fishing is to be safe.

Good, strong ice can support a semi-truck, but every year there are tragedies that often involve recklessness. Make sure the ice is safe. Even arctic temperatures won't guarantee it, especially if there's an insulating layer of snow on top. You can get up-to-date info from bait shops around fishing locales, but always make sure yourself. Carry a spud to test the ice in front of you as you venture forth. Don't approach ice that is discolored or has objects (such as vegetation or timber) protruding through it. Be especially careful of rivers (current can degrade ice quickly) or spring-fed lakes and ponds where warmer water can cause thin spots in an otherwise solid surface.

Always carry basic emergency gear, just in case. Ice picks — or homemade alternatives constructed of nails in dowels — will give you a way to get purchase on the ice should you break through. Carry a rope to toss to someone else who breaks through.

It's better, some would say mandatory, not to go alone. You certainly don't want to head miles off shore — at Saginaw Bay, say, or Little Bay de Noc — without a partner. Always make sure someone knows where you are going and when you plan to return and carry your cell phone.

Make sure you dress for the weather. Dress in layers from head to toe and the best way to keep your feet warm is to keep your head warm and a waterproof outer layer is advisable. Small luxuries like extra gloves and hand warmers often pay large dividends.

Ice fishing isn't for everyone. But if you look around in the winter and see the huge shanty towns that spring up on some of Michigan's best fishing lakes, it's obvious that a lot of people are having a lot of fun out there.

It isn't that difficult to become one of them.

For more information on ice fishing, visit the DNR's website at michigan.gov/fishing.

fund reserves, he said. "We increased our general fund reserves from $600,000 to just over $1 million during that time period," Straebel said. "We did some consolidation and minimizing the fringe benefits costs to the city. It worked. The financials are the most challenging part and this will continue for several years as the housing market in Michigan recovers."

Straebel had many good things to say about the staff in Charlevoix, and he will miss the working relationship he developed over the years with them.

"The staff is top notch and confident," Straebel said. "They are fun people to work with and I attribute all the successes we had over the last seven years to all the city employees. We have some extremely hard-working people that help bring about all the great projects and infrastructure improvements. I really enjoyed working with them. The community should be appreciative of the qualified city staff working for them. I could not have done my job without them."

There are many infrastructure projects moving forward in Charlevoix, which all will be taking place as Straebel transitions out of his role of city manager.

"Ironically we are probably going to see one of the busiest springs dealing with infrastructure in Charlevoix," Straebel said. "We have the State Street project, Lake to Lake trail project and the waste water treatment plant upgrades and improvements are all taking place."

Council member Bill Supernaw said Straebel will be missed.

"It will be hard to fill Rob's position," Supernaw said. "He did some good things for the city."

On Friday, Jan. 31, city council appointed city planner Mike Spencer to be interim city manager, which will take effect after Straebel departs.

"Mike is the most qualified to handle this interim period for the city," said mayor Gabe Campbell. "It makes sense appointing someone who can keep the current flow of city business going. Spencer can do that. He has worked closely with Roh on many of the current projects."

Spencer said he will look forward to working with council and helping the city during this transitional period, but doesn't plan on applying for the job.

"At this time I can help the city better at my current position," Spencer said. "My wife and I are expecting our new baby at any time and the city manager position would require a little more time than I can give. I'm happy to help out as interim city manager as council starts its search."

Putman's huge night lifts Rayders to road LMC victory

KALKASKA — Austin Putman led all scorers with 34 points to lead the Rayders to a 67-54 win during a Lake Michigan Conference game against host Kalkaska Jan. 30.

"It was a back-and-forth contest all the way," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "We would make a run, Kalkaska would answer, it came down to the fourth quarter."

Charlevoix would have the first quarter lead, 15-9.

Kalkaska closed the gap, 17-15, at halftime, but still trailed the Rayders.

Both teams scored 13 points each in the third quarter, the Charlevoix lead was still two points, 30-28, at the break.

"We got ahead with a little run in the fourth quarter and that was the game," Erskine said.

Also for Charlevoix, Nate Moon scored 14 points and Walker Drost added 11 points.

For Kalkaska, Hayden Zimmerman scored 16 points and Austin Cooper added nine.

Charlevoix improved to 4-6 overall, 4-3 in league. The Rayders will host Elk Rapids today (Friday).

Austin Putman had an impressive 34 points in the Rayders' 67-54 victory at Kalkaska Jan. 30.

Charlevoix girls fall at league foe Kalkaska

KALKASKA — Taylor Kibby scored a game high 14 points for Kalkaska as the Blazers defeated visiting Charlevoix 59-34 during a Lake Michigan Conference battle Jan. 30.

For Charlevoix, Hannah Zipp scored a team high, 11 points with five rebounds, Ellie Way added six points, Olivia Storm had five points, and Alexis Tribelfner had three assists and three steals.

Kalkaska led at each quarter break, which included 35-14 at halftime and 54-43 at the end of the third quarter.

Charlevoix is 8-4 overall, 3-4 in league. The Rayders will host Elk Rapids on Friday, Feb. 6.

Charlevoix's Hannah Zipp, shown guarding in a game earlier this season, led the Rayders with 11 points in a Jan. 30 loss at Kalkaska.

Stingrays compete in pair of area meets

GAYLORD — The Charlevoix Stingray swim team competed at the Otsego County Sportsplex in Gaylord Dec. 6.

The young Stingray swim team participated in 16 different events. Six-year old Joe Gaffney competed in three events, just missing his state qualifying time for the 25-yard freestyle. Nine-year old Griffin McFadden also swam in three events, having his best success in 25 butterfly. Senior swimmer Ivy Wells swam in four events, earning her state qualifying times in every event she swam.

The Harbor Springs Ham-merheads hosted an Invitational Meet Jan. 24 where every one of the Stingrays swam their personal bests.

The Stingrays especially shone in medley events. The girls 8 and under team of Addison Boop, Piper Krzywosinski, Grace Lancaster, and Tavi Steffel placed 2nd in the 100 medley relay. 15-year old Elizabeth Barutt also placed second in the 200 individual medley. Medleys consist of all four strokes — freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke and butterfly. Joe Gaffney's state qualifying time in the 25-yard breast stroke was also a highlight.

The Stingrays Swim Team's primary goal and philosophy are to develop and improve each athlete's swimming technique and competitive ability; to promote teamwork, spirit and unity among all team members; and to deliver a positive and enjoyable athletic experience. Any swimmer who is able to swim the length of the pool is encouraged to join at any time.

For more information about the Charlevoix Stingray Swim Team and other Charlevoix Area Community Pool programs visit www.charlevoixpool.org or call (231) 547-0922.

Charlevoix hosting Winter Baseball Camp

CHARLEVOIX — The ninth annual Northern Michigan Winter Baseball Camp will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, March 1, at Charlevoix High School.

This year's camp instructors will be former professional baseball players, including two-time World Series Champion Doug Mirabelli, formerly of the Red Sox, Giants, Rangers and Padres, Dennis Rasmussen, 12-year MLB pitcher who pitched for the Padres, Yankees, Reds, Padres, Cubs and Royals, as well as Mike Epping, formerly of the Traverse City Beach Bums, San Diego Padres organization and an All-American at the University of New Orleans.

The camp is open to players in grades 7-12. Because of the large number of attendees in past years, registration in advance is encouraged to ensure appropriate instructor to camper ratios. Many campers in prior years have gone on to play college baseball.

The camp will include instruction in hitting, fielding, baserunning, pitching and catching.

Cost of the camp is $80 for the four hours. It is an active camp, designed to minimize downtime.

For more information or registration forms, contact Charlevoix baseball coach Allen Telgenhof at rayderbaseball@gmail.com CHARLEVOIX — Children's laughter echoed throughout the grounds and halls of Castle Farms on Saturday, Jan. 31, as children and adults sipped on sweet hot chocolate and munched on miniature cupcakes during the first Snowman Wonderland Story time event.

Nearly 60 children and adults combined were either exploring the castle grounds or listening to the variety of snowman stories being read inside the Queens Tavern.

Charlynn McBee, organizer of the story time event said, they have a good turnout for a first time event.

"Everyone appears to be enjoying themselves today," McBee said. "There are a lot of people from the community having a great time with their children."

It is disappointing the children were unable to make snowmen, but the day was still a success, McBee said.

Despite the lack of packing snow, children had plenty to do. Three-year-old Josie Mosley, of East Jordan, was captivated by the electric train sets.

"The trains are her favorite," said Josie's mother, Megan. "She is having a blast. She hasn't stopped playing with them since we got here."

Having family events like story time are good for the community, Mosley said.

"It's a good time," Mosley said. "It's nice to have something like this. It gives us something to do with our children, especially in the winter."

Michelle Shawn, of Petoskey, was among the many parents who expressed the same sentiments about story time at the castle.

"It's a fun event and great way to spend time with your kids," Shawn said. "Often, in the winter you're stuck inside because it's too cold, but this is perfect for the children. It's a great activity for the whole family."

Overall the entire event went very smooth and organizers will consider doing another story time next year, McBee said.

"We definitely will look at doing more of these events in the future," McBee said. "We like to provide opportunities for families in our community to come together and enjoy time with their children."

Chris Demameus reads "Sneezy the Snowman," to the children in the Queens Tavern during the Snowman Wonderland Story Time event at Castle Farms on Saturday. Approximately 60 children and adults combined were in attendance at the inaugural event.

Eight-year-old Akira Purdy, of Charlevoix, enjoys some miniature cupcakes.

Main Street group hopeful for select level

LANSING — After more than a year of building community support, awareness events, fundraisers and planning, organizers are confident Charlevoix is ready for select level in the Main Street program.

The Charlevoix Main Street steering committee made its presentation for select level in the Main Street program to the Main Street Center Board in Lansing, on Wednesday.

The Michigan Main Street program is part of Gov. Rick Snyder's place-making initiative and downtown development efforts in Michigan. These efforts are based on numerous recent studies showing that investment in the downtown areas create vibrant and healthy communities, which according to Snyder makes Michigan economically stronger.

Phil Parr, steering committee chair and owner of Bridge Street Tap Room, said community leaders have learned the basics of the Main Street four-point approach, including organization, promotion, economic restructuring and design.

"We're ready to go and our presentation is sound," Parr said. "We stressed to the board that Charlevoix really needs Main Street and the re-

Smooth start for new city treasurer

CHARLEVOIX — Kelly McGuinn has been on the job officially for two weeks, but the work she had done at the Ostsego County Road Commission as finance director has helped her transition into her new role as treasurer for Charlevoix.

McGuinn was hired by city council on Jan. 5, and she said things have gotten off to a good start, even though there are some things she is still getting accustomed to.

"Overall things have been going well," McGuinn said. "Everyone has been very supportive, helpful and encouraging. No one has gotten short with me when I do have a question, so things are going pretty good."

McGuinn said the job is exactly as she envisioned it would be when she decided to apply for the job. She said there are parts of the job, however,

TRAVERSE CITY — Representatives from the Charlevoix Elks Lodge presented a check for $2,550 to the Mid-Michigan Honor Flight Hub — an organization that flies the men and women who served during World War II to the nation's capital to see the national memorial constructed in their honor.

Mid-Michigan Honor Flight is based in Mecosta County, but takes veterans from all over Michigan to Washington, D.C., for free.

On Jan. 31, at the Veterans Cup Tournament between Traverse City Central and Bay Reps, the Mid-Michigan Honor Flight Hub received financial support from the Charlevoix Elks Lodge for their 2015 flying season.

Larry Levengood, member of the Charlevoix Elks Lodge and trained-guardian for Mid-Michigan Honor Flight said Honor Flight is an important organization and needs community support.

"We want to support our World War II veterans in the Charlevoix area and make sure they can see the national war memorial that was built to honor their sacrifices," Levengood said.

Mid-Michigan Honor Flight flew twice in 2014. In June the group flew out of Grand Rapids and in September the flight left from Traverse City.

Mid-Michigan Honor Flight Director Tricia Donegan, said it takes $500 to fly a veteran to Washington, D.C.

"All veterans fly free-of-charge," Donegan said. "I have the highest regard for those who served. I want to do my part in saying 'thank you' on behalf of a grateful nation, and it is important we give these World War II veterans a chance to visit the monument that honors their service."

Mid-Michigan Honor Flight has a waiting list of more than 160 veterans, each waiting for their opportunity to fly. Donegan said the board is committed to getting as many flying as possible. But it takes $110,000 for an entire "Tour of Honor" and it takes funding to make that happen.

"Time is working against us, though, so we need to act quickly," Donegan said. "For most of these veterans, this is their last chance to see how much America appreciates their service. They have waited more than 60 years for their memorial to be built, they deserve this and together we can make it happen for them."

Levengood got involved with Honor Flight last September, when he was called to be a "stand by" guardian for the September flight. He hopes to get his opportunity to escort one of the veterans from the "greatest generation" this flying season.

"From all I've heard, and all I've seen personally, this day will be something I will never forget," Levengood said.

One step closer

Annie Doyle to lead Charlevoix DDA and Main Street program

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 • lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The chances Charlevoix will reach select status in the Main Street program could be even better now, after city officials filled the full-time Community Economic Development director position on Tuesday, Feb. 10.

Annie Doyle, of Charlevoix, will begin her duties as director on March 2.

Doyle, who is the assistant planning and zoning director for Boyne City, said the job in Charlevoix is a great opportunity for her.

"I look forward to the new position in my hometown," Doyle said. "I feel like it's a great fit for me. I think we have a great community and I see the potential of doing wonderful things in Charlevoix."

Coming from Boyne City, which is a master community in Main Street, gives Doyle experience and knowledge of the program.

"I have hands on experience with Main Street and look forward to bringing those skills to the program in Charlevoix," Doyle said.

Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel, said out of all the applicants throughout the interview process, it was Doyle who rose to the top.

"Annie's skills were the best fit for the position," Straebel said. "We are very enthusiastic to have her coming on board, as we pursue the Main Street program in Charlevoix."

Families flock to Shadow Fest

LOUISE ALLEN
(231) 547-6556 • allen@shur.com

CHARLEVOIX — With six more weeks of winter predicted by a groundhog, people attending Shadow Fest in Charlevoix on Saturday, Feb. 7, were more interested in the weekend celebration than an extended weather forecast by the shadow-shy fuzzy critter.

"We're here doing the winter thing," said Mary Miller, who was up from Kentucky, with friend, Kim Frickman. "We have a condo in Stover and we decided to come stay this weekend for the festival and then do some skiing."

Frickman was enjoying the chili tasting at the festival.

"Everything is very good," Frickman said. "I'm going to try and taste each chili, before going to some of the other activities."

From the free showing of Groundhog Day at the Cinema

III to the free magic show at the Charlevoix Public Library, families had plenty to do during Shadow Fest.

Molly Arnold and family came to Shadow Fest to take part in the many free activities.

"It's nice to be able to bring your family to a festival and have activities that we can all enjoy," Arnold said. "It's fun to have something going on in the winter time. We are having a blast downtown."

During the performance of the Petoskey Steel Drum Band, the main tent at East Park was standing room only as the people crowded in the tent to see the band play.

Traverse City residents Lew and Debbie Maynard were up for the entire weekend after friends invited them to the festival.

"It's a great performance and the festival is a lot of fun," Debbie said. "I'm glad we came."

The Dogman rides again

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558

CHARLEVOIX — Despite their funny appearance, fat tire bikes have transitioned from a fad to a mainstream form of recreation, exploding in popularity throughout the years.

Because of the bikes' increasing popularity, Chet Morris, owner of Revolution Bike, in Charlevoix came up with the Dogman Challenge three years ago to help promote the facilities at Mount McSaubia Ski Hill in Charlevoix.

"We wanted to come up with an event that would generate interest in Mount McSaubia," Morris said. "It's our local ski hill and it's important for us to promote the outdoor recreation available in the winter in Charlevoix. We hope people will come up here to race, spend the weekend and hopefully stimulate our local economy in downtown."

Fat tire bicycles are specially made to ride in sloppy weather conditions such as snow and sand. The wide tires have low pressure, and the bikes are "fun to ride," Morris said.

"They're real popular and a fun way to get out and enjoy the beauty of the area," Morris said.

The third annual Dogman Challenge will begin with a mass start at noon on Saturday, Feb. 21, at the base of the ski hill. Fat tire bike riders will race on a 1.5-mile loop through the trails of Mount McSaubia and North Point Nature Preserve. The rider to complete the most laps in two hours is the champion and will be awarded the Dogman trophy and cash prize. Trophies and prizes will also be awarded to first, second, and third place winners in both the men's and women's divisions.

The third annual Dogman Challenge will begin with a mass start at noon on Saturday, Feb. 21, at the base of the Mount McSaubia ski hill.

Registration is open at onestoprace.com, dogman-challenge.net or by contacting Revolution Bike at (231) 237-0900.

Each year the course stays the same, but there have been some changes to the start of the race, Morris said.

"We like to build excitement for our race," Morris said. "We like to change the start of the race because everyone is fresh and ready to go. It builds excitement among the racers and it also gets the adrenaline and the crowd going because they are not sure what to expect."

Morris said having spectators at the race is important because it promotes the competitive atmosphere of the race.

"You don't have to compete to enjoy the Dogman Challenge," Morris said. "Everyone is invited to come out, gather around the fire and ring your Dogman cowbell and cheer the racers on."

The lodge will be open so spectators and racers can purchase warm beverages and food during the event.

Preparations for the annual race begin in the fall after the summer season in Charlevoix begins to wind down, Morris said.

We begin discussing what our goals are for the race and we start seeking our sponsorships for the race," Morris said.

Without the support of local sponsors, Morris said the race would not be what it is today.

"This year we have 14 sponsors," Morris said. "Our sponsors are the ones responsible for the many giveaways and our large cash prize of $1,200 to be split up among our winners. Sponsorship also helps cover the cost of trophies in all four categories."

For more information on registration or to become a Dogman Challenge sponsor, contact Morris at (231) 237-0900, art.bicycles@yahoo.com, or visit the Dogman Challenge on Facebook.

Students simultaneously support their basketball teams while spreading a strong anti-tobacco message by wearing matching brown T-shirts at Charlevoix High School's Brown Out basketball game on Friday, Feb. 6.

Youth group promotes a tobacco-free lifestyle

EMILY PADGETT
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix High School welcomed SAFE to their home basketball games on Friday, Feb. 6. SAFE's aim was to spread their anti-tobacco message.

The SAFE (Substance Abuse Free Environment) youth group equipped fans of the basketball game to wear their brown T-shirts that advise the wearer: "Don't be a Butthead." They refer to the event series as a The Brown Out Project. Previous brownouts occurred earlier in the season at Boyne City, Petoskey and East Jordan basketball games. They chose brown to represent the filth and grime associated with using tobacco in order to send a clear message to their audience.

"SAFE helped me know a lot more about substance abuse, how to take better care of my body, and all about peer pressure," said Allie Hodge, a Charlevoix High School senior and four-year member of SAFE. "Now I can influence others." She joined in ninth grade; her sister was also a SAFE member for her four years in high school. Hodge reported that SAFE hosts dances a couple times during the year, mentioning that "That are actually really fun!" She believes the issue of substance abuse needs an increased awareness and that other regions could certainly benefit from programs such as SAFE.

Cassie McCraney, also a senior at Charlevoix High School said her favorite part of SAFE is, "The fact of what it stands for — high school students (who are) substance free."

Susan Pulaski, the advisor for the group, describes SAFE as a student-driven community collaboration.

The students decide what events to plan, what to use for the theme, and how to raise money. The group, established in 2007, joins in on the national "Kick Butts Day" to discourage tobacco use. They created a video last year raising awareness of tobacco companies advertising to youth by selling flavored cigars. SAFE distributes rubber bracelets with slogans the students invented, clicker pens, stickers to campaign against adults purchasing alcohol for minors, and reminder cards for tuxedo shops before prom. They even have a gold coin for St. Patrick's day stating, "Have a Gold one, not a Cold one." Pulaski believes their model works because the students are behind the messages. The positive peer influence can reach even the youngest of students through a program that displays substance-free student athletes throughout the school year.

SAFE meets once a month in Petoskey at the United Methodist Church. Any substance-free teen in Northern Michigan can apply to join the group. SAFE even provides gas cards and arranges car pools to attend the meetings. Visit their Facebook page at facebook.com/SAFEinNM to learn more.

BookTalkers discusses Jack Driscoll's 'The World of a Few Minutes Ago'

CHARLEVOIX — BookTalkers, the Charlevoix Public Library's book discussion group, is reading "The World of a Few Minutes Ago," by Jack Driscoll, and will host a discussion at 6 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 16, at the library, 220 W. Clinton Street.

Set in Northern Michigan, this collection of stories from award-winning author and poet Jack Driscoll. He explores the lives of husbands and wives, parents and children, old friends and lovers; and considers both their attachments to the past and their as-yet-unseen futures with a consistently deep understanding of each character's internal world and emotional struggles. Few authors have the flexibility of voice, and the emotional range and depth of Driscoll, a Michigan Notable Author.

BookTalkers is a group of readers who love to read different books that may challenge or delight. They gather monthly for lively discussions. The BookTalkers meet at 6 p.m. on the third Monday of each month. New members are always welcome.

On March 16, the book discussed will be "The Bird: The Life and Legacy of Mark Twain," by Doug Wilson.

For discussion questions, visit the book discussion page at charlevoixlibrary.org>books-movies-music>book-discussions.

For more information about the discussions, call Beth at (231) 237-7340.

Deadline for health insurance applications approaches

CHARLEVOIX — Don't have health insurance, or know someone who isn't covered? Local residents without health coverage are strongly encouraged to enroll via the Health Insurance Marketplace before the Feb. 15 deadline. Nearly 80 percent of those enrolled could be covered for $100 or less per month, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The Health Insurance Marketplace, HealthCare.gov, is a federal website where those without affordable health insurance may learn about available plans and select coverage from a list of options. The Marketplace helps people enroll in a high-quality insurance plan online, by phone or with a paper application. All plans cover essential health benefits, pre-existing conditions and preventive care.

For those with enrollment questions, navigators and certified application counselors at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan can help. They are trained to assist clients with the Health Insurance Marketplace, as well as the Healthy Michigan Plan, Healthy Kids and MICHild.

"No matter what your budget is, there's a plan out there for you," said Pat Borowiak, a regional lead navigator at the health department.

Although the federal deadline is less than two weeks away, there are other coverage options available year-round. Borowiak encourages people to contact the health department to learn about affordable healthcare programs for which they may be eligible. The health department can also direct callers to local application counselors in other parts of Northern Michigan.

Visit HealthCare.gov to enroll in the Health Insurance Marketplace. Call the health department at (800) 432-4121 for enrollment assistance or for information about affordable insurance programs.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Local United Way connects volunteers with opportunities

CHARLEVOIX — Char-Em United Way is connecting volunteers with local opportunities to engage in service. Five years ago, Char-Em United Way launched Volunteer Connections, a "virtual volunteer center," a new and improved online system was initiated last January. The updated site is very user friendly; with 77 agencies active on the system and 4,975 community members having viewed the needs they posted.

By creating a venue that both allows individuals to see the many ways they can make a difference and agencies to promote their needs, Char-Em United Way is increasing the potential for volunteerism, donations and involvement in the community.

Nonprofit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties list their volunteer needs on the Volunteer Connections website. Volunteers then help with these requests, based on their skills, interests and availability. A wide variety of agencies and projects allow volunteers to focus their efforts on the environment and ecology, culture and the arts, education, health and safety or emergency services.

With the current employment challenges in our area, job seekers can gain valuable experience through volunteering. Often nonprofit organizations need skilled volunteers to develop their website, plan marketing, organize fundraisers and lead programs — all experiences that can build a strong resume.

Pat Brewer, Char-Em United Way Vista Volunteer, believes that volunteering is an integral element of citizenship.

"We have an amazing culture of service and giving in Northern Michigan," Brewer said. "This United Way program is helping to harness that positive energy and community spirit. Volunteer Connections continues to grow and we are very excited promoting its use in the community."

Many area programs rely on volunteers to complete their philanthropic mission. There are projects available for all ages and talents. Volunteer Connections is a free resource that benefits the entire community — those who serve and those who are in need of service.

Volunteer Connections also serves the volunteer needs of Charlevoix and Emmet counties by providing additional resources for volunteer recruitment, recognition and management. It is one of the strategic initiatives developed by Char-Em United Way and is supported through donations to the United Way campaign which is currently in progress as well as proceeds from the annual spring fundraising event, Instant Wine Celler.

Save the date for this year's Instant Wine Celler from 7-11 p.m. on Friday, April 17, at Stafford's Perry Hotel in Petoskey.

Proposed bill brings problem to light

MIDLAND DAILY NEWS
Feb. 4

So what do you do when encouraging good sportsmanship is not enough?

That's a large part of the debate when it comes to deciding whether a proposed bill in the state house to address violence against game officials and coaches is a worthy piece of legislation.

There's plenty of frustration among game officials, which include referees and umpires, who are at times on the receiving end of verbal taunts and physical threats from athletes, coaches and fans.

They, understandably so, want to be protected from the harassment. And they want to know that there are laws on the books that will appropriately punish the offenders if matters get out of hand.

The bill, sponsored by Detroit State Sen. Morris Hood, would make it a felony for anyone who "assaults, batters, or solicits ... or encourages another person to assault and batter an individual who is performing his or her duties as a sports official while at a sporting event or through social media ...". If guilty, this felony is punishable by imprisonment for not more than 3 years or fine of not more than $10,000, or both. Hood's legislation was prompted by a 2014 incident involving a soccer referee in Livonia who died after being punched by a player during an adult men's league game.

In a recent Midland Daily News, local sports officials had a variety of opinions. Some thought that the bill is a move in the right direction, and is similar to what other states already have written into law. Others, however, noted that it would not act as a deterrent to violence because many assaults take place during the heat of the moment.

Interestingly, the official said that he believes local sports associations need to make it crystal clear to athletes and coaches at the local level that inappropriate behavior is unacceptable and violators will be held accountable. An assault or threat takes place.

That makes good sense, and, to our knowledge, most if not all local sports organizations do that.

Regardless if Hood's bill becomes law, this discussion is a good reminder that making physical or verbal threats against game officials or coaches is totally unacceptable, and there must be swift consequences as a result of an infraction.

Balanced budget tour resonates with Americans

THE ALPENA NEWS
Feb. 5

It is no wonder that Ohio Gov. John Kasich has been received so favorably in his multi-state tour on behalf of a balanced budget amendment to the U.S. Constitution. More and more Americans are becoming aware that in Washington, they just don't get the concept of living within one's means.

Kasich, through the nonprofit group Balanced Budget Forever, has visited several states to advocate adoption of an amendment that would require Congress and the president to stop adding to the national debt.

For the process to begin, 34 states would have to call for a constitutional convention. Any amendments suggested there would have to be ratified by at least 38 states.

Even with the minimal spending discipline called for under "sequester" rules that went into effect Jan. 1, 2013, the U.S. is on track for nearly $500 billion in deficit spending this year.

And President Barack Obama is proposing a record $4 trillion budget for the coming year. He has said one of his goals is to eliminate the sequester provisions. He wants no limits on spending.

Critics have said amending the Constitution is too radical and too risky a way of curbing deficit spending. But allowing Congress and the White House to keep adding to the $18.1 trillion national debt — with no restrictions — has its perils, too.

LOOKING BACK...

One hundred years ago, in February of 1915, a prolonged cold spell accompanied by days of dead calm froze Lake Michigan into a sheet of ice as flat and clear as a pane of plate glass. The lake bottom could be seen as if it was on the other side of a window. Ice skaters traveled out for a mile, and held races between North and South Points. When the ice started to break up, an ear pressed to it seemed to hear the rumblings of distant thunder. This phenomenon was a not uncommon occurrence during the years when winters were much longer and more severe than they are today.

Library hosts travel, adventure series

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library is pleased to announce that the 2015 Travel and Adventures Series is about to begin. The library has hosted this popular series for the last eight years. It features personal accounts of grand adventures and allows attendees an opportunity to meet the travelers and experience places through their eyes.

Jessica Pociask always wanted to see the world. So far, so good: She's traveled to almost 80 countries. Her thirst for travel and adventure started at an early age. "All my aunts and uncles on my father's side traveled extensively," she said. "Their stories, combined with my grandfather's musty collection of National Geographic magazines and my copy of Richard Halliburton's 'Book of Marvels,' which told tales of far off exotic lands with ancient ruins, incredible wildlife, and untouched tribes, made me dream of being an explorer."

tion Society and Michigan State Alumni Association. In 2006, she was one of 50 women chosen by the National Wildlife Federation to participate in the Women's Leadership and International Sustainable Development conference in Washington, D.C. Last year she was one of the keynote speakers at the Wildlife Conservation Film Festival in New York City.

Pociask will discuss Petra:

Rose City of the Desert at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 17. Petra, western Jordan's ancient city built with rose-colored sandstone, has few easy access points. Petra was founded in the first century B.C.E. by an Arab tribe which created a mercantile empire that thrived for nearly a millennium. High walls and mountains protected it from plunderers. Once inside, visitors found a city of fountains, temples, and villas irrigated with a water supply system that allowed for the cultivation of crops in the desert. Petra was largely forgotten for centuries, until a Swiss traveler happened upon it in 1812. Then, in 1989, Hollywood happened to Petra when Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade was filmed there. The library invites locals to take a virtual tour of this mysterious desert mecca with seasoned traveler Jessica Pociask, from WANT Expeditions based in Traverse City.

Kayaking Isle Royale will be presented at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 24. Isle Royale ranks as the nation's most remote national park. Isle Royale is perhaps best known for its wolf and moose biological study.

"This research project is the longest continuous study of any predator-prey system in the world," according to isleroyalewolf.org.

Join Marquette native Frida Waara, as she shares her journey around the island by kayak. Waara believes everything gets better when you get outside. Hooked on traveling — particularly under her own power — she will share touring our nation's most remote national park from the waterline.

The final program in the series features the Wonders of Italy, with Charlevoix residents, Rick and Cindy Malamed, at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 3.

One of the miracles of Italy, is that a relatively small country contains such a wealth of stunning scenery and beautiful cities. On their vacation, the Malameds enjoyed a guided tour of Tuscany, Umbria, the Italian Riviera and the Alps — ageless, evocative regions that brim with history, striking vistas and rich traditions. Join them at the library as they share their experiences and photos.

The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St. The series is free and all are welcome.

PETOSKEY

Watershed Council to host Valentine's Day Winter monitoring adventure and potluck

PETOSKEY — Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council will be hosting the ninth annual Winter Monitoring Adventure and Potluck beginning at 10 a.m. on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14.

The destination this year will be the North Central Michigan College Natural Area near downtown Petoskey. This is a great opportunity to learn more about area waters and the life they contain during the winter months. Watershed Council staff will guide attendees on a hike through the trails to explore and learn about the Natural Area, Russian Creek, the Bear River and the new storm water treatment ponds constructed with Great Lakes Restoration Initiative funds awarded to Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

People also will learn about the Watershed Council's monitoring programs and in particular the Volunteer Stream Monitoring Program. Providing there is not too much ice and snow over Russian Creek, attendees also will have the opportunity to jump in — with waders on ideally — to collect some critters and discuss monitoring methods. Who knows? People might find some amorous amphipods/scuds, love-smitten Libellula dragonfly larvae or some cupid-worshipping caddisflies.

The adventure will start when people drop off their potluck dish to pass at the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council office, 426 Bay St., in downtown Petoskey. Then everyone will carpool to the natural area for some exploring. The group will return to the Watershed Council at approximately 1 p.m. for the potluck lunch. Attendees are encouraged to bring snowshoes or warm boots for the hike. Waders and a change of clothes in case you get wet are optional.

This event is free and open to the public. People do not need to be a volunteer stream monitor to participate. Pre-registration for this event is not necessary, but would be helpful to appropriately plan. For additional information or to register for the event, contact Kevin Cronk, at (231) 347-1181 or by email kevin@watershedcouncil.org.

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council speaks for its members including full-time and seasonal residents, lake associations, and businesses. It works to maintain the environmental integrity and economic and aesthetic values of lakes, streams, wetlands, and ground water in Northern Michigan, as well as statewide and throughout the Great Lakes Basin. As the lead organization for water resources protection in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties, the Watershed Council is working to preserve the heritage of Northern Michigan — a tradition built around its magnificent waters.

Charlevoix Zonta Club now receiving application for awards

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is currently accepting applications for its annual Young Women in Public Affairs award. This scholarship award increased to $1000 this year. In addition, Zontas are accepting applications for the Zonta Memorial Scholarship. These awards will each be given to an outstanding young woman living in Charlevoix County, who is currently enrolled in a secondary school.

Applications are available at the counselor's office at all Charlevoix County High Schools or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at (231) 547-9969. The deadline for receiving applications for the Young Women in Public Affairs award is March 2, and for the Zonta Memorial Scholarship on March 27. Applications should be sent to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club c/o Maura A. Snabes, 802 Bridge St., Charlevoix, MI 49720. The winner will be announced at the Zonta meetings in March and April, respectively.

The recipient of the local Young Women in Public Affairs award also will have her application forwarded to the district, which awards an additional monetary scholarship to the district winner.

The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award competition is designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities, in order to impact the policies that affect the lives of women locally and throughout the world. The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs program looks to the young women of today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Soup is on at cook off, card party

CHARLEVOIX — The St. Mary's Rosary Altar Society will host its annual Soup Cook Off and Card Party at noon on Sunday, Feb. 22, in the parish hall of St. Mary's Church.

The event will feature an array of homemade soups to sample for $5 per person. Included in the admission price will be beverage and dessert. There also will be homemade and handmade items, which will be sold at the General Store Bazaar before, during and after the event.

Those attending the cook off can sample as many soups as they wish and then vote for their favorite entry. After the votes are tallied the 2015 Soup Cook Off king and queen will be crowned and following the crowning ceremony there will be card and board games for those who wish to participate.

St. Mary's Church is located at 1003 Bridge St. in Charlevoix.

For more information contact the parish office at (231) 547-6652.

EAST JORDAN

Off the Cuff series off to a great start

EAST JORDAN — The first in the "Off the Cuff" series got off to an impressive start. More than 20 members of the East Jordan Community joined city administrator Tom Cannon, chamber of commerce president and CEO Mary Faculak and Matt Stevenson, superintendent of East Jordan Public Schools for an informal luncheon gathering at Murray's Bar & Grill on Thursday, Feb. 5.

Attendees were able to hear updates from the three community leaders, as well as ask questions on a number of community topics. Representatives from the city council, downtown development authority, local organizations, industry and businesses were able to share their upcoming activities and announcements.

The series will continue throughout the year at various locations. Watch our website and calendar of events for the date, time and location of the next "Off the Cuff" gathering.

For more information, contact Faculak at the chamber (231) 536-7351 or email at info@ejchamber.org.

Visitor's bureau announces new board members

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Convention and Visitors Bureau recently announced its board of directors for 2015.

"We are very fortunate to have this dedicated group of industry professionals comprising our board," said CVB executive director, Amanda Wilkin. "I am looking forward to working with these folks to promote the Charlevoix community. We have some very exciting projects planned for 2015."

Jessie Corp from Charlevoix's AmericInn is the newly elected board member for

"I was born and raised in Ellsworth/Charlevoix, the second-eldest of six children," Corp said. "Though I have lived several places in the U.S. in my adult life, Charlevoix has always been home, and the perfect place for me to continue my career. After working as the assistant manager at the AmericInn for several years, I was very happy to step into the general manager position in January 2014. There have been many challenges and learning experiences, but 2014, was the best year the hotel had ever seen, and 2015, is shaping up to exceed the last. I am very happy to have the chance to broaden my horizons by joining the board and furthering their goals for our community."

The mission of the Charlevoix Area Convention and Visitors Bureau is to positively impact the area's economy by marketing Charlevoix as an overnight travel destination.

The vision of the Charlevoix Area Convention and Visitors Bureau is to be the leader in attracting overnight travelers to stay, to experience and to return frequently to Charlevoix.

The bureau's core values include being honest, respectful, responsible, positive, innovative and collaborative.

The complete board roster is listed below:

— Jonathan Pack, president Charlevoix Inn and Suites

— Jessica Bell, vice president Charlevoix Rental Company

— Irene Hinkelberger, secretary-treasurer Weatherly Terrace Inn and Suites

— Tracy Sell, The Lodge Hotel

— Jessie Corp, AmericInn Lodge and Suites

Father and son weekend at Camp Daggett gives participants a weekend of various outdoor activities.

Camp Daggett hosts Father/Son weekend March 13-15

PETOSKEY — Fathers, step-fathers, grandfathers or big brothers are invited to bring their sons ages 7 to 14, for a fun filled father and son weekend, Friday-Sunday, March 13-15, at Camp Daggett, 3001 Church Road, in Petoskey.

Participants can expect a weekend of fun and adventure as they try their hands at various outdoor activities and enjoy dinners in front of the lodge fireplace. The cost is $150 for father and son, plus $50 for each additional son. Space is limited and registration is on a first come first served basis.

For additional information or to register, contact Ed Leverenz at Camp Daggett, (231) 347-9742 ext. 112.

To learn more about Camp Daggett, visit campdaggett.org, or call executive director, Brent Marlatt at (231) 347-9742, ext. 106.

Annual RAM Center event is a success with visually impaired skiers

MICHIGAN — Hope Springstead said she was excited to get back on cross-country skis again.

"I tried it when I was 9," said the 27-year-old Wyandotte resident. "I hated it. I cried the whole time."

This year, however, Springstead was champing at the bit, encouraged to try skiing again by a friend who works with her as a runner.

"I love being outdoors," she said, as she maneuvered her skis into the tracks set in a small flat field near the site of the Civilian Conservation Corps Museum at the Department of Natural Resources' Ralph A. MacMullan (RAM) Conference Center, in Roscommon. "I'm glad my parents aren't here — they're worrywarts."

Her parents had nothing to fear; Springstead soon mastered the technique of pushing with her poles and shuffling her feet around the oval course. After two laps, she was ready to tackle the more advanced 1.8-mile course through the woods elsewhere on the property.

Her biggest challenge was keeping her skis in the tracks. Springstead is blind.

Springstead was one of 26 visually impaired skiers at the RAM Center for a recent Michigan Ski for Light event. The annual event pairs visually impaired and some mobility-impaired skiers with sighted guides to help them negotiate the course.

The Michigan Ski for Light weekend event has been in existence since the late 1970s and has been headquartered at the RAM Center since 1980.

North Higgins Lake State Park ranger Kent Westfall shows off the unique double track setter used to groom trails for the annual Michigan Ski for Light event.

"We host the events and groom the trails," said Mark Buchinger, manager of the RAM and North Higgins Lake State Park. "We use a special track setter that sets tracks, side by side, so the blind skiers have guides who ski next to them."

The unique track setter was built after one of the volunteers, Bill Keith, a retired teacher, challenged one his fellow students to create the device. His student enlisted the aid of the metal shop teacher at a vocational technical school in Cadillac and the device was built by the shop class and donated to the RAM Center.

The double-track setter has made a lot of difference in the program, said Keith, who has been a volunteer with Ski for Light for 15 years.

The Michigan Ski for Light program began at the now defunct Lansing Ski Club, said 68-year-old John Root, a retired rehabilitation counselor who has volunteered for the event since it began.

"We couldn't depend on the weather in Lansing," Root said.

"The RAM seemed perfect."

According to Buchinger, it is. "We set up fire rings and firewood at a couple of off-site locations for the event," Buchinger said. "The group can meet here, they can eat here, and they can ski right from here — it's right at our doorstep."

"Bringing partners in from the community, like the Roscommon Lions Club and Cross Country Ski Headquarters (a local business), makes this happen."

Brass band offers 'Something for Everyone'

CHARLEVOIX — The Northern Michigan Brass Band, under the direction of Ralph Schweigert, will present Something for Everyone, at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 22, at First Congregational Church in Charlevoix and also at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 1, at Kalkaska High School.

Celebrating 15 years of music making, this 28 piece, British-style brass ensemble will perform a wide range of music by composers including John Williams, William Himes, Edward Elgar and Henry Mancini.

When planning a program, Schweigert said he tries to keep in mind that people listen to music in different ways.

"Some people listen with their heads, others with their hearts and still others with their feet," Schweigert said. "I try to include music that will appeal to all these listening styles on any one program. A highlight of this particular concert is sure to be the performance of Sousa's 'Hail to the Spirit of Liberty' march where the band will be augmented by several outstanding brass players from Charlevoix High School."

Northern Michigan Brass Band members David Kjellberg and David Martin will also be sharing conducting responsibilities on this program with Schweigert.

The concert will include a wide variety of repertoire beginning with the powerful "Olympic Fanfare and Theme" written for the 1984 Olympic Games by American composer

John Williams followed by "Aspects of Praise" by Michigan's William Himes. The first half of the concert will also include the regal "Pomp and Circumstance March No. 4" by Edward Elgar, Percy Grainger's "Colonial Song" and "Zurich March" by Elgar Howarth.

The second half of the program will include the Sousa march, conducted by Gary Stutzman. Charlevoix High School band director, a contemplative "Benedictus" featuring euphonium soloist Dr. Edward Bahr, "All That Jazz" from "Chicago" and an upbeat medley of tunes by Henry Mancini.

The all-volunteer Northern Michigan Brass Band has attracted enthusiastic adult brass players from across northern Michigan.

"We draw on such a wide area for our membership that we really don't consider ourselves tied to any one community," said Northern Michigan Brass Band President Dr. Edward R. Bahr. "We belong to all of Northern Michigan which is why we perform concerts in so many different venues throughout the area."

Members of the Charlevoix High School band will join the Northern Michigan Brass Band for a rousing march by John Phillip Sousa. General admission is $10 for adults; students are admitted free.

For more information, visit northmichiganbrassband.org.

The Northern Michigan Brass Band has presented more than 100 concerts throughout the state since it was organized in January of 1999.

Knights of Columbus to host Cash Raffle Party

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Knights of Columbus Council 7172 will host its 39th annual Cash Raffle Party from 6-11:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 25, at Castle Farms Knights East Garden, 5052 M-66, Charlevoix.

The Cash Raffle Party raises money to provide financial support for numerous area programs and the public is invited to purchase donation tickets for the event.

The Cash Raffle Party is more than just a party. It is a fundraiser that serves many organizations. Programs such as Winter Coats For Kids, Charlevoix Food Pantry, Northwest Michigan Hospice, Raven Hill Discovery Center, Bergmann Center, Women's Resource Center, Charlevoix Schools' Junior Achievement program and several more are all recipients of funding from the Cash Raffle Party.

Knights of Columbus First Vice President-Investment Officer Steve Seely said, "... this is a biggie for the community and one of the best fundraiser parties in Northern Michigan. The fact that we spread the profits to over 22 area groups is the main reason we put this on every year."

The event will feature music, dining, refreshments and cash prizes. Steve Larson of Disc-O-Nection will be back to spin the tunes from 6:30-11:30 p.m. as guests enjoy an array of delicious gourmet foods catered by Matter of Taste at four different food stations between 6:30-10 p.m. There will be two mixed cocktail bars and a beer and wine bar to keep the evening going from 6-11 p.m. with a mysterious sounding "surprise" cocktail. The event also features a cash prize drawing. More than $15,000 in 306 prizes will be awarded with a grand prize of $5,000, second prize of $2,000, third of $1,000 and many more. Ticket holders need not be present to win.

Tickets are $150 each and admit two people. Donation includes all food, entertainment and a beverage allowance. Ticket reservations are on a first come basis. To purchase a ticket, contact: Steve Seely at (231) 499-3674; Ed Linse at (231) 547-4526; John Haggard at (231) 547-4046; Roger Neshurg at (231) 547-5111; and Paul Hoelderle at (231) 547-6127.

This is a public event. All religions and denominations are welcome.

Downtown businesses offer indoor sidewalk sales

CHARLEVOIX — It may be cold outside, but the deals are hot at the Charlevoix Indoor Sidewalk Sales taking place over Presidents' Day weekend. This annual shopping event will take place on Friday, Feb. 13, through Monday, Feb. 16.

Enjoy countless bargains and more on a variety of great merchandise at participating stores. Take advantage of substantial reductions on seasonal inventory that must go. Shoppers will find great discounts on gift items, home decor, art, clothing, books, jewelry, accessories and more. Shop Charlevoix for spectacular deals at participating merchants for Valentine's specials.

For a complete list of participating stores, visit charlevoix.org or contact the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce at (231) 547-2101 or by email at info@charlevoix.org.

City of Charlevoix Treasurer Kelly McGuinn is settling in to her new job. McGuinn was hired by city council on Jan. 5 and has been on the job for two weeks.

that involve more detail than what she expected.

"It is a little more in depth than what I originally anticipated, but not a whole lot," McGuinn said. "Learning the new computer system and the way to do certain things takes a little more time, but it really is pretty much what I was expecting. I enjoy it very much because it is diversified and there are a lot of different pieces here and there that need to be put together. Working with the people and the staff is rewarding as well."

Even though things appear to be going well, McGuinn admitted there are still aspects of her new job that will take some time to grasp completely. She said city staff has made themselves available from time to time to answer questions or lend advice.

"Just learning the different processes and getting everything to move fluidly is a lot of work," Ludlow said.

Two weeks isn't a lot of time to learn the ins and outs of a job as complex as a treasurer for Charlevoix. McGuinn said she believes it will take about 12 months until she truly knows what the full demands of her job are and for her to become settled.

"In the treasurer's office there are a lot of things that happen and I haven't gone through each process at least once yet," McGuinn said. "I think I will have to go through each process before I begin to feel like I have my feet solidly on the ground, but so far I'm happy with how things are going."

One of the best parts of working for the City of Charlevoix is being close to home, McGuinn said.

"My former job was a long drive," McGuinn said. "This job gives me the opportunity to be closer to my family."

McGuinn has a bachelor degree in finance from Northern Michigan University and a master's of business administration degree in finance from Lake Superior State University. McGuinn is also on the planning commission in Eveline Township.

Her first-year goals are to observe, learn and understand the finances of Charlevoix and from there continue to build the working relationship with council and city staff.

"Everyone here is like a big family," McGuinn said. "They're so friendly and very nice. They're great people to work for. Hopefully I can bring some of the things I have learned through the years to my job, but right now all I want to do is learn and get the job done."

sources they can provide."

Charlevoix is a great community, with great people that are good to be around, Parr said. He believes the community, as a whole, will benefit from Main Street.

"The people of Charlevoix are proud of their community," Parr said. "The people here care about their city and its historic downtown. We have a diverse community that has a rich heritage and Main Street can build on that."

Charlevoix is in Michigan Main Street program as an associate level member. The key points of the program are the importance of downtowns; thriving downtowns stimulate economic growth, bring a sense of synergy and can increase property values in surrounding neighborhoods.

Getting everything aligned with the Michigan Main Street program could create opportunities to obtain large grants from the National Endowment for the Arts focused on communities that use arts and cultural activities as primary activities for economic development.

"We believe Main Street will help us build a year-round community," Parr said.

"We want to restore the look of what Charlevoix was once by preserving the historic buildings. Main Street has the resources that can help. Select Status is going to make a huge difference in terms of being considered for grants."

"We stressed to the board that Charlevoix really needs Main Street and the resources they can provide."

Nine members from the steering committee went to Lansing on Wednesday and overall, Parr feels confident they had a successful presentation.

"The board seemed pleased with our members and what we accomplished in Charlevoix," Parr said. "We explained a lot about the historic preservation we want to accomplish in Charlevoix and our commitment to bring the entire community together for the Main Street program. We cannot do this program well without our community fully behind Main Street."

Charlevoix will know if it will receive select status in the Main Street program within a week, Parr said.

"The board did not give us an exact date for the announcement," Parr said. "We feel real positive about our chances and look forward to hearing from the Main Street board."

RAM EVENT

This year, Michigan Ski for Light hosted six newcomers to the program, ranging from first-timers to veteran skiers.

Debbie Barrowcliff, a 52-year-old service coordinator with a home health care company from Livonia, was one of the newcomers. Barrowcliff, who lives with retinitis pigmentosa, had been an active outdoor recreationalist whose vision gradually faded. She gave up her driver's license 12 years ago and in May got her first leader dog. She found out about the Ski for Light program at the Wayne County Library for the Blind.

"I was really happy about it," Barrowcliff said, who was accompanied on the ski course by her husband, Darren. "I'm finding out more and more that people with challenges don't have the opportunities that sighted people have."

Rudy Winfrey, a visually impaired dispatcher from Chicago, came up with his son to participate in the Michigan event for the first time. He's a veteran cross-country skier who has traveled to Norway — where Ski for Light was first conceived — 10 times to participate in the international event. Michigan Ski for Light is loosely associated with the international organization.

"It's a tremendous workout," Winfrey said, who said he's a senior citizen. "It releases a lot of tension."

Cheryl Wade, a 59-year-old counselor and part-time writer, attended an international event at Traverse City in 1982 and has been coming to the RAM event almost every year since.

"It's just very freeing," Wade said. "I live in an urban environment — there's no place to play in the snow. But the friendships are two-thirds of it. I brought a new person this year and she's already part of the family."

The event is much more than skiing, said Sarah Bradley, president of Michigan Ski for Light. The 36-year-old recreational therapist, who has been volunteering since she was 13, said the group holds a talent show and dance on Saturday night, and ski race and poker run on Sunday.

"It's a social, recreational, therapeutic event," she said. "Our guides range from people who got together 37 years ago when it first started in college students — many of them through Central Michigan's recreational program. The best thing about Ski for Light is you become advocates for people with disabilities."

The Rosecommon Lions Club pitches in by transporting skiers in the courses and keeping events on track.

"It's something we look forward to every year," said club president Ringer Freed.

Ski for Light isn't the only organization working with people with disabilities to use the RAM Center for events. Peckham Vocational Industries — a nonprofit corporation that develops employment opportunities to those who have impediments to joining the work force — holds its annual four-day employee picnic at the RAM.

"They've done this for a lot of years," Buchinger said. "There's also a group of young people with closed-head injuries who use this facility. The event, Discover! Summer Camp, is organized by Special Tree Rehabilitation Services, LTD."

Use of the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center is limited to government agencies, educational institutions, nonprofit organizations and groups of persons with disabilities, community service organizations and corporations with a natural resources or environmental focus.

The center can lodge up to 135 people, seat 165 at its dining hall, and offers rooms that can accommodate a meeting of up to 275 people.

Situated in a forest setting on the northern shore of Higgins Lake, the conference center's location provides excellent recreation opportunities and outdoor education possibilities.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Title contenders

Rayders control their destiny in league race following pair of huge wins

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

CHARLEVOIX — About a week ago, the Charlevoix boys basketball team seemed like a fringe contender for the Lake Michigan Conference title.

Now, after an impressive 58-42 win over East Jordan at home on Tuesday, the Rayders control their own destiny in the league title race.

It's a development that's caught many off-guard — except for the Rayders themselves, and coach Bret Erskine.

"Before the season started, I don't think anyone really believed we could contend for a conference title except these 14 kids and our staff," Erskine said. "Give these guys credit, they knew what they wanted, they didn't get discouraged and they've given themselves a shot at it."

Charlevoix's double-digit victory over the Red Devils, who came into the night in second place in the LMC, showed the blueprint for a potential Rayder title.

It started on the defensive end of the floor, where Charlevoix brought relentless full-court pressure in waves and kept the Red Devils from finding a groove offensively throughout the contest.

With sophomore Kevin Pearl heading the press, Charlevoix forced 17 turnovers and held East Jordan to its lowest point total of the season.

Klinger relishes in challenges of competitive skiing

WORTH CERTA
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — One person who doesn't shy away from anything in his respective sport is Charlevoix sophomore skier Brad Klinger.

Klinger, who started skiing at a young age, likes to get out of his comfort zone.

"I first started skiing when I was about 2," he said. "I started at Mount McSaubia. I don't really remember it. My parents just took me out. My brother was skiing at the time too, so I guess I kind of looked up to him and said I want to ski too."

Klinger had a passion for it at an early age, and developed into an elite skier over the years.

"From ages 8 to 10, I trained for two nights a week for like three hours," he said. "Then at the age of 11, I would go for about four or five days a week. By then I was just skiing, skiing and skiing. I got my technique down, and now it's just pushing myself to go faster and faster."

Klinger sees the joy and fear of leaving it all out on the course.

"You push the limits with it and you go fast," Klinger said. "When you fall it's a little dangerous because there are people who have died skiing. It's just a fun sport."

All of Klinger's hard work and determination in this sport has helped him get the opportunity to ski in the Junior Olympics.

"I got the opportunity to ski in the Junior Olympics because I ski in a league called U.S.S.A (United States Ski Association) and there's a qualifier up in Marquette where they take the top 40 from the Midwest."

Rayders take second at LMC Wrestling Champs

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix wrestling team took second place in the Lake Michigan Conference on its home mat at Saturday's Lake Michigan Championship meet.

The Rayders finished with 104 points to take second behind champion Grayling's 109, led by two individual champions.

Sophomore Tyler McCallum earned his second straight LMC title at 130 pounds on Saturday, giving him a shot at claiming four titles for his career if he can win the next two years.

And at 285, senior Spencer Bruce upset James Mogford of Elk Rapids in the finals to bring home another title for the Rayders.

"Mogford is a good wrestler and he's beaten Spencer on two separate occasions this season," Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle said. "Spencer's a true 215 pounder, but he's been wrestling at heavyweight to help this team, and today he went out with a strategy, successfully managed the weight difference, and pinned Mogford in the second period."

Camden Alden (125), Elliot Bartelli (135), Justin Adkins (140), Sam Hovie (160), and Mick Hinkle (189) all earned runner-up honors for the Rayders, and Devin Largent (215) took third place at the meet.

Boyne City finished third overall, with 81 points, edging out Traverse City St. Francis' 71 points. Elk Rapids finished with 48 points, and Kalkaska finished with 30.

The results of the conference tournament mean Grayling is the conference champion by virtue of the tournament title and an undefeated dual meet record.

Charlevoix, who took second in the tournament and finished the dual season with one loss, a hotly contested match with Grayling, earned a runner-up finish in the conference.

The conference tournament concludes the regular season for the Rayders and Ramblers, who now prepare for the district tournaments next week.

Charlevoix hosted its own district Thursday.

On Saturday, the Rayders head to individual districts, with Charlevoix heading to Manton for the Division 4 district, starting at 9 a.m.

Charlevoix trio qualifies for ski state finals

MARQUETTE — The Charlevoix boys ski team took fifth overall at the MHSAA Division II regional Monday at Marquette Mountain, but Charlevoix sophomore Brad Klinger was a star. Klinger took first overall in the slalom, with a time of 1:16.42. Klinger also finished fourth in the giant slalom, with a time of 58.18, followed by Matt Good in sixth; Ben Peterson, 38th; Walker Fogle, 38th; Hunter Cox, 39th; Brannon Clark, 45th.

In the slalom, Good would take fifth in 1:17.51, Peterson, 27th; Fogle, 38th; Cox, 40th; Clark, 41st.

Klinger and Good qualified for the MHSAA State Finals Monday, Feb. 23, at Nub's Nob, along with freshman Abbey Scholten, who finished eighth in the slalom and 10th in the giant slalom.

Also in the slalom for Charlevoix, Grace Cox was 47th, Kylee Scholten 49th and Devin VIII, 54th.

Good finished 5th in slalom and 6th in giant slalom. Klinger won the slalom and finished 4th in giant slalom.

BASKETBALL

"We knew that without (suspended point guard) Donny (Cutler), they were a little shorthanded on ballhandlers, so we put pressure on the guys who have the ball in their hands the most for East Jordan and forced them out of their comfort zones," Erskine said. "I thought Kevin in particular did a great job."

"He's guarding a guy in Jordan Weber who averages 30 points a game, and he holds him to 18. That's 12 points he's saved us, and that's a huge impact that doesn't always show up in the box score."

Offensively, junior Austin Putman had one of his best games of the season for the Rayders.

Serenaded by Charlevoix fans with chants of "you can't stop him" whenever he touched the ball in the final quarter, Putman proved them right more often than not in an efficient 20 point, 13 rebound performance.

"Early in the season, Austin struggled a little bit because he was taking too much on his shoulders," Erskine said. "He's worked hard in distribute the ball more and pick his spots in the last few weeks, and it's really paying off for him and our team with the way he's playing right now."

Senior Nate Moon finished with a double-double as well for Charlevoix, scoring 12 points and grabbing 10 rebounds, and Pearl and Noah Jeakle each hit two 3-pointers and finished with six points.

Weber led East Jordan with 18 points, and Collin Bajko added 10 for the Red Devils, who fell behind 12-5 early in the first quarter and spent the rest of the game playing from behind.

"It's not for lack of effort, our kids play hard and want to win; we're just a little limited right now in what we can do," East Jordan coach Darrin Weber said. "We're just looking for other guys to step up offensively and make plays for us, and we got a little bit of that tonight, but we need more."

Collin Petrie and Tucker Alward each added six points for the Red Devils, who suffered their second-straight league loss after opening the season 6-1 in conference games.

"There are ups and downs in every season, and we're just going through a tough moment right now," Weber said. "We're dealing with a situation that's testing our players and everyone involved, but our kids are tough and they're doing their best to work through it."

"They still believe in themselves and are working hard every day, and it's going to pay off for us in the long run."

In the JV game, Charlevoix rallied from a nine-point fourth quarter deficit to force overtime and beat the Red Devils 57-55.

Luke Buday led Charlevoix with 17 points, and Tyler Fuchs chipped in 10.

Kaleb Raymond scored 21 to lead the East Jordan JV.

Charlevoix's win, coupled with Elk Rapids' 63-46 defeat of Boyne City on the same night, moves the Rayders into a three way tie for second place with the Elks and Red Devils.

The Rayders (6-6, 6-3 LMC) are a game back of Boyne City with a trip to face the Ramblers on Tuesday, Feb. 24.

"We've been playing well, but we've got a lot of work to do," Erskine said. "Nothing's been decided yet, and we have to keep getting better if we want to reach our goal."

Charlevoix knocks off Elk Rapids

CHARLEVOIX — Nate Moon scored a game high 18 points for the Charlevoix boys' basketball team during a Lake Michigan Conference 50-46 win over the Elk Rapids on Friday.

"This was a really well played high school game," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "Both teams played a tough and physical game, with a lot of good defense."

Elk Rapids carried a two-point lead into halftime, 24-22.

Charlevoix rebounded, and had a two-point lead at the end of three, 34-32.

The Rayders, started to separate from the Elks, running their lead to 44-37, but the Elks came back again, and tied the game late in the fourth quarter.

"We went up by seven in the fourth, but Elk Rapids tied it late," Erskine said. "Noah Jeakle hit a big three-pointer at the top, and it gave us some separation."

For Elk Rapids, Shae Sommers and Adam Troutman each scored 13 points and Cole Walker added 11.

Also for Charlevoix, Kevin Pearl and Noah Jeakle each added nine points.

hobbies.

"Skiing is definitely one of my favorite hobbies, but I don't know if you could compare it to baseball or football, because skiing is more independent," Klinger said. "You're on your own and if you push yourself and fall you're not letting the team down compared to fumbling in football, or dropping a fly ball in baseball."

The support of Klinger's family has always been present, and will continue to be.

"I owe a lot of my success to my parents for supporting me with all the equipment and always being at my side with the Junior Olympics for example," Klinger said. "They haul me around to different ski hills every weekend and I'm thankful for that."

Klinger's coaches have also been a big influence in his skiing career.

"My club team coaches Craig Davison and Scott Meyers, along with my high school coaches Mike Washburne and Pete Scholten have helped me a lot in these last two years that I have been with them."

Charlevoix girls post back-to-back wins

EAST JORDAN — Alexis Tribelfner scored 12 points, grabbed seven rebounds, and dished out six play makers for the Charlevoix girls basketball team during a Lake Michigan Conference win over East Jordan on Tuesday.

"I thought Alexis did an outstanding job on both ends of the floor tonight," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "It is fun to watch her step up and become a leader on the court by motivating her teammates."

For East Jordan, sophomore Miranda Burks scored a game high, 13 points and added six steals, while Kasscy Wojan added 11 points and Lindsey Schroeder had seven rebounds. East Jordan ended the first quarter with the lead, 6-2.

"The first quarter was a slow, for both teams, but we had the lead," East Jordan coach Steve Hines said. "We just ran out of gas, which happens playing back-to-back games against two strong teams."

Charlevoix would bounce back, and went into halftime with two-point lead, 19-17.

"We started slow tonight," Shaw said. "We had a hard time adjusting to our offense, we were taking ugly shots, and made some bad turnovers in the first quarter, but we corrected the problems before halftime."

The Rayders outscored the Red Devils, 17-7, in the third quarter, and stretched the lead to 36-34, at the quarter break.

Also for Charlevoix, Olivia Storm scored 11 points, collected four rebounds and Hannah Zipp scored eight points with seven rebounds, while Ellie Way had seven points, three steals, and Rachel Nesburg added four steals and three assists.

East Jordan is 3-13 overall, 2-9 in league.

Charlevoix improved to 6-8 overall, 5-5 in league and will travel to Harbor Springs today (Friday).

East Jordan won the JV game, 49-22, over Charlevoix. Karlee Dunson scored a game-high 19 points to lead the Red Devils, and Isabel Hess scored six to lead Charlevoix.

Rayders' teamwork pays off in victory over Elks

CHARLEVOIX — Alexis Tribelfner scored 13 points and Kourtney Putman added nine points and seven rebounds for the Rayders during a Lake Michigan Conference win over the Elks on Friday.

"Tonight, was a good win for us," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "We played excellent team basketball on both ends of the floor."

Charlevoix led 17-4 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter, the Rayders turned up the back-court pressure, and shut out the Elks, going into halftime with a 26-4 lead.

"The girls did a great job applying pressure, especially in the second quarter," Shaw added.

Charlevoix stretched the lead by outscoring Elk Rapids 14-7, in the third quarter and on their way to the win.

Also for Charlevoix, Olivia Storm scored seven points and grabbed five rebounds, Rachael Nesburg scored six points, Ellie Way had five assists, three steals, and Hannah Zipp grabbed five rebounds.

For Elk Rapids, Koala McManus scored 11 points.

"It was a great team atmosphere in this game," Shaw said. "The girls are stepping it up."

CHARLEVOIX — Walking in the new Sarah M. Foster MD Chemotherapy-Infusion Center at Charlevoix Area Hospital feels similar to entering a spa at resort. It emits a sense of warmth and comfort — from its beautifully curved walls that lead you to a space with natural light, modern decor and soothing colors. That ambience travels throughout the registration area, reflection room and the patient bay, all designed with patient success in mind.

"Patients want to go somewhere that's pleasant, that offers comfort where they're having their services," said Karen Hadley, director of the chemotherapy-infusion center. "Where they walk in the door and it's a pleasing environment."

City sinks marina dock expansion

LOUISE ALLEN
 (231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The dock expansion of the marina in Round Lake appears to have sunk with little chance of rising again.

Charlevoix City Council voted 4-2 to discontinue the project and withdraw its application with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, during its meeting on Monday. Council members Shane Cole and Luther Kurtz voted against ending the project.

City manager Rob Straebel sought direction from council on the issue after getting a letter back the Army Corps of Engineers stating multiple letters were received against the project from the Corps of Engineers public notice.

"The Army Corps of Engineers would like to know what we would like to do," Straebel said. "They are requesting our response to the safety issues that have been raised by the Beaver Island Boat Company and the other letters they have received citing safety issues with the expansion."

Council member Shirley Gibson, who motioned to end the project, said the people are against it and she is elected to represent the people, so council needs to end the expansion.

"There is no community support," Gibson said. "We need to stop wasting the people's time, the engineers' time and the council's time."

The expansion project plan was to add a new 264-foot pier in the Charlevoix marina at downtown's East Park, but the project drew controversy from Charlevoix residents and Council member Leon Perron reminded council what happened in November.

"I think we should end this tonight," Perron said. "The last election on Nov. 4 the public spoke on this project. That's when the public hearing was held and there does not need to be any more discussion."

Mayor Gahe Campbell said prior to the election he didn't know that many of the health issues he and his wife face today would occur, but he still ran because the people did not want the project.

"Many residents approached me and asked me my opinion on this dock expansion and I told them I did not like it," Campbell said. "Their response was 'Good, I will vote for you' I heard that over and over. It is a foolish venture, especially when commercial captains have a problem with it."

Council member Kurtz said he voted against ending the project because he wanted to see all the facts and have the opportunity to address the safety concerns from the Beaver

Extreme cold causes Charlevoix to issue mandatory run water order for all residents

LOUISE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — Run your water. That is the order for all residents coming from city officials in Charlevoix.

The order was issued on Monday to prevent further pipes from freezing within the city. So far, those freeze-ups were service leads to residents' homes, said city manager Rob Straebel. But in hopes of heading off past problems, the city issued an order to all residents to keep water running.

"No main lines in the city have frozen at this point, but to make sure water keeps flowing adequately we are mandating a community-wide run water order that is effective until further notice," Straebel said.

The city has had 15 homes report frozen service lines. Last year, the city incurred approximately $220,000 in damages because of frozen water lines and Straebel said that is something they want to avoid this year.

"We certainly learned our lesson and think it is prudent to keep the water running," Straebel said. "We do not want any frozen main lines where we have to tear up streets. It is a bad working environment and as a precautionary measure we issued the run water order."

Once a resident service line is frozen there is little the city can do to help. Service lines leading to a home are ultimately the homeowner's responsibility, but residents can contact city hall for advice, Straebel said.

Department of Public Works Superintendent Pat Elliot said when a resident calls about no water services they will determine whether it is something frozen inside or outside the house.

"If it is inside we have them call a plumber to complete the thawing or the repairs," Elliot said. "If it is outside we have a thawing machine that we use to try and thaw out the line with. If we are unable to thaw the line then we will run a portable drinking water hose from a neighbor's house or a fire hydrant if there is one close by. We also adjust their bills to an average usage not the actual usage."

To prevent freezing water customers should leave at least one faucet open with a small stream about the size of a large drinking straw. Customer accounts will be adjusted to offset the additional water used during make it to their appointments. By having the center in Charlevoix, it removes the added stress of travel to Traverse City for those who live in the area.

"Chemotherapy can go on for many months and depending on where you live, the appointment could be more than an hour drive," Hadley said. "A few minute drive away compared to an hour drive is a huge important factor in quality of life for our patients."

The $750,000 center was designed with the help of cancer survivors who gave input on their experiences going through chemotherapy and what they would like to see in the center. Six patient bays feature a reclining chair, each with equipped with heat and vibrations that offer an expansive view of Lake Michigan.

"Having a good environment makes a big difference treating cancer," Hadley said.

"The whole mind, body connection is important in treatment. It is important to have a facility where a patient is comfortable, relaxed and feels safe. They do better."

The center is in memory of Dr. Sarah Foster, a general surgeon who battled cancer and was an inspiration to others.

"Her character represents the care this center strives to offer each patient," said Lyn Jenks, president and CEO of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The center has been in use for about six weeks and the hospital says the response from those who have used it is very positive. It also has exceeded hospital expectations on patient use.

"We expected that utilization for the center at this time would be around 32 patients per month, but that number is actually 88 patients per month," Jenks said.

More than 200 people attended the ribbon-cutting ceremony on Wednesday, Feb. 11, which, Jenks said, demonstrates the support from the Charlevoix community.

"The community's commitment to the hospital is obvious through their generous support of our programs and the support of this infusion center," Jenks said. "The entire infusion center was funded by donations from this community."

School board discusses approach to upcoming bond

EMILY PERRY
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public School Board of Education formed a subcommittee on Monday, Feb. 16, to help build community support for a bond proposal in May.

The subcommittee will lay the groundwork for preparing materials to disburse to the public on a bond to appear on the Tuesday, May 5, ballot.

Valerie Snyder, school board vice president, asked Dick Joseph, board president, to define the role of the subcommittee, noting that she believed all members of the board held the responsibility to support the bond and inform the public. Joseph assured Snyder the subcommittee's role involved developing literature and conveying to the public the successes of a recently passed bond. Joseph urged the board to help him distinguish the bond from the sales tax increase proposal that also will appear on the ballot.

"We don't want voters to lump them together and vote 'no' on everything," Joseph noted.

Interim superintendent Tim Stobie said the sales tax increase, Proposal 1, would not only help improve Michigan roads, but also increase foundational allowances for students by $200 per child.

Joseph also formed committees for building and grounds, personnel, finance, and policy, which would require three members and an alternate. Joseph felt the need for change after noticing an abundance of nine former committees. Members of the board each volunteered to serve on two committees.

In other actions, board members recognized Charlevoix Middle and High School principal Suzanne Klinger, and Charlevoix Elementary School principal Doug Drenth in honor "Principal's Week" which occurred

Feb. 9 through 13. Stobie presented plaques to Klinger and Drenth in recognition from the school board and from Gov. Rick Snyder.

During new business, Annemarie Conway, a government teacher at Charlevoix Middle and High School, asked for support for a student trip planned to take place in June of 2016. Conway shared details of a trip to Cuba through a State Department approved travel company. The school board discussed approval, but ultimately decided to take time and review policy in order to put the matter to a vote in a special meeting before a deadline of Feb. 28.

Charlevoix Schools Foundation awards more than $14,000 to teachers

CHARLEVOIX — On Feb. 11, the Charlevoix Schools Foundation Board met to award grants to teachers in the Charlevoix Public Schools. Ten grants were awarded totaling $14,545. This was the eighth grant allocation using money from the Special Projects Fund. The grants fund four key areas: health and wellness; science and mathematics; language, arts and humanities; and fine arts.

"We are a volunteer board and we are passionate about the success of our students, our teachers and our schools," said foundation chair, Julie Voci. "We are fortunate to have the funds to help enrich the education of our students."

Since the 2011, the Charlevoix Schools Foundation has awarded more than $131,000 in grants to local teachers, using the Special Project Fund. Students and teachers are the beneficiaries of the generous community donations.

Gifts and pledges can still be made to the Special Projects Fund. Any contributions should be sent to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727, include "Charlevoix Schools Foundation Special Projects Fund" in the memo line. To make a credit card donation, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at (231) 536-2440 or c3f.org.

Spring 2105 Charlevoix Schools Foundation Grants Awarded:

— Kristine Burmeister received $5,625 for two-year utilization of the Explore Learning program to be used by all science classes in grades seven through 12.

— Jane Garver received $1,000 for Techsploration program materials for grades seven and eight.

— Courtney Kretovic received $500 to purchase independent life skills supplies for Special Education.

— Jodi Thompson received $1,070 for the performing arts production of "Mary Poppins," which benefits students in grades six through 12th grade.

— Dana Frank received $1,000 for new books and book repairs for the elementary school library.

— Bridget Bamberg received $2,000 for new books and book repairs for the middle/high school library and media center.

— Julie McLean, Cathy Silberhorn and Tennille Dhasaleer received $750 to assist in the second phase of the Project Based Learning habitat, landscaping and community program for the third grade. The three also received $300 for the purchase of Patricia Polacco books for author study unit for the third grade.

— Kirstie Swanson received $1,950 for the purchase of Advanced Placement U.S. History textbooks for grades 10 and 11.

— Carol Madison received $350 for Colonial activities program materials for the fifth grade.

Consumer's Energy gives helpful tips to stay warm and reduce energy use

JACKSON — With extremely cold temperatures blanketing the state, Consumers Energy is sharing six key tips that can help Michigan residents stay safe and warm during extreme weather.

"Winter in Michigan is an unavoidable reality," said Whitney Skeans, Consumers Energy's customer assistance manager. "Your best defense in bitter weather is to prepare early and ready yourself for the conditions. By sharing your emergency plans with family and friends, and by observing safety precautions during times of extremely cold weather, you can reduce the risk of weather-related injuries and illness."

With temperatures expected to stay well below normal, Skeans offered tips to reduce energy usage while still staying safe and warm:

— Keep furniture, carpeting, curtains and pet hair from blocking heat registers and air return ducts.

— Keep your meters clear of snow and ice. When snow and ice is allowed to build up, it can become compacted and freeze, causing damage that interferes with proper operation of meters and related appliances. Snow should be removed only by hand, never with a shovel or power snow removal equipment.

— Close your attic, basement, garage and exterior doors to prevent cold drafts and keep the heat in your primary living area.

— Consider setting your ceiling fans at a slow speed to push warm air away from the ceiling and move it around the room without creating a chilling breeze. This spreads the heat more evenly and will help you feel more comfortable.

— If radiators are located near cold outside walls, place a sheet of aluminum foil between the radiator and the wall to reflect heat back into the room.

— If you are experiencing any problems receiving natural gas or electricity from Consumers Energy, call us immediately at (800) 477-5050.

Remember that help is available no matter what the weather brings. If you experience a weather-related emergency, call 9-1-1 or your local fire or police department immediately.

If you are struggling financially and are worried about your bill or other needs, don't wait to find support.

Consumers Energy strongly encourages people to call 211 to explain their situation and learn where they can get help. Consumers Energy offers ways to help people with bills at ConsumersEnergy.com/assistance, call 211 to learn about available programs in your community, or call Consumers Energy at (800) 477-5050 if you have problems paying your bill.

LOOKING BACK...

COURTESY PHOTO

Last week, Looking Back showed the Lake Michigan Beach in 1915 where a clear sheet of ice extended from shore for miles after days of below zero temperatures and no wind. It was reported that the ice was so flat and smooth that skaters were able to hold races between South Point (middle-left) and North Point (upper right). This Abrams Aerial Survey photo, taken in 1938, shows exactly how far out that skating course was located. At right, Pine Point has barely been developed. Only a few roads lead down to Raspberry Bay. Carpenter Street, below the track and field area, then reached all the way west to Lake Michigan. State Street at one time extended straight south to meet the gate (no longer used) into Brookside Cemetery. South Point would remain totally untouched until the mid 1960s when the Medusa Cement Company broke ground for the plant that is there today. At one time, a dirt road ran along the shoreline from Boulder Park right around the point and was the most popular way of reaching Fisherman's Island in the south.

Snyder budget should aid road tax campaign

THE DETROIT NEWS
Feb. 12.

Gov. Rick Snyder, facing an enormous challenge to get a tax hike for road repairs approved by voters this spring, needed to present a budget that makes a convincing case that there's no fat in the general fund that could be used to offset the tax. And for the most part he did.

The governor's budget proposal, unveiled Wednesday, holds spending to roughly a 1.2 percent increase over the current year. In terms of governmental budgets, that's quite modest — the federal budget proposed by President Barack Obama, for example, called for a 7 percent spending hike.

That should score points with voters skeptical about Proposition 1, the measure to raise the sales tax on the ballot May 5. One of the primary objections raised by opponents of the ballot proposal is that Snyder should have been able to find the $1.2 billion for roads in the existing revenue stream.

Nothing about the budget plan suggests there's that much extra money available to shift to road spending, though the governor did leave himself vulnerable in a couple of areas.

Snyder kept most departmental spending stagnant, and made targeted cuts in some places to erase budget deficits caused largely by the unexpected redemption of corporate tax credits pledged by the previous administration. He also issued executive orders cutting spending to erase a mid-year shortfall in the current budget.

But he did add some new spending, largely in K-12 education, workforce training and health care for poor children.

The new initiatives are what voters will have to weigh in terms of whether they are more essential than highway work.

Still, Snyder's priorities are solid. Michigan needs more skilled workers to accelerate economic growth and improve household incomes. Roughly $111 million will go to fund skills training programs. And another $129 million is requested to aid job attraction efforts.

Spending on schools will rise to $11.9 billion, or $1.2 billion more than in 2011, when Snyder took office. Increases include an additional $75 per pupil for the foundation grant; $100 million more to aid at-risk children, additional spending on distressed school districts and $32 million more for universities and community colleges. In all, education spending will go up by $400 million.

That total is based on current revenues, and doesn't account for the $300 million in additional education revenue that will come if the sales tax increase is passed. If that materializes, education spending could soar by $700 million next year.

One very small cut he made to the current year budget may hurt him in the campaign. Snyder slashed $3.2 million that had been allocated for training more motor carrier enforcement workers to crack down on overweight trucks.

High truck weights are a complaint often cited by those who feel current road funds are mismanaged. Snyder should consider restoring that funding. The amount saved is not worth the potential fallout.

And although Snyder proposed to cut film subsidies by $12 million in the current year, his 2016 budget restores them to $50 million. Those who argue that there's too much non-essential spending in the budget most often point to the film tax credits.

But Michael LaFaive of the Mackinac Center, a fierce watchdog of governmental spending, says overall Snyder is "balancing the budget to the best of his ability."

Although LaFaive remains skeptical about the effectiveness of the nearly $1 billion a year the state budgets for economic and workforce development, including the film credits, he praises Snyder for aggressively tackling long-term liabilities such as the school employee retirement system. The budget sets $815 million aside for the K-12 pension system, which gives schools relief from the growing costs of maintaining retiree obligations.

According to the governor's office, reforms made to the school retirement system and the state employee retirement system have reduced the long-term debt by more than $20 billion.

That's the sort of fiscal performance Snyder must highlight on the campaign trail as he pushes for the sales tax hike. On the whole, this budget should help more than hurt him.

Yelm of thatch

It is not often, after 50 years as a botanist, that I encounter a new botanically useful word. Yelm is not a typographical error. It is rather the name for bundles of tightly packed plant stems used to provide roofing material for houses. One thatches a roof by covering it with yelms of plant stems.

One of the Earl Young houses along Park Avenue above the lake has a new roofline and it is being thatched. I have watched the process for some time with considerable interest. I finally spoke with someone involved in the project and learned a bit about what is happening.

We have all seen photos or paintings featuring one or more of those cute, cozy-looking thatched cottages in England or Ireland, but most of the thatching in the modern world is to be found in tropical or at least Third-World countries. I believe the present project must be the only thatched roof in Charlevoix, at least for many years. There may be only a few in all of Michigan.

My botanical interest in roofs made from plant stems includes what sorts of plants are used, how long they are likely to last and how mold and rot can be prevented.

What is the source of the thatch along Park Avenue? I am told that the thatch has been imported from Turkey, a source used for any recent thatching in England as well.

What is far more interesting to me is the specific plant involved. The stems are Phragmites plants. You may remember that we locally and other citizens of Michigan have been spending considerable amounts of money and resources trying to eliminate Phragmites from our lakeshores. Our Phragmites is commonly described as an alien, invasive plant species that troubles our native plants. There are botanical arguments about whether our Phragmites is exactly the same plant as the one used for thatching.

My botanical authority is Ed Voss, author of the three-volume Michigan Flora. He describes Phragmites australis as a cosmopolitan species, found around the world. Phragmites australis is the plant imported from Turkey by British thatchers used to produce those cute thatched roofs. That is the same plant forming the roof on Park Avenue.

I believe there is a bigger lesson to be learned. We are spending money on international trade to import the same plant that we are trying to eradicate in Michigan. Maybe we could use the Michigan plants.

But the lesson is even bigger. Invasive Phragmites seems to be something new in Michigan. Is it possible that we might view something new as an opportunity rather than a threat? At this point I am not talking just talking about roof thatching, but about the basic difference between conservatism and progressivism. It is easy to view something new as a threat, whether it is invasive plants and animals, gay marriage, global warming science or even evolution.

The new thing should not be automatically viewed as troublesome. Maybe it is an opportunity. New plants, new animals and even new ideas can be genuinely positive if viewed that way. There is no particular time in the past when perfection reigned and everything was in its proper place and stayed there. Well, maybe the Garden of Eden, but nothing after that. Bob Dylan had it right. "The times, they are a-changing."

They always have and they always will. We had better get used to it. Visit our community's new thatched roof and contemplate its significance.

LETTER to the editor

Northwest Academy sends out big thank-you

Editor:

On behalf of Northwest Academy, we would like to take this opportunity to thank the following restaurants: City Park Grill, Front Poreh Café, Pigs Eatin' Ribs, Red Mesa, Scoville's Gourmet, Smoke on the Water, Crebative Cupcakes, Villager Pub, Drawbridge Bistro, Bridge Street Tap Room and Grey Gables for participating in our sixth annual Artsy Soup Cook Off held in the community room at the Charlevoix Public Library.

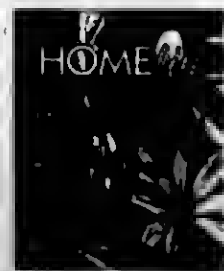

We appreciate their contributions, as well as the use of the Charlevoix Library's wonderful community room, in making this event a success. Thanks also to Stafford's Weathervane for the use of their table cloths and McDonalds for the donation of cups and drink.

A big thank you as well goes out to all of the parents, students and staff that donated breads, desserts and time and labor. This was a great evening spent tasting soup and viewing student artwork. See you all next year.

FOX helps the VA

David Prah, general manager, of FOX Charlevoix, (L) presents Veteran Affairs of Charlevoix Director John Hees a $3,000 check to help area veterans who are in need of financial assistance. FOX Charlevoix has donated more than $7,000 over the last three years to the organization. Veteran Affairs of Charlevoix uses donations to assist veterans who may need help paying for heating, home repairs and other small financial needs. "The money is used for emergency services for our area veterans," Hees said. "For example, if a veteran needs gas money to go to an appointment they can come in to our office and fill out a form to determine their needs. We have fuel cards we can issue them, help with heating costs and other small financial needs." The Veteran Affairs office is located inside the Charlevoix County building, 301 State St. For more information contact Hees at (231) 547-7220.

WinterFolk series features Ben Hassenger

CHARLEVOIX — Ben Hassenger will be the featured performer at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 23, for the Charlevoix Public Library's WinterFolk Concert Series. His performance will be followed by an open mic session.

Hassenger's concert will showcase his energetic ukulele music. Hassenger works as a music facilitator with special education children and teaches ukulele and guitar to students and teachers in the Lansing Public School District. He plays guitar and ukulele in the bands Blue Jello and The Ukulele Kings and is the co-founder of the Lansing Area Ukulele Group (L.A.U.G.H.) and the organizer of the Mighty Uke Day Festival in Old Town Lansing and Intelochen's Ukulelefest. He also is a prolific songwriter, with two of his songs about the Detroit Tigers enshrined in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown.

N.Y. He's a fun and involving performer with a variety of original songs about dogs, food, love, Michigan and the other important things in life.

WinterFolk Concert Series celebrates local folk artists with an evening of music. The featured performer kicks off the evening with a 45 minute concert, which is followed by an open mic session; an opportunity for the public to share talents.

Open mic sign-up begins at 6 p.m. the night of the concert, and is limited to five performers. Other performers in the series will be Gary Shackleford on March 30 and The Whiskey Changers on April 27.

The library is located at 220 W. Clinton St. in Charlevoix.

PETOSKEY

Women's Resource Center executive director to retire

PETOSKEY — Jan Mancinelli, executive director of the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, recently announced her plans to retire at the end of May. After more than 36 years with the organization, she can still vividly recall her job interview with a group of founders and early board members in the fall of 1978. She said they had shared their vision of what the Women's Center should be and the million dollar question was, "... did she think she could write grants and fundraise to make their vision a reality."

In typical Jan Mancinelli style, she said, "Sure, I can do that!"

Mancinelli said it was a time when the issues of domestic violence and sexual assault were barely noticed in the community, or anywhere on the social and cultural stage. Domestic abuse laws had only just passed that same year. The resurgence of the women's movement in the 1960s - '70s, the civil rights movement of the 1950s-'60s, the fight against poverty in the '60s and the anti-war movement of the '60s and '70s were all part of the social conversation. The presence of these issues on the social and political scene brought new awareness and energy toward peace, justice and equality.

"The status quo was being challenged at every level of our society and the Women's Center, started in 1977, was at the ground level with an ideology that embraced all of these present and emerging issues," Mancinelli said. "The

Gail Kloss named new executive director for the Women's Resource Center

PETOSKEY — At the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan January board meeting, it was affirmed that Gail Kloss will take on the role of executive director after Jan Mancinelli retires from the nonprofit organization at the end of May. Kloss has been with the agency for five years and serves as the financial director.

"There has been a very conscientious process to assure a smooth and successful transition," Mancinelli said.

In the fall of 2013, a solid plan was devised by the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan board of directors and Mancinelli, which included the creation of a successful planning committee.

An extensive search was initiated to hire a chief operating officer, with the intention of naming this person executive director if they met the expectations in providing leadership and demonstrating the skill sets required to run a community based non-profit.

In January 2014, Kloss was hired as the chief operating officer. For the past year she has been working alongside Mancinelli learning the complexities of the job and the operational aspects of the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan.

"We all look forward to the outstanding leadership Gail is sure to provide," Mancinelli said. "I am confident that the integrity, responsiveness and professionalism the community has come to expect from the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan will not miss a beat."

organization plodded forward confronting gender inequality and violence in our homes. There were times in the beginning when I would try to meet with a prosecutor or a police agency to discuss a domestic abuse or sexual assault case and no one would return my calls."

So much has changed since then, according to Mancinelli, who said the organization now partners with all law enforcement, works with them on cases and works with them on developing and implementing training, policies and procedures.

"Today, we collaborate and work together to address these issues instead of being adversaries," Mancinelli said.

In response to community need, the nonprofit organization grew and expanded service delivery to locations in five Northern Michigan counties over the years, yet there were many challenges along the way.

"The biggest challenge as I look back has been to stay focused, relevant and positive — not to get cynical and angry at the injustices, inequality and the slow pace of social change. Knowing and seeing the horrors of what people face when they are abused, hurt, disenfranchised and discounted is sometimes a dreadful reality of this work," Mancinelli said.

She also pointed out that managing the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan growth while facing financial challenges to build and sustain an organization responding to so many community and social needs was also a great challenge.

Mancinelli stayed committed to the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan vision to provide excellent services and effective programs while remaining fiscally responsible. From humble beginnings working from a donated office space at North Central Michigan College, the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan has grown to own four buildings that have all undergone extensive remodeling and renovation: the Safe Home; two Gold Mine Resale Shops that help generate funds for the organization; and the main office that houses counseling, the Children's Learning Center, Project FREE preschool and administration. Additionally, individuals may access counseling and support at rented satellite offices in Cheboygan, Gaylord and Mancelona, and on the campus of North Central.

Another important aspect of Mancinelli's work has been to promote equality, justice and the well-being of women. This involved reaching out into the community. There were countless hours meeting with local leaders, other human service agencies, law enforcement officials, churches and social/civic organizations to speak out and be a voice to raise awareness and combat social injustice.

"I am sure I was not always the person others wanted to see or hear from," Mancinelli said. "I knew that if I were to stay true to the mission and work of the organization it was my responsibility to speak up to challenge injustice even when I knew that I would stand alone and/or be isolated from those who did not agree or were content to have the status quo remain."

However, the journey has not entirely been a lonely one. She fondly recalls and acknowledges the many strong, passionate and committed staff and board members, volunteers and donors with whom she has had the honor to work.

"It was, and is, a privilege to know that I stood side by side with people who believed in what we are doing — together we did some remarkable things and proceeded to give hope and provide the tools that helped people have a happier and healthier life," Mancinelli said. "I am forever grateful that people participated in growing this wonderful organization and because of that we had an impact on social issues, in general, and provided a needed service for many."

"I am just happy to know that what turned out to be my life's work is successful, that I was able to follow my passions and beliefs and work toward equality, social justice and non violence," Mancinelli added.

AED Instruction offered

CHARLEVOIX — Eleven Charlevoix Elementary School employees, along with Charlevoix Area Hospital School Nurse Kristie Fiehtner, were instructed on proper use of an automated external defibrillator (AED) in case of a sudden cardiac arrest situation.

AEDs along with proper use instruction is provided by a grant through the Kimberly Anne Gillary Foundation. Hundreds of schools have received free AEDs to make the commitment to health and safety a priority for all people in their buildings.

School to host 'Mary Poppins'

CHARLEVOIX — Everyone's favorite, practically perfect nanny takes the stage in a Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious musical adventure at Charlevoix Middle School.

One of the most popular Disney movies of all time is capturing hearts in a whole new way as a practically perfect musical with beloved songs such as "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious," "Let's Go Fly a Kite" and "A Spoonful of Sugar."

Based on the books by P.L. Travers and the classic Walt Disney film, Disney and Cameron Mackintosh's "Mary Poppins" delighted Broadway audiences for more than 2,500 performances and received nominations for nine Olivier and seven TONY Awards, including Best Musical.

The jack-of-all trades, Bert, introduces us to England in 1910, and the troubled Banks family. Young Jane and Michael Banks have sent many a nanny packing before Mary Poppins arrives on their doorstep. Using a combination of magic and common sense, she must teach the family how to value each other again. Mary Poppins takes the children on many magical and memorable adventures, but Jane and Michael aren't the only ones she has a profound effect upon. Even grown-ups can learn a lesson or two from the nanny who advises that "Anything can happen if you let it."

Performance dates for Mary Poppins are at 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 27, Saturday, Feb. 28 and Saturday, March 7, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, March 8. All showings will be at the Charlevoix Middle-High School auditorium.

Tickets are available at the door. Cost is $5 for students, $7 for adults with a family matinee price of $20.

Jordan River Arts Council to present "John Brown's Body"

CHARLEVOIX — The Jordan River Arts Council will present "John Brown's Body," as a Readers Theater performance at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 21. The performance will take place at the Jordan River Arts Council gallery, 310 Main St., East Jordan. Admission is free but donations are welcome.

"John Brown's Body" is not a play in the conventional sense, but rather an adaptation of a Pulitzer Prize winning poem by Stephen Vincent Benet. The play was first staged at the Yale Drama School and was later performed on Broadway starring Tyrone Power, Judith Anderson, and Raymond Massey directed by Charles Laughton.

The play is based on the 1850 raid on Harper's Ferry by abolitionist John Brown. He was later captured and hanged, but his act stirred the conscience and imagination of many and sparked the civil war. The fictional heroes, Jack Ellyat, from the North and Clay Wingate, from the South "bring home at least part of the vast tragic vision of our country at the most agonizing moment in its history." Many historical personages also walk across the stage: Robert E. Lee, Ulysses S. Grant and of course, Abraham Lincoln.

The principal parts are played by three actors: Dick Williams, Hugh Hansen and Desiree Kaiser. The chorus includes Sandy Miles, Nancy Sherman, Sharon and Kevin Gardner, Chrystian Argetsinger, Ron Tachudy and Gordon Colbeck. The reading is directed by Yamin Richmond.

"John Brown's Body" brings history to life through moving prose and beautiful poetry. The scenes evolve using sound, music and words.

For more information about this event, call Cynthia Tachudy at (231) 544-6167.

RoadHouse 757 is in its final stages of construction and remodel of the former Giuseppe's Italian Grille building. Work crews will be installing ceilings tiles and completing floors in the next few weeks. Owner Brett Cuper hopes to have construction completed and open the doors sometime near the end of April or early May.

New restaurant to feature Southwest flair

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — RoadHouse 757 owner, Brett Cuper, sees his new restaurant as the perfect fit for Charlevoix.

"I see Charlevoix really developing into a dining destination for people," Cuper said. "There are many restaurants in town, but none that I know of to focus on cuisine inspired from the Southwest."

When RoadHouse 757 opens for business sometime this spring — at the former Giuseppe's Italian Grille building — patrons will be offered a menu that values the traditions of roadhouse restaurants that dot the desert Southwest.

"I love those flavors," Cuper said. "I like incorporating roasted chilies, blacken seasonings and other flavors from that region and style of cooking."

Steaks, burgers, pork, fish and pizza are some of the menu options that Cuper hopes will bring people to his location at 757 Petoskey Ave., when it opens in the spring.

"Those foods are what I think of when I go to a roadhouse type restaurant," Cuper said. "The menu will have quite a few barbecue sauces, but they will be non-traditional, my own sauce creations. The best way to describe the menu is it will have a Texan-Southwest flair to it."

He feels the building and its Charlevoix's RoadHouse 757 is expected to open near the end of April or early May. The new restaurant will feature a southwestern style menu created under owner Brett Cuper.

location will be ideal for what he wants to do.

"I walked in and I fell in love with this place," Cuper said. "I looked around and envisioned what the place will look like once we're finished. It's perfect for what I'm trying to do."

The remodel has opened much of the old Giuseppe's space up. The new interior design allows for more-natural light and the bar will be separated from the main dining area. He also plans to have two large screen TVs in the lounge and serve a pub menu.

"We want people to enjoy the atmosphere whether dining with family or coming in off the golf course with your buddies there will be room for whatever your occasion is," Cuper said.

There is still a lot of work to be done to the inside of the building before Cuper opens in the spring, but he is not concerned.

"We are over the hump with our construction and remodel," Cuper said. "We're starting to do all the finishing work. Everything that was ripped apart is being put back together. My goal is to have a soft opening near the end of April or early May."

Tractor Supply Company FFA partner for scholars

RENTWOOD, TENN. — Coming off the heels of a successful second year in 2014, Tractor Supply Company has announced the third annual Growing Scholars program in partnership with the National FFA Foundation. Last year, Tractor Supply customers donated $447,671, resulting in 334 scholarships awarded to FFA members in their pursuit of a college degree.

The Growing Scholars program will be supported nationally by each of the more than 1,400 Tractor Supply and Del's Feed & Farm Supply stores Feb. 20 to March 1, which includes National FFA Week. Tractor Supply customers can donate $1 or more at store registers during the check-out process to support local FFA chapters and their members. Approximately 90 percent of funds raised through Tractor Supply's Growing Scholars program will be utilized to fund scholarships for FFA members. The remaining 10 percent of donations will benefit state FFA organizations.

"The funding we received from our customers last year was tremendous," said Tractor Supply President and CEO Greg Sandfort. "We're honored to be able to provide critical funding to FFA members who intend to pursue a college degree. Many of these students go on to be agriculture educators — and we know how important agriculture education is to our communities, customers, and the lifestyle they value. Local FFA chapters enrich the lives of young members by teaching life skills, citizenship and leadership qualities. Coming back to our 1,300-plus communities that we serve is very important, and the Growing Scholars program is one of the ways that we support our current and future customers and future team members."

To be eligible for the scholarship program, students must be current FFA members and either high school seniors or a freshman, sophomore or junior college student seeking a two- or four-year degree or other specialized training program. Major areas of study will also be considered when determining scholarship recipients.

"We can't thank Tractor Supply and its customers enough for supporting FFA student and alumni members and agriculture education in general," said National FFA Foundation President Molly A. Ball. "The Growing Scholars program truly makes a difference in the lives of our youth."

In addition to the Growing Scholars program, Tractor Supply and the National FFA Foundation have many other joint initiatives including the FFA horse evaluation career development event, National FFA Week and the annual National Association of Agricultural Educators Conference. At an individual store level, Tractor Supply continually hosts fund-raising events and works closely with local FFA chapters and high school agriculture advisors to provide resources and leverage synergies.

"Local high school agricultural advisors and FFA chapters feel at home in their local Tractor Supply stores," said Christi Korzekwa, senior vice president of marketing at Tractor Supply. "These groups often host fundraising events at our stores to raise money for community projects, like building a school greenhouse, a new bridge in a public park or an animal care lab. Our stores also work with local FFA members to support specific programs and proficiencies by providing demonstrations from knowledgeable Tractor Supply employees and our vendor partners, which brings significant value to both organizations."

Tractor Supply has been a sponsor of the National FFA Foundation for 28 years. The National FFA Foundation is the fundraising arm of the National FFA Organization, which provides leadership, personal growth and career success training through agricultural education to 610,240 student members in grades seven through 12 who belong to one of 7,665 local FFA chapters throughout the U.S., Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Tractor Supply Company operates more than 1,400 stores in 49 states. Located in the outlying towns in major metropolitan markets and in rural communities, Tractor Supply Company stores are focused on supplying the lifestyle needs of recreational farmers and ranchers and others who enjoy the rural lifestyle, as well as tradesmen and small businesses. The company offers a comprehensive selection of merchandise for the health, care, growth and containment of horses, livestock and pets including select Purina and Nutrena brand feeds; hardware, truck, towing and tool products; and seasonal products, including lawn and garden items, power equipment, gifts and toys. In addition, the company sells work/recreational clothing and footwear for the entire family and maintenance products for agricultural and rural use. For more information on Tractor Supply, access the website at TractorSupply.com.

Charlevoix County Community Foundation responds to youth needs

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee consists of 14 high school students that represent the various geographic areas served by the community foundation.

Every three years, the Youth Advisory Committee conducts a survey of all of the students in grades 8 to 11 in every high school in the county. The survey gives the Youth Advisory Committee a better understanding of what area youth are thinking, and what their needs are, and gives the Youth Advisory Committee another tool that helps them evaluate the potential impact of the grant proposals they receive.

Last year's survey listed drug and alcohol use, bullying, peer pressure and depression among the top concerns of area teens. To address these concerns, the Youth Advisory Committee brought Mike Donahue to Charlevoix County last week. The executive director and founder of R5 Productions, Donahue held assemblies for middle school students, and high school students, at the Beaver Island Community School, Boyne City Public Schools, Boyne Falls Public Schools, Charlevoix Public Schools and East Jordan Public Schools. During the assemblies, Donahue talked about the importance of valuing oneself and encouraged everyone to be respectful of others.

Student leaders from each school worked with Donahue in small groups, too, discussing ways to improve the culture at their schools.

"We were so pleased to be able to have the resources to bring Mike and R5 Productions to Charlevoix County."

— Andrew Drenth, president, Youth Advisory Committee

Donahue also held parent meetings at several schools to help parents better understand some of the pressures that teenagers face on a daily basis.

"We were so pleased to be able to have the resources to bring Mike and R5 Productions to Charlevoix County," said Andrew Drenth, EJHS senior and the president of the Youth Advisory Committee. "He connects so well with kids. It was great to see a lot of honesty, and a lot of concern about our fellow students."

Mishelle Shooks, program associate at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, agreed.

"The Youth Advisory Committee wanted to do something proactive to address the needs of youth in our communities," she said. "Response to the assemblies has been really positive, so we feel like the investment that the Youth Advisory Committee made to bring R5 to Charlevoix County was an investment that helped a lot of young people."

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of various funds that are established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come.

For more information about the grant-making process, establishing a fund or making a gift, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at (231) 536-2440, or online at c3f.org.

Red Cross announces blood drives

CHARLEVOIX — During Red Cross Month in March, the American Red Cross reminds eligible blood donors that it doesn't take a cape or superpowers to be a hero. By donating blood, donors can become a hero for patients in need. Red Cross Month is dedicated to the everyday heroes who support the Red Cross mission by giving blood, volunteering their time, learning lifesaving skills or making a financial contribution.

The need for blood is constant. The Red Cross depends on blood donor heroes in communities across the nation to collect enough blood to meet the needs of patients at approximately 2,600 hospitals nationwide. Donors with all blood types are needed, particularly those with types O negative, A negative and B negative.

To learn more about donating blood and to schedule an appointment, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call (800) 733-2767.

The Red Cross will be in Charlevoix from noon-5:45 p.m. on Thursday, March 12, at Community Reformed Church, 100 Oak St., and in Petoskey noon-5:45 p.m. at American Red Cross Petoskey, 2350 Mitchell Park Drive.

To donate blood, call (800) 733-2767 or visit redcrossblood.org to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

TRAVERSE CITY

Pure A Cappella returns to support children's choir

TRAVERSE CITY — This is the fourth year that Pure A Cappella has supported scholarships for members of the NMC Children's Choir. Candice Wallace created the concert event four years ago to enable children with talent and limited funds to join a superior organization that trains young singers. She wants these children to enjoy singing as much as she does. She hopes they will some day be in a group like the ones performing in the show.

It doesn't have to become a career to enrich your life and bring joy with singing. Jeff Cobb's Canticum Novum from Northwestern Michigan College is performing, and his Children's Choir is the recipient of the proceeds from Pure A Cappella.

Pure A Cappella IV will take place at 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 1, in Milliken Auditorium in Traverse City. Tickets are $12 — $10 for groups of 10 or more — and available at Oryana and mynorthtickets.com.

Since Wallace founded Pure A Cappella four years ago, this event has grown in participation and popularity. There is a combination of eight choirs and ensembles participating in the show.

The emcee, Dick Wallace returns to lead the fun filled afternoon. Wallace just wrapped up his Pops Put-pourri show, after 45 years in radio and is fired up to be part of this again.

The variety of music ranges from hip hop to classical with pop music in between. This is the first year to have a hip hop group performing. There are six community groups and two high school groups involved. Wallace personally organized and performs in two groups, Voices 4, a mixed group of men and women and Trillium Singers, a women's group.

"It's been a lot of fun, although challenging, to organize the event and sing in two groups as well," Wallace said.

Tribe announces $882,523 gaming fund distribution

PESHAWBESTOWN — The Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians announced the distribution of $882,523 of gaming revenue allocation to local units of government. The dollars have been allocated to 55 local applicants as part of the Tribe's 2 percent allocation, which takes place twice per year.

Under the terms of a consent decree settling Tribes v. Engler — Case No. 1:90-CV-611, in U.S. District Court, of Western District Michigan — the Grand Traverse Band allocates 2 percent of its video gaming revenue to local units of government, as defined in the stipulation, no later than 60 days after Oct. 1 and March 31, of each year. This payment schedule was modified with the consent of the State of Michigan to July 31 and Jan. 31 of each year because the fiscal year of the Grand Traverse Band's gaming operation is calendar-based.

Since the 2 percent allocation began in 1994, the Grand Traverse Band has allocated more than $33 million to hundreds of local organizations.

"The test for determining the distribution standards, as outlined in Tribes v. Engler are: 'Each tribe shall determine which local unit or units of government shall receive payments and the amounts thereof; provided however, the guidelines governing the tribes in making said determinations shall be based upon compensating said local units of government for governmental services provided to the tribes and for impacts associated with the existence and location of the tribal casino in its vicinity; and provided further, however ... each local unit of government shall receive no less than an amount equivalent to its share of ad valorem property taxes ...' On Jan. 28, the Tribal Council voted to determine which organizations would receive allocations. Of the 101 applications received, totaling $2,472,661 in requests, the Tribal Council awarded 55 for a total of $882,523.

The Grand Traverse Band will make its decision regarding the first 2015, 2 percent allocation in June 2015.

Nearby organizations receiving 2 percent dollars are as follows:

- Government to government agreement — Antrim County; Prisoner Housing Contract $12,775.
- Government to government agreement — Charlevoix County; Prisoner Housing Contract $12,775.

- Antrim County; Funding to support 48 athletes with intellectual disabilities from this area to attend the Special Olympics Michigan 2015 Summer Games $5,000.

- Charlevoix Township — Funding for the Charlevoix Area Community Pool for the programs that benefit all ages and economic resource to participate in year-long activities and events such as dollar night, aqua exercise, lap swim, lessons for children and adults, physical therapy, and water safety trainings $15,000.

- City of Charlevoix — Funding for the Third Day Fellowship Program for Charlevoix residents $6,000.

- City of Charlevoix — Funding for "Colorado Challenge" — a week-long camp for underprivileged and low-income homes, and foster homes, to learn team building skills, create new friendships and instill self-confidence $4,000.

- Northwestern Michigan College; Funding to continue financial support for the Native American Student Organization on the NMC campus and Summer Camp Immersion Program for Native American High School students $51,120.

Emmet Conservation District will hold Spring Tree Seedling sale

PETOSKEY — The Emmet Conservation District is offering a large selection of trees and shrubs at its 2015 Spring Tree Seedling sale. Most species offered are native to our area and should grow well with proper selection and care. Besides the selected conifers and hardwoods, the district also is offering a number of different shrubs, fruit trees and seedling packages. The order deadline is April 3, with pick up from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. at the Emmet County Fairgrounds on Friday, April 24, and from 9-11 a.m. on Saturday, April 25. Conifers for sale include red pine, white pine, blue spruce, Norway spruce, white spruce and northern white cedar. Deciduous trees include red oak, white oak, bur oak, red maple and sugar maple. There will be a limited number of Honey Crisp apple trees. For quality and quantity production, apple trees need a second nearby apple or crabapple tree within 100 feet to cross-pollinate. For this reason and for landscape and wildlife value, the group is offering "Magenta" crabapple trees. Apple trees will not be available for pick-up until 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 25. They will be arriving with Steve Fouch, former MSU Agriculture Educator, who will be leading a Fruit Tree Growing Workshop that day from 1-3 p.m. at the Gabriel Farm in Petoskey.

So, what trees should you plant? Native trees planted in an appropriate site are usually the best option. Trees planted on unsuitable sites suffer high mortality, poor growth, and are more susceptible to disease and pests. To help ensure a successful planting, consider and evaluate the soil composition before trees are purchased and planted. Tree growth is most rapid where soil drainage is good and competitive grasses, shrubs and weeds are controlled. Also, look and see what is already successfully growing in the proposed planting site. Conifers, which include pines, spruce, and firs, are more commonly planted on drier, coarser textured and less fertile soils. The pines are the most extensively planted reforestation tree in Michigan and may tolerate more dryness than spruces or firs. Hardwoods, or deciduous trees are usually better suited to loamy and clay/loam soil types where soil moisture and fertility are generally higher. Large plantings of hardwoods usually require more grass and weed control with various types of tree shelters.

Four seedling packets are being offered this year. The "Wildlife" packet contains 50 assorted seedling trees and shrubs selected for wildlife food and shelter. The "Nut" package contains 10 seedlings, two of each: red oak, black walnut, bur oak, shagbark hickory and American hazelnut. The "Wetland" package contains 10 seedlings, two of each: Highbush cranberry, silky dogwood, nannyberry, ninebark and American larch. Lastly, the "Home Owner" package contains 10 seedlings two each of sugar maple, white oak, red maple, white spruce and American mountain ash.

If there is a tree or shrub variety you would like to order, but we are not currently offering it, we may be able to special order it for you if you give us a call. Visit the district website emmetd.org to download order forms or to view the informational brochure with tree and shrub descriptions as well as planting products for sale; or call Jackie at (231) 439-8977 to have information mailed to you.

ing this period based on previous usage history.

Also on Monday, the Charlevoix Municipal Airport had a water service line along the terminal's north wall break causing damage in the wall, insulation and ceiling tiles.

"There is a fair amount of damage to that area of the terminal," Straebel said. "I think overall we minimized any of the impacts we could have been dealing with."

Luckily no damage occurred to the equipment that operates runway landing lights and other flight operational equipment, Straebel added.

"None of the electronics that run some of the major operations was damaged, which would have been a costly fix," he said.

City officials do not know what the cost will be to repair the damage, but it appears insurance will cover the costs.

"We do not have any estimate of damage costs," Straebel said. "We are working with the insurance company about what is covered."

Airport operations were not affected by the water line break, said Liz Myer, airport manager.

"Besides the cleanup, it was business as usual at the airport this morning," Myer said.

Officials also want customers to know that warmer weather or sunshine may not immediately mean the risk of freezing is over. Although dependent upon weather conditions, the run water order is anticipated to last at least several weeks, officials said.

The city will announce through the media and on its website cityofcharlevoix.org when this temporary measure will be concluded.

For more information contact the city manager's office, at (231) 547-3270.

Island Boat Company and others.

"I wasn't on the board when the project originally was being discussed," Kurtz said. "It seems reasonable to me to wait and see what the final conclusion from the Corps of Engineers would be."

Council member Bill Supernaw also said he did not hear support from his constituents for the project.

"There is not one person I have talked to in my ward that has expressed positive support to the dock expansion," Supernaw said. "This became an issue in the election and I think it did play a part with the people's decision at the polls."

Supernaw also went on to say the Army Corps of Engineers also sees a legitimate safety issue in their letter to the city.

"The Corps of Engineers justify the concerns of the Beaver Island Boat Company," Supernaw said. "Their concerns are legitimate. I've also heard if you're against the docks that you're anti-down-town. There is no validity to that. We all want to see our downtown thrive, but we also have an obligation to the voters."

With council's vote on Monday to end the expansion, Gibson hopes this issue is finally over with.

"We need to listen to the people and not bring this up again," Gibson said. "They do not want it."

fore voting, but Straebel said that could not happen because the wording of the proposed budget ordinance.

"City council has had this budget for six weeks," Straebel said. "Council had plenty of time to address this issue before tonight. To do this last minute is careless and reckless governing."

Porter believes including the DDA budget with the city budget is wrong. He also wants to see a development plan from the DDA before budget approval.

"The DDA budget is a separate animal and should be treated that way," Porter said.

Charlevoix City Charter requires a budget to be in place by April 1, in order for that to happen a budget ordinance should be approved by city council 30 days before the deadline.

Council can look in make changes in the future, but the budget should be approved, said city treasurer Kelly McGuinn.

"I believe you have a sound budget and my recommendation is that council should pass this budget," McGuinn said. "There will be opportunities in the future to address these other concerns."

Council member Shirley Gibson agreed council should not delay in passing the budget, but pointed out that Porter raised legitimate questions.

"We should not ignore what Jeff has presented to us tonight," Gibson said. "We should make every effort to address those concerns."

Mayor Gabe Campbell also said city council should approve the budget ordinance.

"I agree with the recommendation from our treasurer and city manager that we should pass this budget," Campbell said. "We can look at the DDA later."

Council came to an agreement that they will wait until Annie Doyle, the DDA director, who starts in March, has some time on the job before the two governing bodies sit down and discuss the issues Porter raised during the council meeting.

"I am pleased council did the right thing and approved the budget ordinance," Straebel said.

February is National CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH MONTH

A CHILD'S SMILE IS ONE OF LIFE'S GREATEST BLESSINGS

Three common childhood dental health concerns

When your baby's first teeth come in, everyone rejoices; it's a sign that all is progressing as it should. But as your child ages, various dental concerns can come along as well. Some issues are genetic and will require orthodontic work a bit later on, but there are others you can prepare for right now.

1. BABY BOTTLE TOOTH DECAY

Prevent early childhood caries, or cavities, by nursing or putting only mother's milk and formula in your baby's bottles. Don't let your baby fall asleep with the nipple in the mouth; gently wipe your infant's teeth with a sterile gauze pad before sleep time.

2. THUMB SUCKING

Thumb sucking is generally accepted to be a harmless habit in young children; sucking is a natural reflex in babies, and for toddlers it is an effective self-soothing strategy. However, the American Dental Association says that thumb sucking after the age of four can affect the alignment of your child's teeth and jaw. Talk to your pediatrician for advice about thumb sucking.

3. ACCIDENTAL TRAUMA TO THE TEETH

A blow to the mouth, cheek, or jaw may cause damage to teeth above or below the gum line. Take your child to the dentist's or to the hospital emergency room if a tooth is cracked or knocked out or if an object gets caught in the mouth or between the teeth. In the case of a knocked-out tooth, try to recover it and bring it to the dentist or hospital. Keep the tooth moist, ideally in the child's mouth if your child is old enough to not swallow it, place it between the teeth and gums or in the gap from where it fell out. You can also place the tooth in a cup of milk.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Tribfelner leads Charlevoix past Grayling, 58-55

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix senior Alexis Tribfelner scored 18 points, had seven steals, five assists and grabbed five rebounds during a 58-55 Lake Michigan Conference win over Grayling on Tuesday.

Grayling held the lead, 15-7, to end the first quarter.

"We started slow," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "But, after the first quarter, I really like the effort the girls showed."

Charlevoix tied the game at 22-22 on two Tribfelner free throws with two minutes remaining in the first half.

The Rayders would outscore the Vikings, 22-10, in the quarter, and take a halftime lead, 29-25.

"We turned up our defense, and became patient on the offense," Shaw said. "We learned that our hard work will pay off."

Also for Charlevoix, Kourtney Putman scored 14 points and collected six rebounds, while Hannah Zipp added 12 points, six rebounds, Olivia Storm scored 10 points, and Ellie Way had seven assists.

For Grayling, Sam Denno scored a game high, 22 points.

Charlevoix improves to 7-9 overall, 6-5 in league.

The Charlevoix junior varsity girls won over Grayling, 45-29.

Isabel Hess had 10 points and seven steals, Natalie Nesburg had eight points, Isabel Buday, Raigan Novotney and Olivia Jeakle all had six points.

Harbor Springs 43, Charlevoix 30

HARBOR SPRINGS — The Charlevoix girls basketball dropped a 43-30 battle to rapidly rising Harbor Springs Friday.

Against the Rayders, Harbor Springs put forth its best defense of the season, using ball pressure to keep Charlevoix off balance and forcing numerous turnovers.

The result was Charlevoix's lowest point total of the season — and the fewest points the Rams have given up in a game as well.

"We continued to pressure the ball all game and really kept them from getting any kind of run going,"

Harbor Springs coach Tom Brogger said. "(Charlevoix's) got two hand-fuls of girls you have to worry about as a defender, but we were comfortable in our own gym and it really felt like it was our night."

Offensively, Harbor Springs got off to a slow start, scoring 13 points in the first two quarters to head into halftime tied.

But when the Rams got into gear on the offensive end, the floodgates opened.

Harbor Springs came into the second half on fire, scoring 19 points in five minutes of the third quarter to build a nine-point advantage that would hold up the rest of the way.

Junior Harmony Lang, who finished with a game-high 14 points, was the catalyst for that Ram run, and senior Perry Bower played a big role as well, knocking down a big 3-pointer and finishing with 10 points.

Sophomore Haley Rushing added six points for Harbor Springs, and Girls basketball district preview Rams emerge as nominal favorite in wide-open district at Boyne City BOYNE CITY — Early in the season, no clear favorite had emerged in the Class C district field scheduled to play at Boyne City starting on Monday, March 2nd.

But by early February, one area team had risen to take center stage as the team to beat — albeit grudgingly.

Sitting at 7-7 and with wins over all three of the other LMC teams in the district, Harbor Springs looks more than capable of bringing home its first district crown since 2011, but Rams coach Tom Brogger is quick to note that any kind of celebration is beyond premature.

"There's a lot of rivals in this district, and you can't expect an easy game when you're facing a rival on the court," Brogger said. "Every one of these games (we'd have to play to win the title) are going to be difficult, and our records and past results aren't going to mean anything."

After a couple of years of rebuilding, things have fallen into place for the Rams this season, as Harbor Springs shook off a 1-5 start to complete a strong season in the first year of Brogger's second stint at the helm.

Seniors Shallon Grawcy and Perry Bower are the most consistent offensive weapons at Harbor Springs' disposal, but juniors Alexa Jensen-Philbrick and Harmony Lang are key pieces for the Rams as well.

"We're playing pretty well right now, and seem to be putting it all together, but that can change in a heartbeat with one injury," Brogger said. "We have to keep preparing to peak in districts, and we can't take anything for granted."

Harbor Springs' first round opponent, East Jordan, doesn't have a threatening record on paper, at 3-11, but that record belies a team that had four losses by two points or less in its first 10 games.

court, but she gets plenty of help from sophomore guard Miranda Burks and junior sharpshooter Jill Atwood.

"We've got a tough matchup out the gate, because Harbor Springs beat us pretty good in the first meeting, but I like the way we've improved throughout the season," East Jordan coach Steve Hines said. "It's going to be difficult to advance, but I know our players are working hard and we're going to see what we can do."

The winner of that game will face

Rogers City on Wednesday. The Hurons navigated their way to a .500 finish overall and a spot in the top half of the North Star League — Big Dipper Division standings this season.

Senior guard Logan Fleming, a three-year starter, leads Rogers City in scoring, and senior Alexa Quaine gives the Hurons a post presence in their quest for their first district title since 2001.

Wins over Harbor, Grayling keep Rayders as league's hottest team

HARBOR SPRINGS — Friday's matchup between Charlevoix and Harbor Springs was a long-range gunner's delight, with the two teams combining to make 16 3-pointers.

And no one hit more, or shot better, than Noah Jeakle.

The Charlevoix senior nailed five 3-pointers and finished with 17 points to help the Rayders pull away from the Rams for a 57-42 victory on Friday. Charlevoix's fifth in a row.

Jeakle hit two big 3-pointers during a second quarter run that allowed the Rayders to take an 18-point lead into halftime, one that Charlevoix would hold on to for the rest of the night.

"A lot of shooting is just confidence," Jeakle said. "(Charlevoix) coach (Bret Erskine) has been telling me all season to be confident in my shot and to take it if I'm open, and that's really helped me out this year."

Walker Drost and Kenen Borths each added nine points for Charlevoix, and Austin Putman chipped in eight for the Rayders, who wrapped up a stretch of four games in seven days with the win on Friday night.

"Any time you have three games in a week, it wears on you, and we were coming off a tough, emotional win last Friday to begin with," Erskine said. "I know I'm pretty tired, and I think the kids are a little tired too, and it showed at times tonight."

"I thought we had a really good second quarter and built on that with a really solid third quarter defensively, but in the fourth we got a little lackadaisical, maybe because of that fatigue. It's something we have to work to avoid in the future."

WRESTLING

After falling in team districts, Rayders send six individuals to regionals

CHARLEVOIX — As it has all season, injuries and illness proved to be too much for the Charlevoix wrestling team to overcome in the district tournament it hosted on Thursday.

The Rayders wrestled well on the mat, but with three grapplers out with injuries, Charlevoix couldn't keep up with a deeper Rogers City team in a 50-30 district semi-final loss.

Rogers City would beat Onaway in the final, 42-32, to claim the district crown.

Mick Hinkle, Devin Largent, Spencer Bruce, Camden Alden and Tyler McCallum all won their match for Charlevoix against the Hurons.

"I thought we competed well; it's just tough to beat a good team like Rogers City when you're missing three starters," Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle said. "We've been battling injuries and sickness since before the season started, and it caught up with us tonight."

The Rayders bounced back Saturday, sending six to the regional from the Division 4 district at Manton.

Two wrestlers earned runner-up finishes to lead the Rayders.

160-pound senior Sam Hovie, ranked eighth in the state in Division 4 at his weight by michiganrappler.com, pinned Logan Reid of Lake City in minute and seventh-ranked Chris Schelske of Forest Area in 2:47 before falling to sixth-ranked Chris Gillissie of Elk Rapids in the final to take second.

Sophomore Tyler McCallum also reached the final for Charlevoix in the 130-pound bracket, pinning John Mawby of TC St. Francis (2:20) and Raymond Self of Onaway (1:28) to reach the final before losing to Hunter Eurich of Mio to take second.

Sophomore Camden Alden (125) and junior Mick Hinkle (189) finished third to earn a trip to the regional for the Rayders.

Alden pinned Zach Myers of Rogers City (2:38) in the blood round and got another pin of TC St. Francis' Aris Morgan in the consolation match (4:04), while Hinkle pinned 13th ranked Reiley Somers (4:37) in the blood round and won a 6-0 decision over Harry Samotis of Oscoda in the consolation match.

The Rayders also got both their 215-pounders through to the regional, as senior Spencer Bruce pinned teammate Devio Largent in 4:18 in the consolation match after each won in the blood round to earn their regional bids.

Freshman Jeremy Chernauckas lost in the blood round to just miss out on a seventh regional berth for Charlevoix.

Shallon Grawey and Zoey Bezilla each chipped in four.

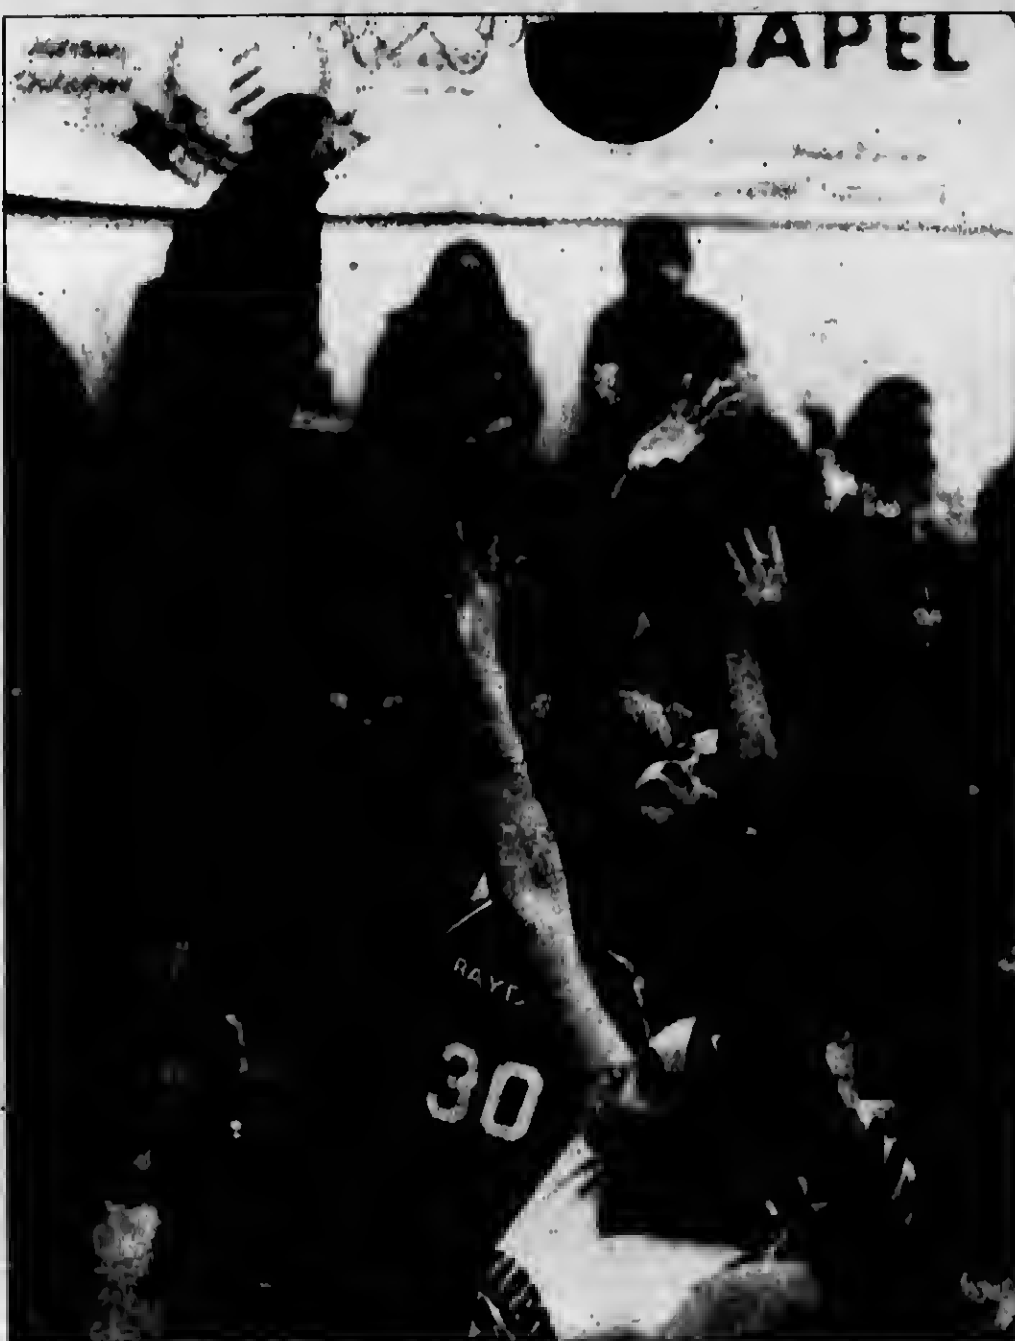

The Rayders were good enough defensively for most of the game to pull the upset, but ultimately turnovers proved too costly for Charlevoix to overcome, specifically during that third quarter stretch where Harbor Springs took control of the game.

"We're both teams that make it difficult on teams to run their offenses thanks to our ball pressure, but I felt like we had a couple of letdowns on both ends of the floor that made it tough for us to match what they were doing," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "We weren't boxing out or keeping them out of the lane consistently on defense, and we weren't taking care of the ball offensively with consistency either, and it cost us."

Olivia Storm led the Rayders with 13 points, Alexis Tribbeler added seven and Hannah Zipp chipped in six.

"I thought Olivia did a really good job stepping up for us offensively tonight, making shots and taking charge," Shaw said. "That's what we need from all of our players if we're going to get where we want to go."

Sports writers James Gensterblum and Kurt Grangood contributed to this report.

sils host Boyne City, who takes on Inland Lakes in the Monday nightcap.

The Ramblers had a difficult season, going 1-13, but pushed both Charlevoix and East Jordan in meetings this year and can't be counted out on their home floor.

"Having it in our gym is an advantage in terms of drawing a bigger crowd, generating more excitement, and giving us a sense of familiarity in playing where we practice every day," Boyne City coach Kevin Fitzpatrick said. "It's a challenge matching up against a team we haven't seen before in Inland Lakes, but we're going to scout them as best we can and come up with a plan."

Junior Celena Brzezinski is Boyne City's top weapon, averaging double-figure points per game, and fellow juniors Hannah Hoth and Keysten Girlinghouse have started to develop into capable secondary scorers for the Ramblers.

Their opponent, Inland Lakes, also had a tough season, going 3-12 while playing in the Ski Valley, but have performed better in the second half of the season than the first.

Sophomores Vanessa Wandrie, Katie Byrne and Lexi Passino lead a young team that has managed to get results with strong defensive play.

"Our goal all season has been to be playing our best half in March when the district tournament rolls around, and we really feel like we're getting there," Inland Lakes coach Pat Clancy said. "We know Boyne City plays in a much bigger league, and it's going to be tough to heat them on their home court, but we feel like we can be competitive."

The winner of that matchup advances to play Charlevoix. The Rayders are the defending district champion, but ACL tears suffered by leading returning scorers Kelsey Engstrom and Maddie Boss decimated the Charlevoix lineup early.

Seniors Kourtney Putman and Olivia Storm have provided enough scoring punch to keep the Rayders afloat this season, and along with seniors Ellie Way and Alexis Tribbeler and junior Hannah Zipp, should give Charlevoix a chance at defending their crown.

"Nobody in the district has a dominant player or team this year; everyone is solid and pretty balanced," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "The title is going to be decided by whoever can play the hardest, make shots and take care of the ball."

"Anyone can advance." The winner travels to Escanaba on March 10th for the Class C regional tournament, and faces off against an Upper Peninsula team at 7 p.m. with a spot in the regional final on the line.

GRAYLING — The Rayders Noah Jeakle and Ryan Joy each hit a three-pointer in the fourth quarter to end Viking runs during a Lake Michigan Conference win on Tuesday.

Grayling held the lead throughout the first half, which included, 36-30, at halftime.

Charlevoix adjusted its defense during the third quarter, to hold Grayling to three points, and the Rayders would lead at the break, 46-39.

"We started rebounding and playing better defense in the second half, especially in the third quarter," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "In the fourth quarter, they (Grayling) came back, but we were able to answer their runs with big three-pointers."

Grayling outscored Charlevoix in the final quarter, 20-16, but fell short on a missed shot at the buzzer.

Also for Charlevoix, Austin Putman scored 25 points, Walker Drost scored 16 points, and Jeakle finished with 13 points.

For Grayling, Nick Darin scored 14 points and Scout Tobin added 13 points.

Charlevoix improves to 9-6 overall, 8-3 in league. The Rayders will host T.C. St. Francis today (Friday).

Ice cover plays part in Great Lakes water levels

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@charz.com

MICHIGAN — The total ice cover for the entire Great Lakes has officially surpassed the ice coverage for this time last year. Last year ice cover total for all the lakes was at 81 percent compared to 83 percent this year, according to the National Weather Service in Gaylord.

Though totals for ice coverage for all of the lakes is higher this year, the individual percentages vary and some are less than last year at this time, said Anne Clites with the Great Lakes Environmental Research Laboratory and part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

"What we've seen is a tremendous change from a week ago because of the extreme cold the Great Lakes Basin is experiencing," Clites said.

Lake Superior has 89 percent ice, and was only 42 percent covered just seven days ago. Last year Lake Superior was 91 percent covered with ice. Ice covers about 70 percent of Lake Michigan, which is about 88 percent more since last week. This is still much less than last year, when 81 percent of Lake Michigan was covered with ice. Ice covers 92 percent of Lake Huron, while last year Lake Huron had 91 percent ice cover. Lake Erie is at 98 percent ice cover, while last year the lake was at 95 percent. Lake Ontario is at 82 percent ice cover for the 2014-15 year, which is much higher than the previous year of 31 percent, Clites said.

"Ontario is a very deep lake and normally does not get much ice cover," Clites said.

The ice plays a role in the amount of water the lakes will have this summer and fall. One of the benefits of having ice cover is that it reduces evaporation, which is the main driver of water loss in the Great Lakes.

The south pier in Charlevoix sits beneath thick ice creating a dangerously beautiful sight.

"We'll see less evaporation because the water will be colder. The warmer you have that water, the more evaporation you'll have in the fall and winter," said Drew Gronewold, a hydrologist at the Great Lakes Environmental Research Laboratory and part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Lake Superior, Huron, Michigan and Erie were above their monthly average levels in November, while Lake Ontario was slightly below. In September, all five were simultaneously above average for the first time since the drop-off began in the late 1990s. A newly released forecast predicts little change over the next six months.

This appears to be a swift rebound from January 2013, when Michigan and Huron — which are linked and have the same level — reached their lowest point since the government began keeping records nearly a century earlier.

"Michigan and Huron haven't seen two-year water level increases in recorded history," Gronewold said. "Ice cover is a minor cause of the water level increases compared to factors such as rain and snow."

A sheet of ice rises up like a wave on the frozen waters of Lake Michigan in Charlevoix. With nearly 70 percent of the Great Lakes now covered by ice, it appears as if the frozen white surface stretches out across the lake to St. Marys Cement.

The mighty movement of Lake Michigan constantly causes ice to shift and move causing formations similar to this giant head that appears to be looking up toward the sky.

Fat tire bikes take off as a real sport in Dogman Challenge

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — For centuries, people who live in Northern Michigan have found ways to endure long, cold winters by using the weather to their advantage. Skiing, sledding, snowshoeing, hockey all can be considered time-honored pastimes for people who stick around once the snow begins to fall.

But even after years of living in the snow, people are still finding innovative ways to get outside and enjoy the weather.

The newest outdoor winter sport is fat tire biking — a mutation of mountain biking that allows hikers to stay outside all year long. The sport is so popular among bikers that competitions have sprouted up throughout Michigan.

On Feb. 21, fat tire hikers flew across the snowy trails around Charlevoix when riders from around the area took part in the third-annual Dogman Challenge at Mount McSaubia.

Jordan Wakeley was the fastest male in the race, while Becky Wanek was the first-place female finisher.

Wakeley, of Grayling, who participates in mountain hike races all year, enjoys the Dogman Challenge. It has quickly become one of his favorites since taking up fat tire hiking a few years ago.

"This is my third year racing bike during the winter," Wakeley said. "I really like this course."

DDA considers attendance policy, approves budget amendment

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will consider adding an attendance policy to its bylaws. The topic came up earlier this year during meetings when some members have been absent.

DDA chairperson Dan Barron said the bylaws do not address attendance requirements for those holding office. He does feel that something should be done.

"There is no clear standard in our policy for attendance requirements," Barron said. "It is important we get a basic policy in place that all board members can follow."

Though no action was taken on the attendance policy, DDA board members did direct Charlevoix city staff to bring back a policy recommendation to the board.

"We asked staff to look at other board policies and bring us something similar that we can adopt going forward," Barron said. "We expect to have something presented to us at our next meeting on Monday, March 23."

City manager Roh Straebel said, there are circumstances when a member has to miss a meeting, but if a person is to sit on a board, attendance is an important requirement.

"We certainly want people who join these boards to be present at the meetings," Straebel said. "We feel it's prudent to add additional language to the bylaws for attendance to help with this matter."

In other actions the DDA amended its 2015-16 budget to account for the additional revenue from the lease signed by the Charlevoix Brewing Company and to account for its plan to put $15,000 toward the Charlevoix Public Library.

"We are glad we have the extra revenue coming in to make good the payments to the library this year," Barron said.

Barron also said the board is looking forward to working with the new director, Annie Doyle on March 2.

"I think she will do a great job for us in Charlevoix," Barron said. "We are thrilled about the work she has done at her prior job in Boyne City. She has the background in Main Street, which is a big asset for us."

"It is important we get a basic policy in place that all board members can follow."

Board wants input

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education will conduct a community forum to seek input from residents for new superintendent.

The meeting will take place at 6 p.m. on Thursday, March 5, at the Charlevoix High School library.

Rod Green from the Michigan Association of School Boards will be present to get input on what they would like to see in our next superintendent, said Interim Superintendent Tom Stobie. This meeting is important for the direction the search committee will take when hiring a new superintendent for the school district.

"We really want the community to come and share their thoughts on our search for a new superintendent," Stobie said. "The more input we have gives us a better idea what residents expect with their school superintendent. We want people to voice their thoughts."

For more information about the community forum, call (231) 547-3200.

Bond request District will asks voters to approve $5 million bond in May

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public School voters will be asked in May to approve 0.2 mills that would raise $5.49 million over the next 10 years.

The Charlevoix Public school board voted Feb. 2, to request borrowing that amount through a bond issue on the May 5 ballot. If approved, it would keep the millage rate similar to the 2008 bond proposal, which recently ended, said Interim Superintendent Tom Stobie. The bond will cost the equivalent of $20 annually on a house with a taxable value of $100,000.

According to bond documents, the money will be used for four areas of need: building construction and remodeling; technology; purchasing school buses; and remodeling, developing and improving athletic fields and athletic facilities within the district.

"There are some things that just didn't get done with the last bond," Stobie said. "We're in the middle of finalizing the exact needs that this bond would address."

Basically, if the school board could call the bond proposal a renewal, they would, Stobie said.

"We want to continue the improvements the district has been making at no additional costs to the taxpayer," Stobie said. "There won't be a millage increase by approving this bond. It is about the because its terrain is challenging."

Wakeley said once he got through the first two laps of the race he really ramped up his pace.

"I kept my going about 10 to 15 mph once I got a good feel of the course," Wakeley said. "I really didn't have any concerns once I was able to get my pace set."

More than 20 men and women faced the 1.5-mile loop, two-hour timed event through the trails of Mount McSaub and North Point Nature Preserve on Saturday.

Les Crooks, who drove from Mishawaka, Ind., to participate in the fat tire hike race, said the course was unique.

"I heard about the race online and immediately checked out maps of the area," Crooks said. "It's a good course to race in. I especially like when the course gets narrow and turns. You had to be careful or you would lose control."

Charlevoix resident and Dogman Challenge veteran Ben Mullins said the course got a little tricky after the sun came out.

"The course broke down," Mullins said. "I didn't expect it when the sun came out the snow got loose and slick and caused me to wipe out a couple of times."

The 2015 Dogman Challenge was very successful, said Chet Morris, race organizer and owner of Revolution Bike, in Charlevoix.

"We've continually seen an increase in riders and spectators," Morris said. "This year is another good year."

His idea for the race wasn't about the competition, but about promoting Charlevoix and its beauty in the winter.

"Charlevoix has so much to offer in the winter," Morris said. "We have great facilities at Mount McSaub and the nature trails are great to enjoy by bike all year long."

Fat tire bike racer, Celina Wanek treads through the snowy trails during the third-annual Dogman Challenge on Saturday.

Fat tire bike racer Ben Mullins, of Charlevoix, completes his final lap of the Dogman Challenge on Saturday at Mount McSaub. Mullins completed 11 laps in the two-hour timed race.

Third Day Fellowship relocates to United Methodist Church

CHARLEVOIX — Third Day Fellowship and Outreach has relocated to the lower level of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church to continue ministering to the poor, oppressed, down-trodden and marginalized in our community.

Third Day Fellowship, founded in 2011, is now entering its fifth season under the direction of founder and pastor the Rev. Ginger Stevens.

Third Day Fellowship and Outreach is an alternative church and street level outreach center designed to reach the very lost and hurting society in our community by empowering and training people in the life skills necessary to permanently resolve life situations that perpetuate the cycle of poverty.

According to the Small Area Income and Poverty Estimates or SAIPE, a program of the US Census Bureau, 11.3 percent of the population of Charlevoix was living below poverty level in 2010. We see this first hand at Third Day Fellowship and Outreach. The outreach is a benevolence ministry that helps people who are in need of gas for work, bus passes, laundry assistance, food from our food pantry, diapers, paper products and assistance with many other basic needs.

In 2014, the ministry gave out more than $17,000 of assistance in various forms to individuals and their families.

Pastor Stevens also ministers through the Charlevoix Ministerial Association by assisting with utilities, rent expenses, homelessness and prescription needs through the Ministerial Association's Emergency Benevolence Fund to help people through a crisis situation.

In addition to assisting people with benevolence needs, the Fellowship's Drop-In Center is open four days a week offering a food pantry, fellowship, chapel messages, coffee, snacks and a safe place for people to come. The center is a comfortable place to spend quality time with friends, relieving the stress of trying to keep your head above water when life becomes overwhelming.

Many who frequent the Drop-In Center call us their "second family" or their "Third Day family."

Pastor Ginger, her staff and volunteers endeavor to show the love of Christ by assisting those in need with things that make their lives a little easier and a little brighter, seeing many people transformed just because someone cares about them.

Classes are also periodically offered at Third Day Fellowship on Addiction Recovery, Stress/Trauma Recovery, Co-Dependency, Budgeting and the Joppa House "Stepping Stones" Life Skills Curriculum.

Third Day has recently received grants from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for the Food Ministry, a grant from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians for benevolence and another small grant from the Great Lakes Energy Peoples Fund. These grant monies, as well as moving to the lower level of the church, allows Third Day to expand services to include several new features.

One new program is the Pet Food Pantry. Pets are often neglected because of the expense of affordable food. The Pet Food Pantry, in partnership with the Charlevoix County Humane Society will give pet owners the right food to care for beloved dogs or cats.

Extra room also allows for an expanded diaper closet with more baby items. A sundries and paper pantry is currently being organized. Clients will have access to professional hair cuts, color and styling in our brand new hair care station. Also, plans are being finalized to resurrect the Lighthouse Community Lunch two days a week in partnership with the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. The program will serve a light lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays in the church Fellowship Hall beginning in late March.

Future plans include an after-school program, literacy classes and an emergency shelter for homeless women.

The Outreach is joining with the Methodist Church at 10:30 a.m. in the main sanctuary for service every Sunday morning. Messy Church takes place in the fellowship hall for children from 4 to 6 p.m. the first Sunday of every month.

Third Day Fellowship and Outreach is open four days a week. The Food Pantry and Drop-In Center are open from 2 to 6 p.m. on Monday and Thursday, with just the Center open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday.

Third Day Fellowship is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization supported by contributions and donations.

Donations can be mailed to P.O. Box 174, Charlevoix or dropped off at the office in the lower level of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

Food pantry donations may be dropped off during business hours. Donations and contributions are tax-deductible. All support is greatly appreciated.

For more information, visit 3dfellowship.org or call (231) 547-8040.

Learning to take the helm

Editors Note: The "Members Log" is a new monthly series where the Charlevoix Courier will feature a member of the Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron. The series is designed to tell the personal boating stories of each member, share their experiences with the organization and perhaps even share with the reader a place to visit by boat. This month the Courier points its light to Tom Tietjen, a local physician, who now serves as commander of the local USPS affiliate. He has been active in the organization since 2008.

CHARLEVOIX — Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron Cmdr. Tom Tietjen has always been interested in being the captain of his own ship.

As a young boy, Tietjen's earliest memories of boating was watching the captains of the barges and tugs maneuver on the Missouri River. He was convinced they had a pretty easy job. "After all, there were only two ways to go — upstream and down," Tietjen said.

Those early impressions of navigation all changed after he moved to Charlevoix.

"When I moved to the shores of Lake Michigan, especially the first time I took a trip, over the horizon to Beaver Island I was intrigued by how much more difficult the life of a Great Lakes skipper must be," he said. "How did she know where to point the boat? What if we missed the island? Would we end up in Wisconsin?"

As the years went by Tietjen had an increasing desire to learn more about navigation, maritime customs and safety on the water. Six years ago, his interest led him to the nation's oldest and largest all-volunteer motor boating and sailing organization, the United States Power Squadron.

"I found instructors and like-minded individuals who taught me about navigation, cruise planning, weather forecasting, engine maintenance, and much, much more," he said. "Today I'm comfortable at the helm of anything under 50 feet in length in everything, but a full blown gale."

Tietjen said the USPS teaches dozens of educational programs to responsible boaters who venture away from shore.

"I've taken them all," he said. "The education, the confidence and the friends I've found with in the Power Squadron have made it all worthwhile."

As a member of the Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron, Tietjen has risen through the ranks as new to a leader in the group.

"I have experienced the pleasure of working alongside dozens of people who are knowledgeable, interesting and who know how to have a good time," Tietjen said. "Our monthly educational meetings, organized classes and annual boat rendezvous keep us busy all year round. The Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron has three simple goals: Self-education, community service, and having FUN. That's why I'm a member of USPS."

LETTER to the editor

Charlevoix Community Food Pantry offers thanks to the community

Dear Community:

The Charlevoix Community Food Pantry would like to thank the community for the generosity we have been blessed with this past holiday season and throughout the year. Our donors are too numerous to list but include small businesses, large businesses, churches, civic organizations, school groups and of course so many individuals, donating both funds and food collections.

We are grateful to each and every one of you for your support, and we truly appreciate your help in assisting our local families with the supplemental groceries your donations provide.

During 2014, we served an average of 146 households each month, and this number includes about 175 children monthly, numbers which, sadly, are not declining. On behalf of those families and all of our volunteers, thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Congress needs details before approving Obama's military plan

THE ALPINE NEWS
Feb. 19.

Debate over a critical issue of U.S. policy — defeating Islamic terrorists — appears to have taken on an impressive bipartisan tone. Both Democrat and Republican members of Congress have serious concerns about President Barack Obama's request they authorize additional use of military force.

Air strikes, assassinations using unmanned drones and covert operations already have been used extensively against terrorists, including the Islamic State. Obama has done that without asking for lawmakers' approval.

Precisely what is it that he has in mind in seeking a formal resolution now?

Some in Congress worry about giving the White House a blank check for use of U.S. ground troops in the Middle East. Obviously, that should not happen.

But senators and representatives also should be asking for enough detail about Obama's plan to ensure it provides a reasonable chance of success. No more American lives should be wasted in futile attempts to "contain" terrorists.

Lawmakers of both parties should view that as a litmus test — and reject any presidential proposal that does not meet it.

Veterans are great bets for employment

THE MICHIGAN JOURNAL
(MARQUETTE), Feb. 18.

The veteran unemployment rate in Michigan in 2013 was 10.6 percent, the second highest rate in the U.S.

That dubious distinction is nothing to be proud of, but hopefully, a new effort by the Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency will change that.

The agency has created programs to bring together veteran talent and employers. It prepares vets for a career outside the military through interviewing skills and resume building — skills that already are just a standard part of high school and college seniors waiting to enter the workforce.

Veterans have many skills learned in the military that can be translated into the "real world."

Why couldn't a mechanic trained to work on complicated aircraft find a mechanic job after he or she returns home? What about simple leadership skills? Can't they be translated into a management job as well?

When veterans with the proper training in an area want to work in that field, the agency provides aid similar to vets returning to civilian life as students. Lansing Community College's military medic-to-paramedic is one example of a veteran fast-track program.

The vets-to-work situation, though, cuts both ways. The agency also educates employers on how to hire vet talent.

The classic 1946 film, "The Best Years of Our Lives" depicted the struggles returning vets have in finding employment, or if they do find employment, the struggles they face.

Were the resources now available to vets offered then, perhaps those fictional — and, of course, non-fictional people — wouldn't have had to face those difficulties.

The Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency's website has links to many resources and can be found at www.michiganveterans.com. Veterans — or even families and friends of veterans — should take a look to see how those coming home from the service or a tour of duty can better assimilate in the working world.

That would benefit everyone.

RETURNING BEACH CHARLEVOIX 3 P. M.

In late 1899, Peter Dougall Campbell, captain of the Erie L. Hackley, began to face competition on the Beaver Island passenger and freight run from Captain Neil Gallagher's steamer Joe. But the two men worked out a cooperative three-day each per week schedule for 1900. Then, later that summer, Captain David O'Connor, of Harbor Springs, muscled in on the act with his steamer, a newer, bigger, faster vessel named Oval Agitator, threatening both boats.

But within a few weeks O'Connor thought he would enjoy a more lucrative route from Charlevoix to Sturgeon Bay, Wis., via Harbor Springs, and pulled out of contention in September. He was badly mistaken. Then the Joe was seized by Federal marshals for debt. Campbell now had clear sailing beginning in 1901. But at the end of the season, the Hackley needed extensive repairs, Campbell hearing the despised Oval Agitator was on the market, he swallowed his pride and purchased her in February 1902, renaming her the Beaver.

The Charlevoix Sentinel newspaper said of the transaction: "The Captain will now proceed to erase, remove, eliminate, obliterate and destroy everything suggesting Agitator, and in black and gilt letters will appear Beaver, in honor of the other end of the route."

Campbell pretty much ruled the Beaver Island transit roost from then on, until the Beaver caught fire at what is now the city dock one hundred years ago this April, and hurned to a shell. The fire was so intense it ignited part of the dock also. Captain Campbell passed away from the effects of an infected optic nerve a year later.

'Mary Poppins' to debut Friday

ANNE KELLY
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — If you have been experiencing cabin fever during the recent arctic blast, a practically perfect remedy can be found by losing yourself in a little whimsy this weekend. The Charlevoix High School's production of "Mary Poppins" is ready for opening night at 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 27.

The cast includes Mary Poppins (Hero Parker-Drost) who will be working her magic as the perfect nanny for the young Banks children, Jane (Helen Hanchin) and Michael (Cam Arnold), while Jack of all trades, Bert the chimney sweep (Jason Jones) will give the audience a glimpse of 1910 England and introduce them to the troubled Banks family parents, Winnifred (Hannah Ennis) and George (Jake Conway).

This delightful musical has been performed more than 2,500 times on Broadway and has been one of Disney's all-time, most popular movies. Based on the books by P.L. Travers, the story has been adapted for the school stage and showcases some talented Charlevoix performers who will sing and dance their way throughout a magical evening.

Performances are at 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 27, Saturday, Feb. 28, and Saturday, March 7. A 2 p.m. performance is scheduled for Sunday, March 8.

Meeting to address Camp Sea-Gull grant application

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County's Hayes Township will host a public hearing at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 5, at the Hayes Township Hall, 09195 Old U.S. 31, Charlevoix.

The purpose of the hearing is to discuss the 2015 Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund grant application for improvement of Hayes Township Park Camp Sea-Gull. Camp Sea-Gull was acquired early last year through Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund acquisition grant monies, township funds and public donations.

The grant application will ask for funds for the first phase of development to include: road infrastructure to the lakefront and a launch facility for small boats. The public is encouraged to come and participate.

The boat launch and the access road are an important first step," said Hayes Township Parks Committee Member Anne Kantola. "It will create the foundation for making the park a fun, usable place. It'll get people down to the beach area and into the lake, and will create the 'bones' for enhancing the park's utility in the future."

The Hayes Township Master Plan poses many possibilities for future park elements, including non-motorized trail head, swimming beaches, overlook and nature trails, a fishing pier, refurbished recreational hall and cabins, recreational areas and spaces for family and social gatherings. With the assistance of an anonymous donation, the township hired a professional team, Landscape Architects and Planners Inc., to navigate the complex public process and create a balanced plan that allows for many possibilities for the future development and use of the park, while preserving its natural character. The Master Plan may be found on the Hayes Township website at hayestownshipmi.gov.

In addition, Hayes Township is seeking a person or couple to serve as Park Host, living on site at Hayes Township Park Camp Sea-Gull during the late spring, summer and early fall of 2015 in exchange for light grounds and cabin maintenance, and public interface. Interested parties should contact Marlene Golovich, Hayes Township Clerk, via email at clerk@hayestownshipmi.gov or call (231) 547-6961.

OBITUARIES

Frances 'Fran' Virginia Beattie, 93

Frances "Fran" Virginia Beattie, 93, of Traverse City began her new heavenly life Monday, Feb. 16, 2015. "I once was blind but now I see."

She was born March 8, 1921, in Traverse City to Albert and Blanche (Starbuck) Fall. Fran left the Silver Lake Farm to work for room and board for the Wilhelms so that she could graduate from Traverse City High School in 1940. She went on to graduate from the Traverse City State Hospital Nursing Program, class of 1943. She continued to keep in touch with her classmates and would host many reunions.

Fran worked for Munson Medical Center for 30 years and assisted in the development of the coronary care unit and the intensive care unit. At the time of her retirement, Fran was the nursing supervisor for the ICU.

Fran was very artistic and enjoyed oil painting and crafts (known as the Weed Lady, she would collect weeds and paint them for nature arrangements). Together, Fran and her granddaughter enjoyed crafting. She also enjoyed water skiing, swimming and cross-country skiing. She traveled all over the United States. Fran was an independent and self-directed person who cared about others. She was snowblowing and going to the grocery store on her motorized scooter, which she fondly referred to as "princess," well into her 80s.

She married the late Lyle Beattie, formerly of Charlevoix, on Sept. 17, 1943, in Traverse City. Fran remarried in 1983 to Andrew Liska.

A faithful servant to the Lord, Fran was very active in her church. She was instrumental in the inception of the Bayview Wesleyan Church, and was the benevolence secretary and assumed responsibility for the singles group, JOY Seekers (Jesus, others, and you).

Frances is survived by her daughters, Sandra K. Tillotson of Manistee and Sheralyn Ann "Sherry" Beattie of Traverse City; a granddaughter, Kara Tillotson of Manistee; sister-in-law, Maxine Fall; former son-in-law, Mike Tillotson; two stepchildren; four step-grandchildren; four step-great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Besides her parents, Fran was preceded in death by her husband, Lyle, who passed in 1974; and Andrew, who passed in 1996; and two brothers, Sidney Fall and the Rev. Kenneth Fall.

The family would like to express their gratitude for the compassionate care given to Fran by the caregivers at the Grand Traverse Pavilions.

At Fran's request burial has taken place at Oakwood City Cemetery and a memorial gathering is being planned for the spring. Details will be announced through the church at a later date.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the Bayview Wesleyan Church building fund.

Arrangements have been entrusted to Covell Funeral Home of Traverse City.

Regina B. (Boris) Shank, 79

Regina B. (Boris) Shank, 79, of Swartz Creek went to be with her Lord and her husband, Floyd, Saturday, Feb. 21, 2015.

Funeral services have taken place and were handled by Sharp Funeral Homes, Miller Road Chapel, 8138 Miller Road, Swartz Creek. Those desiring may make contributions to Multiple Myeloma Research Foundation.

Regina was born Feb. 1, 1936, in Elmira, the daughter of Anthony and Viola (Pawlak) Boris. She married Floyd D. Shank on Oct. 13, 1956, in Boyne City, and he preceded her in death July 26, 2002. She retired from J.C. Penney and also had been employed by Swartz Creek Community Schools.

She had resided in Swartz Creek for the past 50 years. Regina was a member of St. Mary Queen of Angels Catholic Church. She was a member of Council of Catholic Women and UAW Retirees. She also was a volunteer for Salvation Army (Canteen and Christmas Kettles), St. Andrew's Soup Kitchen, Red Cross and McLaren-Flint.

Surviving are four daughters, Sharon Oakes and husband Rob of Clio, Mary Wright of Swartz Creek, Christine Holmes of Kokomo, Ind., and Judy Busnardo and husband Dennis of Arvada, Colo.; son, Donald Shank and wife Kim of Swartz Creek; six grandchildren, Jason, Christopher, Michelle, Jamie, Amanda and Daniel, who is currently serving in the U.S. Army, and wife Trina; 10 great-grandchildren; three sisters; one brother; and several nieces, nephews and friends.

She was preceded in death by her parents; four brothers; and one brother-in-law.

Online tributes may be posted on the obituaries page at www.sharpfuneralhomes.com.

BUSINESS

Annual chamber awards event honors new Charlevoix businesses

LORRIE ALLEN
(231) 547-8558 • allen@charvix.com

CHARLEVOIX — Honoring the best of the best in business and the community is what the annual Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Awards do each year. Though six categories feature a different honoree for 2014, two of those recognitions take time to focus on the new to Charlevoix and its community.

One is a new business and the other is a young professional in the area, both of which can be considered the future of economic growth in Charlevoix.

"Seeing new, young professionals come to Charlevoix to start a business shows Charlevoix is more than a tourist destination. Charlevoix is a place people call home and raise their families," said Alison Hubbard, Chamber president. "We do celebrate all residents and business leaders, but also we want to grow the community, and we do that by encouraging new businesses and young professionals who come here with support and recognition."

Young Professional of the Year, Benjamin Muladore, proves young professionals can thrive in Charlevoix. Muladore is financial adviser for Edward Jones and a true servant leader in the best sense of the word. His work, both for profit and nonprofit, helps change lives.

Tabitha Simpson, Edward Jones branch office manager, said Muladore goes the extra mile for the community. He serves as a board member for the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation and does other volunteer work in the community. "He is a great, honest, hard-working young man that takes everything he does very seriously and does it very professionally," Simpson said.

He leads the STRIVE program — Students Taking Renewed Interest and Value Education — in the Charlevoix Rotary Club, where he and others in the program work with high school seniors from the area to help increase their participation in learning and prepare them for college, if that, Muladore said, is a path they choose to take after graduation.

"We pair students with a mentor, look at areas we can help them improve, so they can have a successful senior year," Muladore said.

He values the community of a small town. He moved to the Charlevoix area from Ann Arbor, to raise his family where people look out for and support each other, he said.

"My wife and I moved to Charlevoix in 2007, with a goal to build a successful business in town, serve my clients well, all while giving back to the community," Muladore said. "When people come together and put aside differences great things can be accomplished. We're all partners in this community and we should support each other to be successful."

New Business of the Year recipient Bridge Street Tap Room has grown to be one of the more popular stops among craft beer lovers in Charlevoix. With more than 30 taps filled with Michigan craft beers, ciders and more, Bridge Street

Bridge Street Tap Room is the 2014 Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce New Business of the Year. From left are: Dennis Halverson, chamber board of directors, chairperson, Aaron Hagen, Bridge Street Tap Room partner and manager, Alison Hubbard, chamber president, Phil Parr, Bridge Street Tap Room partner and manager, Adam Engelman, Bridge Street Tap Room partner and Rich Bergmann, Bridge Street Tap Room partner.

Tap Room delivers on quality.

However, the reputation can also be linked to the business judgment and personality of the owners, dedication and work ethic of their management team, and the fun and friendly customer service experience offered by the staff.

Their success has played a significant part in Charlevoix and its tourism industry, from promoting the Craft Beer Festival to being a sponsor for many of the events held year-round in the area. It's this community involvement, which garnered support for the recognition from the Chamber.

"The involvement and support the owners of Bridge Street Tap Room have given to Charlevoix and it's downtown is one of the reasons they were selected for this award," Hubbard said. "They have an enthusiasm to see Charlevoix's businesses prosper. Phil and Aaron give countless hours to Main Street and overall, they care about this town. Young leaders like them will help Charlevoix move forward in the future."

Bridge Street Tap Room has four partners: Rich Bergmann, 59, Phil Parr, 27, Aaron Hagen, 26, and Adam Engelman, 31. Parr said they chose Charlevoix for their business because of the natural beauty and proximity to the water.

"Charlevoix is a small town with lots of potential with the business mix changing," Parr said. "The location of our building was paramount to building the business plan and the level of guests that we could attract year-round."

Parr believes that a new business can thrive in Charlevoix if it can operate year-round. Parr believes building that year-round base is important for Charlevoix.

"We need to strengthen our business mix year-round here first before we start recruiting new businesses to come into town," Parr said. "If we continue to have a rotating business community, we cannot grow the business environment. Once we do that, we will have a strong base to support these new businesses."

Jordan River Arts Council introduces first exhibit of 2015

EAST JORDAN — The Jordan River Arts Council presents its first exhibit of the 2015 season. Celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Carnegie grant to build their historic building, 310 Main St., East Jordan. This exhibit will feature 100 artists, each exhibiting one piece of work. The art exhibited comes from area artists, East Jordan high school students, artists who are no longer living but whose contributions to the art council are still valued, works from our collection, and from board members and their collections.

The work shown is equally varied. From large oil paintings, watercolors, quirky assemblages, realistic and abstract drawings, pottery of all sorts, glass, a wide variety of fiber, there is art to captivate and intrigue any viewer.

The exhibit opens with a reception from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, March 1. It will remain open through Friday, March 20. Hours are from 1-4 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. For a look at a wide variety of art created by an equally wide variety of artists as well as a chance to view proposals to improve and add to our historic building, make a point to see this exhibit.

Any questions about the exhibit can be directed to Babs Young at babsyoung41@gmail.com or Cynthia Tschudy at (231) 544-6167.

TRAVERSE CITY

MDOT schedules annual public input meeting

TRAVERSE CITY — The Michigan Department of Transportation will host its annual public input meeting for Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalkaska, Grand Traverse, Leelanau and Benzie counties. The meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. on Tuesday, March 3, on the second floor training room, at the Traverse City Governmental Center, 400 Boardman Ave., in Traverse City.

The MDOT meetings provide an opportunity to review MDOT's state long-range plan for the upcoming construction season, the Five-Year Road and Bridge Program, transportation planning and funding issues. Public input will also be gathered regarding future road projects on the state highway system.

For more information, contact Patty O'Donnell, MDOT North Region transportation planner, at (989) 614-4229. For special accommodations, call (231) 941-1986.

same rate as we had before." One focus of the bond issue is technology used in the school district, Stobie said.

"Obviously the technology purchased in 2008 will have to be replaced," Stobie said. "Technology is constantly changing and is a constant challenge for schools."

At the Feb. 16 school board meeting there was discussion about how to get information about the bond to the public to avoid confusion. A subcommittee was formed to lay the groundwork for preparing materials to disburse to the public about the bond to appear on the Tuesday, May 5, ballot.

"Our Board of Education would prefer to take our revenue from the state and put it into the classroom where it should be, rather than using it on things like buses, roofs and other maintenance jobs," Stobie said. "That's why we're going to our community and saying, 'Can you help us address these needs?'"

More detailed plans will be available at the school district central office.

SKIING

Charlevoix trio posts Top 12 finishes at state ski finals

HARBOR SPRINGS — A trio of Charlevoix skiers took part in Michigan's best high school showcase Monday at Nub's Nob.

Rayders Matt Good, Brad Klinger and Abbey Scholten all participated in the Division 2 State Finals, with all three earning a top-12 finish in at least one event.

Good placed 10th (54.33) in the giant slalom, where Klinger earned 12th (54.45). Good also placed 57th in the slalom.

Petoskey won its fifth-straight state title at the event, with Birmingham Brother Rice, Cadillac, Harbor Springs and Ironwood rounding out the top five.

Scholten finish 11th in the slalom with a time of 1:09.00. She placed 20th in the giant slalom.

The Harbor Springs girls won the team state final, with Petoskey, Elk Rapids-Traverse City St. Francis, Bloomfield Hills Marian and Cadillac rounding out the top five.

Petoskey News-Review sports writer Drew Kochanny contributed to this report.

Rayders send 4 to state meet

ROGERS CITY — Untimely injuries kept the Charlevoix wrestling team from being everything it could have been on the mat this season.

But, as individuals, the Rayders are more than making good on the promise they showed heading into the year.

In the Division 4 individual regional at Rogers City on Saturday, Charlevoix qualified four wrestlers for the state finals at the Palace of Auburn Hills, two more than it had sent in 2014 and the most in more than a decade.

Three of those qualifiers are heading to the state meet for the first time in their careers, led by 125-pound sophomore Camden Alden.

Alden went 2-1 on the day, pinning Christian Cole of Munising in the opening match in 1:52 and stunning Isaac Nave of Onaway, ranked seventh at 125 in D4 according to michigan-grappler.com in an 11-8 upset decision in the semifinal to guarantee himself a spot in the state final.

Alden lost to fourth-ranked James Spencer of Rudyard in a tight 1-0 decision in the final to take second.

Junior Mick Hinkle (189) and senior Spencer Bruce (215) also earned their first trips to the Palace for Charlevoix.

Hinkle beat Anthony Cartwright of St. Ignace 3-0 in the opening round before falling to Tyler Mc Curry of Pine River in the semifinal.

Charlevoix junior Mick Hinkle (left) works to take down Anthony Cartwright of St. Ignace during their match at Saturday's Division 4 Individual Regional at Rogers City. Hinkle took third at 189 pounds to qualify for the state final.

Falling into the blood round, Hinkle won an 8-4 decision over Braydon Fitzpatrick of Iron Mountain to earn his spot, then pinned Cody Johnson of Ishpeming in the consolation finals in 1:48 to take third.

Bruce lost in the opening round to Landon Burton of Manistique, then battled all the way back through the consolation bracket, pinning Garrett Elore of Munising in 2:13 and beating Curtis Labadie of Bark River-Harris 12-8 in the blood round to take fourth and qualify as well.

Joining his three teammates at the state finals is Sam Hovie, who qualified last year and went 1-2 at the Palace, falling one win short of all-state honors.

Hovie took third at 160, pinning Tim Coolbaugh of St. Ignace in 2:27 to start the day before losing to third-ranked Taylor Bonetti of Norway 11-8 in a thrilling triple-overtime match in the semifinal.

Falling into the blood round, Hovie pinned Bradley Cota of Munising in 0:51 to guarantee a spot in the state finals, then pinned Steven Helsel of Manton in the consolation final to earn third place.

Two more Charlevoix wrestlers fell just short of joining their teammates at the state final.

Tyler McCallum (130) and Devin Largent (215) each went 1-2 on the day, with McCallum losing a narrow 6-2 decision to Hunter Eurich of Mio in the blood round and Largent falling to Burton of Manistique in an even closer 7-5 decision in the blood round.

Rayders' run at LMC title takes hit with loss

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

BOYNE CITY — All season long, the Lake Michigan Conference boys basketball race has been chaotic, with no clear favorite emerging.

On Friday night, with a chance to lock up a share of the title against visiting rival Charlevoix, Boyne City injected some clarity into the race.

The Ramblers controlled the game from start to finish to knock the Rayders out of the title race and take a share of its second-straight LMC title with a 68-37 victory.

The Ramblers came out guns blazing, hitting back to back 3-pointers to open the contest, but it was at the defensive end where Boyne City really seized control of the game.

Charlevoix came into the contest averaging 63 points a game, the best in the LMC, but the Ramblers' stingy man-to-man held the Rayders to 17 first half points and 37 total for the game. Charlevoix's lowest total of the season by 10 points.

"I think we've been playing defense at a high level for several games now, but it was nice to get that kind of performance against an elite offense in Charlevoix," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "To be able to hold a team that strong in check really says a lot about where we're at on that end of the floor."

Alongside that impressive defensive effort was an equally impressive showcase of depth and balance offensively.

Nine different players scored in the Ramblers' 42 point first half, and nine finished with at least four points.

Senior Zach Napont led Boyne City with 14 points, three rebounds and four assists and senior Dalton Gardner chipped in 11 points.

But with star Corey Redman battling foul trouble all game, Boyne City also dipped heavily into its bench, and to great effect.

Senior Noah Jeakle led Charlevoix with 11 and junior Austin Putman added nine for the Rayders, who slowed down Boyne City in the second half but never found a rhythm offensively.

"It seems like it happens every year to someone, and this year it was us; we just ran into a team that wasn't going to be beaten tonight," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "Boyne City deserves all the credit, they played a fantastic game offensively and defensively and they deserved the win."

"We tried everything we could to slow them down and get ourselves going, but it was just their night, and there wasn't a lot we could do."

In the JV game, Boyne City pulled away for a 47-34 win, led by Dominik Archey's 14 points and six rebounds and Mason Gardner's 12 points and four assists.

The LMC title share is Boyne City's second straight, the first repeat title for the Ramblers since 1994.

Charlevoix (10-7, 9-4) looks to bounce back against Kalkaska today (Friday).

"It's a tough loss, but the reality is it's just one game," Erskine said. "We've still got plenty to play for and I know our guys will have no problem moving past tonight and on to the next game."

Rayders rumble past St. Francis

CHARLEVOIX — Trailing Traverse City St. Francis early Feb. 20, the Rayders rallied to take the halftime lead, then provided a second-half knockout blow to the visiting Gladiators' upset hopes on the way to a 62-50 win.

The Rayders scored 21 points in the first six minutes of the third quarter to turn a four-point halftime lead into an 11-point advantage they would protect the rest of the way.

Charlevoix senior Nate Moon scored all 10 of his points during that run, senior Noah Jeakle hit a key 3-pointer, and juniors Austin Putman and Walker Drost played big roles as well.

"What we were able to do in the third quarter shows just how badly these players want to win this title," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "They worked hard all night, and when they realized we needed it, they found another gear."

"They never stopped working or competing, and that's how we were able to get ahead and hold on."

St. Francis jumped out to a solid early lead behind 13 first-quarter points from 6-foot-4 forward Gus Danz, who finished with 23 points and proved to be a thorn in Charlevoix's side all night.

"We were passing the ball well early and working it inside to Gus in spots where he could score," TC St. Francis coach Keith Haske said. "Defensively, I thought we did a good job of keeping them from getting to the basket and limiting second chance points."

Trailing by seven midway through the second quarter, Charlevoix found life offensively behind Putman and Drost, who were able to get to the rim in transition, drawing fouls and putting points on the board for the Rayders.

Drost punctuated a late Charlevoix run with a coast-to-coast layup as time expired in the half to send the Rayders to the locker room up 34-30.

"Early on, we felt like we were getting the looks we wanted, and the shots just weren't falling," Erskine said. "We told our players to stick with what we were doing and be confident in themselves, and the points would come."

"We really didn't change much throughout the game, we just finally started making some shots."

The Rayder offense propelled the team to a big third quarter lead, but just as important in that run was the team's rebounding.

After losing the battle on the boards decisively to a much taller Gladiator team in the early going, Charlevoix turned things around in the second half, using good positioning on the defensive glass to battle TC St. Francis to a standstill in rebounding.

The Rayders went into the final quarter with a 55-44 lead, and while the Gladiators clamped down defensively and held Charlevoix to seven points in the fourth, the Rayder D kept St. Francis from getting much traction as well.

The Gladiators managed just six points in the final stanza, and Jeakle hit a game-clinching 3-pointer with about a minute to play.

"Credit to Charlevoix, because they played with a lot of effort in the second half, but scoring has been a problem for us all year," Haske said. "We go through stretches where we just can't make shots, and tonight we hit one at a really crucial time in the game."

Putman and Drost each scored 15 points to lead the Rayders, and Jeakle chipped in 11.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Rayders roll past Boyne City

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix senior Ellie Way scored a season high 14 points for the Rayders during a Lake Michigan Conference win, 74-40, over Boyne City Tuesday.

For Boyne City, Keirsten Girlinghouse scored 13 points and Celena Brezezinski added 12 points.

"We are coming together, as a team, at the right time of the year," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "I am proud of the girls' effort tonight, and the tremendous pressure we applied all game."

Charlevoix led at each quarter break, which included 39-17 at halftime and 56-29 at the end of the third quarter.

"Things started to click tonight for us," Shaw added. "Offensively this was our best game in awhile."

Also for Charlevoix, Alexis Tribelner scored 13 points and eight steals, while Kourtney Putman added 12 points, Beth Veenstra had 10 points, and Leah Davis had five assists.

In the JV game, Boyne City beat Charlevoix 45-25, led by Tyla Coates and Anni Bergquist's 10 points.

Hailey Fogo added eight points for Boyne City, while Olivia Jeakle led Charlevoix with 10 points.

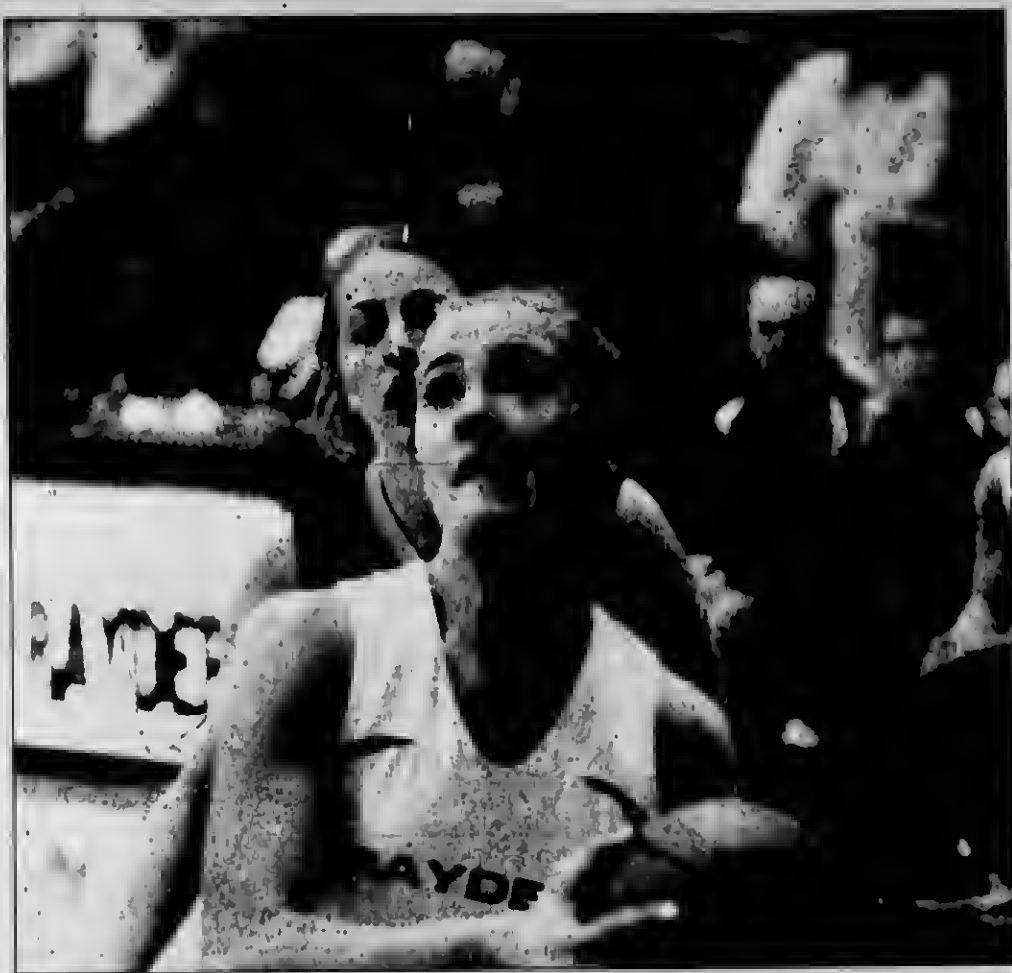

Charlevoix improved to 9-10 overall, 7-6 in league and will host Kalkaska today (Friday).

No. 6 Gladiators take care of Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX — It's hard to win against any opponent in basketball when your shots aren't falling.

Especially when your opponent is the sixth-ranked team in the state.

The Charlevoix girls basketball team found that out the hard way Feb. 20, as visiting Traverse City St. Francis, the Associated Press' sixth best team in Class D, shut down the Rayders in a 55-19 victory.

Starting the game in a full-court press that made ample use of their advantage in size and athleticism, St. Francis jumped out to a 21-4 advantage in the first quarter, and never looked back.

"(St. Francis is) a well-coached, fundamentally sound team defensively, and then you add on top of that how big they are and how gifted they are athletically; it's tough for any team to deal with,"

Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "Given what they can do offensively as well, they've kind of got all the pieces."

Thanks to cutting down on their turnovers and playing better assignment basketball defensively, Charlevoix was able to slow down the Gladiators offensively, holding them to six second-quarter points.

But the Rayders never found an answer for the Gladiators' defense, heading into the half with eight points total and managing just four in the third quarter.

"I thought that as the game wore on, we took better care of the ball and were able to get more stops defensively, but we never really broke through their defense," Shaw said. "Against a team with that kind of size, you have to be able to hit your outside shots, and ours just weren't falling."

Senior Alexis Tribelner led Charlevoix with eight points, freshman Rachel Nesburg chipped in four points and four rebounds and senior Kourtney Putman added eight rebounds.

Petoskey News-Review sports writers James Gensterblum and Kurt Grangood contributed to this report.

Q&A with hoops standout Keegan LaBlance

Editor's note: Charlevoix Courier writer Noah Certa recently interviewed Keegan LaBlance, former Charlevoix, Boyne City and Kalamazoo Valley Community College basketball player and current Central Michigan University student.

Charlevoix Courier (CC): "When did you start playing the game of basketball? Why did you like it so much?"

Keegan LaBlance (KB): "I started playing when I was in the second grade. I loved it because it's what my dad loved the greatest, and I liked making him proud, so I really got into it."

CC: "Who did you look up to as a kid playing the game?"

KB: "Jason (White Chocolate) Williams who was an NBA player whose greatest years were with the Sacramento Kings."

CC: "Who was your adult mentor growing up?"

KB: "My dad."

CC: "When did you learn you had the talent and hard work to play at the next level in college?"

KB: "When I started getting looked at real young in the eighth grade by some college scouts."

CC: "What was it like transferring from Charlevoix to Boyne City? Was it an easy transition?"

KB: "It was a love-hate thing because I love my Charlevoix friends, but it was for the best. It was actually a pretty easy transition; I made a lot of new friends."

CC: "What would you say to an aspiring high school basketball player who wants to play at the next level?"

Keegan LaBlance

KB: "If you want to go on to the next level, putting in the hours in the gym is a must."

CC: "What would be your favorite high school memory?"

KB: "My two game-winning shots my sophomore year against Grayling. I heat them twice on a buzzer beat in the same season."

CC: "What's the difference between high school basketball and college basketball?"

KB: "Talent. Everyone on the floor is good on a certain level in college hoops."

CC: "Who has been your biggest influence in your life so far?"

KB: "It's a tie between my Savior Jesus and my dad sitting next to him."

CC: "What are your majoring in right now at CMU?"

KB: "General Management major."

CC: "What are your after-college plans?"

KB: "Hoping to be a professional basketball player in some league (maybe overseas), or an event sports manager."

TOPPER CAREY
Feb. 24, 1994

"If I could reach up and hold a star for every time you've made me smile, the entire evening sky would be in the palm of my hand."

We are so grateful for all the smiles we shared. We are also grateful for the special memories that keep us smiling even now. In fact, we would be holding several evening skies in the palms of our hands! We thank God for the time we had together, time that we will always treasure. Your love still sustains us and your strength and courage still inspire us.

We will always love you,
Steve and Nina (Carry) Merten, Christopher and Cassidy

BE A WISE SHOPPER
It's always wise to remember that if an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is. If you are offered merchandise at an unbelievably low price, check it out thoroughly. A call to the Better Business Bureau (serving Eastern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula) will tell you whether other consumers have had problems with the firm that has offered the merchandise. (248)273-9400. But call the Bureau BEFORE you make a purchase. You'll be glad you did.

February is National CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH MONTH

Three common childhood dental health concerns

When your baby's first teeth come in, everyone rejoices; it's a sign that all is progressing as it should. But as your child ages, various dental concerns can come along as well. Some issues are genetic and will require orthodontic work a bit later on, but there are others you can prepare for right now.

1. BABY BOTTLE TOOTH DECAY

Prevent early childhood caries, or cavities, by nursing or putting only mother's milk and formula in your baby's bottles. Don't let your baby fall asleep with the nipple in the mouth; gently wipe your infant's teeth with a sterile gauze pad before sleep time.

2. THUMB SUCKING

Thumb sucking is generally accepted to be a harmless habit in young children; sucking is a natural reflex in babies, and for toddlers it is an effective self-soothing strategy. However, the American Dental Association says that thumb sucking after the age of four can affect the alignment of your child's teeth and jaw. Talk to your pediatrician for advice about thumb sucking.

3. ACCIDENTAL TRAUMA TO THE TEETH

A blow to the mouth, cheek, or jaw may cause damage to teeth above or below the gum line. Take your child to the dentist's or to the hospital emergency room if a tooth is cracked or knocked out or if an object gets caught in the mouth or between the teeth. In the case of a knocked-out tooth, try to recover it and bring it to the dentist or hospital. Keep the tooth moist, ideally in the child's mouth; if your child is old enough to not swallow it, place it between the teeth and gums or in the gap from where it fell out. You can also place the tooth in a cup of milk.

FIRE TRAINING

Controlled burn provides real life experience for local firefighters

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Fire department officials say training and practicing firefighting on a controlled burn are essential for becoming a skilled firefighter. Despite the sub-zero temperatures on Saturday, Feb. 28, Charlevoix firefighters remained quite warm as they practice their skills at a controlled burn of a structure on Sequanota Road.

Firefighters arrived on the scene at around 9 a.m. that morning to set fire to an old building and prepare for some training on what to do if it was an actual fire.

Fire department officials say such practice burns are helpful to the senior and junior members of the fire department, as they provide experience in the various stages of a fire, simulating it as if it were a real uncontrolled fire. Shutting the water supply resources and working together as a team are two of the most important aspects of fighting a fire, fire department officials

According to City of Charlevoix Fire Department Shift Commander Joe Schwartzfisher, this burn is a valuable training experience.

"It's good practice for everyone, because this is a real fire scene," Schwartzfisher said. "We want CHARLEVOIX — City officials are reminding residents that the run water order remains effective despite warmer temperatures.

The order was issued in February to prevent further pipes from freezing within the city, said city manager Rob Straebel.

"There is not enough snow to insulate the ground to prevent this issue," Straebel said. "The frost level still is extremely deep in the ground."

Though mild temperatures have been in the weather forecast the city still has service lines freezing to homes.

"We continue to see water service lines frozen each and every day," Straebel said. "Each and every home

Linda Adams signs her contract as the new director for the Charlevoix Public Library with library board president Mary Ann Chew on Monday, March 2.

Adams named new Charlevoix Public Library Director

ANNIE KELLY
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library Board of Trustees named Linda A. Adams as the new library director at their board meeting on Monday, March 2.

Adams' appointment as interim library director began on Jan. 1 and her three month contract was scheduled for review at this time. Mary Ann Chew, president of the Charlevoix Public Library Board of Trustees said it was a unanimous decision.

"Everyone is very pleased and excited to have her," Chew said. "We all have come to know her wonderful work ethic over the 10 years she has been with the library. The whole staff is very supportive of our decision."

Trustee board vice president Lynn Smolenyak also weighed in on Adams' appointment.

"As a board, we're thrilled to have officially hired Linda," she said. "While Search takes another step to replace outgoing city manager

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City Council on Monday took another step toward replacing its top administrator.

City manager Rob Straebel turned in his resignation on Feb. 2, after being hired as the next city manager of Petoskey.

During Monday's meeting, city council members discussed the procedures they would take during the hiring process. Straebel suggested to council members that city department heads could make recommendations about potential candidates to council, but that was not well received by council member Shirley Gibson, who did not want staff part of the hiring process for a potential new boss.

"We have a human resource person who can help us through this process," Gibson said. "It's nothing against staff, I just don't think it's a good idea for them to help hire their boss."

Straebel clarified to council that he meant some staff wanted to offer feedback to council with any potential semi-finalist candidate.

"Staff did not want to interview candidates," Straebel said. "They simply wanted to give input to council as they move forward with the hiring process."

The city council defined that staff's role in the application process would be to review all the applicants and to give council members feedback about who they felt met the requirements to be considered a semi-finalist for the city manager position.

The last day the city will take applications for the position will be today, Friday, March 6. Then the applications will be turned over to city council for their review the following week, Straebel said.

"We hope city council will have most of next week to review those applicants and come up with their semi-finalist," Straebel said.

FIRE TRAINING

Controlled burn provides real life experience for local firefighters

CHARLEVOIX — Fire department officials say training and practicing firefighting on a controlled burn are essential for becoming a skilled firefighter. Despite the sub-zero temperatures on Saturday, Feb. 28, Charlevoix firefighters remained quite warm as they practice their skills at a controlled burn of a structure on Sequanota Road.

Firefighters arrived on the scene at around 9 a.m. that morning to set fire to an old building and prepare for some training on what to do if it was an actual fire.

Fire department officials say such practice burns are helpful to the senior and junior members of the fire department, as they provide experience in the various stages of a fire, simulating it as if it were a real uncontrolled fire. Shutting the water supply resources and working together as a team are two of the most important aspects of fighting a fire, fire department officials said.

According to City of Charlevoix Fire Department Shift Commander Joe Schwartzfisher, this burn is a valuable training experience.

"It's good practice for everyone, because this is a real fire scene," Schwartzfisher said. "We want

The order was issued in February to prevent further pipes from freezing within the city, said city manager Rob Straebel.

"There is not enough snow to insulate the ground to prevent this issue," Straebel said. "The frost level still is extremely deep in the ground."

Though mild temperatures have been in the weather forecast the city still has service lines freezing to homes.

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City Council on Monday took another step toward replacing its top administrator.

City manager Rob Straebel turned in his resignation on Feb. 2, after being hired as the next city manager of Petoskey.

During Monday's meeting, city council members discussed the procedures they would take during the hiring process. Straebel suggested to council members that city department heads could make recommendations about potential candidates to council, but that was not well received by council member Shirley Gibson, who did not want staff part of the hiring process for a potential new boss.

"We have a human resource person who can help us through this process," Gibson said. "It's nothing against staff. I just don't think it's a good idea for them to help hire their boss."

Straebel clarified to council that he meant some staff wanted to offer feedback to council with any potential semi-finalist candidate.

"Staff did not want to interview candidates," Straebel said. "They simply wanted to give input to council as they move forward with the hiring process."

The city council defined that staff's role in the application process would be to review all the applicants and to give council members feedback about who they felt meet the requirements to be considered a semi-finalist for the city manager position.

The last day the city will take applications for the position will be today, Friday, March 6. Then the applications will be turned over to city council for their review the following week, Straebel said.

"We hope city council will have most of next week to review those applicants and come up with their semi-finalist," Straebel said.

Rebuilding The Landing to meet modern needs

LOUISE ALLIN
(231) 547-6550 • alin@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — For more than 50 years the building known as The Landing restaurant has seen thousands of visitors come to enjoy countless meals on the shores of Lake Charlevoix near the Ironton Ferry, but the old building is gone and this summer owners Adam and Renee Guerriero will reopen in a new facility currently under construction.

"As much as we all loved the character and memories of the old building," Adam said. "We are renovating so that we can continue to serve our loyal guests for another 50-plus years."

With the increased popularity of the business the old structure was not designed to keep up. The age of some of the building materials, combined with the wear and tear of everyday use made rebuilding a better idea for the Guerriero's than the constant patching and fixing, he said.

"We felt as though we were outgrowing the old building," Adam said. "The kitchen, storage spaces, and bathrooms were inefficient and small and we felt that our employees and customers needed something more comfortable."

There was also an apartment built on the entire second floor, which wasn't utilized by the Guerriero's. The previous building also lacked any insulation and the Guerriero's wanted to have a place that was more energy efficient.

"It was tough to keep warm even in the early spring and fall," Adam said. "We wanted to address that and extend our season into the cooler months, and possibly even the winter."

While many things at the location will resemble the former look, there will also be many differences, Adam said. There will be the same variety of seating, but they put an end to the limited indoor seating. Guests also can find a more intimate location both indoors and outdoors or they can sit in the more wide-open area of the bar.

"There is more outdoor seating space and deck space, and more covered outdoor seating to allow us to seat more people outside on rainy days," he said. "The bar is also open to the outside, so there is inside and outside seating at the bar and a second floor mezzanine available for bigger groups, parties and events."

Patrons also will notice differences in design. The layout changed to have the kitchen and food prep areas all connected, with an open galley-style kitchen, but some of the old will be incorporated into the new.

"We saved the bar top, which we plan on integrating into the new bar area," Adam said. "The Landing also has a large collection of customer photos taken over the years displayed on the walls. People really like coming in and finding themselves in the pictures, and it was important to us to save those walls to put back up in the restaurant. We also kept a lot of the artwork and decorations."

No opening date is set, but the Guerriero's plan to be open for this boating season.

"If things are behind schedule, we will have the Landing Craft Food Truck in the parking lot keeping everyone fed," Adam said.

and business needs to continue to run water until we lift the order."

Last year, the city incurred approximately $220,000 in damages because of frozen water lines and Straebel said that is something they want to avoid this year.

City council member Jeff

Porter said residents should not be fooled by the warmer temperatures.

"It's important for our residents to listen to city leaders on this issue," Porter said. "This can be a serious problem for a homeowner and the city staff when a line freezes. Please keep your water running."

To prevent freezing water lines, customers should leave at least one faucet open with a small stream about the size of a large drinking straw. Customer accounts will be adjusted to offset the additional water used during this period based on previous usage history.

The city will announce through the media and on its website cityofcharlevoix.org when this temporary measure will be concluded.

For more information contact the city manager's office, at (231) 547-3270.

Interviews for the position will be held publicly, according to city attorney Scott Howard.

The city has received more than 20 complete applications for the open city manager position, said human resources manager, Patty DeRosia.

"There have been some more applicants, but they have not finished the application process through the city's website," DeRosia said. "We have informed them to be considered they should complete the application. I expect we will have a good pool of people to choose from by Friday."

County faces criticism over parks millage

CRAND CURRIER
(231) 547-6558 • currier@charlevoixnews.com

CHARLEVOIX — Months after a new four-year parks millage was narrowly passed by Charlevoix County voters, tension is growing over how the new revenues will be distributed.

County leaders are facing criticism for the process they've developed to choose how nearly $300,000 in new millage funds are spent and for failing to properly communicate their plan to voters prior to the measure hitting the ballot in November. The millage passed by a slim 51.5-48.5 percent margin, meaning property owners in Charlevoix County will pay an additional 15 cents per $1,000 of taxable value for parks and recreation over at least the next four years.

Many who opposed it said they feared the money would be used only for work at the county-maintained Whiting and Thumb Lake parks. County officials may have furthered that perception this week when they tried to push forward portions of a $1 million improvement project at Whiting Park that includes installing a boat launch there and renovating the camping area.

"From what I have been able to find out we probably will contribute ($32,000 to $38,000 this year) and it doesn't sound like we're high on the list," said Bill Supernaw, a Charlevoix City Councilman. "Are we even on the list to get anything?"

Members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners acknowledged during a public meeting Wednesday they are facing an uphill battle to show residents they will use the money wisely. Though the millage was approved, a majority of voters in eight townships and the city of East Jordan voted against it. More than 400 voters in Boyne Valley Township were split evenly in favor and against the millage. The measure was supported best by Boyne City and Charlevoix township voters.

During this week's meeting, the county commissioners approved their five-year parks and recreation plan, which is independent from the new parks millage but identifies some of the projects the county hopes to build using those funds, in a 4-2 vote. Commissioner Chris Christensen cast one of the two votes in opposition, saying he feared the plan sends the wrong message to voters.

"We're basically going against some of the complaints that we got on the millage on the front end," Christensen said. "You're literally putting a third of the money into Whiting Park in the first year."

Commissioner Ron Reinhardt provided the other "no" vote.

"I agree with Chris, 100 percent," Reinhardt said. "We need to cut it back. If we don't handle this right, forget it."

Christensen was among the most vocal proponents of the parks millage last year, calling it a way to better define the county's parks and recreation budget. If voters chose to create a separate millage fund for parks operations and projects, Christensen vowed the county commissioners would lower the general operating millage by an equal amount so as to avoid increasing taxes on residents.

Christensen said Wednesday, though, that decrease of the general operating millage likely won't occur for another two years.

With the parks millage revenues, county coordinator Kevin Shepard is establishing a special committee tasked with reviewing applications submitted by local cities and townships for money to help fund parks-related projects in their communities.

The idea, Shepard said, is to set aside $100,000 in millage revenues each year to help fund a series of projects throughout the county. The special committee will look over applications and make recommendations to the county board of commissioners for approval. The remaining $200,000 will go toward funding county parks operations and long-term projects.

"It's going to be a good process," Shepard said. "You just have to have a little patience and let staff put this together. It will be a good product when it comes out."

Representatives of communities around Charlevoix County, though, remain dubious.

Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel, who is leaving his position next month to assume the same role in Petoskey, argued the county should collect the millage funds and return them to each township and city in the amount that was contributed by each to the overall fund.

"By creating this new granting process it's going to be a fairly long process open to politics," Straebel said. "I think everybody's purposes are served much better if we look at some form of agreement whereby those revenues generated in the communities, in the townships just get returned to those entities to do what they see fit for their communities."

Charlevoix Mayor Gabe Campbell said voters won't allow county officials to have the millage fund for long if they don't show good results.

"You're already talking about the next millage and I think if you distribute the city its portion you've got a better chance of getting the next millage," Campbell said. "You need help and you'll get help by making sure the cities get support."

Bryan Graham, the county's attorney, said state law doesn't allow for any type of agreement with cities or townships to distribute the money in that fashion, though.

"You cannot just give it to the local municipalities," Graham said. "You have to do it by contract. You're contracting for particular parks or playground purposes. Once that contract is identified, you fund it."

County Parks Committee member Brian Williams urged residents and community leaders to have patience and see what impact the millage money can have over the next several years.

"We can't do everything in one year," Williams said. "Everyone is not going to get their equal share right off the bat."

County: Parks millage to benefit everyone

LOUISE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Which city, township or village will see money from the new four-year park millage is the wrong question to be asking, Charlevoix County officials said in response to recent questions about the millage.

Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Chairman Joel Evans, said the question should be about how this millage will improve the entire county as a whole, instead of who gets what?

"It's frustrating to hear those questions," Evans said. "It's not about one municipality or the other. It's about the entire county and how we are going to make it better for everyone. We all need to focus on that aspect of this millage."

During last week's meeting members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners were questioned by city leaders in Charlevoix about the revenue captured by the millage from city residents. Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel, said he went to the meeting because he feels it's important to know how the tax dollars will be used.

"We want them to know we would like those dollars captured from our residents used for our parks and recreational purposes," Straebel said.

Charlevoix County property owners will pay an additional 15 cents per $1,000 of taxable value for parks and recreation over at least the next four years. This is expected to generate nearly $300,000 in revenue per year for all parks in the county.

"This is a very positive thing for the county," Evans said. "We are going to enhance our recreation avenues. We are not going to focus on one area, but work to improve parks in the entire county."

Straebel believes making the parks better for everyone is the right course to take, but getting there is where the city disagrees with the county.

"For us, it's a local control issue," Straebel said. "Our elected officials know best how to spend those funds and what our constituents want as far as parks and recreation goes."

County officials said a portion of parks millage revenues is designated for townships and cities. County coordinator Kevin Shepard is establishing a special committee that will review applications submitted by local cities and townships for money to help fund parks-related projects in their communities. The special committee will look over applications and make recommendations to the county board of commissioners for approval.

"We will have an application process to distribute millage funds," Evans said. "These things take time, but we are working on it. I think once the process begins people will see the benefit from this millage."

Straebel said ultimately the county will decide how the money is spent and the city is prepared to submit an application.

"We can certainly put a plan together," Straebel said.

One project is the Lake-to-Lake trail that the city and Charlevoix Township have each committed $114,000 to complete.

"Some of that money from the county could certainly help that project," Straebel said. "We have a long list of parks and recreation projects that would be appropriate for some of those funds."

Local family practice recognized on CDC's list of hypertension control champions

ATLANTA — East Jordan Family Health Center, of East Jordan, received recognition from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Million Hearts initiative. There were 30 public and private health care practices and systems across the country as hypertension control champions for their success in helping patients control high blood pressure.

The 2014 Hypertension Control Champions include private and tribal clinical practices and health services, ranging from solo practitioners to large systems and representing both urban and rural areas. Together they care for more than 3.5 million adult patients in 19 different states. Each champion was able to achieve hypertension control rates of 70 percent or more.

"This year we have more champions than ever before, demonstrating that high performance is achievable and that we are on a path to better heart health across the nation," said Health and Human Services Secretary Sylvia M. Burwell. "More and more practices are using evidence-based strategies to help patients keep blood pressure down — a strong sign that we're making progress in preventing heart attacks and strokes."

Nearly 1 in 3 American adults has hypertension, also known as high blood pressure. Only half have it under control, putting them at greater risk of developing heart disease or stroke — two of the leading causes of death in the U.S.

"Million Hearts launched this challenge in 2012 to recognize clinicians and health care teams across the country for helping their patients protect heart health," said CDC Director Tom Frieden. "We implore other health systems to follow the lead of these physicians and clinics which are succeeding in saving lives and preventing disability from avoidable heart disease and stroke."

To be eligible, entrants shared verifiable high-blood-pressure-control data and highlighted successful strategies or best practices adopted by the practice or system, such as the use of health information technology or team-based care. All champions achieved control rates ranging from 70 percent to more than 90 percent of adult patients by using a variety of innovative approaches, including:

- Making high blood pres-

- sure control a priority.
- Using evidence-based guidelines and protocols.
- Designating hypertension champions within a practice or organization.
- Using team-based care models to increase contact with patients.
- Implementing consistent, strategic use of electronic health records that include clinical decision support tools, patient reminders, and registry functionality.

"We are excited to host this challenge for the third year and showcase more winners than ever before," said Dr. Janet Wright, a board-certified cardiologist and executive director of Million Hearts. "Like the practices and clinicians recognized in previous years, these 2014 champions are finding innovative, evidence-based ways to detect hypertension, connect patients with appropriate clinical care, and make blood pressure control their goal to save lives from heart attack and stroke."

February Cold

BY ROGER KUNITZ

Surrounded by what may well be the coldest February on record, I do not read or think about warmer climates or times. Operating on the principle that it could be worse, I focus my attention on the even colder times and places.

Perspective can be gained by contemplating or reading about Arctic or Antarctic explorers. The adventures of Ronald Amundsen, who was the first to reach the South Pole in 1911, will certainly make Northern Michigan seem almost tropical by comparison. Sir Robert Scott, who arrived at the South Pole just a few weeks after Amundsen and froze to death on his way back, shows us just how easy we have it.

Closer to home, some examination of the Yukon poetry of Robert W. Service can warm a body. A line from "The Crenation of Sam McGee" goes like this, "Talk of your cold, through the parka's fold, it stabbed like a driven nail." I have walked for miles at more than 10 degrees below zero, and never felt that driven nail. To really feel how comfortable our lives are in winter, read Jack London's famous short story "To Build a Fire" about freezing to death in the Yukon.

Any of those stories, in print or in contemplation, will certainly make you feel relatively warm.

Anyway, when we talk about the coldest or nearly coldest February, we are talking about average temperatures. For all kinds of living things, it is only the extremes that count. One day, or only a few hours below some critical temperature is enough to do in many kinds of organisms.

As a hotanist, I know more about plant responses than animal responses. If among your favorite shrubs in a pink or red flowered weigela, a honeysuckle relative, you should probably not expect it to look good next spring. Below about five degrees most of its branches will die. In fact they are already dead.

Our native plants are a pretty hardy group. Red Dogwood has been experimentally subjected to temperatures more than 100 degrees below zero without harm. Most of our plants and some of our smaller animals manage the cold, not by migrating south, but by digging down and surviving below an insulting layer of snow where it never gets much below freezing.

The average temperature of Antarctica did not do in Sir Robert Scott and his crew; they were killed by a few days of the extremes. Maybe we are not so different from the rest of the living world. Without our houses what would we do?

Stutzman congratulates cast and crew of Mary Poppins

Letter to the Editor:
Congratulations to the cast and crew of Mary Poppins the Musical! As a work in the BEAUTIFUL Pit of the Charlevoix Middle/High School Auditorium, I am truly amazed at the tremendous amount of talent that we have here in our Charlevoix Public School system. From the lead of Mary Poppins on down through the cast, high level performances are being turned in by students, some of which are barely 12 years old. The untiring efforts of their leader Jodi Thompson to put all this together is all an amazing feat. This play has many, many scene changes and the work of the crew behind all the moving walls and structures never ceases to amaze me. The pit orchestra is made up of a combination of local adults and interested students and I have been most impressed with their tenacity to get the changes made fast and efficiently. All of these individuals deserve a full house on Saturday evening at 7 p.m. and Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. Come out and enjoy the show!

Musically yours,
Gary Stutzman

Consider education when filling your tax forms

Editor:

This year the Char-Em United Way is encouraging Michigan residents to "check off" for the United Way Fund on Michigan tax returns. Tax form 4642 (Voluntary Contributions Schedule) will allow people to donate all or part of their 2014 Michigan tax return to the United Way Fund, a fund that enables local families to gain access to continued education, job training and other services that can help them build lasting financial independence and success.

By donating all or part of your state tax refund to the United Way Fund, you are directly supporting the local United Way that serves your county and helping families in your community build for their future.

The Michigan Association of United Ways worked with the Michigan Legislature to create a quick and easy way to donate resources that help support Michigan families. This year, please be sure to "check off" for the United Way Fund. All proceeds generated from our community will benefit Char-Em United Way and return directly to our community. Giving has never been so easy.

Char-Em United Way offers Public 'Thank You' for Toast to Literacy Support

Editor:

On behalf of the board of directors of the Char-Em United Way, I would like to thank the many donors, sponsors and volunteers who helped make our second annual "Toast to Literacy" a huge success.

The Toast to Literacy raised funds to help support Dolly Parton's Imagination Library, which mails one new, age-appropriate book every month to each child registered. Children in Charlevoix and Emmet counties are eligible to receive books from birth through age 5.

While the books are delivered free to participating families, the program is funded by Char-Em United Way. Donations, grant monies, and fundraising events such as the "Toast to Literacy" help Char-Em United Way to fund this program. Books for each child cost $30 each year or $150 if a child is enrolled at birth and remains in our community through their 5th birthday, a very economical investment in the future of our community. If you'd like to support this program, send donations to Char-Em United Way, P.O. Box 701, Petoskey, MI 49770, and indicate DPIL or visit char-emunitedway.org to donate.

This program directly impacts one of the Char-Em United Way priority areas: helping children achieve their potential, with a focus on early literacy and grade level reading proficiency in third grade. One of the most powerful resources any community has is its people — the power of US; connecting, volunteering, contributing in whatever way we can. This is what improves our community and the lives of those living here.

We want to extend a special thank you to our sponsors — Castle Farms, Consumers Energy, Northern Michigan Review, Petoskey Plastics, Charlevoix Cinema III, Odawa Casino, and 4 Front Credit Union — for helping to make the evening so special.

The event also was made spectacular by the caterers who donated their time and talent, as well as their food and we appreciate each of them greatly. A Matter of Taste, B.J.'s Catering, The Grey Gables Inn and Pigs Eat'n' Ribs each provided a "soup, savory, and sweet" dish to share with attendees. Those attending voted for their favorite and awards were given in each category as well as to an overall winner.

We also would like to thank all of the local breweries, wineries and meaderies who attended, providing samples of their product for all to enjoy. Joining us were: Acoustic Mead, Beards Brewery, Cheboygan Brewing, Cherry Republic, Crooked Vine Vineyard and Winery, Harbor Springs Winery/Tunnel Vision Brewery of Pond Hill, Petoskey Brewing, Petoskey Farms, Right Brain Brewery, Seasons of the North, St. Ambrose and Walloon Lake Winery.

A special thank you is given as well to the Toast to Literacy committee, which spent many hours planning and coordinating this event. Our event co-chairs also deserve a special thank you, so if you see Dee Vincent from Harbor Industries, Jennifer Rekas from Huntington Bank and Anora O'Connor from Castle Farms, please help us thank them and let them know their efforts are appreciated.

Thank you so much! Together we have made our communities a better place to live, work and play.

This parade of county snowplows took place on Bridge Street during the winter of 1929. The partially legible sign hung on the snow fence in front of the building at right suggests the parade may have been held solely for public awareness. Only the words that say "Good Roads" and "Charlevoix County" on it can be made out. The photo is especially valuable in that it shows the entire east 300 block of Bridge Street where East Park stands today. To the left of the Kum-Eta Lunch sign, behind the cluster of men, appears the Martha Ayers building, erected in 1894 by a brilliant but highly eccentric businesswoman and the tallest building ever erected in downtown Charlevoix. The Hotel Charlevoix just beyond it burned in 1935, the opening move that convinced the city fathers that these aging buildings might better be removed in order to form a magnificent park, originally intended to stretch the entire length of Bridge Street from the channel bridge to Antrim Street. But the owners of the buildings at either end of the block refused to sell. Finally, in 1945, the building with the Coca-Cola sign at far upper left, directly across from the Central Drug Store, was damaged from a gas explosion and taken down in 1946. The building at right, once Neff Bros. grocery, a party store, and Kilwin's initial Charlevoix location, came down to make way for the renovation of East Park that began in 2007.

Mary Poppins opens to good crowd

BY ANNE KELLEY
Special to Courier

CHARLEVOIX — For a crowd of theatergoers "Mary Poppins" at the Charlevoix Middle/High School auditorium offers good entertainment.

Hero Parker-Drost's Mary Poppins is beautiful with a strong presence. Her beautiful singing voice helped tell the story of the magical nanny. Jason Jones' outstanding portrayal of Bert was utterly adorable.

Another wonderful performance came from eighth-grader Hannah Solomon as Mrs. Brill — the Downton Abbey-esque maid — who put lots of vocal and facial expression into her character's interaction with Mr. Banks.

The play tells the story of the somewhat troubled Banks family and their ostensibly naughty children (Jane and Michael) and a magical nanny, who comes from the sky to fix them all, making them, like herself "practically perfect in every way."

Based on the books by P.L. Travers, the story adapted for the school stage and showcases talented students and audience members see a finely choreographed dance number by the chimney sweeps doing "Step in Time."

The music was performed by the pit orchestra, directed by Gary Stutzman. Pianist, Elizabeth Kur, flute, Amanda Filkins, clarinet, Renee Johnson and Madyson Wojan, trumpet, Tyler Melke and Graham Kroon, French horn, Kayla Hamill, cello, Johnathon Sherwood, bass, Steve Overton and drums, Patrick O'Connor all synchronized their tunes to help the actors tell this wonderful story.

Final performances will be at 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 7, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, March 8.

Charlevoix Area Hospital announces next Wellness Wednesday

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Area Hospital's next Wellness Wednesday will take place 8-11 a.m. on Wednesday, March 11, at Boyne Area Medical Center, 223 North Park Street, Boyne City.

The Wellness Wednesday Health Screens include: total cholesterol, HDL, TC/HDL ratio, glucose level, body mass index (BMI) score, fat percentage, and a blood pressure reading. No fasting required. However, if you are fasting an LDL and triglyceride reading can also be obtained. Cost for the service is $15. Hemoglobin A1C levels can also be done for known or borderline diabetes for an additional $5. Participants will receive a blood pressure log and all test results at the time of the screening. A registered nurse will adapt health consultation and educational materials to individual results.

No appointment is necessary. For more information, contact the office of Community Health Education at (231) 547-8906 or email community-health@cah.org.

Charlevoix Library to host a series of interactive artistic programs

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library announces the "Create at your Library Series" that is designed to highlight interactive, artistic programs.

The series begins with the Matisse Inspired Bowl: A Family Art Experience from 6-7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 12. Join artist and youth services librarian, Audrey Shapiro for a fun-filled, creative experience and a perfect adult/child enterprise. The class is for ages 12 and older with the goal to bring together multi-generational family members to create art projects in an individual way. Participants should bring paper-cutting scissors and wear work clothes. The workshop

The series continues with an Ukrainian Easter Egg demonstration from 2-4 p.m. on Thursday, March 19, in the main lobby. Christina Abramowski will demonstrate pysanka, a technique using a wax resistant method. Its name derives from the Ukrainian verb "pysaty," meaning "to write." The design motifs on pysanky date back to pre-Christian times. Many date to early Slavic cultures, and others to Paleolithic times. The demonstration is free. Visitors are welcome to drop in anytime during this period.

Other events in the series include a flower arranging workshop from 6:30-7:45 p.m. on Tuesday, April 28; a demonstration of dying silk scarves from 6-7:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 7; and a Macro Photography Lecture from 9:30-11 a.m. on Saturday, May 23.

OBITUARIES

Donald W. Langschwager, 87

Donald W. Langschwager, 87, of Coloma, died Saturday, Feb. 28, 2015, at the Lakeland Regional Medical Center in St. Joseph.

A service celebrating his life was at 1 p.m. Thursday, March 5, at the Salem Lutheran Church in Coloma with the Rev. Andrew Menz officiating. Burial will be on Friday, March 6, at Roselawn Memorial Gardens in Saginaw.

Visitation was from 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, March 4, at the Davidson Chapel of Florin Funeral Service in Coloma. Memorials may be made to Salem Lutheran Church or the Willows Assisted Living. Share messages, memories or photos at www.florin.net.

Don was born on Aug. 23, 1927, in Zilwaukee, to Wesley and Adeline Langschwager. He married his wife, Judy, and she preceded him in death in 1994. Together they celebrated more than 41 years of marriage.

He was shift supervisor at the Palisades Nuclear Plant for more than 40 years before his retirement. Don was a U.S. Army veteran of World War II. He was a member of Salem Lutheran Church. He enjoyed gardening and farming. He was also an avid baseball and softball fan, both playing and coaching for many years. Don also enjoyed bridge and card games. He was a loving, spiritual and giving individual for his family and friends. Don was the sweetest, most kind-hearted man anyone knew.

He is survived by his children, Heidi (Richard) Walker of Lowell, Gretchen (Curt Hemphill) Langschwager of Niles and Kristie (Silvio) Perez of Valparaiso, Ind.; daughter-in-law, Betty Langschwager of Bay City; brother, Ted (June) Langschwager of Zilwaukee; sister-in-law, Beverly Langschwager of Zilwaukee; sisters, Ruth Hartley and Judy (Warren) Rutherford of Zilwaukee; 11 grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; his companion, Fran Letke; and longtime friends, Brenda Stovell and Bill Schultz.

He was preceded in death by his son, James; his parents; and his brother, Jack.

Foundation grants to help Hospice of Northwest Michigan improve online services, care for veterans

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY - Hospice of Northwest Michigan has announced it will receive two grants from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. Amy Wieland, executive director of Hospice of Northwest Michigan, said the funding will be used to support the agency's We Honor Veterans program, and to improve the Web resources it offers to its patients and to the public.

"We are extremely grateful to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for supporting our community services through these grants," Wieland said. "They have enabled us to directly benefit veterans and others who depend on Hospice of Northwest Michigan to provide the best possible care."

The We Honor Veterans program is a collaborative effort with the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization and the Department of Veterans Affairs. It empowers hospice and other health care providers to meet the unique needs of seriously ill veterans and their families, Wieland said.

Charlevoix County Community Foundation funding in conjunction with a partial grant from the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation also will enable Hospice of Northwest Michigan to revamp its website, hospicenwm.org, and to purchase iPads, tablets and other devices that will allow bed-bound patients and their families to access internet resources. Online grief support and bereavement services also will be enhanced.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan is a nonprofit, community-based, locally-managed hospice in northern lower Michigan, meaning it is not owned, operated, regulated or supported by corporate interests, Wieland said.

"That gives us the flexibility to make decisions that serve our own communities' unique and ever-changing needs," she said. "Of course, it also means we're much more dependent on local support to survive."

Local veterans are also needed for volunteer efforts. Presentations to local organizations can be arranged by contacting Wieland at (231) 547-7659.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, community based hospice, serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties. For more information, call 1 (800) 551-4140.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a local charitable organization dedicated to enhancing the quality of life for all citizens of Charlevoix County by building permanent endowment, addressing needs through grant-making, and providing leadership resources to serve the community. Brighter Futures: Grant to help fund purchase of oral health kits for little Michiganders CHARLEVOIX - The Health Department of Northwest Michigan recently received $5,000 from the Delta Dental Foundation through its Brighter Futures Community Grant Program. The grant will help fund the purchase of infant oral health kits to be distributed regionally to 2,500 mothers.

"This grant gives us an opportunity to promote healthy oral care practices from an early age," said Linda Yaroch, health officer at the health department. "Dental health is very important for young children - even those younger than age 1. Providing education at an early age can prevent early childhood tooth decay and encourage positive, life-long habits."

Local health departments serve more than half the infants born in Northern Michigan; through the Women's, Infants and Children's (WIC) Supplemental Nutrition Program these children will receive infant oral health kits, a dental education, and referral to a dentist by age 1.

"We are very proud to recognize the work being done by the Health Department of Northwest Michigan by selecting it as one of our grant recipients," said Teri Battaglieri, director of the Delta Dental Foundation.

Grant recipients were selected based on multiple criteria, including the number of at-risk children or adults served by the program, the program's uniqueness, the level of community involvement in the program and the ability to measure results. The Brighter Futures grant program has provided a total of $250,000 in funding to organizations that serve small communities. For more information, visit deltadentalmi.com.

If you are insured through the Healthy Michigan Plan, MICHild, or Healthy Kids, your child's dental treatment may be fully covered. To obtain care for yourself or your child or to see if you qualify for one of these plans, call Dental Clinics North at (877) 321-7070.

Dental Clinics North, a partnership of local health departments and Michigan Community Dental Clinics, has eight locations in Northern Michigan.

LIBRARY

she was in the interim position we heard so much positive feedback from the staff and community. We could never have found anyone more qualified."

Adams holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in consumer economics from Central Michigan University and a Master of Library and Information Science from the University of Wisconsin. She received her Library of Michigan Librarian's Permanent Professional Certificate in 2009.

Adams worked as an outreach educator with Michigan State University Extension and as a fund development director with the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. She also ran a local business with her late husband. Adams is succeeding former library director Val Meyerson, who resigned from her post in order to accept a similar position with the Petoskey District Library.

Adams sees her role as furthering the library's mission of "Providing inspiration, information and education for the community."

"Programming is my passion," Adams said. "It's one of my favorite ways to build community, engage people, advocate for the library, learn and just have fun. This library has been called 'the living room of the community.' We are also a partner in education, continually looking for new materials, classes and enrichment opportunities."

Looking ahead, Adams believes the library is in a period of growth.

"Our library can be, and is, a source of inspiration," Adams said. "We have the ability to collaborate with many organizations as we move forward, building on what we have and always looking to the future for new opportunities."

Her immediate goal is to maintain the momentum that has supported the development of an "incredible" library with the enthusiastic board, friends and staff that service the Charlevoix community. In 2004, Adams was hired to draft the Charlevoix Public Library's first strategic plan. Now, 10 years later, she will facilitate the next stage, a new strategic plan — scheduled for spring, 2016. The plan will involve hiring a strategic planning firm and gathering community input. She plans to introduce the process with a session outlining the future of public libraries, what they can be and what they can offer a community.

Prior to accepting the interim position and subsequently the director's position, Adams worked as adult services supervisor/librarian from 2005 to 2014, managing the adult department which includes three librarians and one support staff member. Her experience includes creating and managing budgets for audio/visual materials, data bases and programs. As adult services supervisor/librarian, she had the responsibility of providing program planning — including concerts, author visits, lectures, tech training reference, wellness events and special topic presentations — collection development, website management, data base collections and technology support. Over the 10 years she has been with the library, Adams has successfully worked with fellow staff members in other departments and directly with patrons. She feels that her work has helped "to create a library that is seen as a community center filled with enrichment and educational opportunities."

Charlevoix Writers Group encourages would-be writers to visit weekly meetings

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library hosts a local writers group from 6-7:30 p.m. each Thursday in the Armstrong Conference Room. This group of writing enthusiasts, which ranges from beginning to published, meets to encourage each other and share their work. The group welcomes all who are interested in writing for themselves, their family or for publication.

The writers use the group interaction to advance the success of each other and there are no restrictions to form, genre or age. This is not a publishing group. The group's goal is to genuinely attempt to help writers improve the quality of their work.

Writers should bring samples to read, but it is not required and questions are welcome. Suggestions are made after listening to readings or after reading the work brought to the group. They do try to help with structure, grammar, spelling, etc. Everyone present is free to give their input or opinion. Non-constructive input or expression of opinions regarding content of work is not condoned. The group strives to be supportive.

Sometimes a writer needs to be able to handle input. Often it can be difficult for a writer heavily invested in their work to hear input from others. The group has worked on a number of novels that progressed chapter by chapter over the years. The group's philosophy involves the maxim: writing is re-writing. Their mission is to provide support in that process.

The group has a wide range of writers, published, and not published. Poets and novelists, screenwriters and children's book authors have all attended. Attendees often have substantial education and experience related to writing and writers are free to pick the brains of everyone for insights that they may find of value.

The writers group is led by Allen Sevensen. He is a graduate of Central Michigan University's School of Broadcasting and Cinematic Arts. Sevensen is retired from a career in education and engineering. Recent awards include First Place in the 2013 Green River Writers, Rubye Fowler Memorial Prize, Creative Nonfiction category for the short story "Black Cold" and he was a semi-finalist in the Circus Road Pictures 2014 annual screenwriting contest.

For more information about the writers group, call (231) 547-2651 or visit charlevoix-library.org.

the classroom. It's something a normal fire scene might not afford you."

In preparation for the demolition by fire, the homeowner had to show no asbestos was in the structure, and that all utilities were off and separated from the structure.

"It's a lengthy process to perform a live burn on a building donated to us," said Charlevoix Police and Fire Chief Gerard Doan. "There is a lot of preparation and the homeowner needs to supply us with necessary documents to complete the task."

Doan said the process for a property owner to have the building demolished by fire may be lengthy, but the rewards for the department are great.

"It's a unique training experience for our firefighters," Doan said. "They get to be around the sight, smell and sound of a live structure burn, which proves to be beneficial in the field. The smoke and fumes generated by modern building materials can disorient even the most experienced firefighters. That's why training in a safe and controlled live fire environment is essential for the safety of our firefighters."

Before starting any fires, a small group of firefighters were walked through the building to know the exact layout of the structure they would be setting ablaze. As the firefighters prepared for the fire, Schwartzfisher was periodically quizzing his group about how to control a fire.

After running through instructions, a fire was set with a torch to some cardboard and hay stuffed at the base of the walls. A small trickle of white smoke eventually gave way to large plumes of dark gray smoke and the building was quickly engulfed in fire. While the ground crews affixed hoses to trucks to avoid endangering fields and homes, the building started to fall apart, with the roof caving in before the walls fell inward.

With the house fire burning steadily behind him, Schwartzfisher said, "This is as close as you can get to the real thing."

Haske grateful for support of Charlevoix, St. Francis communities in cancer fight

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — During what he termed as one of the darkest moments of his life, the seven weeks he spent in Houston receiving radiation and chemotherapy treatments for stage 4 throat cancer, former Charlevoix and current TC St. Francis basketball coach Keith Haske had a few things to give him comfort.

One of the most important was the constant stream of text messages, emails and phone calls from former players, friends in colleagues from both his old career in Charlevoix and his new one in Traverse City, messages that he says played an important role in his recovery.

"I'm a pretty religious guy, and with all those messages, I could feel the prayers behind them as I read them," Haske said. "It means everything to you, when you're suffering and down, to get that kind of support from the people in your life."

In 32 years as a head coach, including 18 in Northern Michigan with the Rayders and Gladiators, Haske developed a reputation as an unflappable and steady hand at the helm of some of the best teams the area has ever seen.

As a boys and girls basketball coach at Charlevoix and a boys coach at TC St. Francis, Haske has led teams to 12 district titles, seven regional titles, five state semifinal berths and runner-up finishes in 2001, 2004 and 2012.

But the diagnosis of cancer, which he disclosed to his team in the spring of 2014, tested Haske in ways he'd never experienced before.

"It's not something you can really understand unless you've been through it, but it's a dark, difficult time, with a lot of fear and doubt," Haske said. "It's not something anyone can get through alone."

"I was lucky to have the support of my family and these messages, that when I was resting in Houston, weak from chemo or radiation therapy, that I would read or my wife would read to me that would just lighten my day. I'm eternally grateful for that support, because it picked me up when I was at my lowest and I really needed it."

As part of his extended run of success as a coach, Haske has seen several of his assistants earn head coaching jobs of their own, including Liz Shaw, now the head girls basketball coach at Charlevoix. Bret Erskine, the boys coach for the Rayders, and Adam Wood, athletic director and boys basketball coach at Harbor Springs.

AUBURN HILLS — The Charlevoix wrestling team has been a force to be reckoned with the last couple of years.

Last year, junior Sam Hovie and senior Jake Novotny qualified for states individually. This year, that number has doubled with Hovie, senior Spencer Bruce, junior Mick Hinkle and sophomore Camden Alden qualifying for the Division 4 State Finals, currently taking place at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

Hovie, who surpassed 100 wins in his wrestling career earlier this season, and has wrestled since first grade, understands what it takes to compete in this sport.

Petoskey coach Starkey earns 500th victory against Charlevoix

DREW KOCHANNY
(231) 439-9345

PETOSKEY — It was Dennis Starkey's night Tuesday.

The legendary coach of the Petoskey boys basketball team earned his 500th career win in a 67-43 victory against Charlevoix, etching his name alongside the other great Michigan basketball coaches of the past.

"I always thought that the big measuring stick would be 300, and 500, that was beyond my wildest dreams," said Starkey, as the moment set in inside the Northmen locker room.

Now, part of two separate Michigan basketball hall of fames and a feat few have and will accomplish over their careers in achieving 500 wins, the modest coach of the Northmen has his own student section named after him, Starkville.

"We've got great kids here at Petoskey and to see them having some fun with it is neat," Starkey said, laughing at the fact. "I've been fortunate to coach here where this sports' been great. We've had some awfully good teams and we just haven't gone through those stretches where we have real dry years like teams do. Guys see the past success and want to be part of it. It makes coaching easy."

The truth is, none of it has been easy over his 32 total years in the game, 29 as Petoskey's coach, and

DISTRICT PREVIEW

Rayders among teams looking to upset Boyne City in tough bracket

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343
jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

EAST JORDAN — It's a matchup that produced a classic district final last year, and two highly competitive and wildly entertaining games this regular season.

For the other four teams in the Class C district at East Jordan beginning on Monday, Mar. 11, the idea of a rematch between the host Red Devils and Boyne City is the last thing any of them want to see.

Shooting either team short of reaching the final won't be easy, as both have put together an impressive record so far this season.

Boyne City, at 15-4, has rebounded from an 0-2 start to return to its status as the top team in the Lake Michigan Conference.

The Ramblers are led on paper by CMU commit and senior wing Corey Redman, but in reality all five of Boyne City's starters have taken turns at the helm this season to lead the Ramblers to victory.

Guards Zach Napont and Dalton Gardner and forwards Cole Butler, and Tanner Kruzel have all had their turn in the spotlight, and Derek Willis, Ben Halsted, Mike Dohm and Colton Sieradski have all chipped in critical minutes off the bench for the Ramblers.

"We had a rough start to the year, but our kids kept improving and we were able to get back on track," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "We've got a lot of guys contributing right now and it's made us successful so far."

East Jordan (15-4) has had a rockier path to a similar finish, dealing with an unexpected loss midway through the season that derailed a 5-0 start.

But the Red Devils have found a way to persevere, behind star junior Jordan Weber's sharp shooting and the steady play of fellow junior Colin Petrie at both guard positions.

In recent weeks East Jordan has gotten key scoring contributions from juniors Thomas Brandell, Collin Bajko and Rylee Kihler that have made its offensive sets lethal again and restored the Red Devils' status as a legitimate contender.

"We've been a solid team this year, we just have to put together four solid quarters," East Jordan coach Darrin

Weber said. "In our three losses, we really struggled to get points on the board in the fourth quarter, and we ran out of gas."

"That really means just getting more kids involved, and finding ways to get our starters a chance to rest. We've been doing better at that lately, and we have to keep getting better at it."

As good as both teams are, each has at least one tough opponent standing in their way.

For Boyne City, it'll have to get by archrival Charlevoix in the district opener on Monday.

Despite an 0-5 start and a slew of injuries that have hampered the Rayders' deep and versatile lineup, Charlevoix (11-8) has weathered the storm and emerged as an upper ech-elon team in the LMC as well.

Junior Austin Putman is Charlevoix's most versatile scoring threat, but wing Nate Moon and point guard Walker Drost can score in bunches as well, and the Rayders also have snipers Noah Jeakle and Ryan Joy lurking on the wings.

"We feel like we've found a rhythm and are playing good basketball right now," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "It's a brutal district, because everyone is so familiar with each other, and they're all great teams."

"We're just hoping to compete and give ourselves a chance."

The winner of that game faces Harbor Springs in the district semis for a trip to the finals. The Rams (2-

CHARLEVOIX — Having won five of their previous seven games heading into Friday's regular season finale against Kalkaska, the Charlevoix girls' basketball team wouldn't get to end their season before districts on a high note, as they fell 53-45 to the Blazers in the Charlevoix High School gym.

Blazer freshman, Makenzie Wilkinson scored a game high 20 points for the second time in a week, during their Lake Michigan Conference matchup.

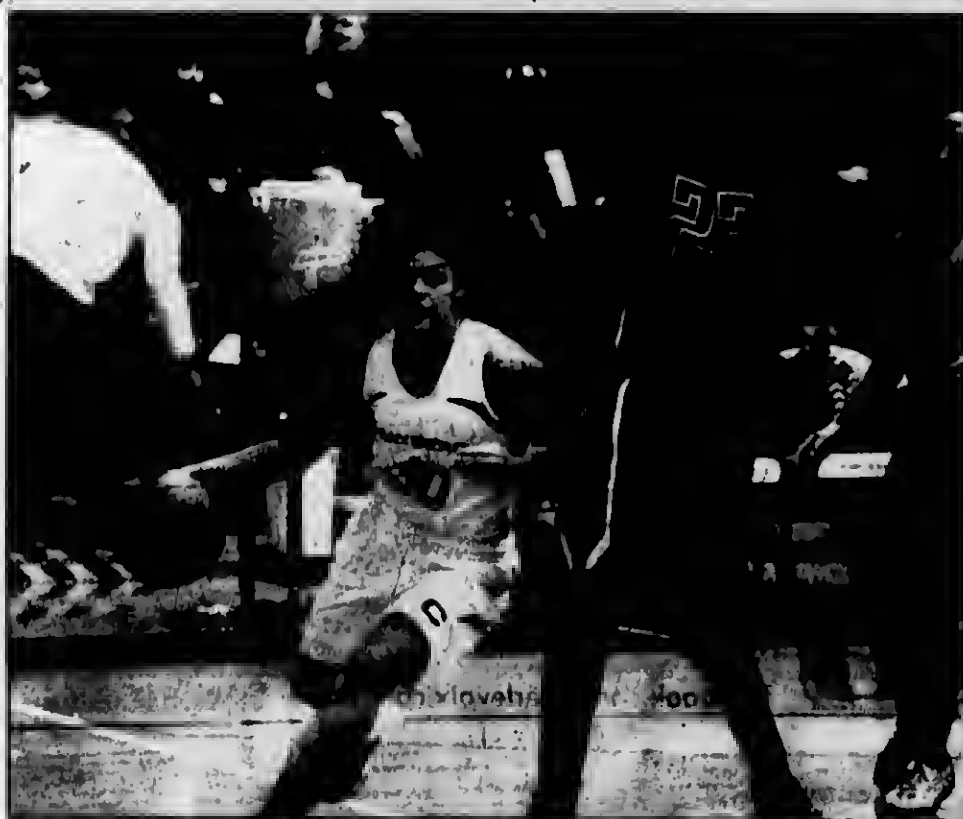

For Charlevoix, Alexis Tribelner scored 19 points and had four steals, while Hannah Zipp scored 10 points with eight rebounds, Rachel Nesburg had eight points, four steals, and Ellie Way had six assists.

"Alexis (Tribelner) has been our catalyst all season," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "She plays with such intensity, and carries over to all the girls."

Charlevoix led at the end of the first quarter, 14-12.

Kalkaska went into halftime, with a five point lead, 27-22.

"We fell asleep at a couple of points during this game, especially early," Kalkaska coach David Dalton said.

"The girls battled back, and pulled one out a nice win."

The Rayders used a two-point field goal by Zipp to go ahead, and a triple from Tribelner to take a 37-34 lead at the end of the third quarter.

"We played a great team game on both ends of the floor," Shaw said. "We had our chances, even late into the fourth quarter."

The Blazers used a three-pointer by Sydney Perry to move ahead, 44-41, with 3:20 to play in regulation.

Kalkaska's Wilkinson followed with two free throws and a three-pointer to push the lead to, 49-41, with under two-minutes to play in the fourth.

For Kalkaska, the win wrapped up the conference title, which is the Blazers fourth title in six seasons.

Charlevoix ended the regular season, 10-10 overall, 8-6 in league.

Information on the Rayders Class C district competition will be in the Friday, March 13 edition of the Courier.

only have one person to blame, that's yourself," he said. "It takes a lot of mental strength. It's a tough sport."

Hovie, who wrestled in the 160 pound weight class, defeated wrestlers from Munising, Manton and St. Ignace to earn a third-place finish in his class. Hovie is excited for his second chance at state.

"I'm looking for the hard-ware," he said. "I have been working my whole life for this. I got one last shot at it. I'm going to the big show, show them what I got and hopefully come back with something big."

Bruce also sees how wrestling isolates two people on the mat.

"It's more of yourself against another person, compared to a team against another team," he said. "It's still team sport in its own way though."

Bruce, who wrestled in the 215 pound weight class, defeated grapplers from Ishpeming, Munising and Bark River-Harris to continue his wrestling career.

"It's been a great year," Bruce said. "I began wrestling in sixth grade, quit, and then returned my freshman year. It's a good way to end my career, making states my senior year."

Hinkle, who wrestled in the 189 pound weight class, defeated wrestlers from Ishpeming, St. Ignace and Iron Mountain to earn his spot at state.

Hinkle, who has wrestled since second grade, said that the sport is a lot tougher than other ones, and is excited for his shot at the big show.

Alden, who wrestled in the 125 pound weight class, defeated grapplers from Onaway and Munising to make his way to the finals as just a sophomore.

"It takes a lot more mental strength and mental stability to win," Alden said when asked about wrestling compared to other sports.

As the youngest Rayder to compete at state, Alden is honored to experience something like this.

"The experience, the whole excitement of being on center stage," he said. "Kind of a time where you can't mess up, you got to try your best, and go out and win."

And when the news of Haske's diagnosis broke, that network of coaches sprang into action to provide support, helping to arrange an alumni game between Charlevoix and TC St. Francis in July that included a silent auction and a bake sale to raise money for his treatment.

And, even when the cancer went into remission in November and Haske began the long road to full recovery, the support continued.

Shaw and Erskine surprised Haske with a ceremony at halftime of Friday's girls game between Charlevoix and St. Francis, honoring his victory over cancer and his contributions to both communities.

"Coach Haske means a lot to a lot of people, and I'm one of those who had the privilege of coaching under him for three years and working under him for many more," Shaw said. "It's just great for the community to be able to give back to him in a time of need and recognize him as a positive influence in all our lives."

For Erskine, it's hard to talk about what Haske has meant to him without getting choked up, he said.

Former Charlevoix coach and current Traverse City St. Francis boys basketball coach Keith Haske poses with Charlevoix coaches during a ceremony in his honor at the halftime of the girls basketball game Friday in Charlevoix. The group includes (from left) Haske, Charlevoix girls basketball coach Liz Shaw, Charlevoix boys basketball coach Bret Erskine, and Charlevoix assistant coach Dr. Jim Gets.

"I met him in the summer when he was athletic director here, and said I wanted to coach basketball," Erskine said. "He took me under his wing, and for the next decade I don't know if any assistant coach in the history of Michigan has been lucky enough to be part of a ride like the one I got to be on."

"I feel blessed every day that I got to coach under him and be a part of that run."

Wood, who played for Haske at Charlevoix and also coached under him, said he owes the coach his career.

"He's meant everything to me," Wood said. "Learning under him as a player, as a coach, and as a teacher, he's been my mentor every step of the way and he's always been there for me."

"He's successful for a lot of reasons, but the number one reason is who he is as a person. He's a leader and a man of great faith who truly cares about the people around him."

Back on the sidelines and healthy, Haske hopes to continue coaching for a long time.

"You get into this business to build relationships, and to get the chance to work with intelligent, gifted and caring people, and I've been lucky enough to do that throughout my career," Haske said. "It makes me happy to see people like Liz and Bret and all the others go on and use their gifts to inspire others, and I hope that part of it never stops."

even before the feature of the night set in after the game on Tuesday, the Northmen would have to earn the win against the Rayders.

"That's what we expected out of Charlevoix," said Starkey. "To win as many games as they have, they've won 11 out of 13 coming in and I can see why."

Petoskey, 14-5 overall, would lead 16-12 after the end of the first quarter, with Charlevoix's Austin Putman and Walker Drost combining for 10 of the Rayders' 12 points.

"We struggled containing their guards and as a result of that, most of their points came inside," said Starkey. "I knew they had guys that could shoot. We did a pretty good job there, but we just couldn't keep Drost in front of us."

Petoskey would pull away late in the second quarter, making it a six point game with just under two minutes remaining, then Petoskey's Peter Crittenden, Parker Goodrich and Aron Lee added buckets late, to give Petoskey a 10-point lead at the half, 24-14.

"I thought we had a good first half, the guys played hard, they're just quick to the basket. That's their forte and we tried to stop them, but we didn't," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said.

In the second half, Petoskey would begin to pull away with the game.

At the close of the third, Petoskey had made it a 51-38 game on the Rayders, with a number of putting in work, starters or bench.

It's tough being on the other end of a monumental win, but for Erskine, it was a special night none the less.

"I'm glad he got 500," said Erskine. "Am I glad it's against us? We go down in history with him I guess. It's just awesome for a coach of his character to win that many. With what he's accomplished here in Petoskey, it's just special to be a part of the game and that he's had a chance for 500."

Aron Lee would lead Petoskey with 13 points, six rebounds and five assist, while Evan Whitmore scored 11 points and added four rebounds and two steals.

For Charlevoix, now 11-8 overall, Drost scored 13 points, Putman had nine and Nate Moon scored 10 points.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Petoskey junior varsity boys' basketball team earned a 64-43 win over Charlevoix, with Jake Lee leading Petoskey with 17 points and 10 rebounds.

FRESHMEN

Petoskey won a freshman game, 59-31, over Charlevoix.

For the Northmen, Jordan Bur scored 12 points, Ryan Bickel added nine, and Jarayd Greenacre had eight, while Noah Doe-Nimphe and Will Coveyou each scored five.

For the Rayders, Josh Carlson scored eight, Austin Jensen and Devin Cuadros each scored six.

Charlevoix 62,
Kalkaska 59

CHARLEVOIX — Austin Putman scored a game high, 16 points to lead the Charlevoix boys' basketball past Kalkaska, 62-59, on Friday during a Lake Michigan Conference game.

"This was a great high school basketball game tonight," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "They (Kalkaska) never gave up, and to get this win after Tuesday's let down, feels good."

Charlevoix led after the first quarter, 16-14.

Kalkaska rebounded in the second quarter, and went into halftime tied, 24-24.

The Rayders outscored the Blazers, 19-13, in the third quarter, and had a 43-37 lead at the quarter's end.

"At one point in the third quarter, we were up by 10-points," Erskine said. "But, in this league, all the teams are competitive, and Kalkaska came back on us."

The Blazers had the ball in the final seconds of regulation, but the Rayders forced a turnover, to finish the win.

Also for Charlevoix, Nate Moon scored 13 points and Noah Jeakle added nine.

For Kalkaska, Alex Schuster, Kameron Cavanaugh, and Austin Cooper each scored eight points.

YOUTH WRESTLING

13 Rayders earn first-place at individual tournament

ONAWAY — The Charlevoix Elementary/Middle school wrestling team competed in Onaway over the weekend. They all did a great job competing and representing the program. Results are as follows:

1st Place: Eric Staph, Riley Coss, Dimitri Bell-Chavez, Danal Munson, Mason Cunningham, Devanion Burke, Logan Wilks, Benjamin Culver, Ronin Reiter, Gage Noirot, Brennan Munson, Desmond Burke, Liam Ragle;

2nd Place: Jevon Welzein, Brady Jess, John Paul Culver, Sam Fry, Max Hinkle, Danzelle Williams, Aria Blackford;

3rd Place: Trevor McCallum, Morgan Ragle, Landon Swanson, Jamie Parrish, Carson Abbey, David Gray, Emmett Bergmann.

18) most likely aren't a threat to take the crown, but with sophomore Noah Erdenben leading the way and guards Kolton Jacobs, Mark Leonard and Mitch Hoffman heating up from outside, Harbor Springs will still be a tough out.

"We're a very young team, so right now, win or lose, we're just looking for signs of positive progress," Harbor Springs coach Adam Wood said. "Anything that shows how far we've come from the beginning of the season is a good building block for the future."

East Jordan faces two challenges to get to the final as well, both against unfamiliar and dangerous foes.

The Red Devils open with a Rogers City team that's held its own in the North Star League and could pose a threat.

Junior center Alex Hincka leads the Hurons, who won four district titles in a row ending in 2012 and are on the rise again after bottoming out in 2013.

"Whether you're playing a conference foe or a team you haven't seen before in districts, it's its own unique challenge," Weber said. "I think that when you're a player, you prefer the chance to play someone new and fresh, and our guys are excited for that."

A victory there would create a matchup with Ski Valley team Inland Lakes (10-10), which made a massive leap from three wins last year and are one of the most improved teams in the area.

Junior Ryan Howery has been a double-double machine for the Bulldogs, fellow junior Andrew Dufek has added consistent scoring punch, and freshman Ian Clancy is a fast-growing x-factor for Inland Lakes.

"We know the task ahead of us; East Jordan is a great team with a couple of really special players," Inland Lakes coach Joe Mahoney said. "But we feel like we've got some pretty strong players as well, and I think we match up well with them."

"If we play our game, I think we can hang around and surprise a few people."

The winner of the district advances to a regional in Marquette on Mar. 16, where they will face off against the winner of the Ishpeming district at 8 p.m. for a berth in the regional finals.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF WHAT YOU KNOW

Government has the power to force citizens from their homes and decide where to locate hazardous facilities. It has the power to confiscate your property or throw you in jail.

That's a lot of power.

It's trying to get more.

Your government claims it can save money by posting notices about tax increases, property seizure and new spending on its website. That seems well-intentioned. But doing that creates a system where government is in control of what you know. And there are plenty of other ways they can save money without putting taxpayer rights at risk.

Right now your newspaper puts these notices on pages independent of government control. Their pages can't be "hacked," disappear during a power outage or quietly updated to hide a mistake. These newspaper pages prove beyond a doubt what government did, when it did it, how it did it and where citizens can learn more about the matter. They are proof-positive legal documents. They protect your rights.

Government websites put government in control of what we know. Citizens need an independent check and balance on the government that's supposed to serve them. Public notices in newspapers provide that.

DON'T LET GOVERNMENT CONTROL WHAT YOU KNOW.

voix County Condominium Subdivision Plan No. 112, together with rights in general common elements and limited common elements as set forth in said Master Deed and amendments thereto, and as described in Act 59 of the Public Acts of 1978, as amended.

The redemption period shall be 6 months from the date of such sale, unless determined abandoned in accordance with MCL 600.3241a, in which case the redemption period shall be 30 days from the date of such sale. TO ALL PURCHASERS:
The foreclosing mortgagee can rescind the sale. In that event, your damages, if any, are limited solely to the return of the bid amount tendered at sale, plus interest.

If the property is sold at foreclosure sale, pursuant to MCL 600.3278, the borrower will be held responsible to the person who buys the property at the mortgage foreclosure sale or the mortgage holder for damaging the property during the redemption period. ATTENTION POTENTIAL

Vanishing winter

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce will bring their members and local residents together for one of the largest marketing and networking opportunities around — the fifth annual business expo and Taste of Charlevoix.

The expo typically draws more than 500 visitors each year. This year it will take place from 4-7 p.m. on Thursday, March 19, at Castle Farms.

The event was started as a way to bring chamber members and the public together to network, said chamber President Alison Hubbard.

Search for a new school chief uses local feedback

CHARLEVOIX — The selection process for the next Charlevoix Public Schools superintendent will be done with stakeholder feedback obtained through online surveys and face-to-face meetings that establish a criteria to follow in order to find a new person to fill the school district's top job.

Rod Green, consultant with the Michigan Association of School Boards, is assisting the Charlevoix board with its superintendent search. On March 5, he met with several groups to discuss the qualities and skills desired of the next superintendent. These groups included school employees, administration, staff, community leaders and parents.

"We've been speaking with these groups to list the assets of the district and the challenges the district faces," Green said.

The most common challenge Green received in feedback from his conversations is the declining enrollment for Charlevoix Public Schools.

"People are very concerned and want a superintendent who will address this issue," Green said.

Green said during the search process, he will be having multiple workshops with school board members to assist and educate them on various aspects of the superintendent employment process, such as finalizing the selection criteria, developing interview questions, reviewing resumes and choosing which candidates to interview.

"It's about finding the right person for Charlevoix," Green said. "By holding these workshops and community forums we can narrow down the candidate pool."

He said superintendent search is being done nationally. So far, he's received 14 applications with a majority of those from Michigan.

The application deadline is Friday, April 10. Green said one of the services MASB provides is pre-screening of Charlevoix students named winners in America and Me Essay Contest

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 - allen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Three Charlevoix Middle School students were named local winners of the 46th annual America and Me Essay Contest on Feb. 18.

Julia Ivester, Elyssa Seger and Sophia Thompson earned first-, second- and third-place honors, respectively. All three students received certificates for their work. The topic of the 2014-2015 contest was "My Personal Michigan Hero."

Ivester chose to write about her best friend, Kiara Darling, who remained positive and up-beat during her cancer treatments. Darling is currently cancer free, Ivester said.

"She is always smiling, even when she was real sick," Ivester said. "She inspires me. She never gave up, even when her treatments got tough she could be seen smiling."

As the first-place winner, Ivester's name will be engraved on a plaque that will be on display at the school. Her essay will also be entered into the state-level competition, and the top 10 will be selected in April.

"It's exciting my essay is being entered in another competition," Ivester said.

The top 10 will each receive a plaque, a medallion and $1,000. In addition, the top ten essayist will be honored at a banquet in Lansing, meet with Michigan's top governmental leaders and be the featured guest at a Lansing Lugnuts minor league baseball game dedicated to their honor.

a top Michigan government official and the sponsoring teachers of last year's top two statewide winners will determine the ranking of the top 10 statewide winners this year.

Several thousand eighth-grade students from over 400 Michigan schools participated in the 2014-2015 America & Me Essay Contest, which was conducted with the help of Farm Bureau Insurance agents across the state.

There were 80 students who wrote essays, said Nick Barnum, Charlevoix Middle and High School English teacher.

"We took the top eight essays from the pool of students who turned them in," Barnum said. "These were the top graded essays that were submitted for the contest."

Barnum credited the three students for their writing skill.

"Out of all those essays submitted, this is a real testament to each of their writing abilities," Barnum said.

Started in 1968 and open to all Michigan eighth-grade students, the contest encourages Michigan youngsters to explore the greatness of America and its people. As sponsor of the contest, Farm Bureau Insurance has earned 11 national awards from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Red Cross announces local blood drives for March

CHARLEVOIX — The American Red Cross encourages eligible blood donors to become everyday heroes by giving blood in celebration of Red Cross Month this March.

Since 1943, every president has designated March as Red Cross Month — a time to recognize those who support the Red Cross. Local communities depend on the Red Cross, which relies on donations of time, money and blood to fulfill its humanitarian mission.

By donating blood, eligible donors can help save the lives of patients in need. Those who are unable to give blood can support blood donations by organizing a blood drive, volunteering to assist with Red Cross activities or creating a SleevesUp virtual blood drive online at redcrossblood.org/SleevesUp and asking others to make a lifesaving donation.

To make an appointment to give blood, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1(800) 733-2767.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities:

— Ellsworth from noon to 5:45 p.m. on Tuesday, March 17, at Ellsworth High School, 9467 Park St.

— Boyne City, from noon to 5:45 p.m. on Wednesday, March 18, at the Eagles Lodge FOE 1583, 106 River St.

— Charlevoix from 8:30 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. on Monday, March 23, at Charlevoix

High School, 5200 Marion Center Road.

How to donate blood

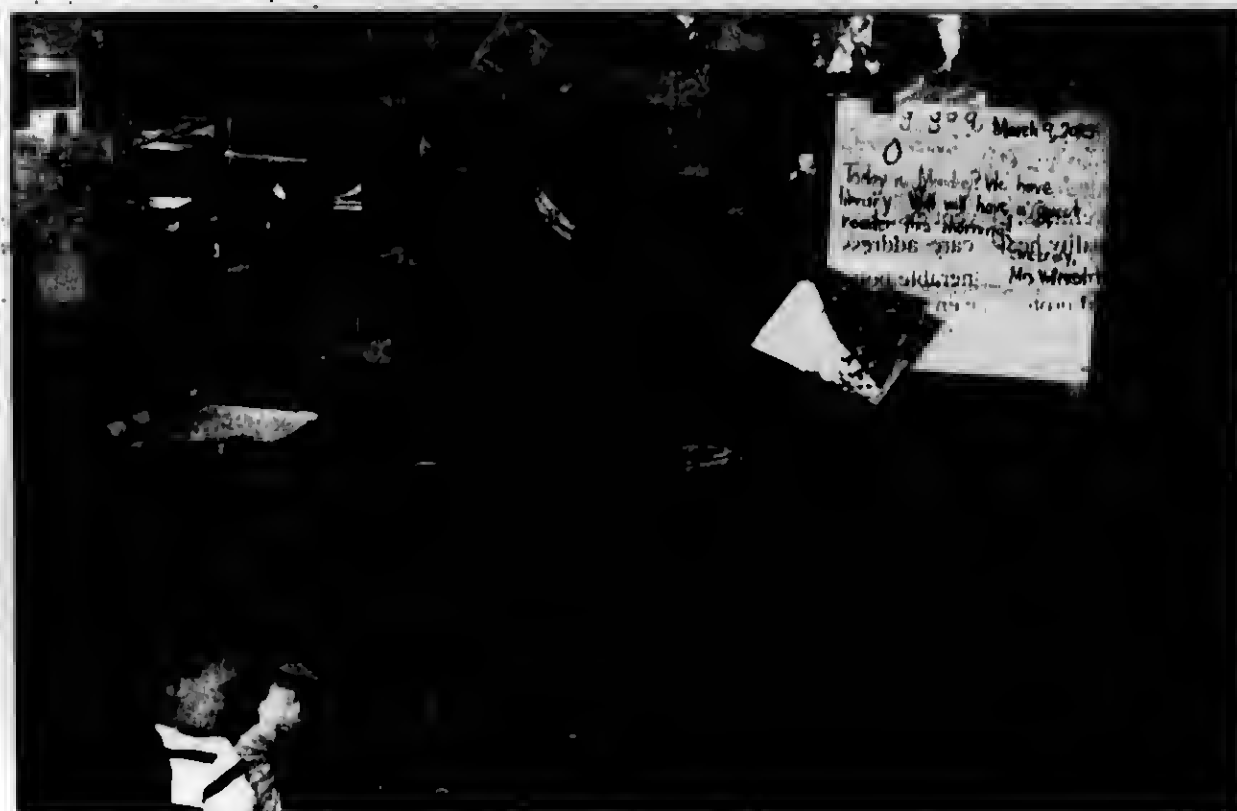

For more information on how to donate blood call 1 (800) 733-2767 or visit redcrossblood.org to make an appointment. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age — 16 with parental consent in some states — weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Community Supported Agriculture encourages early sign-up

NORTHWEST MICHIGAN — On Saturday, Feb. 28, local farmers and eaters celebrated Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) sign-up day.

Since its introduction to the United States in the 1980s, CSA has become an important model in support of local agriculture, and now includes more than 6,000 farms across the country. To join a CSA, members buy a share of the harvest in the winter and spring, then get a box of local produce each week throughout the growing season. Some farms also offer other items such as meat, eggs or fruits to members.

CSA Farms of Northwest Michigan is a local organization composed of a diverse group of area CSA farms which share a common goal of providing great food to members. Farmers benefit when members of the community purchase CSA shares because many farming expenses occur during the off-season, long before farmers can draw on income from the summer harvest. Rather than financing these early-season costs on credit, CSA farmers can use member payments to operate their farms.

"The CSA model has allowed us to grow our small farm business," said Andrea Romeyn, owner of Providence Organic Farm in Central Lake. "Without the sale of CSA shares in the winter, especially when our farm began, we would have been unable to buy seeds, soil amendments or much of anything else. We could not do what we're doing without our CSA members."

Beyond the financial relationship involved, many farmers enjoy sharing the natural beauty of their farms, teaching about their growing practices and deepening friendships with the members of the community they serve.

Farmers aren't the only ones benefiting from the model, however. CSA members get fresh seasonal produce offered by local farms, as well as a sense of connection with the place and the people that have grown their food. Many CSA farms also provide member education in the form of healthy cooking ideas.

"My CSA farmers have a way of empowering us to make things we normally wouldn't try, encouraging us with their recipes, suggestions and classes," said Jen Schaap, a CSA member of Bluestem Farm in East Jordan.

Eaters looking to partner with local farmers in this way can find a wonderful variety of local CSA farms through csafarms.org, a cooperative website.

Free screenings for eligible patients during March's Colorectal Cancer Awareness Campaign

CHARLEVOIX — Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in the United States, with about 140,000 new diagnoses per year. However, through screening, this disease is highly preventable. During March's Colorectal Cancer Awareness campaign, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan is offering free colorectal cancer screenings for eligible patients throughout Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Screening tests help prevent colorectal cancer by identifying abnormal growths for removal, or by catching cancer early enough to be successfully treated. The Centers for Disease Control advise regular screening for people 50 to 75 years old, because risk increases with age.

More than 90 percent of colorectal cancers occur in patients older than 50 years. Routine screening is essential because colorectal cancer can exist without symptoms. When symptoms do appear, they may include blood in the stool, stomach pain or cramps, and weight loss.

There are multiple types of screenings available, including simple at-home tests such as the Fecal Occult Blood Test. People are encouraged to speak with their doctor or medical provider about their best option. Most health insurance plans cover the cost of colorectal screening. For those without insurance or who have high deductibles, the health department may be able to help. Individuals who are 50 to 64 years old and meet income requirements may receive free preventative service.

Call the health department at (800) 432-4121 to make an appointment or to learn more about eligibility.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, ensure quality health care, address health problems of vulnerable populations and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

St. Patrick's Day celebration exceeds Rotary expectations

CHARLEVOIX — For the last six years, the Rotary Club of Charlevoix has hosted a St. Patrick's Day Celebration to raise money for the club's community service programs.

The Rotary's original idea for the event was to have a party to "shake off the winter," said Rotarian Dennis Halverson.

"It is a community get-together that welcomes the start of spring," Halverson said. "Our St. Patrick's Day party is a nice celebration that offers dancing and a good meal."

Rotarians never expected this celebration to grow as large as it has. For the last two years, as St. Patrick's Day approaches, tickets to this party sell out, Halverson said.

"This event has exceeded our expectations from its original intent as a break-from-winter party," he said. "The community has embraced it and they look forward to the dinner, dancing and auction."

The sixth annual St. Patrick's Celebration will be at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, March 14, at Castle Farms.

"It's a St. Patrick's Day party and the proceeds help the Rotary Club give back to its community," Halverson said. "March 14 will be a day for people who love to feel a bit Irish for a day and love to do something for their community."

Rotarian and event organizer Aaron Wilkin said the Rotary prepares for this party beginning in November.

"We pretty much start by booking the facility and seeking out sponsors," Wilkin said. "I work with sponsors and reach out for donations most the year."

Event Sponsors — Charlevoix State Bank, 4 Front Credit Union, Catt Development, DCL, Ace Hardware and American Waste — help with many of the auction items. The amount of goods auctioned off makes this event the club's largest fundraising endeavor. In addition to the sold-out ticket sales, proceeds from the silent auction and live auction action will help raise approximately $20,000.

"The participation and excitement during the auction helps us cycle the proceeds back into the community," Wilkin said. "We're very grateful to all of our sponsors and those who attend because all the money is used to meet community needs the Rotary hears about."

Grey Gables Inn Restaurant caters the event with an Irish dinner and traditional desserts, Wilkin said.

"They do a terrific job for us," Wilkin said. "They really put together great food for the community to enjoy."

LETTERS to the editor

Editor:

Go to the Charlevoix County Web site and read the Parks Millage Resolution. In short, the resolution states that, "..... Charlevoix County would like to continue the Parks Program and future improvements to both county parks and county recreation projects...." No where does it mention grants to townships or cities. At this time the county does not grant or contribute money to other units in the county. To do so, the ballot should have said something other than "continue."

"To continue," according to Webster is "to remain, to remain, to keep on." The county's intent is not to "remain," but to expand or increase.

Truly the intent of the county that has been written about in the PNR is outside of the definition of continue and should be stopped.

Then the ballot wording stated, "... for the purpose of parks and recreation capital purchase, operating and program" Again, no where in this wording does it mention grants to townships and cities would be made available.

It was sold to the tax payers as a millage to be earmarked for the purpose for parks and to stop the county park department from returning to the commissioners asking for more money. (PNR article dated Sep. 10, 2014) "Commissioners said they want to stop using general fund to pay for development and ongoing costs associated with those services." Again, nothing was mentioned about grants. Just a shift in where the money used for county parks would come from.

And in the same article Commissioner Christensen is quoted "and overall operations millage will be reduced by an equal amount..."

Then PNR article dated Oct. 13, 2014, Commissioner Christensen said, "if the millages pass they'll amount to a minor tax increase for the first year..."

Now comes the PNR article March 2, 2015, County faces criticism over parks millage. Failing to properly communicate their plans to the voters prior to the measure hitting the ballot.

In my opinion, this statement is 100 percent correct.

What was missing all along was "transparency." This has been the in word with government for the last decade or two. How could you accidentally or intentionally think and act without spelling out the intentions of this ballot and not expect criticism?

In the March 2 article, it states, "Many who opposed it said they feared the money would be used only for work on the county ... parks." I feel a more correct statement would be, "many who opposed it feared it would not be used to develop only the county parks."

Eight townships and one city voted against it; ask them what was their reasoning. The Charlevoix County Chapter of the MTA — Michigan Township Association — has already asked; many were not aware of the grant program or supported it.

Also in the PNR March 2, 2015, Commissioner Christensen, "vowed the commissioners would lower the general operating millage by an equal amount..." AGAIN.

Then he went on to say "though, that decrease of the general operating millage likely won't occur this year and maybe not even next year."

Well folks, it's only a four year millage unlikely to be passed again by the tax payers of Charlevoix County.

So the county wants to proceed with setting up a committee to award grants. It has been suggested to return the tax dollars to each unit and let them use it. With this comment made in steps, county Attorney Mr. Graham stating, "state law doesn't allow for any type of agreement with cities or townships to distribute the money in that fashion."

Mr. Graham should check with Charlevoix County practices, for they already distribute money in that fashion. Look into the county voted road millage from several years ago; that millage was voted in by tax payers to rebuild Charlevoix County roads. After passing of the county road millage, the cities manage to keep their portion of the road funds with no accountability as to what happens with the money. Do I see anti-transparency here again?

A $2 million road fund that was expected to service county roads cut short by 25 percent. So when the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road the "worst road" in the county, connecting Boyne City to Charlevoix was rebuilt with millage dollars not one dime was contributed by the citizens of either Boyne City or Charlevoix.

The road should be renamed the Charlevoix County Road. The funds generated by the passing of the parks millage should go in its entirety to the construction, improvement's and maintenance of county owned parks.

The creation of a lopsided committee to hand out funds to other units of government should be dissolved. And the Charlevoix County Commissioners should learn to be more forthright with actions taken in the future to preserve and improve their standing with the citizens that they represent, not just special interest.

WHAT other publishers are saying

Local government officials say removing notices from newspapers saves money that can be spent on police and fire services. But they fail to say that these notices are a minuscule amount of their operating budgets. In one Michigan community, a $4 million budget pays $680 — .00017 of its budget — in a given year. These same groups have yet to show ANY verifiable data on the net cost savings on such legislation. Yet they have been successful in getting legislators in Lansing to consider such a measure.

Bill Speer, MPA president and Alpena News publisher

Efficient, reliable and accountable public notice is essential for the local governments of Michigan to move in sync with their taxpaying citizens and provide transparency. While the technology of information delivery continues to evolve and change, the responsibility of government to inform its constituents has not, and newspapers have adapted to the information age by developing websites that are visited far more often than governmental websites. Newspapers, as private businesses, have an incentive to provide their products and services at the lowest possible cost.

It's vital to protecting taxpayers' rights that Michigan governments maintain an independent third party platform for these notices to prove beyond the shadow of a doubt what notice was provided. With notices printed in a newspaper, if there are challenges, taxpayers would have an authentic record to use in court to force government to fix problems. Web-only posting would allow government to cover up mistakes because the internet is constantly changing — as are the platforms used to provide information — and can be corrupted by viruses and other tools used by hackers. The security of notices in a print publication combined with the online reach and accessibility of local newspaper websites will provide the public with the most secure and dynamic notice possible at competitive and reasonable cost.

Help us protect your rights, your property and your taxpayer dollars. Call your state legislators and urge them to vote no on HB 4183

The Michigan Press Association is committed to streamlining Michigan's Public Notice process with innovation to protect the integrity of these legal documents, while saving tax dollars and protecting taxpayer rights.

The 98th Legislature — members of the Michigan House of Representatives and the Senate — are listed on the linked document. The Michigan members of the 114th Congress are also listed. CHARLEVOIX
A MICHIGAN JOURNALS
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Right after the arrival of the railroad in 1892, the Chicago and West Michigan Railway announced plans for a grand hotel to accommodate its Charlevoix passengers.

The structure was originally to be located on farmland at the intersection of Mercer Boulevard and the Petoskey highway, now the municipal golf course's seventh tee and eighth green, with its own "special station" down by Lake Charlevoix.

But only after years of delay because of unknown factors did a hotel go up, over the winter of 1897-99, now placed on the terrace above the depot at the termination of East Dixon Avenue. What a hotel it was — four stories tall, a tenth of a mile long, porches totalling a quarter of a mile, 250 rooms capable of housing 800 guests and second in size in Michigan only to the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Charlevoix was awash in pride and awe. In the words from a postcard postmarked 1908: "... stopping (here) for a while, it is the grandest place you most ever saw."

The Inn, with all it had to offer, quickly became one of the premier resort destinations in the United States. But the increasing popularity of the automobile cut into railroad passenger numbers, the Inn had very little space for parking, then the Great Depression hit in late 1929, and the Inn suffered from all these factors.

By the end of the 1940 season it was all over.

The contents were auctioned off in late 1941, and what had once been the wonder of the age came down soon after.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Bev Boss recieves Zonta's 2015 Rose Day Award

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Zonta Club recognizes Bev Boss of Charlevoix as the recipient of Zonta's 2015 Rose Day Award.

Zonta's Rose Day celebrates women's achievements throughout history, across nations and in our local communities. Boss was selected for being an outstanding role model for women and girls, and for helping and caring in her community.

Boss has selflessly donated timeless hours to her community. Her many causes and activities include serving as the chairman for the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project, her work and service with the Charlevoix Food Pantry, the Breakfast Club at the Community Reformed Church, the Wednesday night dinners and many more activities where her caring and compassion were evident to all.

For many years, Boss was secretary at the Charlevoix Middle School where she played the role of "Mom" to teachers, staff and students alike. She and her husband, Herb, raised six children. Boss rode to the Venetian Parade, honored as Citizen of the Year.

Boss truly cares about the Charlevoix community, as evidenced by the people whose lives she touched through her multitude of good works.

A contribution has been made to Zonta's International Rose Foundation in her honor.

International Women's Day is annually held on March 8 to celebrate women's achievements throughout history and across nations. It is also known as the United Nations (UN) Day for Women's Rights and International Peace.

EAST JORDAN — Charlevoix Area Hospital's next Wellness Wednesday will be from 8 to 11 a.m. on Wednesday, March 18, at Jordan Valley Rehabilitation Center, 100 Main St. in East Jordan.

The Wellness Wednesday Health Screens include total cholesterol, HDL, TC/HDL ratio, glucose level, body mass index (BMI) score, fat percentage, and a blood pressure reading. No fasting required. However, if you are fasting an LDL and triglyceride reading can also be obtained. Cost for the service is $15. Hemoglobin A1C levels can also be done for known or borderline diabetics for an additional $5. Participants will receive a blood pressure log and all test results at the time of the screening.

No appointment is necessary and a registered nurse will adapt health consultation and educational materials to individual results.

For more information, call the community health education office at Charlevoix Area Hospital at (231) 547-8906 or by email at communityhealth@cah.org.

Leadership Charlevoix County Class of 2015 collaborates to build trail head owned by East Jordan

CHARLEVOIX — Leadership Charlevoix County's Class of 2015 has announced it will be doing a community service project in collaboration with the City of East Jordan and the Little Traverse Conservancy. The 2015 Class will be building a trailhead on the north side of the nature preserve owned by the City of East Jordan.

"In an effort to draw visitors to the area and bring awareness to the land conservancy, we're partnering with the Little Traverse Conservancy and the City of East Jordan to provide a safe place to park at an easily accessible trailhead within walking distance of downtown," said Nick Pulver, a member of LCC's Class of 2015. "The area will be outfitted with benches and signs that will define the use of the trail, and it will be lined with re-purposed, natural boulders."

Pulver added that the new Rogers Family Homestead North

Trailhead will allow access to the picturesque hiking trail that is now only accessible at the southwest edge of Rogers Family Homestead Nature Preserve, located on Rogers Road approximately three miles from East Jordan.

Fundraising for this project has begun and donations are needed in order for Leadership Charlevoix County to reach its goal. Funding needed for this project may reach as high as $7,500.

"That means community support is vital to our success," said Amy Wieland, a fellow LCC member. "We're grateful for the opportunity to give back to the community, while applying skills we've gained through Leadership Charlevoix County."

Fundraising opportunities, donations and presentations to local organizations can be arranged by contacting Justin Weisler, 2015

Class member, at (231) 350-0224 or by email at jsweisler@hotmail.com.

Developed in 2011, Leadership Charlevoix County is a nine-month program that exposes emerging leaders to various aspects of the county, ranging from government to human services agencies, and from environmental issues to philanthropy. In addition, participants are teamed with a community mentor and the class takes on a community service project. It is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, sponsored by the Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan Area Chambers of Commerce with support from the Beaver Island Chamber and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

More information about the program can be found at www.leadershipcharlevoixcounty.com or by contacting leadershipcharlevoixcounty@gmail.com.

BookTalkers to discuss Tigers' pitcher Mark Fidrych bio

CHARLEVOIX — BookTalkers, the Charlevoix Public Library's book discussion group, is reading "The Bird: The Life and Legacy of Mark Fidrych," by Doug Wilson, and will host a discussion at 6 p.m. on Monday, March 16, in the Armstrong Conference Room.

In the summer of 1976, America was enthralled by a tall, lanky, curly-haired young pitcher for the Detroit Tigers whose resemblance to Big Bird gave him a lasting nickname. As with all meteors, Fidrych faded rapidly. Injuries hampered him, but his legend has not died. Timothy L. Wilson tells the Bird's story in this biography of the Massachusetts native whose antics included tending to his own pitching mound during games and allegedly talking to the baseball, and whose career and life ended too soon.

BookTalkers is a group of readers who love to read different books that may challenge or delight. They gather monthly for lively discussions at 6 p.m. on the third Monday of each month. New members are always welcome.

On April 20, the group will be discussing the book "The Expats," by Chris Pavone. On May 18, the book will be "Being Mortal," by surgeon and journalist Atul Gawande.

For discussion questions, visit the book discussion page on the library's website charlevoixlibrary.org > books-movies-music > book-discussions.

For more information about the discussions, call the library at (231) 237-7340.

East Jordan Lions Club accepting Mother of the Year nominations

CHARLEVOIX — The East Jordan Lions Club is seeking nominations for the 2015 East Jordan Mother of the Year award.

Nominations should be submitted with a brief — 200 words or less — summary of why the individual is worthy of this honor. Nominations submitted in 2014, also will be considered for the 2015 award. The deadline for "Mother of the Year" nominations is Friday, April 17.

Nominations should be mailed to East Jordan Lions Club, P.O. Box 845, East Jordan, MI 49727.

The club will host the annual Mother/Daughter Banquet at 6 p.m., on Saturday, May 9, at the East Jordan High School.

For more information, contact Sherry Pursell at (231) 536-7117.

Secretary of State reminds boat owners to renew their watercraft registration

LANSING — Secretary of State Ruth Johnson reminds boat owners of the ease and convenience of renewing their watercraft registration online at ExpressSOS.com as her office begins sending out more than 252,000 watercraft renewal notices.

"I encourage all boat owners to renew online," Johnson said. "Where would you rather be, preparing your boat for a fun-filled season on the lake, or renewing your registration in person? Renewing online is quick and easy, leaving you more time to enjoy your boat."

In 2014, more than 47,000 watercraft renewals were submitted online.

ExpressSOS.com offers two methods for renewal. Express Renewal is fast and easy, requiring only the boat's registration number to renew. Online Renewal PLUS lists all vehicles and watercraft eligible for renewal and lets customers complete other online transactions at the same time, such as changing an address or renewing a driver's license.

Nicki Polan, executive director of the Michigan Boating Industries Association, thanked Johnson for her efforts in making watercraft renewal convenient.

"Secretary Johnson is an avid outdoors enthusiast — she loves kayaking along Michigan's waterways and is a strong supporter of the state's boating industry," Polan said. "Her goal is to provide the best SOS customer services possible, making it easy and fast for boaters to renew their registrations online is just one example, the Mobile Office at our boat shows is another."

Watercraft renewals also may be completed by mail or at a Secretary of State office. A change of address may be submitted when renewing online, by mail or at an office. Renewals involving a change in name or watercraft information must be completed at an office.

Discover, MasterCard and Visa debit and credit cards are accepted when renewing online, by mail or at an office. Cash and checks are accepted at all offices.

In Michigan, there are nearly 900,000 registered watercraft. Registrations are issued for three years and expire on March 31 of the third year.

All watercraft on Michigan waters, including privately owned lakes and waterways, must be registered except for: — Watercraft 16 feet or less, propelled by oars or paddles that are not used for rental or commercial purposes.

— Non motorized canoes and kayaks not used for rental or commercial purposes.

— Rafts, surfboards, sail-boards and swim floats, regardless of length.

— Watercraft registered in another state and used only temporarily in Michigan.

A boating safety certificate is required to operate a personal watercraft for anyone born after Dec. 31, 1978. Personal watercraft operators must be at least 16 years old. Children ages 14 to 15 may operate one if they are accompanied by a parent, guardian or designated adult age 21 or older, or if they are operating one within 100 feet of a parent, legal guardian or designated adult age 21 or older.

Consumer's Energy warns customers about pre-paid credit card scam

MICHIGAN — Consumers Energy is warning customers about a scam that includes a high-pressure demand for quick utility payments over the phone using a prepaid credit card.

"Imposters are ramping up efforts in Michigan and elsewhere. They have begun focusing their criminal efforts on small commercial customers such as restaurants and grocery stores," said Michael Williams, Consumers Energy's director of corporate security. "We are actively working with law enforcement to protect our customers, but the best defense is to be aware of the scam and avoid becoming a victim."

In just the first two months of 2015, customers have reported 241 impersonations. Consumers Energy is aware that 10 customers have turned over nearly $13,000 to the criminals.

Consumers Energy never demands payment using only a pre-paid credit card, and the energy provider is telling its customers to never pay over the phone using a Green Dot card or other pre-paid credit card. In addition, customers should never give personal information or money over the phone to anyone they do not know.

"Our customers should know that we will not contact them to request personal information and demand payment or be shut off within a certain time period," Williams said.

Business or residential customers who believe they may have been victims of this scam or who have related concerns should call Consumers Energy at 1 (800) 477-5050.

Consumers Energy has a

Michigan County Road Association: Majority of county roads in poor or fair condition

LANSING — The County Road Association of Michigan announced the return of pothole season as the first counties implement seasonal weight restrictions — temporary reductions in commercial vehicle weights intended to protect Michigan roads.

"As temperatures warm up this week and frost starts to leave the ground, weight restrictions are a sure sign that pothole season has returned to Michigan," said County Road Association of Michigan director Denise Donohue. "Due to the unusually deep frost this winter we're expecting a bumper crop of potholes."

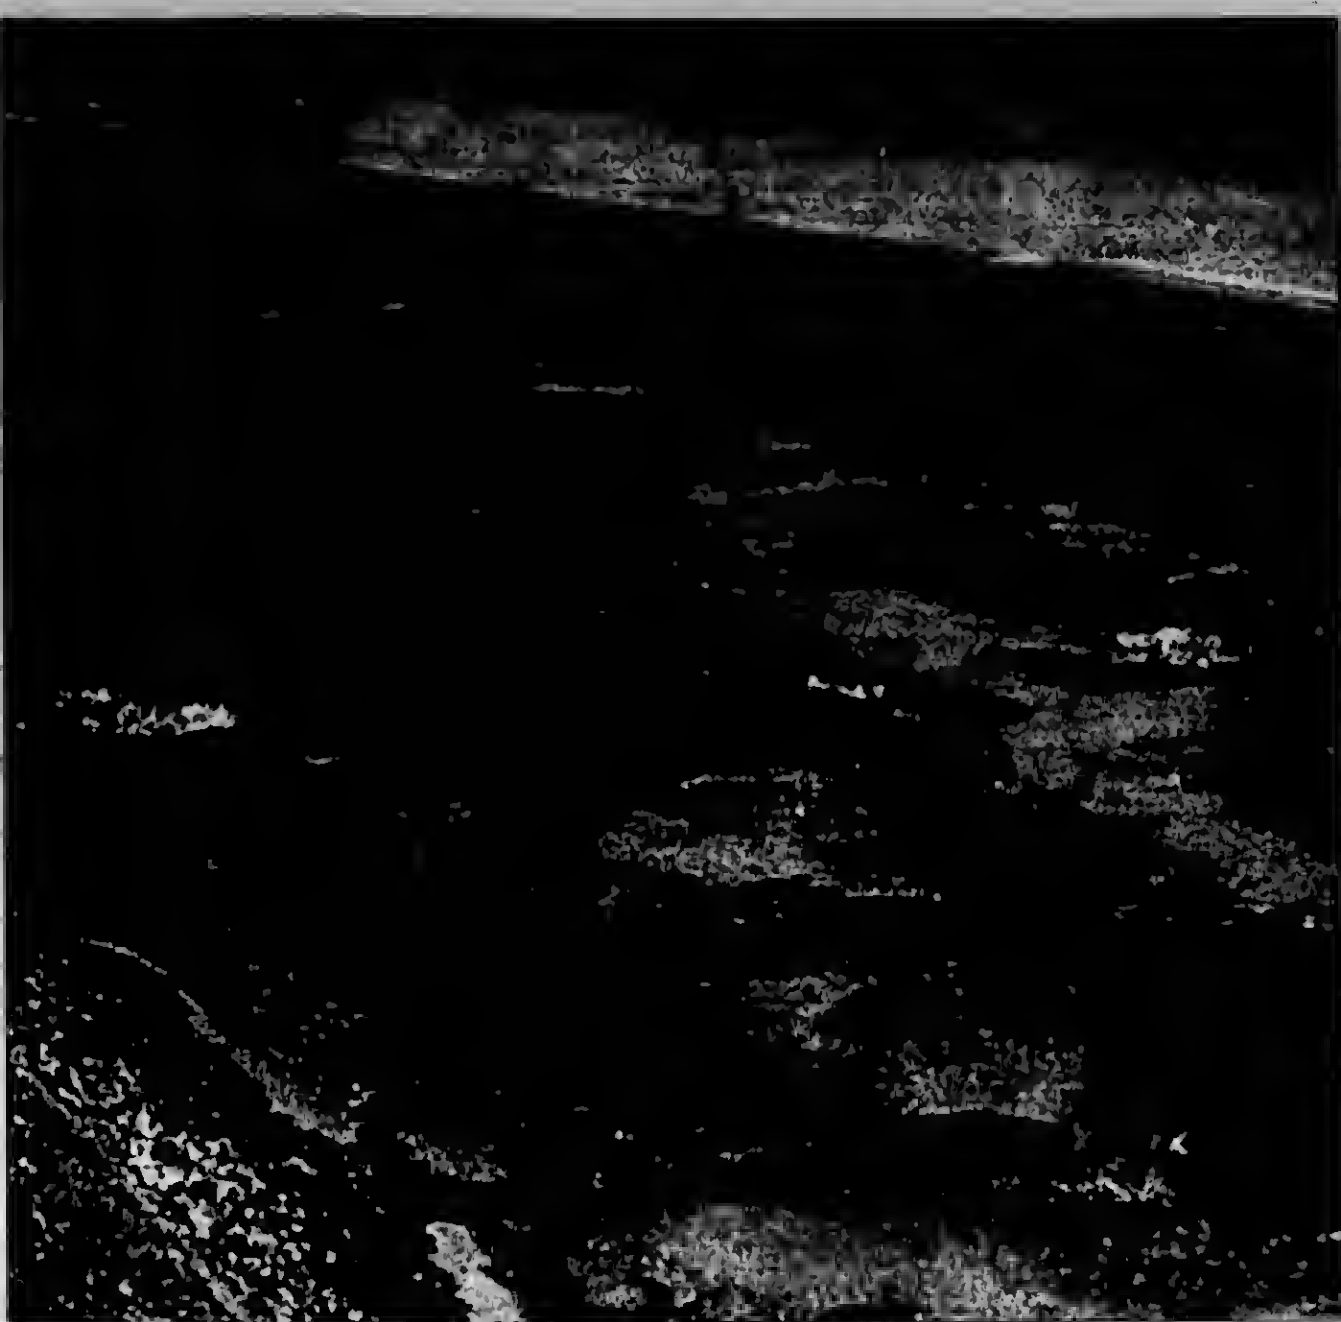

According to the Michigan Transportation Asset Management Council, 83 percent of Michigan roads are in poor or fair condition. These already-deteriorated roads are at their most vulnerable condition as frost is leaving the ground.

"Even with weight restrictions, roads take a big hit each year," Donohue said. "State and local road agencies have been putting band-aid fixes on our road system to keep it held together until adequate revenue becomes available. With the passage of Proposal 1 in May, they can stop the bleeding."

If approved by voters on May 5, Proposal 1 will provide for the enactment of laws that within 3 years will give state and local road agencies an additional $1.2 billion in constitutionally-guaranteed revenue annually to fix roads and bridges.

"As you drive throughout the state in coming weeks expect to see crews out patching potholes," Donohue said. "The reality is as one hole is filled another will open up during this freeze/thaw period of spring. Just like when roads are covered with snow and ice, motorists must take responsibility for their safety and slow down to avoid potholes."

all types of roads, seasonal weight restrictions only apply to roads not built for heavy truck traffic; that is a large portion of our county road network. The County Road Association offers the following information to help the public understand what we in Michigan now refer to as "pothole season."

What are seasonal weight restrictions, also called, frost laws?

Seasonal weight restrictions or frost laws are designed to protect Michigan's local roads from excess weight at times when they are most vulnerable to damage. State law allows MDOT, counties and municipalities to reduce truck weights and speeds on roads that are not built to accommodate heavy truck traffic. During the weight restriction period trucks traveling on "posted/restricted" roads must reduce speeds to 35 m.p.h. and carry lighter loads. This means a 25 percent reduction on concrete roads and 35 percent reduction on asphalt or gravel roads.

What causes potholes?

A pothole begins with moisture seeping into the soil below the surface. When the moisture freezes it expands and pushes the pavement up. As the days become warmer and frost leaves the ground, the ground returns to normal, but the pavement remains elevated, creating a gap between the pavement and the ground below it. When vehicles drive over these gaps the pavement surface cracks and falls into the hollow space.

Avoiding Potholes — Adopt Safe Driving Practices:

— Keep your tires properly inflated to manufacturer recommendation. Over and underinflated tires are more susceptible to damage.

— Have a clean windshield! Your field of vision is critical.

— Reduce your speed on roads that are prone to potholes.

— Use caution when driving over a puddle of water as it may be hiding a pothole.

— Stay focused and pay attention to traffic in front, behind and alongside you. You might be able to avoid potholes but do not want to cause an accident while doing so.

— If you can't avoid a pothole, slow down before you hit it. But don't brake directly over a pothole which can actually cause more damage and never slam on your brakes.

— When driving over a pothole, hold the steering wheel firmly to avoid losing control.

— As a general rule, don't cross the centerline or leave the paved road surface to avoid a pothole.

Information for Commercial Vehicles

The County Road Association provides help for commercial vehicles to comply with weight restrictions at micountyroads.org/weight.php. The site is updated daily as restrictions are added and removed around the state.

Michigan law requires road agencies to enact and remove seasonal weight restrictions in March, April and May, or whenever conditions warrant. On average, the restriction period is approximately four to six weeks.

The County Road Association of Michigan represents the state's 83 county road agencies that collectively maintain 73 percent of Michigan's road system, representing more than 90,000 miles of roads and 5,700 bridges. Michigan has the fourth largest local road system in the nation.

U.S. Commerce Committee passes bill with Peters Amendment to protect Great Lakes from Invasive Species

WASHINGTON, D.C. — An amendment offered by U.S. Sen. Gary Peters to protect the Great Lakes from invasive species transported via ballast water of seafaring ships was included in the Vessel Incidental Discharge Act (VIDA) that passed the Senate Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee with bipartisan support. Peters' amendment would amend VIDA to require vessels entering the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence Seaway to flush their ballast water tanks before entry.

"The Great Lakes are an integral part of Michigan's economy, supporting thousands of jobs in our state's fishing, agriculture and tourism industries," Peters said. "Threats from contamination and invasive species put Michigan's economic and environmental health at risk, and we must do everything we can to safeguard our Great Lakes for years to come. This amendment will help protect the Great Lakes and promote a strong economic future for Michigan."

Peters' amendment would require the Coast Guard to ensure that vessels entering the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence Seaway exchange their ballast water while still at sea and flush their tanks before entry, which will help prevent invasive species from entering the Great Lakes. These best management practices are proven, effective techniques to reduce the risk of invasive species transfer from ballast water and should be maintained.

"Ballast is the leading way for aquatic invaders to gain entry to the Great Lakes. Preventing these organisms from gaining entry and getting established is the only way to truly protect our waters. We support Senator Peters' amendment," said Dan Wyant, director of Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

Ballast water is taken onto or discharged from a ship as it loads or unloads cargo to accommodate changes in the ship's weight. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, 30 percent of aquatic invasive species were introduced into the Great Lakes through ballast water discharges.

Invasive species, such as the zebra mussel, threaten the Great Lakes, and the shipping, tourism and agriculture industries the Great Lakes support, by disrupting food chains, interfering with power plants and water treatment facilities and even increasing algae production that can have harmful health affects for humans, fish and wildlife.

Peters has long been a strong advocate for Michigan's Great Lakes and the thousands of shipping, tourism and agriculture jobs supported by the Great Lakes. He is a member of the Senate Great Lakes Task Force, and he has aggressively fought for funding for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative. He recently co-

Fishing on Lake Michigan

sponsored the Great Lakes Ecological and Economic Protection Act (GLEEPA), which would bolster ongoing efforts to protect and restore the Great Lakes.

Bald eagle management plan at midway point

JACKSON — Beneficial habitat created by Consumers Energy dams helped bald eagles in 2014 reach a record 750 breeding pairs in Michigan, the company said recently.

"Many of the eagles soaring over Michigan today trace their roots to eagles that nested near Tippy Dam and other hydro facilities Consumers Energy operates along the Manistee, Au Sable and Muskegon rivers," said Gary Dawson, director of land and water policy at Consumers Energy.

The dams create backwater habitat where eagles can find secluded nesting sites and plenty of fish that are safe for them to eat, the company said.

The areas around hydro reservoirs provided critical bald eagle refuges when chemicals such as PCB and DDT, banned in the 1970s, severely reduced the eagle population across Michigan and the continental U.S. That's because dams block toxins transported by migrating Great Lakes fish from affecting eagles foraging above the dams.

Eagles feeding above the dams, where fish were up to a hundred times less contaminated than fish below the dams, were able to produce young. A bald eagle diet is 90 percent fish.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service estimates that in 1963 only 487 nesting pairs of eagles remained in the 48 contiguous states. A significant number of the survivors in Michigan were found on inland lakes and hydro reservoirs in the northern lower part of the state and the Upper Peninsula.

After the chemical bans, offspring of the eagles that had persisted around hydro facilities were able to spread to other areas of the state and set up breeding territories.

Bald eagles have fledged 270 young around Consumers Energy hydros since 1994 when the company implemented a bald eagle management plan, part of an agreement with regulators to operate river hydro generating facilities, the company said.

"Hydro facilities remain important eagle breeding areas today. While contaminants in fish below the dams have declined substantially over the last two decades, PCB concentrations still exceed EPA's standard for the protection of eagles and other sensitive wildlife," Dawson said. "We are at the midway point in our 40-year bald eagle management plan, and the birds have responded spectacularly."

The 750 bald eagle breeding pairs in Michigan estimated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is the highest number since their census has been taken, and they are now commonly seen throughout the Great Lakes state.

"The recovery is ongoing," Dawson said. "Michigan will likely see a new record high number of eagles next year."

Highlights of Consumers Energy's bald eagle management plan include:

- Protecting old growth white pines.
- Establishing a protection zone to minimize disturbance for each nest.
- Protecting the eagles' food supply.
- Contributing to eagle productivity census flights.
- Successfully exceeding productivity goal of 1.0 eagles fledged per nest.
- Successfully added new breeding territories which has increased annual eagle productivity on the hydros by more than 50 percent.
- Established eagle territory at Hardy impoundment where none had existed.
- Increased breeding territories at Cooke, Loud, Mio, and Tippy hydros.

Consumers Energy, Michigan's largest utility, is the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy (NYSE: CMS), providing natural gas and electricity to 6.6 million of the state's 10 million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Charlevoix Middle/High School to host Northern Michigan College Night March 19

CHARLEVOIX — Choosing which college to go to can be daunting for high school seniors and parents, but for one night in March that process has been streamlined for family convenience.

Students and parents will have a unique opportunity to explore a wide variety of higher education options at the Annual Northern Michigan College Night from 6:30-8:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 19, at Charlevoix Middle/High School, 5200 Marion Center Road, in Charlevoix.

Designed for high school students and their families, College Night introduces students and their parents to representatives from approximately 50 post-secondary institutions.

Participants will receive important information about educational planning, gather literature, speak one-on-one with representatives from these institutions, and visit displays from various colleges, universities, trade schools, and the armed forces.

For more information, students may contact Charlevoix Middle/High School at (231) 547-8206.

Zontas to host annual Literary Delights Luncheon

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club will host its annual Literary Delights, a Michigan Women Authors' Luncheon, from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. on Saturday, May 16, at the Charlevoix Public Library, in Charlevoix.

Tickets for the event are $40 per person and include a catered lunch and basket raffle drawings. For more information or to purchase a ticket for the event, contact Joy Halverson at (231) 547-4813. Reservations are required.

Three Michigan women authors, Sue Stauffacher, Stephanie Amada and Kathy Paterka will speak at the event and have copies of their books available for sale and signing. All proceeds of the event will go to support projects to advance the status of women locally, nationally and internationally, including the Sights of Success event, which is a free, day-long event offered to middle school girls to build teamwork, self esteem and confidence.

The featured author for February is Sue Stauffacher. Sue is the mother of two sons and lives with her husband, Roger, in Grand Rapids. She earned her B.A. from Carnegie Mellon University and her Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing from the University of Arizona before returning to Michigan in 1992.

In addition to writing books, she has worked as a creativity coach, a journalist, a literacy consultant, a program administrator, a book reviewer and a teacher. Stauffacher is passionate about the welfare of children at-risk, as evidenced by two decades of advocacy projects such as Wireman comics. She also has an animal rescue team book series and produced a musical based on her picture book, Bessie Smith and the Night Riders. Stauffacher believes that kids have many opportunities to interact with media, but not as many to work with creative professionals. She loves to bring books alive, get kids involved in the creative process and encourage them to dream.

Charlevoix Library presents quickbooks intro class

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library is offering an introduction to the software, QuickBooks: Just the Basics at 6 p.m. on Monday, March 23.

The short session will be offered by Rick Malamed — an information technology person for Tip of the Mitt. He will focus on the basics of the software program and how it works within the business environment. Quick Books is financial management software that is designed for all sizes and types of businesses.

Please register for this class by visiting the library website charlevoixlibrary.org, calendar or call (231) 237-7340.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF WHAT YOU KNOW

Government has the power to force citizens from their homes and decide where to locate hazardous facilities. It has the power to confiscate your property or throw you in jail.

That's a lot of power.

Your government claims it can save money by posting notices about tax increases, property seizure and new spending on its website. That seems well-intentioned. But doing that creates a system where government is in control of what you know. And there are plenty of other ways they can save money without putting taxpayer rights at risk.

Right now your newspaper prints these notices on pages independent of government control. Their pages can't be "hacked," disappear during a power outage or quietly updated to hide a mistake. These newspaper pages prove beyond the shadow of a doubt what government did, when it did it, how it did it and where citizens can learn more about the matter. They are proof-positive legal documents. They protect your rights.

Government websites put government in control of what we know. Citizens need an independent check and balance on the government that's supposed to serve them. Public notices in newspapers provide that.

DON'T LET GOVERNMENT CONTROL WHAT YOU KNOW.

EXPO FROM A1

Charlevoix County," Hubbard said. "This is an event for small business owners and executives who want to gain a competitive advantage, network with other business owners from throughout the area and develop new business and client contacts."

In 2009, Mark Greyerbiehl, with Ace Hardware and his wife, Vicki, joined the chamber board of directors and helped bring the business expo back after the event was abandoned by the chamber, because of a lack of participation.

"Vicky and I helped with several start up business expos for the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce," Greyerbiehl said. "Seeing the great results in those communities we felt it was imperative to help the chamber develop a similar expo in the Charlevoix area."

The expo idea is simple, allow all types of businesses the opportunity to get together in one place and showcase themselves both in a business-to-business setting and to the general public, Greyerbiehl said.

"All types of businesses such as retail, service, industrial, manufacturing and even non-profits can benefit from this one of a kind get together to formally introduce themselves and their business," he said. "It's a great to come together in one spot and display your business for the area residents."

Now in its fifth year, the annual expo has been streamlined from two days to a three-hour evening event.

"We were not seeing a large turnout the second day," Hubbard said. "The feedback that was received by last year's attendees and participants seemed to show this would be a better approach for everyone."

The event also shines a light on some culinary goods and services in Charlevoix County. The Taste of Charlevoix portion of the expo will feature samples from American Spoon Foods, Bella Vita, Bridge Street Tap Room, Cherry Republic, Cre8tive Cupcake, Grey Gables Inn Restaurant, Kelsey's Lakeside Grille, Pigs Eat'n' Ribs, Odawa Casino and Smoke on the Water.

Admission is $5 and includes 10 taste tickets, a expo goody bag, give-a-ways, the chance to win prizes and more, Hubbard said.

New this year will be the Chamber Basket Raffle. Attendees may purchase tickets for the chance to win a "basket" of their choosing, which are filled with a variety of unique items provided by area businesses. Baskets will be on display throughout the event for everyone to view. Raffle proceeds will benefit the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Scholarship Fund, which is awarded to a graduating Charlevoix High School Senior each year.

"It's a fun way to support a scholarship for a local high school senior," Hubbard said.

Kidney Foundation urges Take Five for National Kidney Month

ANN ARBOR — March is National Kidney Month and March 12, 2015 is World Kidney Day. The National Kidney Foundation of Michigan is calling on all Michiganders to take five healthy steps for their kidneys. More than 900,000 Michigan adults have chronic kidney disease and most don't know it. In most cases, chronic kidney disease can be managed or prevented to delay the onset of other health complications.

The kidneys are the body's chemical factories, filtering waste and performing vital functions that control things like red blood cell production and blood pressure. But over time, the kidneys can become damaged with little or no physical symptoms to warn you that your kidneys are in trouble.

"Of the 26 million American adults estimated to have kidney disease, most don't know they have it. That's why taking care of your kidneys, especially if you are at risk for kidney disease, is vital," said Joseph Vassalotti, MD, National Kidney Foundation Chief Medical Officer. "There are a few simple things people can do to keep their kidneys healthy and strong."

The National Kidney Foundation of Michigan urges residents to do five simple things to protect their kidneys:

— 1. Get tested. Ask your doctor for an ACR urine test or a GFR blood test annually if you have diabetes, high blood pressure, are over age 60, or have a family history of kidney failure.

— 2. Reduce NSAIDs. Over the counter pain medicines, such as NSAIDs (non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs), may alleviate your aches and pains, but they can harm the kidneys, especially if you already have kidney disease. Reduce your regular use of NSAIDs and never go over the recommended dosage.

— 3. Cut the processed foods. Processed foods can be significant sources of sodium, nitrates and phosphates, and have been linked to cancer, heart disease and kidney disease. Try adopting the DASH diet (Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension) to guide your healthy eating habits.

— 4. Exercise regularly. Your kidneys like it when you exercise. Regular exercise will keep your bones, muscles, blood vessels, heart and kidneys healthy. Getting active for at least 30 minutes a day can also help you control blood pressure and lower blood sugar, which is vital to kidney health.

— 5. Stay Well Hydrated. Staying well hydrated helps your kidneys clear sodium, urea and toxins from the body. Drinking plenty of water, and avoiding sugary beverages, is also one of the best ways to avoid painful kidney stones. Those with kidney problems or kidney failure may need to restrict their fluid intake, but for most people, drinking 1.5 to 2 liters (three to four pints) of water per day is a healthy target.

Throughout National Kidney Month, the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan is offering resources, community events, and more. To find a local program or event near you, or to learn more about the risk factors for kidney disease, visit nkfm.org/KidneyMonth.

Hovie, Alden earn all-state honors at state finals

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343
jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

AUBURN HILLS — Last season, Charlevoix wrestler Sam Hovie enjoyed his first trip to the individual state finals, while teammate Camden Alden and Petoskey wrestler Gage Paul wrapped up promising freshman campaigns.

Last weekend, all three made good on the promise they showed last year by not only reaching the individual state finals at the Palace of Auburn Hills, but wrestling their way to all-state honors at the tournament.

Hovie, a senior, made the state finals last season but didn't place. Despite an injury-plagued campaign that saw him start the season late and a brutal district and regional bracket in his weight class, Hovie came through all obstacles to return to the state final.

Wrestling at 160 pounds in Division 4, Hovie upset Erik Blirchmeyer of New Lothrop in a 5-2 decision in his first match on Thursday, before dropping a 10-3 decision to Trevor Humphrey of Manchester in the quarterfinal match.

Dropped into the consolation bracket, Hovie beat Zack Towoe of Saginaw Michigan Lutheran Seminary in a 9-6 decision before upsetting Chris Gillissie, a wrestler he had lost to four times this year, in a narrow 3-2 decision.

Hovie fell to Taylor Bonetti of Norway in a 7-3 decision in the consolation semifinal, but beat Mason Lawson of Gohles 2-0 in his final match to secure fifth place.

"Sam had an uphill battle this season, fighting back from a devastating football injury and a major operation late last fall," Charlevoix coach Mick Hinkle said. "He came all the way back and took fifth in the state, which is impressive."

While Hovie closed out his career with all-state honors, teammate Camden Alden also made the podium at 125 pounds to serve notice to the state for the next two seasons.

The Charlevoix sophomore lost a narrow 4-3 decision to Robert Rogers of Burton Bentley to start the tournament, but rebounded in the consolation bracket, taking a 7-4 decision over Wesley Dishro of Bronson and a 9-4 decision over Tyler Roberts of Hudson to lock up all-state honors.

Alden finished the tournament with one-point losses to Jimmy Spencer of Rogers City and Spencer Fox of Schoolcraft to settle for eighth place.

Charlevoix's other two qualifiers, junior Mick Hinkle and senior Spencer Bruce, fell short of all-state honors.

Hinkle, at 189 pounds, was pinned by Decatur's Cole Southworth in 1:28, and lost a 4-0 decision to Hudson's Tylor Grames in the consolation bracket.

Bruce, wrestling at 215, was pinned by eventual state runner-up Kevin Koenig of Laingsburg in 1:59, and then lost to Lutheran Westland's Thomas Kruger by fall, in 1:28, in the consolation bracket.

"I'm proud of all four wrestlers," Hinkle said. "It's a very difficult task just to make it to the state final, and in fact Cam Alden's goal was just to get here."

"To finish in the top 8 was just icing on the cake, and all of these guys accomplished something major just by being here."

The Hard Way: Rambler starters weather storm against Charlevoix in district opener

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343
jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

EAST JORDAN — Rival Charlevoix made sure a district opening victory didn't come easy for the Boyne City boys basketball team.

But despite a tough opponent and an injury that knocked senior Corey Redman out of the game for most of the second half, Boyne City's experienced core found a way to hold on for a 58-48 victory on Monday in East Jordan.

The Ramblers entered the fourth quarter with a 34-26 lead, but Charlevoix came roaring back, cutting the Boyne City lead to five numerous times.

Every time the Rayders closed the gap, however, Boyne City starters Tanner Kruzel, Cole Butler, and Zach Napont had an answer at the other end to keep the Ramblers ahead.

The trio combined for 20 of Boyne City's 24 points in the final quarter.

"I was so proud of them to persevere through that; those are the games you usually lose," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "We didn't play a smart game, and Charlevoix played extremely hard tonight, hats off to them."

"We just got in a situation where we had to find a way and our guys came through for us."

Kruzel led the Ramblers with 20 points, 14 in the first half, as Boyne City closed the first quarter on a 9-0 run and took a double-digit lead into halftime.

Much of Boyne City's offense came off its defense, as the Ramblers forced turnovers and turned them in layups at the other end to build its advantage.

Rayders fall to red-hot Rams in district final

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

BOYNE CITY — It's easy to forget now, but at one point this season the Harbor Springs girls basketball team was 1-5 and struggling.

Despite that rocky start, first-year coach Tom Brogger and his players refused to stop believing in their potential.

That patience was rewarded, as the Rams hit their stride down the stretch, winning 14 of their last 17 games and rolling to the program's first district title since 2011 with a 53-41 win over Charlevoix in the Class C final Friday at Boyne City.

"Thinking back to the beginning of the season, and then looking at where we are now, it's the greatest feeling in the world," Brogger said. "There might have been a little concern due to the start, but I think we knew what we had, and I don't think we ever stopped believing that we would get to this point."

Brogger's top goal when he began his second stint as head coach at Harbor Springs in September, replacing his daughter, Jennifer Foley, was to meld a cast of five returning players with several strong junior varsity call-ups into a cohesive team.

That project's success showed its benefits early in the district final, as senior returner Sophie Seitz and sophomore newcomer Haley Rushing hit back-to-back 3-pointers to turn a 6-5 deficit into an 11-6 Harbor Springs lead at the end of the first quarter.

That unity also showed itself in the scorebook, as Perry Bower, a senior with previous varsity experience, and Harmony Lang, a junior who was on the JV last year, each scored 10 points to lead the Rams.

Although Harbor Springs' unity made it a fearsome foe on the court, their district final opponent, Charlevoix, didn't go down easily.

The Rayders came out swinging, jumping out to a 6-1 lead early in the first.

After Rushing and Seitz's 3-pointers pushed the Rams ahead, continued to hang with Harbor Springs for through the end of the third quarter, trailing 22-20 at the half and 40-36 entering the fourth.

Seniors Alexis Tribfeller and Olivia Storm led Charlevoix with 13 and 12 points, respectively, making tough shot after tough shot to help the Rayders compete.

Bower led the Rams early, scoring six of her 10 points in the first half and making a layup at the buzzer to send Harbor Springs into the half with a lead.

With the game close in the fourth, Harbor Springs junior Alexa Jensen-Philbrick scored seven of her eight points down the stretch, and back to back and-one opportunities created by Grawey and Libby Sylvain on the offensive glass for the Rams helped them pull away.

Charlevoix also suffered through a three-minute drought to start the fourth quarter that proved costly to their chances.

"Trib(felner) just played her heart out, and it's hard when you have to ask a player to be out there every second of the game and going that hard," Shaw said. "She runs our offense, and we just didn't have the depth to give her a rest, and we just wore down late."

The title is Harbor Springs' first since 2011, and it's the second time Brogger has coached the Rams to a district title in his first year on the job, as he had won a title a decade ago after stepping in for Nancy Page.

Charlevoix, meanwhile, graduates seven seniors off this year's team, which battled through season-ending injuries to starters Maddie Boss and Kelsey Engstrom and rotation player Grace Sutherland to finish 11-11 and come up just short of repeating as district champion.

"I just couldn't be prouder of how our players handled the adversity and came through," Shaw said. "We relied so much on Maddie and Kelsey's points last year, but one at a time, every one of our girls stepped up and helped us find a way."

"It was a true team atmosphere, one that I'll never forget and I'll always be grateful to have been a part of."

That offense, however, ground to a halt in the third quarter, as Boyne City struggled with turnovers of its own in a third quarter where it scored just two points and let the Rayders back in the game.

"We talked at halftime that the defense we played was going to define our season, and it played a big part," Redman said. "At the same time, you've got to score points, and two points in a quarter is just not enough on most nights."

After a rough first half the Rayders found their footing in the second behind junior Austin Putman, who scored 17 of his 22 points in the third and fourth quarters to give Charlevoix a chance.

"We knew that Austin would come back big in the second half after struggling early because that's the kind of kid he is," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said.

"The only guy I've seen this year who works as hard in the post as Austin does was on the other side tonight in Kruzel, and I think you saw that in the way both of them played with the game on the line."

Senior Nate Moon chipped in seven points and sophomore Kevin Pearl added six for the Rayders, who adjusted their offensive gameplan slightly in the second half.

"We saw pretty early on with the way the balls were coming off the rims that we weren't going to get much shooting from outside," Erskine said. "We made a conscious effort to attack the basket and work the ball inside, and I think that helped.

"Ultimately, we just dug ourselves too big a hole early."

Napont chipped in 10 points for Boyne City, Butler added nine and Dalton Gardner eight for the Ramblers, for whom Erskine had high praise after the game.

"Boyne City really deserves the credit; they're a great team," Erskine said. "They were better than us in the regular season and they were better than us tonight."

"We came out and threw everything we had at them to try and win this one, and they were just too much in the end. I'm proud of my guys for leaving it all on the floor and giving it their best in spite of the result."

Charlevoix finishes the season 12-9, and bids farewell to seven seniors, including starters Moon and Will Telgenhof.

"The biggest thing we're going to miss is their camaraderie; just the way they related to each other and their other teammates and the way they kept all of our spirits up and kept us focused," Erskine said. "You don't go from 0-5 to what we became without leaders who believe in themselves and what we're doing, and it's going to be hard knowing we'll never get another practice."

"This has been a great group to work with, players, parents and fans, and I'm proud of all of them and what we were able to accomplish."

NORTHERN MICHIGAN — Northern Pride is holding tryouts for its spring and summer girls travel basketball teams.

Players who are in sixth through 11th grade from northwest Michigan can try out Sunday, March 15, at Bellaire High School. Times for tryouts are as follows: sixth grade, 1-3 p.m.; seventh and eighth, 3:30-5:30 p.m.; and ninth-11th, 6-8 p.m.

Northern Pride provides an opportunity for girls to develop their skill and athleticism by introducing them to competitive basketball, trainers and an academy setting in order to take their game to the next level or help their school's teams.

Contact Paul Koepke at (231) 676-3559 or paulkoepke76@gmail.com or visit northernpride-sportsacademy.com for more information.

Using science or folklore to predict weather?

LOUISE ALLEN
12/30/2014 1:48pm

CHARLEVOIX — Weather forecasters the past week may have been looking at the day's spring, which started on Friday, March 20. But after such a long winter, the forecast for the day on the calendar is a spring, but temperature trends indicate it's still time to dress for winter.

"We are expecting a cold start to spring," said Tim Keyes, National Weather Service's winter forecast director. "The forecast for the spring is that the weather will keep on being cold, but we are expecting a cold start to spring."

Keyes said the weather will keep on being cold, but we are expecting a cold start to spring. "The forecast for the spring is that the weather will keep on being cold, but we are expecting a cold start to spring."

Birthday Bash fundraiser to benefit Women's Resource Center programs

PII DUSKIN - A birthdate clash (1948) almost betwixt the women, children and families (including programs) and served at the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan will be held at Whitecaps Resort, 105 N. 3rd St. on Wednesday, March 25, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Allday with the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan is warmly marked by a series of preexisting essential services, and those in Northern Michigan, the event is not a birthday party, but the inauguration of a new organization. The event celebrates the third March 25 birthday of several notable individuals and more importantly, raises needed dollars for the organization's programs and services which benefit thousands of disadvantaged minority youth.

"I ran through the Women Resource Center of Northern Michigan, and I realized that if there are we thought this Institute would be an interesting way to celebrate the birthday of a people who had played their own role in making America—and contributing to our way of life—what I said then Smith Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan was not directly it will be a true and bright and I think it was the dollar we hope to raise absolutely vital to the one."

Brush up on the importance of pet dental care

The problem with anesthesia-free pet dental cleaning

Most pet owners are aware of the dangers of poor dental health in their pets, chronic bad breath is probably the most striking one. But a big area of confusion is how best to have your pet's teeth cleaned. During National Pet Dental Health Month, it's important for pet owners to think about the risks involved with anesthesia-free dental scaling.

Plaque and tartar are caused by bacteria, these bacteria can circulate in the bloodstream and affect your pet's major organs, and rotten teeth can affect his ability to eat nutritious food. Some pet owners opt for anesthesia-free teeth cleaning because they believe it's less intrusive and less painful. But veterinary medicine holds that the risks you run with that kind of procedure are larger than any involved with anesthesia.

With a professional deep scaling done under anesthesia, the veterinarian can clean under the gum line, where the real problems are. Because the animal is sedated, the cleaning is more thorough and gentler. And the scaling instruments used on the teeth surfaces during non-anesthesia cleanings leave grooves that are susceptible to further bacteria development.

Contact your veterinarian about a professional dental cleaning if you notice these signs in your dog or cat:

- swollen red gums that bleed
- rotten-egg breath
- difficulty eating hard foods

Boyer City rallies past East Jordan to win district with heavy Charlevoix County flavor

JAMES KEITH/STAFF WRITER
2015

EAST JORDAN In a district heavy with Charlevoix County flavor, Boyer City rallied to defeat East Jordan in the final game of the season.

The Ramblers, who defeated Charlevoix in the semifinals, took the win in the final game of the season, 48-45, in a game that was a battle of attrition.

Boyer City senior Zach Napton (10) attacks the basket during the Ramblers' 48-45 win over East Jordan in a Class C district game Friday at East Jordan.

Against East Jordan, Boyer City kept its composure at the district level and used it to the advantage. In the final game of the season, the Ramblers rallied to defeat East Jordan in the final game of the season, 48-45, in a game that was a battle of attrition.

As a young member of parliament, I am making it my first task to get the top players—Dinesh Karthi, Rahul Dravid, and Mani Kanwar—back to the Ranji Trophy. What has to be done? I think it is a managerial issue. It is mismanaged.

So, I have thought we get the best of both worlds—hard and soft—because I have already, after winning 11 points in the Ranji Trophy, got the quarter-finals, which is a big thing for us. In Ranji, as always, the Ranjiders displayed equal amounts of resilience, competitiveness, heart and guts. As I have said, I will fight Ranji; but after the leading seven-point gain in the Ranji Trophy, the Ranjiders showed the leadership and the players emerged as the strongest unit.

Society

Since the founding of our nation, the role of newspapers in our democracy has been crystal clear. We have been, and will continue to be, the eyes and ears of the American people. After all, the right of free speech is meaningless if no one knows what's really going on. That's why more than 100 million Americans depend on their hometown newspapers daily and why today's newsmen are staffed with dedicated, highly trained reporters and experienced editors who bring you the very best of journalism found anywhere, in print and online.

Celebrate freedom. It's your right.

Our country's founders believed passionately in individual freedom — in the rights of citizens to be protected from a government that was too controlling.

Yet, centuries later, one in three Americans say they have too much freedom and half of American high schoolers said they think newspapers should not be able to publish stories without government approval.*

Those are disturbing figures.

The First Amendment helps provide for a "marketplace of ideas," so individuals may choose which ideas and concepts to question, embrace or reject.

First Amendment to the Constitution

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble; and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Freedom of ...

religion

The First Amendment prevents the government from establishing an official religion. There is no one true religion in America. People have different beliefs, and the government should not favor one religion over another. The First Amendment allows us to practice our religion in the way we want to.

speech

The First Amendment keeps the government from making laws that might stop us from saying what we think. People have the right to criticize the government and to share their opinions with others.

the press

We can get information from many different sources. The government cannot control what is printed in newspapers and books, broadcast on TV and radio or offered online. Citizens can request time on television to respond to news stories. If they disagree, they may write letters to newspaper editors. They can pass out leaflets that give their opinions. They can voice their opinions on personal Web pages.

assembly

Citizens can come together in public and private gatherings. They can join groups for political, religious, social or recreational purposes. By organizing to accomplish a common goal, citizens can spread their ideas more effectively.

right to petition

"To petition the government for a redress of grievances" means that citizens can ask for changes in the government. They can do this by collecting signatures and sending them to their elected representatives. They can write, call or e-mail their elected representatives. They can support groups that lobby the government.

The First Amendment. Keep it strong.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF WHAT YOU KNOW

Government has the power to force citizens from their homes and decide where its local government facilities. It has the power to confiscate your property or throw you in jail.

That's a lot of power.

It's trying to get more.

Your government claims it can save money by passing notices about tax increases, property seizure and now spending on its website. That seems well-intentioned. But doing that creates a system where government is in control of what you know. And there are plenty of other ways they can save money without putting taxpayer rights at risk.

Right now your newspaper prints these notices on pages independent of government control. Their pages don't get "redacted," disappear during a power outage or quickly updated to tell a mistake. These newspaper pages prove beyond the shadow of a doubt what government did, when it did it, how it did it and where citizens can learn more about the matter. They are proof-positive legal documents. They protect your rights.

Government websites put government in control of what you know. Citizens need an independent check and balance on the government that's supposed to serve them. Public notices in newspapers provide that.

DON'T LET GOVERNMENT CONTROL WHAT YOU KNOW.

City manager search

Field of candidates narrowed to top 10

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City Council met in an open and closed session on March 19, to begin reviewing applications for the vacant city manager position.

"We are working toward narrowing the list and today (Thursday) was our first opportunity to discuss the applications," said council member Shirley Gibson.

No action was taken in Thursday's meeting, but Patti DeRosia, Charlevoix human resource assistant, said the council was able to narrow the applications down to 10 leading candidates.

"We had 31 complete applications for this position," DeRosia said. "City Council requested a questionnaire to be sent to the leading candidates for more information."

Zoning holds up sign for brewing company

CHARLEVOIX — What is the difference between a canopy and an awning that has a business name on it? It appears to be about 15 feet difference with the size of a sign, according to the Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance.

On Monday, March 23, the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company presented the Downtown Development Authority with a chance to improve the aesthetics — at the expense of the brewing company — of the Bridge Park Building, at 109 Bridge Park Drive, which currently houses the Beaver Island Boat Company, Keweenaw Excursions and the brewery.

Bridge Street Tap Room general manager Phil Parr said the canopy would have the name of the brewing company printed across it, according to Charlevoix selected for next level of Main Street program

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — A community effort to revitalize downtown Charlevoix has reached an important milestone.

Gov. Rick Snyder announced on March 20, that Charlevoix was selected by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority to take part in the Michigan Main Street program.

Charlevoix was an associate-level member in the organization, which uses an approach to encourage community and economic development through organization, promotion, design and economic restructuring. There is no cost to joining Main Street, but employing a full-time Michigan Main Street manager is expected in each Main Street community.

Annie Doyle, Charlevoix's Community Economic Development director, will lead the city's Main Street program. As the former assistant planning and zoning director for Boyne City — a master level community in Main Street, Doyle understands the how Main Street will benefit Charlevoix.

"This is an exciting time for Charlevoix," Doyle said. "With the entire community working together we can see great things coming from this program."

As a full-fledged Michigan Main Street community, Charlevoix will receive five years of intensive technical assistance, through the Michigan Main Street program, with a focus on revitalization strategies designed to attract new residents, business investment, economic growth and job creation to their central business district.

"Vibrant downtowns are critical as we look to attract talent and help local businesses grow as we continue to reinvent Michigan," Snyder said. "Charlevoix will now have new opportunities for redevelopment, place-making and economic growth, as a result of their Michigan Main Street recognition."

Doyle settles in to role of Community Economic Development director

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — A warm welcome and friendly smiles greeted Annie Doyle as she gave her first report to the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority on Monday, March 23.

Doyle is settling into his new position as the Community Economic Development director.

"Everyone in the community is warm and accepting," Doyle said.

The Charlevoix City Council approved the hiring of Doyle in February. She officially began her duties on March 2. She is now ending her third week in her new position and settling into her new office, which is located in City Hall.

Her first few weeks have been busy, filled with meetings and getting acquainted with the staff and board members.

"There is plenty to do," Doyle said. "Each day I attempt to meet with business leaders and community members. My goal is to get a better understanding from each stakeholder about ways we can grow the economic base in Charlevoix."

Charlevoix Pool's Stingrays do well at state meet

BY ANNE KELLY
Special to the Courier

SAGINAW — Three members of The Stingrays, Charlevoix Pool's young swim team, recently participated in the state Michigan Team Swim League Competition and brought home medals.

The competition, which was held on Sunday, March 1, at Saginaw Valley State University, attracted more than 500 swimmers on 24 teams from around the state. There were 80 total events with at least eight participants in each event and many of them swam in more than one event.

Of the 26 member Stingray team, three of the four qualifying members from a previous meet, competed and brought home medals; quite an accomplishment, especially for the two youngest swimmers, Joe Gaffney and Charles Kelly, both first-grade students at St. Mary's School.

This is Gary Marvin's first season coaching the Stingrays, who have been competing since 2002. He is understandably proud of the young swimmers. "Charles just began swimming the length of our pool this year," he said. "We have a really young team, but they work hard at practice and aren't afraid to compete. We are definitely building for the future."

The third member to medal was senior Ivy Wells who competed in three events in the 15- to 18-year-old category. In the 50 yard freestyle, Ivy placed third out of 22 swimmers. In the 100 yard butterfly, she placed fifth out of 11, and in the 100 yard freestyle, she placed eighth out of 13. Charles Kelly competed in the 25 yard backstroke in the age 8 and under category. He came in 10th out of 18 swimmers. Joe Gaffney, also in the under 8 category, competed in the 25 yard breaststroke and came in School Board considering sale of vacant Ironton school property

EMILY PROBERT
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public School Board of Education is considering the sale of the vacant Ironton school property. The discussion took place during the school board meeting on Monday, March 16.

Interim superintendent Tom Stobie, said the property is becoming a liability for the district and sought feedback from the board.

"It's a loss of resources to the school district to keep this property," Stobie said. "We have to maintain the property and heat the building in the winter. Those resources can be conserved by selling the property."

A local real estate agent is working with the school district to come up with a selling price. The school board could make decision about the property at their April meeting, Stobie said.

"We should have some sort of idea about when we would put the property up for sale at our next meeting," Stobie said.

School board members are also working with an architect from Traverse City to come up with a plan for the elementary school and former middle school in Charlevoix, which is being utilized by two alternative education schools and the head start program.

"We are evaluating those buildings," Stobie said. "We have no plans to do anything with those properties, at this time. Those discussions are part of our long-range plans for the school district."

Stobie received supportive feedback from the board members, but no motion or decision was made on the discussion items.

In other news, Julie Voci, of the Charlevoix Schools Foundation, updated the board on the foundation's accomplishments. Voci, president of the volunteer board, informed the members of success in applying for grants, raising funds through capital campaigns and accepting private donations in order to provide funds directly to Charlevoix teachers and classrooms. Although the foundation's endowment suffered economic distress in the recent past, Voci attributes the community's support for the continuation of their mission.

Charlevoix Public Library director Linda Adams updated the school board on the library's annual report and financial stability. She noted in the report that there were 145,506 visitors to the library in 2014, an average of 2,798 people per week.

The school board briefly discussed the May election ballot, and the public perception of the ballot items. Board president Dick Joseph said voices in the community are showing opposition to the proposal. Joseph, Stobie, and trustee Mike Moon agreed that politics aside, a piece of legislation that supports schools by providing funds is worth promoting.

"We need to get the right information to the public about the May proposal," Stobie said.

Charlevoix Lions Club earns $450 from sales of Christmas trees

Central Lake girl to compete for America's National Teenager Scholarships

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Desiree Herrst, of Central Lake, has been chosen to attend the 2015 America's National Teenager Scholarship Program, a program for young women ages 9 to 25 to be hosted in Nashville.

Contestants who attend America's National Teenager Scholarship Organization are among those who have won their state representation through academic, community service, interview and onstage competitions.

"America's National Teenager Scholarship Organization was founded in 1970 upon the principles of celebrating a young woman's smarts and big heart. Therefore, while the world around us has changed, our company has not. We still focus on the female's academic potential, contribution to community, ideals and power that women have, at any age, to make a difference. This year we celebrate 45 years of glamor, scholarship, community and style," said CEO and owner, Jenny Telwar.

The 2015 National event in Nashville will consist of several days in competition, and fun city events such as a Celebration 45th Anniversary Party, a Nashville photo shoot and family fun bingo game night. Winners will walk away with more than $40,000 in scholarships for college along with various other prizes. The shows will be at the famous Tennessee Performing Arts Center, Andrew Jackson Hall — Nashville's downtown entertainment venue.

"America's National Teenager Scholarship Organization truly promotes a positive and enriching experience for all young women involved and their families. While each young woman competes for several thousands in scholarships, she also gets to spend quality time in positive, self-esteem building activities with her family. It's a win-win for all involved," Telwar said.

Parents, young women and educators interested in any of America's National Teenager Scholarship Organization programs, at either the state or national level, are encouraged to contact the America's National Teenager Scholarship Organization office at (615) 405-5107 or visit nationalteen.com.

Scovies Gourmet Dinner event exceeds expectations

Editor:
Hospice of Northwest Michigan and its board of directors would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone involved with the Scovies Gourmet Dinner, Movie and Silent Auction "Patch Adams" event that took place on Feb. 28. Vi Keller and her team were inspired by the community they all live and work in, and elected to find a way to give back to that same community, which has always supported them. They chose Hospice of Northwest Michigan to be this vehicle as their charity of choice. Their efforts along with the participation and support of the community raised almost $3,000 that will go directly back into the local community through Hospice services.

We at Hospice greatly appreciate this event, as we know how much it benefits our hospice families and those in our community. As you may know, we do not charge for our hospice volunteer and bereavement services, nor do we charge for our community outreach in hospice education, honoring our veteran's, grief, loss or bereavement services. You are all a part of our Hospice Heart and only with your support are we able to be the very best at what we do.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan is the only 501(c)3 non-profit, community-based, locally-managed hospice in northern lower Michigan, meaning it is not owned, operated, regulated or supported by corporate interests. We serve Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. For more information, call (800) 551-4140 or visit hospicenwm.org.

Medical anthropologist sides with health department, students to prevent smoking on beaches

Editor:
I urge the Charlevoix Board of Commissioners to ban smoking at county beaches and parks, for several reasons.

First, anyone should be able to enjoy county beaches and parks without fear of being exposed to the well documented unhealthy carcinogens found in second-hand smoke. Second, protecting citizens' health is not a "government over-reach" — it is a fundamental obligation of government. Third, after decades of smoking control legislation, experience has repeatedly shown that enforcement is not a problem. Simply posting clear and obvious "No Smoking" signs creates a reliable environment for self-enforcement.

Kudos to Shirley Roloff, the local health department, and area high school students for urging the Charlevoix County board of commissioners to reconsider this important issue.

Banning smoking at county beaches and parks is a wise, reasonable and inexpensive way to promote a clean and healthy environment. Don't we owe it to ourselves, and future generations, to take this simple step toward a healthier community?

LOOKING BACK...

If this house still existed, it would be one of the first structures seen on the right as drivers round the bend from Petoskey Avenue onto Michigan Avenue. It was 307 Michigan Ave., currently The Dunes condominium at the same address. This was the home of Will Hampton, onetime editor of the Charlevoix Democrat, precursor to the Charlevoix Courier.

At the time the house was built, only one other house stood further north on Michigan Avenue. Hampton was an ardent bicycle racer, seen here perched on one of his vehicles, and the force behind a very popular bicycle racing track that was constructed out near the present industrial park north of U.S. 31.

states: "Next to our house on the South was later built the Teasdale home, a family who spent many summers in Charlevoix, whose daughter, Sara Teasdale became a 'poetess.' They were a fine family from St. Louis and owned a team of beautiful carriage horses with a uniformed driver. They took many 'Sunday' trips through the countryside."

Every summer Sunday the Teasdale family rode in their carriage downtown to the Baptist Church, located where the fire hall is now beside City Hall. Sara Teasdale went on to become one of America's most prominent poets in the early 20th century, and the first recipient of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1918. Carl Sandburg was the second a year later.

COMMUNITY Highlights

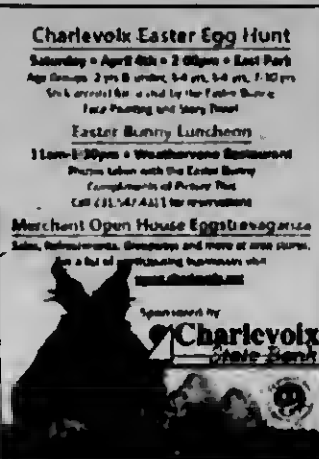

Easter Bunny to hop into downtown Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix State Bank and the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce will team up to host the 23rd annual Easter Egg Hunt in downtown Charlevoix at 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 4, at East Park.

Residents are encouraged to get energized for the annual Egg Hunt with the Easter Bunny Luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant. Enjoy a delicious meal with your family, then get your picture taken with the Easter Bunny, compliments of Picture This. For lunch reservations call (231) 547-4311.

In addition to the Egg Hunt, Charlevoix State Bank will have goody bags for the first 250 kids to arrive on-site. There will also be face painting and story time in the park following the egg hunt. Stories include "Who Hops" by Katie Davis, "From Head to Toe" by Eric Carle, and "Where Is the Green Sheep" by Mem Fox. So bring your basket full of eggs and gather around the center plaza for story time by Angie Reynolds. Story books provided by the Charlevoix Public Library.

As always, the event is free for children up to 10 years old. Children will be separated into age groups from ages 2 and younger, ages 3 and 4, ages 5 and 6, and ages 7 to 10. The hunt will include 3,000 prize filled eggs and some special golden eggs.

And as if that weren't enough, area shops and restaurants invite you to enjoy a special Easter Open House event at participating businesses. Throughout the day, merchants will offer specials including sales, refreshments, raffles, giveaways and more. Select restaurants will host Easter specials, brunch or dinner. For a complete list of participating merchants and restaurants visit charlevoix.org.

For more information call the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce at (231) 547-2101 or visit charlevoix.org.

Ellsworth celebrates the century's Pi Day

ELLSWORTH — Ellsworth Community Middle and High School students celebrated Pi Day in honor of the irrational number pi. Pi or π is a special decimal number in mathematics that has no repeating pattern — it keeps going infinitely.

The first five digits of pi are 3.1415, which makes this year "Pi Day of the Century," 3.14.15. Students celebrated by eating pie at an assembly at 9:26 a.m. Then, each class nominated a student to memorize and recite as many digits of pi as they could. This year's winner Katelyn Sowers memorized an astounding 267 digits. The overall results were:

- 7th grade: Aria Blackford 33 digits
- 10th grade: Sam Rasmussen 40 digits
- 6th grade: Jaeger Griswold 46 digits
- 9th grade: Daniel Oviedo 61 digits

- 11th grade: Sharnjeet Dhillon 100 digits
- 8th grade: Kevin Dickinson 151 digits
- 12th grade: Katelyn Sowers 267 digits

To give everyone an idea of what means, Katelyn recited from memory the following numbers in order: 3.1415 9265358979323846264338327950288 4197169399375105820974944592307 81640628620 8998628034825342117

Charlevoix Area Hospital welcomes Thomas G. Tietjen, MD to its staff

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Area Hospital announced the appointment of gastroenterologist Thomas G. Tietjen, MD, to its growing medical staff.

Tietjen has extensive training and experience in the management of chronic gastro-intestinal illness, treating ulcerative colitis, colorectal cancer, irritable bowel syndrome, impaired liver function, celiac disease, liver tumors, Crohn's disease, gastroesophageal reflux disease, hereditary hemochromatosis and primary biliary cirrhosis. He is certified in both internal medicine and gastroenterology and has been named a fellow of both the American College of Physicians and the American Gastroenterological Association.

Tietjen was admitted to medical school directly from high school at the age of 18. After completing undergraduate and medical school curriculum in just six years at the University of Missouri—Kansas City School of Medicine, he was recruited by University of Nebraska where he completed internship and residency in internal medicine, later serving as Chief Medical Resident. Tietjen completed fellowships in both gastroenterology and therapeutic endoscopy at Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he also studied the molecular biology of digestive disease, taught young doctors, published several scientific articles, and helped pioneer novel endoscopic therapeutic techniques.

In 1994, Tietjen began a career in private practice, so his love of the outdoors naturally led him to seek practice opportunities in areas that are close to the wilderness, first in Wyoming and then in Northern Michigan.

Tietjen's extensive experience and understanding of people has made him a much sought-after physician, and a welcome addition in the medical staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Dealing with grief presentation at Charlevoix library in April

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library will host a session on the grief process and local support services at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 7.

David Behling, spiritual advisor and bereavement counselor for Hospice of Northwest Michigan will discuss the grief process, the emotions of grief and the things we feel emotionally, physically and spiritually. He will help identify and help the listener understand what grief is, how long it takes and several coping strategies if we are the person in grief or if we are the person wanting to support someone in grief.

"I so appreciate your invitation to share in this forum.... I believe our community has experienced many losses over the last several years and your willingness to have a program talking about grief and the healing process is a great support to many," Behling said.

For more than 30 years David L. Behling has been walking with the sick and hurting. As a Pastor in congregational settings, in the hospitals, prisons/jails, care facilities and in the broader community, providing training and support in crisis to critical care workers, counseling to individuals experiencing the heartaches and challenges of life. He is a master's prepared Pastoral Counselor who served more than 20 years as the chaplain and director of Pastoral Care at Northern Michigan Hos-

As the economic development director, Doyle takes the leadership role over the Downtown Development Authority and the Main Street program, which Charlevoix is now a select level member. Her previous experience as the assistant planning and zoning director for Boyne City — master level in Main Street — has given her plenty of experience with the Main Street program.

"There are quite a lot of similarities with my previous job," Doyle said. "I am not doing the planning and zoning, but it is important to know about those ordinances in order to make informed decisions. I feel like it actually helps me more. It adds another layer of knowledge in my role as economic developer."

Doyle will see the implementation of the Main Street program, which is in the DDA district, but Doyle said she is here for the entire city.

"We are such a small community and doing one thing in one area impacts all of us," Doyle said. "I see my role as improving the economy in the entire city. We got a lot of really dedicated and great business owners, residents and volunteers who want to see Charlevoix be the best it can be. I'm excited to be able to work with those individuals and excited to use the resources of the Main Street program. Our biggest asset is the people who live and work here. They are the ones who want to see Charlevoix flourish."

"I hope that we are conveying that all businesses in Charlevoix are important and not just the downtown. But I also want residents to know that a revitalized downtown is proven, throughout the country, to create economic success in a community," Doyle said. "I hope that I am able to reach out to every single business in our community, so that they know we value them and we are here to assist with resources we have in the city."

Doyle sees the empty storefronts in the downtown as a challenge and is looking for a way to fill those with businesses who want to be in the community year-round and not only during the summer season.

"I am not against seeing a seasonal businesses in downtown, but I am for a sustainable business community," Doyle said. "There are people who live here year-round and businesses open year-round. Recruiting long-term sustainable businesses that are open year-round will benefit both tourism and our year-round residents. Our ultimate goal is to have a year-round vibrant community for all of our residents, including tourists."

To do this Doyle said there has to be services, activities and affordable housing on a year-round basis.

"Having a strong economic community year-round will help bring more tourists to the area and help people afford to live here year-round," Doyle said. "Our population changes drastically from the summer and the winter and we need to come up with way to bring the people to Charlevoix in the winter to help make the area thrive."

This is a long-term position and excellent opportunity, Doyle said of her new job. She sees one of her biggest roles as increasing communication between year-round residents and all the boards and authorities with the city administration.

"Everyone who works, lives and operates a business in Charlevoix is our community," Doyle said. "They are the ones we need to have at the table to come up with a vision for economically sustainable Charlevoix. Our residents have a love for Charlevoix each of them want to see this place thrive. What that vision looks like is up to the people."

The city, with its surrounding lakes, downtown area and the new development and shopping areas makes it a very appealing place, Doyle said.

"My predecessors have done a great job bringing us to this point with Main Street," Doyle said. "It shows strong community support and commitment. It is up to the people of Charlevoix to implement a shared vision for Charlevoix. We have a beautiful community and our residents are ready to see real, tangible plans for the future of Charlevoix. Main Street gives us the tools, but none of it's possible without the people who live here to help bring success to the city."

Council member Leon Perron said he is pleased with the applicant pool for the position.

"I'm real happy with the applications we received," Perron said. "We appear to have some good, qualified candidates that could fill the position."

This special meeting came after City Manager Rob Strachal resigned in February to take the city manager position in Petoskey.

Charlevoix City Planner and Zoning Administrator Mike Spencer is serving as interim city manager and has applied for the position.

"We're looking at anyone that has the experience and meets the criteria," said Mayor Gabe Campbell. "Someone that will be a good fit for our city council, our staff and for our community."

The council expects to meet again at 5:30 p.m. Monday, April 6, to review the answers from the 10 candidates.

Patt DeRoche, Charlevoix Human Resource specialist, marks each ymb from City Council members on Thursday, March 19, City Council met in an open and closed session to discuss the 31 applicants the city received to fill the vacant city manager's position.

and community volunteers have worked to attain select-level membership in the organization for more than a year. Charlevoix City Planner and Zoning Administrator Mike Spencer, has been a proponent of the program.

"We are thrilled to be receiving the select status in the Michigan Main Street program. I think we have already observed the energy and focus that our community volunteers have put into the application, imagine all that energy multiplying across our community," Spencer said. "I am so excited that the DDA, city council and our community will be implementing this program in the future."

Both Port Huron and Charlevoix were selected through a competitive application process open to all communities that actively participate as an associate (beginner) level Main Street community. Only select and master level communities can use the official Michigan Main Street designation.

"Programs like Michigan Main Street provide downtown communities with the tools needed to develop thriving downtowns," said Michigan State Housing Development Authority Acting Executive Director Wayne Workman. "In turn, these tools can be used to create jobs, provide desirable places to live and build a sense of place for Michigan residents."

The key points of the program are the importance of downtowns; thriving down-towns stimulate economic growth, bring a sense of synergy and can increase property values in surrounding neighborhoods.

Getting everything aligned with the Michigan Main Street program could create opportunities to obtain large grants from the National Endowment for the Arts focused on communities that use arts and cultural activities as primary activities for economic development.

The Main Street initiative received support from many of the business related organizations in Charlevoix.

Alison Hubbard, president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Main Street steering committee, is happy to hear that the work from everyone involved finally received the select level recognition.

"This is great news for our community and we are honored to be part of such an incredible program," Hubbard said. "We are looking forward to the training, tools, information and networking with the Michigan Main Street Center, which will help us be successful in our downtown revitalization efforts."

Hubbard said it was rewarding to see victory for the team effort, and that that this would be the first of many victories. She credited Downtown Development Authority, downtown business leaders and the Chamber of Commerce for working together to lay the groundwork that will help the transition to the program and thanked the volunteers who donated time, talent, support and resources to the effort.

the specifications of the city sign ordinance.

"We are not seeking a sign variance," Parr said. "We are seeking approval from our lease holder — the DDA — to put up our sign."

Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance Article 11, Section 5.101 Sign-Related Definitions, states that Canopy (Building) is a permanent rigid structure covered with fabric, metal, shingles or other material and supported by a building at one or more points, and Marquee is a permanent structure of rigid materials supported by and extending from, or above, the facade of a building. Section 5.105 Sign Standards for all signs, states a canopy and marquee are considered the same as a wall sign, which allow for a 30 square-foot sign.

DDA board members did approve the canopy to be built, but because of city official concerns with the definition of a canopy in the sign ordinance, DDA members approved a 30-square-foot wall sign and not the canopy sign.

"We really need to look at all the information before we make a decision," said Annie Doyle, Charlevoix Community Economic Development Director for the DDA. "We will make a recommendation based on what we find in the ordinance."

Alan Hubbard, owner and operator of Pro-Image Design, which has offices in Traverse City, Torch River and Petoskey, said his understanding of the ordinance would allow the brewing company to construct the sign. Hubbard is consulting with the Round Lake Group, which owns the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company, on its new signs and was at the DDA meeting.

"It is my understanding that a 30 square-foot sign on a canopy is allowed under the ordinance," Hubbard said.

Interim City Manager Mike Spencer did not agree with Hubbard and Parr during their presentation to the DDA. The ordinance could be argued one way or the other, but historically that is not how the city has applied the ordinance, Spencer said.

"I do not agree what they are proposing is a canopy sign based on the definitions and the intent of the ordinance," Spencer said. "We have to treat all businesses the same and that includes applying the same sign regulations to everyone."

"One of the purposes of the sign ordinance is to discourage visual competition among businesses," Spencer added. "The awning portion has been applied to every other business, including the 14 restaurants in downtown. It's always been 16 square-feet. We are trying to apply the standards equally."

Section 5.101 Sign-Related Definitions, states an awning is "a permanent shelter constructed on a supporting framework, projecting from and supported by the exterior of a building." The definition of an awning sign is a sign painted, printed, attached flat against or integrated within the surface of an awning, Spencer said.

"I agree the definitions of awning and canopy (building) are similar, but I believe the canopy definition and associated square footage requirement do not apply to the sign type the Round Lake Group is trying to do," Spencer said. "We have never had to really look at this before in my time here in Charlevoix because we don't have any canopies or canopy signs in the city."

Spencer will draft a formal opinion on their proposal as the zoning administrator and give it to the DDA. After DDA review the Round Lake Group will have several options:

- Do the wall sign up to 30 square feet. They could also do an awning below that to dress up the building.
- Do the awning sign up to 16 square feet.
- Request an interpretation from the ZBA on whether it views their proposal as an awning sign or a canopy sign. If the ZBA finds it is a canopy sign then no variance would be necessary.

— Apply for a variance from the 16 feet requirement for awning signs from the ZBA.

DDA board member Kirby Dipert said it appears that the brewing company does not need a variance.

"Theoretically, if they follow the canopy part of the ordinance, then no variance is needed for this sign," Dipert said. "A 30 square-foot sign is allowed."

The brewing company can place wall sign that is 30 square-foot on the building, which is the same size of the Keweenaw Excursions sign, but Parr and the other partners for the brewing company were looking to improve the building appearance.

"It's a $10,000 investment that the DDA does not have to pay for," Parr said. "The exterior of the building is in need of repair. Our solution will improve the outside aesthetics of the building and allow for our sign."

John Yaroch said the canopy is the best solution for the exterior of the building.

"In my opinion the canopy option looks good," Yaroch said. "We shouldn't hold their business up especially if the code allows this type of sign, we should approve it."

Charlevoix city council candidate petitions due before 4 p.m. on April

Information is available at the city clerk's office, Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St. The packet contains instructions for filing, petition, a list of township election dates and other information. Potential candidates can call ahead to the clerk's office, and a packet will be prepared for pick-up.

CHARLEVOIX — The deadline to file as a candidate for city office is now through. Information packets for potential candidates are available at the city clerk's office, Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St. The packet contains instructions for filing, petition, a list of township election dates and other information. Potential candidates can call ahead to the clerk's office, and a packet will be prepared for pick-up. City council members Jeffrey Porter, Ward 1; Leon Perera, Ward 2, and Shirley Olson, Ward 3 could seek re-election. These three city council seats are up for election on Nov. 3. All seats are two-year terms expiring November 2017.

Those filing to run in a ward must file a petition signed by 25 registered voters from that ward. Candidates must be a resident of the city for at least 20 days, and be a U.S. citizen, said Charlevoix Deputy Clerk Paul Spanney.

Visit michigan.gov/elections or call the Charlevoix city clerk's office at (231) 547-3230 for details.

The deadline for filing is 4 p.m. on Tuesday, April 21.

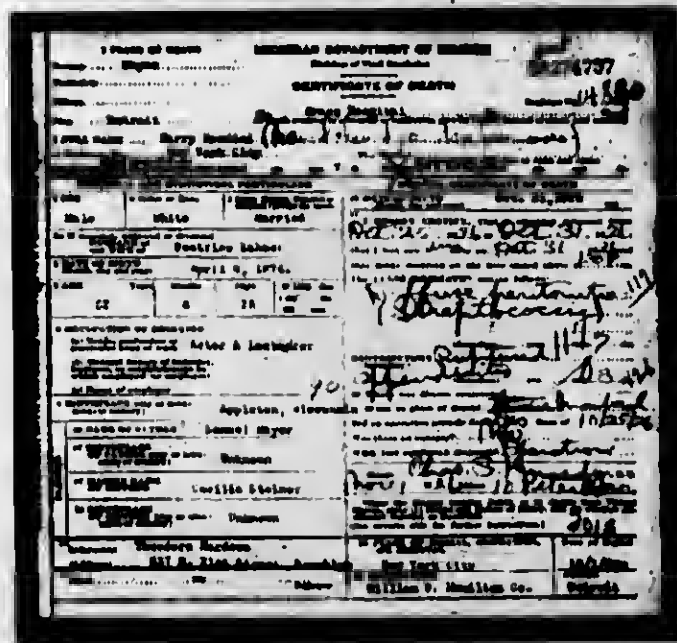

Archives of Michigan release another 2.6 million death certificates online

LANSING — The Archives of Michigan made available images of Michigan death certificates from 1921 to 1939 for free on its website seekingmichigan.org.

The certificates join others from 1897 to 1920 that were previously made available. The Michigan collection now contains 2.6 million death certificates for researchers. Genealogy researchers, in particular, find death certificates useful while tracing family history.

State Archivist Mark Harvey said the index of death certificates from 1940 to 1952 will be made available in about a month, with certificates from that period becoming available as privacy restrictions are lifted. For example, images of the certificates from 1940 will be made available online in January, 2016. The death records represent a partnership between the Archives, the Vital Records Section of the Michigan Department of Community Health and FamilySearch.org.

"This collection of death certificates covers a period in Michigan history of significant growth and development," Harvey said. "In these records, researchers will find evidence of the influx of Eastern European immigrants, the emergence of Detroit as the automotive capital of the world and the impact of the Great Depression."

Researchers can search four different data fields. The certificates are indexed and searchable by an individual's last name, first name, county and township/village/city of death, birth year, age and parents' names. Additional information that can be found in death certiicates includes the person's occupation, cause of death, burial location and birth place.

Among the death certificates in this group is that of illusionist and stunt performer Harry Houdini, who died in Detroit on Oct. 31, 1926, of internal injuries after being punched multiple times in the abdomen by a fan at a show in Montreal several days earlier.

Annual Young Writers' Juried Exposition scheduled for Charlevoix-Emmet

PETOSKEY — Crooked Tree Arts Center, in conjunction with the Petoskey News-Review, the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation, and McLean and Eakin Booksellers, is hosting the 13th annual Young Writers Juried Exposition. Elementary, middle and high school writers in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District — or home school students in Charlevoix or Emmet counties — are invited to submit up to one work of poetry and one of prose.

Winning poetry and prose pieces for each level — elementary, middle and high school — will be published in the Petoskey News-Review on Friday, May 1. From 2-4 p.m. on Saturday, May 2, the Young Writers Expo awards will be presented at Crooked Tree Arts Center. All winners receive a medal, journal and McLean and Eakin Booksellers gift card. Middle and high school winners in both poetry and prose receive monetary prizes as well: first place winner receives $100, second place award is $75, and third place prize is $50. All winning authors will have an opportunity to read their work publicly. As an added treat, guests can enjoy the Youth Arts Festival's Culinary Arts Showcase from 1-3 p.m., where students from the Petoskey culinary arts program will create and serve refreshments.

"The goal of this event is to showcase original work from our community's emerging writers," says Alex Dailey, Crooked Tree's coordinator for the Young Writers Expo. "This year, by expanding our group of partners, we're able to reach a larger group of young authors. Getting children and teenagers involved in the process of writing, submitting their work, and presenting their pieces aloud truly helps prepare them for the world of writing in college and beyond."

All area teachers have been invited to submit their students' work to the competition. All work must be submitted by a parent or teacher online through Crooked Tree's website, crookeditree.org, beginning at 9 a.m. Tuesday, April 7, through 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 15.

For writing requirements and more details about the Young Writers Juried Exposition, visit crookeditree.org or call Alex Dailey at (231) 347-4337 or email alex@crookeditree.org.

Nesburg sisters lead Rayders to win over Traverse City Central

DREW KOCHANNY

TRAVERSE CITY — Starting where it ended.

The last time the Charlevoix girls' soccer team took to a field competitively, it was at Traverse City's Coast Guard Field, in a season ending regional championship loss almost a year ago.

Opening their 2015 season on that very same field on Monday against Traverse City Central, the Rayders would do everything in their power to not leave with the same result.

The outcome would be a success for Charlevoix, as they'd overcome a halftime deficit to come away with a 3-2 win over the Trojans.

"This was an exciting way for us to start the season," Charlevoix coach Pete Scholten said. "After losing at Coast Guard in regional finals in June, it was certainly a motivator for us to start the 2015 season there against Central."

Central would get on the scoreboard first on the night, as senior midfielder Grace Stanton scored just 55 seconds into the game, in which the 1-0 lead would hold until the half, with stingy defense from the Trojans.

"We were really flat at the start of the game and TC was quick to make its pay," said Scholten. "It took us the first 20 minutes of play to settle in. We played a much better game the second 20 minutes of the first half."

Charlevoix freshman Rachel Nesburg would put the Rayders on the board and get the first Charlevoix goal of the season by sending in a stripped pass from a breakaway 24 minutes into the second half.

Minutes later, Nesburg would get her second goal of the game, taking a pass from freshman midfielder Natalie Nesburg, giving Charlevoix a 2-1 advantage.

"After our rocky start, I was proud that the girls were able to hold their composure and play the level they are capable of," added Scholten.

Neither team would be done scoring on the night, though, as Julianna Chang would even the game for the Trojans just over the 31 minute mark, sending a boot to the upper corner of the goal in now a 2-2 game.

With four minutes remaining in the game, Rachel Nesburg would set up sister Natalie with an opportunity to send in the go-ahead goal, one in which she wouldn't disappoint, making it a 3-2 game.

The Rayder defense would hold the attack from the Trojans for the final minutes of the game.

"Central is a quality team who plays a fast paced game," added Scholten. "Our defense led by Olivia Storm, Isabel Hess, Alex Snabes and Beth Veenstra really had to step it up tonight to stop Central's attack."

Senior Gloria Greene picked up the win in net, saving 20 shots on the night.

Charlevoix will head into next week's spring break with a 1-0 record, before getting back to competition on Tuesday, April 7, in Kalkaska.

Rayders get off to fast start at SVSU indoor meet

SAGINAW — The weather being off track to begin the spring wouldn't stop the Charlevoix track team from getting on the track over the weekend.

Although, it helps when that track is part of an indoor facility of course.

The Rayders took to the annual Saginaw Valley State University Individual Indoor meet to open their season in the Division 3-4 meet.

Charlevoix put up multiple top five finishes between their boys' and girls' teams, including a first place overall in one of the sprint relay events.

With multiple heats for each event and around 60 to 80 athletes competing in each, it was hard for athletes to stand out.

In the boys distance events, Noah Carson of Charlevoix earned a 14th place finish in the 3200 meter run, placing a final time of 10 minutes, 55.36 seconds.

In the 1600 meter run, Nicholas Plude of Charlevoix earned a third place podium finish with a time of 4:49.27.

Charlevoix would then get two top 15 finishers in the 800 meter run, as Luke Buday placed sixth in 2:12.18 and Lucas VonLau took 11th in 2:20.28.

In the 400 meter dash, Jared McLean of Charlevoix earned fourth place in 53.39 and Micah Peebles placed 17th for the Rayders in 57.02.

Dan Nesburg then paced the Rayders in the 200 meter dash, with an 11th place finish in 25.09.

The 60 meter hurdles would feature a top five finisher from the area in Charlevoix's Parker Skeel, who took fifth in 9.55.

In the relay events, the Charlevoix boys placed first overall in the 4x600 meter relay, placing a time of 6:01.99, with the race run by Ben Boss, Luke Buday, Kevin Pearl and Nick Plude.

The Rayder boys would then take a third place finish in the 4x300 relay, with Peebles, Pearl, Boss and McLean earning a time of 2:36.88.

For the girls on the track, Katie Mousseau was the top finisher for the Charlevoix girls in the 1600 meter run, running 6:35.10 in 17th place.

Kourtney Putman placed 10th overall in the 800 meter run in 2:43.51, then Isabelle Buday placed 19th in the 400 meter run in 1:10.20.

In the 200 meter run, Alexis Tribelner placed 15th for Charlevoix, earning a time of 29.72, then in the 60 meter hurdles, Olivia Jeakle placed 17th in 11.62.

Charlevoix's 4x300 team of Jeakle, Tribelner, Mackenzie O'Leary and Putman earned a time of 3:16.68.

Charlevoix's Olivia Jeakle placed 12th in the long jump in 13 feet, 9.5 inches, then Putman earned another 10th place finish with a throw of 28 feet, 3 inches in the shot put.

For the boys in field events,

Noirot would then earn a seventh place finish in the high jump, tied alongside teammate Kevin Pearl, at 5 feet, 6 inches.

In the pole vault, Charlevoix's Sam Hovie placed seventh in 10 feet even, Oliver DeYoung placed 11th in 9 feet.

Protecting what's important: Local professionals talk concussion prevention

JAMES GEMSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 - jgemsterblum@petoskeynews.com

HARBOR SPRINGS — Our understanding of concussions, their effects on those who suffer them, and how to treat them have come a long way in the last decade.

But there's still a lot we don't know about the nature of the injuries, and there's more work to be done to educate the public and treat concussions effectively.

That was the message given on Thursday by two local medical professionals with firsthand experience dealing with concussions at a seminar hosted by Northern Michigan Sports Medicine Center on Thursday at their Harbor Springs Clinic.

Dr. Todd Sheperd, M.D., of Bay-side Family and Sports Medicine and Julia Slifka, certified athletic trainer and head trainer for Harbor Springs High School gave a roughly 35 minute presentation and answered questions for 20 minutes on the topic.

The talk shed some light on a complex issue that's only now beginning to be fully understood by both medical professionals, players, coaches and fans alike.

"It's a tough thing to diagnose and treat, because everyone's brain is different, and that means every concussion is different," Slifka said. "The path to recovery often goes at different speeds for every person, and it really is very much based on a case-by-case basis."

No Magic Bullet

The scientific term for concussion is a mild traumatic brain injury, and it is suffered when a collision, impact to the head or violent motion causes damage to the brain.

Common physical symptoms include headache, dizziness, nausea, light sensitivity, blurred vision and loss of motor coordination, and victims may also suffer from confusion, disorientation, difficulty focusing and changes in mood.

Symptoms can often be subtle and hard to diagnose, contributing to the difficulty of treating concussions, Sheperd and Slifka said.

The complexity of the brain and the varied nature of head trauma, both in force and location, also contribute to that difficulty, making each concussion unique and a one-size-fits-all treatment impossible with our current understanding.

"I've seen concussions with serious symptoms that are gone the next day and the child is perfectly fine, and I've seen seemingly minor concussion symptoms linger for days, even weeks," Slifka said. "Hits that seem like they should produce concussions don't, and seemingly minor hits result in really serious concussions."

"There's really no way to know how someone's brain is going to respond to trauma and how long it's going to take them to heal. Every person is different."

That complexity carries over to prevention, where there are no easy answers or obvious solutions.

Doctors and scientists agree that athletes using properly maintained and properly fitted protective equipment can reduce the likelihood of a number of injuries, including concussions, but Sheperd warned not to be fooled by the promises of many "concussion-preventing" products.

"For things like helmets and mouthguards, the claims companies make about their ability to reduce or prevent concussions are usually exaggerated," Sheperd said. "More than having no evidence, we have hard scientific evidence that there's almost no benefit to wearing most of this equipment versus regular equipment, and certainly not for the amount of money they're charging."

Among the most effective, and also most controversial, ways of reducing concussions are changing rules in sports, Sheperd said.

"It's a fine line to walk, because you want to protect athletes, but you also understand the argument of preserving the integrity of the sport," Sheperd said. "Ultimately, it's up for every league to decide, but we have hard evidence that changes like eliminating punts and kickoffs in football would limit the amount of concussions."

Preserving the brain

Treatment is as difficult as prevention when it comes to concussions. Just diagnosing a concussion in the heat of the moment on a sideline can be a real challenge when the symptoms are subtle and players who want to stay in the game have an incentive to hide their injuries.

To do so, athletic trainers rely on a series of cognitive and balance tests known as STAB, whose results are measured against a baseline score the athlete set before the season.

Any significant decrease in score signals a concussion and, combined with evidence of other symptoms, results in the player being pulled from the action.

That same test is used during the recovery, and players usually aren't allowed back on the field until symptoms are gone and the score returns to normal.

As of now, there is no proven way to speed up healing. Melatonin and fish oil have both been put forward as possible aids, but no clinical testing has been done to prove them effective.

That means doctors are stuck treating symptoms and waiting for the body's natural healing processes to take hold, Slifka and Sheperd said.

"It can be a frustrating process for athletes, because we can't set an end date when they'll be back," Slifka said. "It's a day-to-day process of looking for incremental improvement, and it's something we don't want to rush."

Local Response and the Future

The prevalence of concussion discussion in the news has provided a sea change among local sports teams and their response to concussions, Sheperd said.

"Ten years ago, when I tried to pull a player out of the game, I could expect some pushback from the coach and the player, because at the time the standard was a player could come back from a concussion after 15 minutes rest," Sheperd said. "Now, I can't remember the last time a coach tried to keep me from pulling a player out of a game."

"There's a much better understanding of what's at stake, and coaches, players and officials are all taking it more seriously."

Local schools have been lucky to be ahead of the curve for the most part, Slifka said.

"Potoskey, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix and Cheboygan have all had access to certified trainers and medical professionals, and that meant we were able to respond quickly as soon as this problem became clear," Slifka said. "We're also lucky to be in a small community, which means our doctors and trainers talk to each other and we're able to provide a consistent level of treatment no matter who's providing it."

Both Slifka and Sheperd say that the key now is to continue to provide education and the best treatment possible while waiting for a breakthrough.

Scientists are working to better understand how concussions affect the brain and to map the damage caused by concussions to specific areas, perhaps allowing for more accurate diagnoses and, eventually, better treatment and prevention tools.

"We're kind of looking towards the big research centers now; the University of Michigan has its own neurosports initiative and the University of North Carolina is currently in the midst of its own massive study," Sheperd said.

"We're hoping these centers and their work can help us shape our understanding and achieve a more accurate diagnosis and better treatment methods with their work."

More than 600 people visited a total of 68 local businesses and nonprofit organizations that came to Castle Farms on March 19 for the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Taste of Charlevoix and Business Expo. Vendors representing banks, insurance firms, pet cleaning services and churches, among others, showcased their services to event attendees, who got to taste, try and view many of the services offered throughout Charlevoix County.

Annual Business Expo sees large turnout from Charlevoix community

CHARLEVOIX — A total of 68 local businesses and nonprofit organizations came to Castle Farms on March 19 for the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Taste of Charlevoix and Business Expo, making it one of the most successful chamber events.

The event showcased a wide variety of the businesses and restaurants Charlevoix County has to offer.

"This was such a great way for business and community to come together," said Chamber President Alison Hubbard. "This event would not be possible — nor would it run as smoothly and successfully — without the help of so many volunteers and the participation of our community."

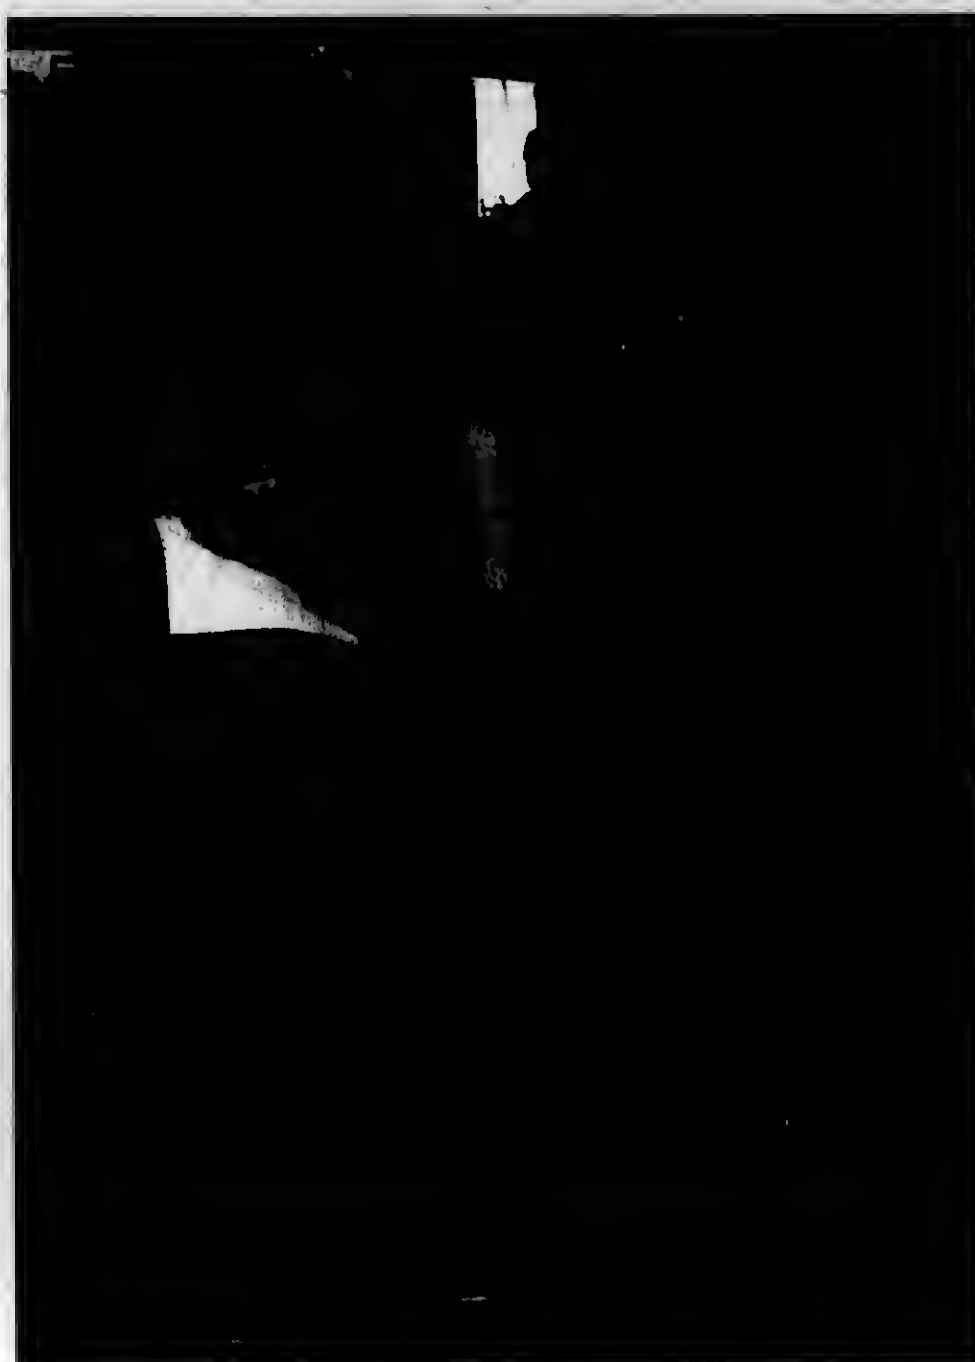

Combining the business expo with the Taste of Charlevoix gave the roughly 600 attendees the chance to try bits and bites from restaurants and catering businesses throughout Charlevoix County.

"We were pleased with the outcome of the Taste of Charlevoix this year," Hubbard said.

A number of restaurants participated in this year's event and the competition was heated for the People's Choice Award and Best in Show, which both were awarded to Alfred Soriano-Micheau, owner of Creative Cupcake, in downtown Charlevoix.

"The people really enjoyed Creative Cupcake and the food display," Hubbard said. "The event was very well attended and a success for everyone involved."

Council approves funding for water main fix on Hurlbut Street

LONNIE ALLEN
 (231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — The sub-zero cold temperatures have caused more headaches for Charlevoix public works crews as another water main has broken in the city leaving several homes and some businesses without water.

On Tuesday, Charlevoix City Council met in a special session to discuss upgrading the water main for the 100 block of West Hurlbut Street.

The 4-inch cast iron pipe on Hurlbut Street is around 90 years old and only 3.5 to 4 feet in the ground. It is the city's main line going to that neighborhood, said Charlevoix Public Works Superintendent Pat Elliott.

"We have two options to consider regarding repair and replacement of this main line," Elliott said. "We can do a temporary fix of replacing the broken 200-foot portion of pipe and risk dealing more problems next winter, or we can upgrade the entire water main, which is approximately 410 feet and put it about 7 feet in the ground."

Council members support the entire line repair, but who would do the work became the main issue for city council.

In 2009, city council members passed a resolution to support local bidders. Council awards a bid to a qualified local bidder if their bid comes within 3 percent of the other bid for work up to an including $100,000. This was the case with local bidder MDC Contracting who bid the project at $73,700 and Team Elmer's who bid the project at $73,190.

Councilmember Bill Supernaw felt they should award the bid to MDC because it was more local, but because Elmer's also has an address in Charlevoix County, the council went with the lower bid.

"It wasn't cut and dry," Supernaw said. "I have nothing against Elmer's they are a good company, but I thought the council had a chance to do something that would keep money more local and put some of our people back to work."

Green growth bloomin'

LONNIE ALLEN
 (231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — Bridge Street Blooms is growing with more than just plants. Chris Helmstrom, and wife, Mary, who own and manage the business together, have moved into a permanent structure where their small hoop house used to reside at 1403 Bridge St.

The Helmstrom's new glass greenhouse is full of flowering plants.

Their business has sprouted into a full fledged nursery, which will offer trees, shrubs, mulch and bulk hark along with the annuals and perennials already on hand.

"We expect to open in early may," Helmstrom said. "We still have to do some additions to the exterior of the greenhouse, but the interior is full of plants that are starting to bloom."

Bridge Street Blooms has a large selection of Michigan grown plants along with 300 perennials ready for planting or potted and ready to hang.

Many of the blooms on the plants in Helmstrom's new greenhouse are being removed so the plant will grow larger and fuller, Helmstrom said.

"We want the plant energy to go to the plant and not the flowers," he said. "That way the plant will grow larger and be a stronger plant to sell."

St. Marys Cement loses pollution controls appeal against EPA

LONNIE ALLEN
 (231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

CHARLEVOIX — An appeals court won't overturn the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's call for more stringent pollution controls at St. Marys Cement plant in Charlevoix.

St. Marys challenged the EPA's December 2012 rule that overturned Michigan's regional haze plan and introduced more stringent standards for the company's Charlevoix plant, arguing that the technology to reduce nitrous oxide emissions won't work with its plant's unique characteristics, and it cannot be forced to use the technology since its plant was never eligible.

But on Tuesday, in a 3-0 decision, the appeals court said that the EPA "did not act arbitrarily or for that matter capriciously" when it refused to reconsider its rule. Despite disputes over the technology's impact, the EPA's decision-making process was sound and it fairly addressed the cement maker's concerns.

An email statement from the company's legal counsel said St. Marys is disappointed in the ruling, but it re-

Health issues, character defamation cited as reasons for clerk resignation

LONNIE ALLEN
 (231) 547-6558 - lallen@schurz.com

IRONTON — According to township records, there appears to be no wrong doing from the former Evelyn Township clerk, Michelle Johnson, who resigned in February after supervisor John Vrondran and trustee Janet Blossom questioned her financial records and expenses.

Johnson, who served as the township clerk for the past eight years, said she had to resign because of stress from "unprovoked and unnecessary scrutiny" that affected her ability to perform her required job duties.

"It was the only action left I could take," Johnson said, referring to her resignation. "I miss my job, but because of my mental and physical health I had to leave a job I loved doing."

In a response to the inquiry into Johnson and her record keeping, Vrondran said there was never the question of embezzlement or wrong doing.

"After having an informal review of the financial records, I did not see a problem," Vrondran said. "She resigned due to medical issues."

Johnson, who has multiple sclerosis, said her condition worsened as she received more and more financial inquiries from Vrondran and Blossom.

Blossom would not comment about Johnson's resignation and expense inquiries. Blossom said the township minutes reflect what happened.

"The two of them challenged everything I did," Johnson said. "From how I responded to FOIA — Freedom of Information — requests to purchasing for the clerk's office. I got the impression they wanted me gone."

It appears that Blossom and Vrondran wanted explanations about certain credit card expenditures made by Johnson, according to township minutes from special meetings held on Feb. 17 and again on Feb. 25.

One particular expense questioned by Vrondran and Blossom was a $307 purchase from Tiger Direct — an electronic and tech website. Johnson purchased a refurbished laptop for her clerk duties, but Vrondran was skeptical about the purchase and did

Simple trade leads to lifetime of sailing memories

LORENNE ALLIEN
(231) 547-8558 - allen@charvoix.com

Editors Note: The "Members' Log" is a monthly series where the Charlevoix Courier will feature a member of the Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron. The series is designed to tell personal boating stories of each member, share their experiences with the organization and perhaps, even share with the reader a place to visit by boat. This month the Courier highlights Cristina Staats — Squadron Education Officer for Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron. She has been sailing for 45 years.

HORTON BAY — Squadron Education Officer for Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron, Cristina Staats had no experience with boats or sailing when her husband, Jack, bartered the use of a small sailboat, 45 years ago, for the use of their summer cottage on Georgian Bay. That simple trade led to a lifetime of sailing memories for Staats.

The boat, a West Wight Potter, needed restoration and Jack was working for the summer in Detroit, so the restoration and sailing fell to Staats, she said.

"I had no idea — nary a clue — about how to sail, but was game to try," she said. "I had the little West Wight Potter towed to the marina in Winton, Ontario, and plunked it in the water."

Staats knew she needed to get her bearings before venturing out on the open water. She chose the library and grabbed a book on sailing.

"My first foray into the bay was a total disaster," Staats said. "I ended up against the break wall requiring 'rescue' by a larger sailboat. The captain asked if I had put the centerboard down? 'What was a centerboard, I inquired?' Right then he knew I was in deep trouble and had no business being where I was."

Staats was towed back into the marina. She had read that book on sailing from cover to cover and decided to try again, and again, until she mastered sailing. Staats said the West Wight Potter was a great learning experience

'My first foray into the bay was a total disaster.'

for her.

"I paid my dues learning about varnishing, polishing and fiberglass repair as I worked to restore that little boat," Staats said. "I realized I had a lot to learn and became acquainted with the local Power Squadron and the educational courses they offered."

Once coming in contact with the local Power Squadron, sailing became her sport. Staats grew in confidence, gaining experience in all shapes, sizes and descriptions of sailboats. During that time she also continued learning with Power Squadron classes.

"Jack and I became members of Crescent Sail Yacht Club, and I was active in the club racing programs as well as the Detroit River Yachting Association weekend races," Staats said. "We also sailed extensively on Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, graduating from that little West Wight Potter to larger and larger sailboats."

Her involvement with the Power Squadron and own experiences with sailing gained her enough education and confidence to try some racing.

"I entered my first Great Lakes Single Handed Race in 1980," Staats said. "I finished dead last, but realized that if I could sail Lake Huron alone, through thick and thin, I could sail anywhere. I sailed in several more single-handed races after that momentous endeavor."

In 2001, Staats sailed the Atlantic with two other people who hatched a ride across the ocean with her.

"My husband flew," Staats said. "He decided he was not a long distance sailor and didn't like the open ocean work. He met me in Portugal and together we sailed into the Mediterranean where we spent the next four years exploring places we had only read about in the sailing magazines, and heretofore only dreamed about visiting."

Staats and Jack still own the boat she sailed across the Atlantic, "IONA" so if you see them out and about, and around please say hello. She currently splits her time between Horton Bay and Mackinac Island. They have owned their place in the Boyne area since 1992. They keep the boat in the Mackinac Island area.

"I am still active in the Power Squadron," Staats said. "It is the only boating organization I know of that offers such a wide variety of courses for boaters at all levels of skill, experience and type of boat, from the little kayak to the largest of mega-yachts."

Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron to meet

NORTHERN MICHIGAN

— Tip of the Mitt Sail and Power Squadron, a member of the U.S. Power Squadron, will meet at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, April 22 — location given upon reservation call.

Tom Bailey executive director of Little Traverse Conservancy will be the guest speaker. To make pre-paid dinner reservations or for more information call Lt. Loening at (231) 313-5524. Reservations must be made 7 to 10 days in advance of meeting.

'It Happened Every Spring - The History of Baseball in Charlevoix'

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Historical Society will present "It Happened Every Spring — The History of Baseball in Charlevoix" at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 7, at the Depot on Depot Beach. The illustrated program will be presented and narrated by society board of directors member Kay Heise.

Charlevoix went baseball mad every year beginning in the late 1800s. Local teams played not only each other but traveled to neighboring towns to participate in what often developed into heated rivalries. Even Loeb Farms, now Castle Farms, fielded a team called the Sodbusters.

An avid baseball fan, Heise will recount those years on up to the present high school and city teams, and also tell of her own quest to visit all 30 major league ballparks — 25 down, five to go. Traditional popcorn and peanuts and Cracker Jack will be provided.

For more information, call (231) 547-0373.

Preschool parents invited to attend sexual communication with children class

CHARLEVOIX — Parents of preschool-elementary students are invited to attend a class titled "Simple Truths" by Mary Flo Ridley, at 6 p.m. on Thursday, April 16, at the Charlevoix Public Library in the Community Room.

The presenter is Kathy Worley, a former school educator. This is a class to aid parents in talking to their children about sex. The two-hour class is sponsored by the Charlevoix library and the Moms & Tots Center.

For more information, call Moms & Tots Center at (231) 588-2200.

Bishop Raica issues Easter Message

My brothers and sisters in the Lord,

"This is the day the Lord has made. Let us rejoice and be glad."

Through our acts of prayer, fasting and charity during our Lenten journey, we have been conforming our hearts and minds to the Lord. We reminded ourselves of the longings of our hearts. What will answer the longing I feel deep down? What will satisfy my deepest desires? What will enable me to live — not just for a few years but to experience a life without end? What will fulfill my hope that I am made for something?

Many questions such as these cause our hearts to look for a sign or an answer that will answer this longing. Our Christian faith in the Resurrection of Jesus gives us hope. It reminds us that there is a future. It reminds us that we are made for something great. It reminds us that we can know the answer to the very question of my life. The cry that we experience for a life everlasting is answered in the Resurrection.

I can't help but think of the disappointment the Apostles and disciples felt after witnessing the brutal crucifixion of someone that gave them so much hope. Here was a person who spoke like no other! Here was a person who left the crowds "astonished" by what He said. Here was a person whose gestures were unforgettable! Here was a person whose gaze stirred the hearts of many and whose words comforted and healed the sick. It all seemed like a dream. It all seemed so final when he was taken down from the cross and laid in a tomb. It seemed as though humanity was patronized by a false hope.

Then, one by one, they began to see Him again. Their incredulity would be overcome by certainty. Mary, through her tears, thought she was talking to the gardener. Then she recognized Him when he said, "Mary!" She became the first evangelist to share the good news, "He's alive!" The two disciples, distraught and forlorn by dashed hopes on the road to Emmaus, were moved by this "companion" who joined them. They begged him, "Stay with us!" Then, while at table, in the breaking of the bread, they recognized Him. They sprinted back to share the good news, "He's alive!" Peter, from his boat, saw a man on the shore cooking breakfast only to discover that it was the Risen Jesus. "He's alive!" These events and many more experiences over the past 2000 years have assured believers today: "He's alive!"

The searching of our hearts leads always to an answer that is found not in a some "thing" but a some "one" — Jesus, our Savior, Risen from the dead. Like so many over the years, we too can say, "I know my Redeemer lives!"

"This Easter is the day the Lord has made! "He's alive!"

Budget cuts could be hazardous to Northern Michigan hospitals

Dear Editor:

Gov. Rick Snyder's 2016 budget proposal eliminates graduate medical education, cuts $36 million from small and rural hospitals and $11 million from rural hospitals that provide obstetrical care. Yet, he claims that hospitals are an essential partner in the state's move to improve Michigan's health and wellness.

In the past year, 830,000 Michigan residents are now insured through Insurance Exchange or Healthy Michigan Plan. More physicians are needed to cover the increase patient load. Graduate medical education funding supports direct patient care and provides advance training for physicians in inpatient and emergency care in hospitals and family practice, pediatrics and obstetrics in outpatient clinics. This funding is crucial to recruiting and retaining practiced physicians to our communities. If this funding is removed, our future physician work force is in dire straits.

Our rural hospitals provide critical services such as emergency, and obstetrical care to expectant mothers, elders, indigent, etc. Many of these residents live in remote areas where there is no other access to health care. Cutting millions from the hospital access pool could result in closure of some of our hospitals which occurred in Cheboygan.

Northern Lower Michigan has nine birthing hospitals and one neo-natal unit in a 21 county —

11,000 square mile area. Travel can be an hour for expectant mothers and several hours for high-risk pregnancies. Hospitals lose money for delivering babies as Medicaid pays less than it costs to staff obstetrics. Cutting 11 million from these birthing hospitals could result in closing the obstetrical departments. Expectant mothers would then have to travel farther, jeopardizing both the mother and child.

The health and wellness of our residents is a non-partisan issue and now is the time to speak up against these health care cuts to our hospitals. Call or write your state legislators.

LOOKING BACK

On Feb. 5, 1962, the reactor for the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant, located four miles north of Charlevoix off U.S. 31 beside Lake Michigan, was brought through town by train from the south, passing the depot at Depot Beach. It sat exposed to the lake winds and cold for a few days before it was taken into the recently completed 130-foot containment sphere, hoisted 90 feet into the air, and lowered into its concrete home where it generated power for the next 35 years.

Big Rock was the first nuclear plant in Michigan and the fifth in the United States. By the time it was decommissioned in 1997, it had seen 16 other nuclear plants in the country come and go, and set national records for longevity and non-stop generating reliability between maintenance shutdowns. Big Rock also was an experimental plant that provided invaluable knowledge toward the design, construction and refinement of future plants all over the world. Between 1961 and 1974 it attracted more than one million visitors from about sixty countries to its information center and to Charlevoix, the second most popular tourist attraction in Michigan outside of Greenfield Village, and hosted nuclear scientists from around the globe, even those from behind the former Iron Curtain.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Marchio Fen becomes the Joseph and Ingeborg Marchio Nature Preserve

CHARLEVOIX — In every community, there are special places that even though privately owned, have been shared, studied and admired by others. In Charlevoix County, the Marchio Fen is one such place known for its rich diversity and simple beauty.

Through the generosity and wishes of the landowner and support from additional donors, the Marchio Fen has officially become the Joseph and Ingeborg Marchio Nature Preserve. The preserve is now owned and managed by Little Traverse Conservancy.

The 40-acre fen captured the attention of nature lovers years ago. Wetland sections of the property are dominated by northern white cedar and characterized as northern peatlands, a type of fen. Three species of orchids have been found: tway-blade orchid, showy lady slipper, and yellow lady slipper. St. Clair Creek flows through the land, and the mix of ecosystems provides outstanding wildlife habitat for deer, red fox, coyote, raccoon, mink and skunk.

Ty Ratliff, Little Traverse Conservancy senior land protection specialist, credits JoAnne Beemon of the former Charlevoix County Land Conservancy for supporting this project for many years and encouraged LTC to become involved.

"Over the years, the Marchio Fen was the loveliest of land preservation projects," Beemon said. "Ingeborg Marchio is such a beautiful person. She spoke of her love for family, flowers, and painting. She gave us permission to go into the fen and I would call her to tell her about the orchids and our new discoveries."

"The first time I went into the fen in July of 1993, we parked at the old farmhouse, waded through grass and pasture, over blossoming wild strawberries, and entered the dense thicket surrounding the fen. Black, soggy earth sucked at our shoes as we struggled forward," Beemon added. "Suddenly, the tangle of trees opened and we found ourselves in a bright, open, wet meadow thick with nodding Cottongrass and hundreds of hundreds of yellow and showy lady slippers. The quiet, the sweet clean smell of the stream, meandering through mats of moss, the tiny sundew, and the sweet song of the sparrow, silenced us and made us stand still in wonder."

Other than removing an old building, current stewardship plans are minimal, with the primary goal of habitat preservation.

Since 1972, the Little Traverse Conservancy has been working as the oldest regional, nonprofit land trust in Michigan. With the support of nearly 4,000 members, the Little Traverse Conservancy works with private landowners and units

Charlevoix hospital announces $250,000 commitment from St. Marys Cement

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation announced a $250,000 commitment from St. Marys Cement Inc. Issued toward its Built for Caring Campaign.

The campaign will provide funding for Charlevoix Area Hospital's current capital project, which has already established a new chemotherapy-infusion center. The hospital is in the process of expanding one of its primary care facilities, and will enlarge and renovate the surgical suite and laboratory in an effort to better meet the evolving health care needs of its patients.

"We are very appreciative of St. Marys Cement's commitment," said hospital CEO Lyn Jenks. "As a nonprofit hospital, projects of this scale are possible for us only with the generous support of our local businesses and community members. St. Marys Cement is an important part of this community, and they truly care about both their staff and the region as a whole."

The series of projects will accommodate the growth of important patient programs, improve efficiency in the surgical suite, enhance the patient experience, and add flexibility for future change and technology. Ultimately, it will position the hospital for a sustainable, effective future to continue to best serve area residents and visitors. The cost of the project is approximately $8.25 million.

"St. Marys Cement is very excited to partner with Charlevoix Area Hospital to make this project a reality," said Randy Pryor, St. Marys cement operations manager. "We felt this project was in line with our own goals of contributing to the development of the communities in which we operate as well as our commitment to the well-being and health of our employees and customers."

St. Marys Cement is a leading manufacturer of cement and related construction products in the United States and Canada. St. Marys Cement is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Votorantim Cimentos, an international cement manufacturer based in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization working to raise and manage funds to benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital. For more information about Charlevoix Area Hospital and its foundation, visit cah.org.

Jordan River Arts Council, Raven Hill Discovery Center present 'Confluences'

EAST JORDAN — A "confluence" is the flowing together of two or more streams. Confluences: Connecting Science, History and Art is a collaborative exhibit combining the individual resources and missions of the Jordan River Arts Council and Raven Hill Discovery Center.

"Confluences" runs from Sunday, March 29, through Friday, May 1. The Jordan River Arts Council is open 1-4 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays and is located at 301 Main St. in East Jordan. For more information or to schedule a tour, call Nancy Carey at (231) 536-7812.

The exhibit also demonstrates how works of art flow from the wellsprings of science and history whether by theme, processes, materials or traditions. Mediums represented include glass, clay, paper, metal, wood, fiber and pigment. Works of art in the exhibit come from Raven Hill Discovery Center's collections, often commissioned as part of an educational exhibit, and are accompanied by informative display cases.

The Jordan River Arts Council has invited area artists to display works that complement the Raven Hill collection and also demonstrate a variety of techniques in each medium. This is a rich and comprehensive exhibit that will help visitors understand the wide variety of materials artists use and some of the traditions behind creative expression.

As part of this exhibit upper elementary school classes have been invited to tour the gallery and take part in a hands-on traditional metal working project. This has been partially funded through grants from the Great Lakes Energy People's Fund and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

North Country Community Mental Health to hold Annual Fun Walk

BOYNE CITY — North Country Community Mental Health is sponsoring its fourth annual Fun Walk for Autism Acceptance at 10 a.m. on Saturday, April 25, at Veterans Memorial Park in Boyne City. On-site registration begins at 9 a.m.

Costs for the half-mile Fun Walk is $10. All participants will be entered in a drawing for a chance to win one of many great prizes including gift cards and special giveaways. Must be present to win.

One of the event organizers, Heather Smith, MA, LPC, noted the walk has grown over the years.

"We had about 70 people our first year and nearly 150 last year," Smith said. "This event means a lot to many people, as evidenced by its growth and support. The walk allows for individuals with autism spectrum disorder, their family members and friends to come together, network, and support something dear to each one of us for many same and different reasons."

North Country Community Mental Health provides services to residents of Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Kalkaska and Otsego Counties experiencing a serious mental illness, severe emotional problem, or developmental disability, including individuals with co-occurring substance use disorder. Persons wishing to know more about the agency are encouraged to visit ncccmh.org or call (800) 834-3393. For more information on the Fun Walk, call Heather Smith at (989) 732-6295 ext. 3607 or email at hsmith@ncccmh.org.

Charlevoix Area Zonta Club hosts annual Literary Delights

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club will host its annual Literary Delights — a Michigan Women Authors' Luncheon — from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. on Saturday, May 16, at the Charlevoix Public Library. Tickets for the event are $40 per person and include a catered lunch and basket raffle drawings.

Three Michigan women authors, Sue Stauffacher, Stephanie Amada and Kathy Paterka will be speaking at the luncheon and copies of their books will be available for sale and signing at the event. All of the proceeds of the event go to support projects to advance the status of women locally, nationally and internationally, in particular the Sights on Success event, which is a free, day-long event offered to middle school girls to build teamwork, self esteem and confidence.

Sights on Success will mark 11 years in 2015 and their fifth year at Camp Hayo West Ha. In addition to rock climbing, zip lining and a ropes course, the girls have had motivational speakers, videos and games to inspire them to believe in themselves and advocate for others.

In February, Sue Stauffacher was a featured author for the Charlevoix Zonta Club.

"In addition to writing books, she has worked as a creativity coach, a journalist, a literacy consultant, a program administrator, a book reviewer and a teacher. Sue is passionate about the welfare of children at risk, as evidenced by two decades of advocacy projects like Wireman comics, which you can read more about in the community and Wireman sections," according to suestauffacher.com.

One of Stephanie Amada's mantras is: Be the leading lady of your own life. Amada is a faculty member in the Department of Writing, Rhetoric and American Cultures, and the Center for Gender in Global Context at Michigan State University. In addition, she researches, writes and speaks about hookup culture and related topics. Her book, "Hooking Up: A Sexy Encounter With Choice" is an ebook for college students that helps answer the question: "What is right for me?" and includes guidelines of how to stay safe on campus.

Kathy Paterka is a resident of Charlevoix, who graduated from college with a degree in sociology and a minor in German. She worked for the Catholic Church for 16 years and then as a legal assistant. She has been married to her husband, Steve, for more than 36 years, has a daughter and grandchildren. Paterka's newest novel, "The Other Wife" is a women's fiction work, which tells the tale of two women of different generations, and the challenges they each face after unexpectedly losing their husband — a man neither of them knew was married to anyone else but her. It is a story of grief, betrayal, growth, compassion and ultimately, forgiveness. Paterka also is the author of The James Bay Series, including "Fatty Patty," "Home Fires," "Lotto Lucy" and "For I Have Sinned."

OBITUARY

James 'Jim' Vol Hartwell: 70

James "Jim" Vol Hartwell, 70, lifelong resident of Horton Bay, peacefully died Sunday, March 22, 2015, in Champaign, Ill. At his side were his children, Prudence "Penny" and Ernest, and his nephew, Richard.

A memorial service celebrating Jim's life will take place at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 4, at Greensky Hill Indian Mission.

A memorial service celebrating Jim's life will take place at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 4, at Greensky Hill Indian Mission United Methodist Church near Horton Bay. The presiders will be Revs. Jonathan Mays, Tom Anderson, and Robert Dominic. There will be a memorial gathering from 10-11 a.m. during which friends are welcome to visit with the family in Susan Hall. Jim was born Dec. 15, 1944, in Anderson, Ind., to Jonathan Hartwell and Marian Ruth (Fox) Hartwell. He was raised in Horton Bay, where he graduated from the one-room school he would later restore and preserve. He spent most of his youth working in the back kitchens of the family home and restaurant, the Red Fox Inn, founded in 1919 by his grandparents, Volle and Lizzie (Spura) Fox. Jim became a key player in the kitchen operation while working for his mother, Marian. He prepared the famous smothered chicken, tomato pudding and dumplings for the summer guests, many of whom were prominent public figures. The Red Fox Inn Restaurant was known for fine American home-cooked dinners and good service; he would often quote his mother about the family legacy, "We just always tried to be friendly."

Jim honored the storied tradition of the Red Fox Inn when he later successfully lobbied Lansing to register the Red Fox Inn as a National Historic Site. In addition to the Red Fox Inn, Jim added Horton Bay's One-Room School and Boyne City's Water Works Building to the National Historic Register. At the time of his death, Jim was working to have the state protect the "Crooked Trees" Ottawa trail markers along Old 31 highway between Horton Bay Road and Camp Daggett Road as a National Historic Site.

Jim graduated from Boyne City High School in 1962 and then attended NCMC and CMU, where he earned an undergraduate degree in education. After graduation, Jim joined the newly inaugurated Peace Corps. Jim served in a village in Borneo, Malaysia, as a Peace Corps volunteer (1966-1968) and as a Peace Corps trainer (1968-1969). His quick mastery of the Malaysian language and his small-town sensibility permitted him to work with locals to construct libraries and schools, and to design a curriculum that taught all primary-school subjects in English. His time in Malaysia ignited a lifelong passion for travel and community service. After completing three years in the Peace Corps, James returned to Horton Bay via India, Greece, Germany, England and New York. In India, Jim met with Mother Teresa in Calcutta who told him during a one-on-one meeting that "The poor don't want your money, they want your love." Jim's meeting with Mother Teresa inspired him to later serve Mother Teresa's Brothers of Charity in inner city Los Angeles in the early 1980s.

After the Peace Corps, Jim enrolled in a master's program in political science at the University of Hawaii. He later ran for U.S. representative of Michigan's 1st Congressional District. He promoted his candidacy with the slogan "You gotta have Heart, Vote Hartwell." He also biked 400 miles across the U.P. from Ironwood to Petoskey. He won the votes of his local counties, but not his party's primary. However, he never lost the urge to serve his community through proactive and selfless citizenship.

Jim returned to Hawaii to work as a teacher on the Big Island and Oahu. There he met his wife, Teresita "Tess" Rafael, Ph.D., who was a researcher and a professor of Philippine languages at the University of Hawaii. Preceding her time in the U.S., Tess worked with Laotian, Cambodian and Vietnamese refugees in Thailand, and helped found a POC camp in Batang, Philippines, where refugees learned basic English and professional skills. Jim loved his wife's home country of the Philippines. He spent three-four months a year in the Philippines for the next 32 years. While in the Philippines, he learned the Tagalog language, ran a chain of Mr. Hartwell's cookie shops in Manila and purchased a small island in the province of Palawan.

Jim was a man who valued history. He would often quote his grandfather, Volle, who said, "Tradition is more important than wealth." Jim had a lifelong love affair with Northern Michigan, which inspired him to delve deep into personal research of local history and lore. He recorded many of his findings in his regular Petoskey News-Review column "Lost and Forgotten Northern Michigan," as well as in more than a dozen self-published books, among them "Fishing For Life," "Up the Creek without a Father," and "The Wit and Wisdom of Volle Fox."

In addition to Northern Michigan history, Jim contributed numerous well-respected writings to Ernest Hemingway scholarship. Jim's fascination with Hemingway history stemmed from the connection the author had with the hamlet of Horton Bay. His approach to Hemingway studies was not of traditional academic research. Rather, he gained his knowledge through diligent readings of local texts, family diaries from the Hemingway era, investigations of century old map-books and careful evaluation of archeological records. He also interviewed local elders such as Ojibway historians Jay Oliver and Benjamin Green, and old-time Horton Bay residents including Marian (Fox) Hartwell, Betty (Fox) Kells and William Ohle. Jim's research was extensive and he was eager to impart his knowledge to any bookstore patron, biographer, reporter, or local who shared a common interest in history. Stories about him have appeared in national newspapers, including the New York Times, Tampa Bay Times and Philadelphia Inquirer.

Many will fondly remember Jim as the owner of the Red Fox Inn Bookstore, with its unforgettable sales experience. Jim had a unique brand of salesmanship, where every sales pitch was personalized with a local story and an annotated map. He also offered his Nick Adams Tours. Prior to the Red Fox Bookstore, Jim ran several other area businesses, including the Horton Bay General Store and Hartwell's General Store at Nub's Nob.

Jim and his wife, Tess, had two children, Prudence "Penny" 31, and Ernest, 27, of whom they imparted their love of learning. Jim's children will miss his love, their daily adventures through the area and his unwavering support of their dreams. Penny will begin her first year in a Pediatric Residency program in New York, and Ernest is completing a Ph.D. in Romance Languages at Harvard. To those who knew him best, Jim was a champion of Northern Michigan history and a loving husband and father. His contributions brought history into the light of today, and his love for the community and family will be greatly missed.

Jim is survived by his children, Ernest and Prudence "Penny" Hartwell; his sister, Mary Lynne Hartwell; his nephew, Richard Fox Hartwell and son Gavin; his nephew, Jon E. Hartwell and children Taylor and Jonathan; as well as numerous cousins from the Kells, Dixon and Fox families.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Teresita "Tess" (Rafael) Hartwell; his parents, Marian Ruth (Fox) Hartwell and Jonathan David Hartwell; his brothers, Richard Jay and Jon Charles Hartwell; and his niece, Jodi Hartwell.

The family suggests memorials be sent to Greensky Hill Indian Mission United Methodist Church.

Registration deadline for May election ends April 6

LANSING — Michigan residents have until Monday, April 6, to register to vote in the May 5 election, which features a statewide ballot question, said Secretary of State Ruth Johnson.

"I encourage all Michigan residents who are qualified to vote to get registered and cast your ballot," Johnson said. "Voting gives you a chance to have your voice heard on Election Day."

To register to vote, applicants must be at least 18 years old by Election Day and be U.S. citizens. Applicants also must be residents of Michigan and of the city or township in which they wish to register. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Election Day.

Voters may register by mail or in person at their county, city or township clerk's office or by visiting any Secretary of State office. The mail-in form is available at michigan.gov/elections. First-time voters who register by mail must vote in person in their first election, unless they hand-deliver the application to their local clerk, are 60 years old or older, are disabled or are eligible to vote under the Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act.

To check their registration status, residents may visit the Michigan Voter Information Center at michigan.gov/vote. They can see their sample ballot, including the ballot question language, and find their polling place. Residents also can find information on absentee voting, Michigan's voter identification requirement, how to use voting equipment and how to contact their local clerk. The site can be easily viewed on a smartphone.

Voters who qualify may choose to cast an absentee ballot. As a registered voter, you may obtain an absentee ballot if you are age 60 or older; physically unable to attend the polls without the assistance of another; expecting to be absent from the community in which you are registered for the entire time the polls will be open on Election Day; in jail awaiting arraignment or trial; unable to attend the polls due to religious reasons or will be working as an election inspector in your precinct outside of your precinct of residence.

Those who wish to receive their absentee ballot by mail must submit their application by 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 2. Absentee ballots can be obtained in person anytime through 4 p.m. on Monday, May 4. Voters who request an absentee ballot in person on Monday, May 4, must fill out the ballot in the clerk's office. As a reminder, voters will be asked to provide identification when at the polls on Election Day or if obtaining an absentee ballot in person from the clerk's office. They will be asked to present valid photo ID, such as a Michigan driver's license or identification card. Anyone who does not have an acceptable form of photo ID or failed to bring it with them can still vote. They will be required to sign a brief affidavit stating that they're not in possession of photo ID. Their ballot will be included with all others and counted on Election Day.

Voters who don't have a Michigan driver's license or identification card can show the following forms of photo ID, as long as they are current:

- Driver's license or personal identification card issued by another state.
- Federal or state government-issued photo identification.
- U.S. passport.
- Military identification card with photo.
- Student identification with photo from a high school or an accredited institution of higher education, such as a college or university.
- Tribal identification card with photo.

BUSINESS

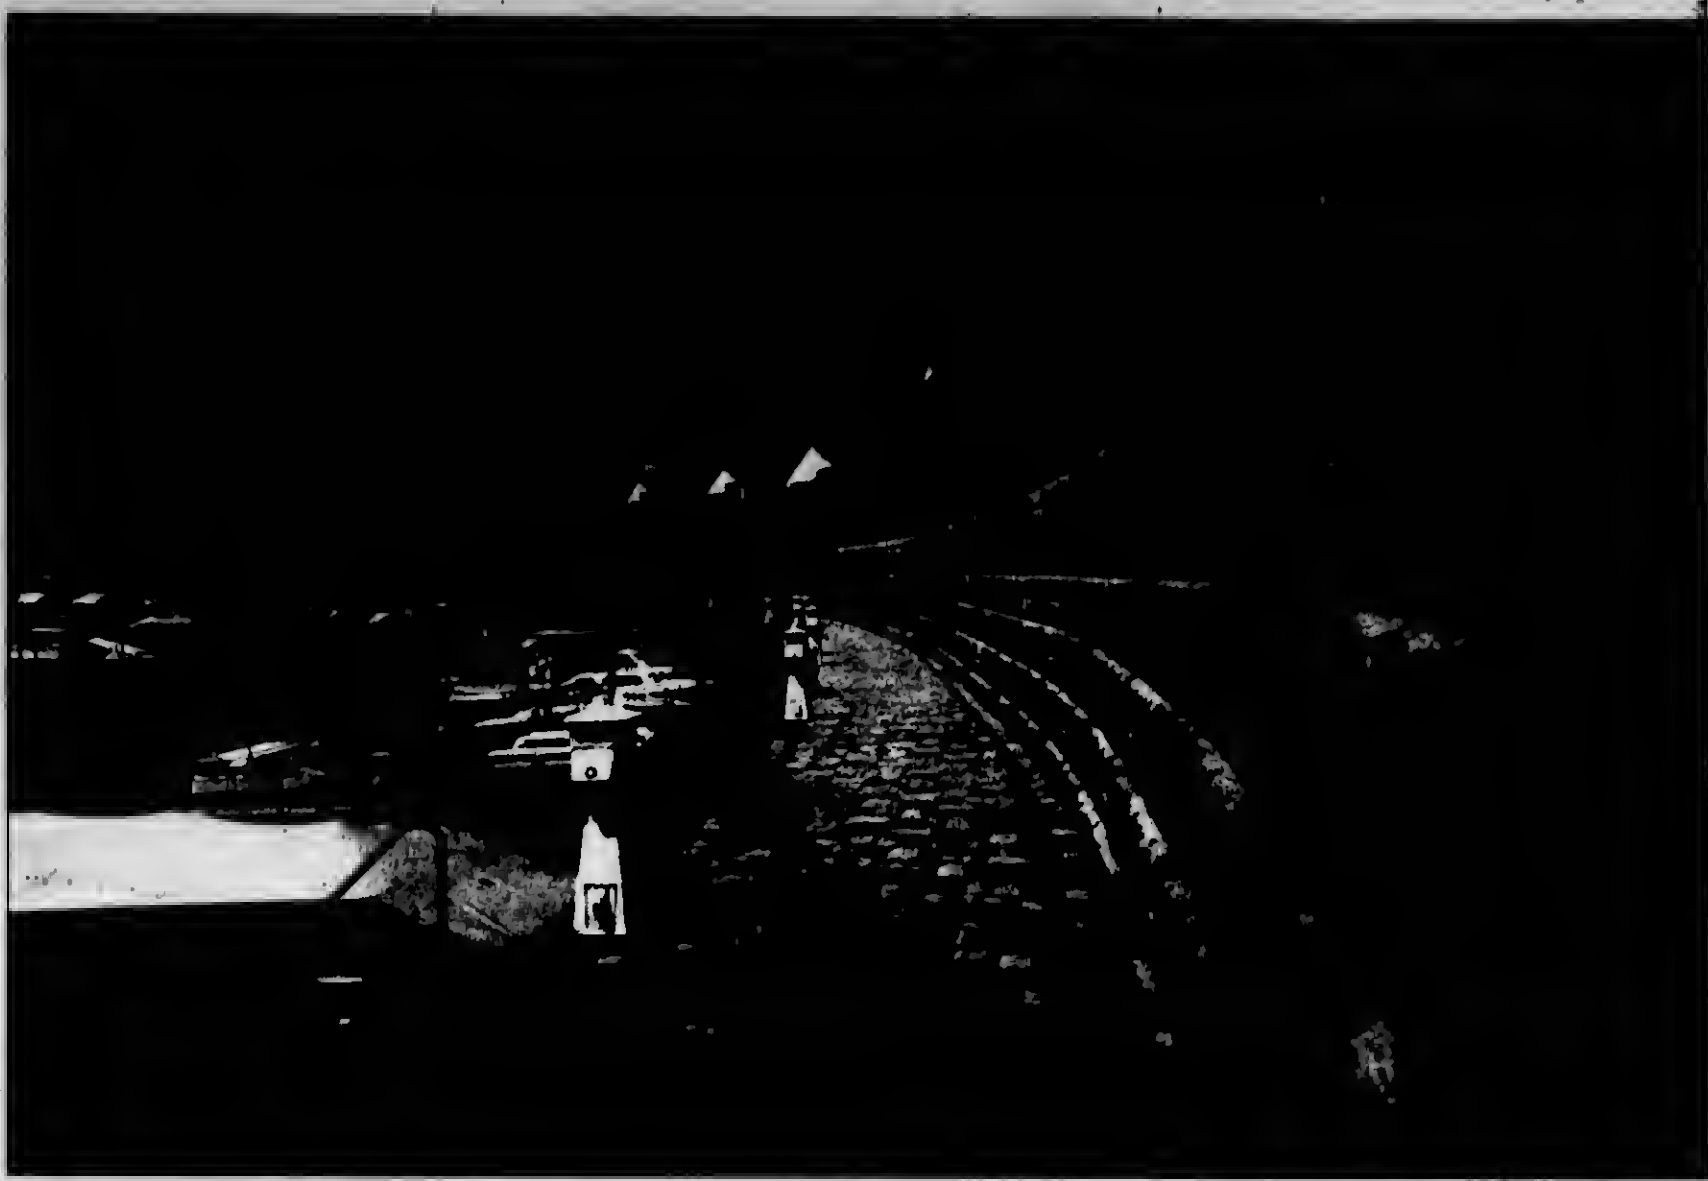

Local company to be honored at event: 'Michigan Celebrates Small Business'

CHARLEVOIX — Redi-Rock International will be honored at the 11th annual Michigan Celebrates Small Business event on May 7, at the Lansing Center in downtown Lansing.

Redi-Rock International is a growing Charlevoix-based company that has taken a seemingly boring idea — concrete block manufacturing — and turned it into a brand and a technical authority that has transformed the entire retaining wall industry since its founding in 2000.

Redi-Rock is a licensor of a proprietary steel forming system used to manufacture 2000-pound retaining wall blocks. Today, 130 independently owned and operated licensees around the globe provide retaining wall solutions for incredible projects. You'll find Redi-Rock walls at the New England Patriots' stadium, a Donald Trump golf course overlooking the Statue of Liberty, the FBI regional headquarters in Cincinnati, college campuses across North America, and the downtowns of some of the largest U.S. and Canadian cities. Redi-Rock is manufactured locally by MDC Contracting in Charlevoix, and you can find Redi-Rock walls throughout Northern Michigan at homes, business and downtowns.

"There's a lot more national and international business going on in Northern Michigan than most people realize," said Jake Manthei, general manager at Redi-Rock. "We're excited to be one of the companies to watch because we want to create more quality jobs here in Northern Michigan and attract professionals back 'Up North'."

Redi-Rock expects to add several new production, engineering and marketing people each year for the foreseeable future.

"This may sound trite, but our biggest asset really is the people," said Ben Manthei, founder of Redi-Rock. "Our team is coming up with the tools, technology and strategy that no one else is doing. We lead the pack, and we need sharp people to lead with us. Often, people tell us it's their dream to retire 'Up North' but they never thought they'd be able to have a career here."

The Michigan 50 Companies to Watch Award, sponsored by Michigan Celebrates Small Business, honors growth-oriented businesses based on market expansion, job creation, technological innovation and community impact. Companies represent a wide variety of industries.

To be considered, companies must be privately held and headquartered in Michigan, have between six and 99 employees and generate between $750,000 to $50 million in annual revenue. The other Michigan 50 Companies to Watch are listed at michigancelebrates.biz/the-event/2015-award-winners/.

Greenhouse Watching

I have a small greenhouse on the east side of the house. The south side would have been better, but there was no room on the lot.

It mostly contains representatives of a group of plants of particular interest to me. They are generally called aroids, and are related to the local Jack-in-the-pulpit plants.

The plants I keep are all tropical and have not a chance of surviving outside without warmer temperatures. Most of them begin dying if temperatures fall below 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

Winter is difficult for those plants. I maintain the temperature above 60 degrees, but there isn't much light and they hardly show signs of growth.

Over the years it has been of interest to me that they begin growing again about the middle of March. They seem to know when spring has arrived. The greenhouse is not warmer, but they still begin to grow. Maybe, I thought, it is the length of daylight. But tropical plants do not generally respond to the length of day, because that doesn't change much in their original home. How do they know it's spring?

The other long-term greenhouse project is to grow some of the wild or nearly wild plants I can get seeds from. Most of these seeds don't start as readily as purchased garden seeds, and many of them can rest in the soil for years. Last summer, and fall I collected (read stole), from flowerbeds near the sidewalk, seeds of Baptisia and a beautiful Appalachian flower called Spigelia. I put each kind in potting soil and kept them moist. They have been completely dark for months, but this spring, as in previous springs, with different seeds, they have begun to grow. They too, seem to have gotten the message that spring has arrived and it is time to grow. How do they know it's spring?

Spring is almost universally recognized as a time of renewal. Major religions assign holidays to the time around the spring equinox. Especially holidays that tell stories of renewal and revival. It is a thrilling time, even without the new growth of plants and the reproduction of animals. Happy Easter, Happy Passover and Happy Spring — a joyous time and somewhat mysterious one.

Charlevoix Public Library announces annual prom dress giveaway

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., will hosts its annual prom dress giveaway from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. on Wednesday, April 8, in the upstairs conference rooms. This popular event invites teens to come to the library, try on beautiful, gently used dresses and take one home for free.

The library collects gently used dresses throughout the year. Some are donations from patrons and local stores, others are purchased from resale shops for the event. Donations are gratefully accepted year-round in the Youth Services Department.

Library volunteer Karen Bakker will do free dress alterations.

For more information, call Laura Potter at (231) 237-7350.

Michigan's 5 birding trails offer wildlife-viewing adventure

MICHIGAN — Those looking for an outdoor adventure this spring are encouraged to give birding trails a try. With increasing popularity, birding trails are popping up along Michigan's scenic roadways. Now with five different trails to explore, for the beginning birder or the seasoned veteran, wildlife-viewing hot spots have never been easier to find and enjoy.

With prime birding areas located along well-known driving routes, a birding trail is like a treasure hunt for those looking to get out and enjoy Michigan's outdoors. Birding trail stops are typically in county parks, nature preserves or Department of Natural Resources' state parks or wildlife areas — allowing access to all who are interested. Visits in May and June will provide the greatest opportunity to witness both migrant and nesting birds. Routes also include many options for amenities such as restaurants, hotels and campgrounds.

Five birding trails, each offering unique experiences, are located around the state:

Michigan's five birding trails offer beginning birders and wildlife-viewing enthusiasts plenty of opportunity to enjoy the outdoors this spring.

— Beaver Island Birding Trail — "The Emerald Isle of Michigan Birding," this new trail is located entirely on Lake Michigan's largest island, encompassing 35 sites on more than 100 miles of roads.

— Superior Birding Trail

— Along Michigan's oldest birding trail, bird species and other wildlife can be found at 10 sites along 150 miles in the Upper Peninsula, from Seney National Wildlife Refuge to Whitefish Point.

— Sleeping Bear Birding Trail — This new trail is 123 miles long, running from Manistee to Traverse City along the scenic M-22 highway and Lake Michigan shoreline and contains more than 35 birding sites including a "bonus loop."

— Saginaw Bay Birding Trail — This new, 142-mile trail follows the Lake Huron shoreline, stretching from Port Crescent to Tawas Point State Park with more than 20 birding sites.

— Sunrise Coast Birding Trail — Soaring along the Lake Huron coast, Michigan's newest trail features 28 sites along its 296-mile route from the Au Sable River in Oscoda to Mackinaw City.

Birding trails promote wildlife viewing and conservation education, and provide economic benefit to local communities. Birding is a great way to enjoy the diversity of Michigan's wildlife and habitats and to build an appreciation of the state's unique natural resources.

These trails are made possible through the efforts of, and partnerships between, Michigan Audubon chapters, government agencies, land conservancies, private industries and many dedicated individuals working together to create more opportunities to experience the outdoors and visit local communities.

For more information, visit the Michigan Audubon Society birding trail website or michigan.gov/wildlife.

Comfort Keepers helping American House in Charlevoix, Petoskey

CHARLEVOIX — Comfort Keepers of Northern Michigan now offers a 24-hour care team at both American House of Charlevoix and American House of Petoskey. This team provides around the clock medical care and other assistance to individuals in their homes at American House.

The Comfort Keepers team provides medication management, personal care services, mobility assistance, diabetic care, nursing and other assistance that enables residents to live independently in the community. Comfort Keepers also is available to assist families in emergency situations.

American House Senior Living Residences offer apartment living in a dynamic senior community and provide residents with dining, maid service, recreational activities, social enrichment, transportation and more. With Comfort Keepers caregiving staff on site 24 hours a day, American House residents have ready access to any additional services needed, whether for short-term recovery from illness or injury, or to meet ongoing needs as they change over time.

"We are excited to provide this service to the individuals residing at American House," said Russ Knopp, owner of Comfort Keepers. "Our 24-hour availability is certain to give clients and their families the confidence that medical needs are being met without delay."

To explore your options or for more information about Comfort Keepers, call (231) 487-9044 or visit comfortkeeperspetoskey.com.

For more information, call (231) 929-9044 or visit traversecity-615.com/comfortkeepers.com.

Kellerville to play at Back Porch Coffeehouse

CHARLEVOIX — On Saturday, April 11, Kellerville will be sharing its musical talents at the Back Porch Coffeehouse music series.

Kellerville will play from 7 to 8:30 p.m., followed by a "circle jam." Suggested donations at the door are $5 to $10 per person and are for the scheduled performers.

Soups, cookies, coffee and tea are served at no additional charge. Doors open after 6 p.m.

This is a community event for all ages. The Back Porch is held at the Charlevoix Senior Center building, corner of Carpenter and Sheridan streets.

The building is fully accessible with parking in front and back.

Holly Keller has been singing since she was a child in the woods of Cross Village. Her mother would sing along to the radio and Holly would find harmonies to match her.

With the courage and love of her family upbringing she made the most out of her music, at one point even making an appearance on Garrison Keillor's Prairie Home Companion.

She has been in many bands, but Kellerville, with her cousin Lee, is the one that has seen her return to the porches and campfires that wrought her.

Lee Dyer is a multi-instrumental madman who also hails from Cross Village. He started playing trumpet in middle school and learned piano when his mom bought an elder brother a keyboard for Christmas. Guitar came later, and after four years at Interlochen's All State Band Camp, Lee attended Northern Michigan University where he studied music theory, performance and history. This knowledge combined with Holly's deep connection with music is what allows the duo the distinct sound they have cultivated over the past four years.

Ms. Wheelchair USA seeks Michigan contestants

CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio — Applications are now being accepted for the title of Ms. Wheelchair Michigan. The winner will represent Michigan in July, competing against other state representatives, for the national title of Ms. Wheelchair USA. The Ms. Wheelchair USA program is dedicated to celebrating the abilities and successful accomplishments of women with disabilities.

This year, one representative will be selected from each state based on the judging of their official state representative application package. Judging of the official contestant application, contestant platform statement, two recommendation letters and an overall impression score will result in the state titleholder selections.

To qualify, contestants must be women, ages 18 and older before July 30, 2015.

There is no age limit in this competition. Contestants must utilize a wheelchair as their main source of mobility however; this program does not exclude women who may be able to utilize their legs. Contestants must be residents or students in Michigan for at least two months and may be married, single or divorced. Contestants may have children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren or no children.

scheduled for repair once the warmer temperatures arrive, but there still are many of the city's water lines that remain vulnerable to the cold. With aging pipes it's anyone's guess on how many of the city's main lines are broken, Elliott said.

"We know we have three main lines frozen," Elliott said. "As they thaw out we will find out if any of our frozen lines are broken."

City work crews have been dealing with a number of service lines going from the street to homes and businesses. To date the city has had to address more than 200 customers who have no water and the calls keep coming in adding more stress to an already busy workforce.

"As of last week we have spent approximately $40,000 on labor, equipment and materials to deal with all of the issues related to the cold winter," Elliott said.

The exact cost of this winter's pipe damage is still not known, but it appears to be better than last year, Elliott said.

Last year the total spent by the end of it all was approximately $500,000," he said. "We did receive grant money of approximately $230,000, but there is no way of knowing if we will get that same help this year."

spects the court's decision.

"St. Marys Cement is disappointed in the recent ruling by the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. The EPA asserted that our Charlevoix cement manufacturing facility is subject to certain requirements codified in 40 CFR 51.308. St. Marys Cement challenged the EPA's position on a variety of legal grounds, but the Sixth Circuit sided with EPA on the issue."

"While we are disappointed in the outcome, St. Marys Cement respects the court's decision and is currently considering its legal options," counsel said.

JoAnne Beemon, secretary for a local environmental group, WATCH, Inc. — Water and Air Team for Charlevoix — said the organization is pleased with the court's decision.

"It is good to see EPA standards being upheld in a day when the EPA is under attack from industry claiming too much regulation," Beemon said.

"When people and industry criticize environmental regulations they don't understand the people will be the ones hurt without EPA protection. You have to have a watchdog over industry."

not believe they sold office related products, according to minutes from the special meeting on Feb. 17.

"The special meeting was held to have Johnson explain receipts that I didn't understand," Vrondran said. "Questions came up about some of the purchases and I wanted to make sure we were being accountable for our finances."

According to Johnson if those who were questioning the township records had come to see her, she would have been able to explain any line item or purchase that was in question.

"They did not talk to me," Johnson said. "It was email requests for one record or another. My job was dominated by email, mass confusion and harassment from Vrondran and Blossom."

In a correspondence addressed to Vrondran from Johnson on Feb. 20, Johnson writes that she is responding to Vrondran's email from Feb. 20, requesting more official township records be made available for an informal review. Johnson tells Vrondran that she has made a spreadsheet available and all township records are inventoried and ready to be picked up by an authorized township official.

She also writes in the email, because of Vrondran's continued activity in researching township financial records that she requested a state level authorized audit of the same records. She also noted her counsel will receive the same records because she believes there is attempt to defame her character and integrity.

On March 9, the township board had another special meeting where they appointed Sandi Whitford as township clerk. Whitford will fill the rest of Johnson's term and if she chooses to, Whitford can run for office of the clerk in 2016, according to minutes from that meeting.

Rayders capture first district title since 1988

BY DREW KOCHANIK

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix baseball team has enjoyed a year for the record books and with a pair of wins Saturday, its not quite over just yet.

The Rayders picked up their 27th win of the season, a school record, in securing their first district championship since 1988.

Charlevoix earned wins over Harbor Springs, 9-5, in a dramatic comeback fashion, and East Jordan, 12-6, to win the Division III district title on their home field.

"The seventh inning rally against Harbor kind of sums up our season — these guys don't ever think they are going to lose," Charlevoix coach Allen Telgenhof said. "Harbor Springs played such a great game, they caught everything we hit at them until that last inning."

The Lake Michigan Conference and district conference champion Rayders will move on to play Negaunee in the Division III regionals at Traverse City St. Francis on Saturday, June 8.

The Rayders won the first game of the day 9-5 over Harbor Springs, as Tommy Zipp earned the win on the mound, throwing a complete game with six strikeouts and seven hits allowed.

Charlevoix overcame a 5-3 lead by the Rams with a brilliant six run seventh inning, thanks much in part to Zipp helping his own cause with a three run double that would put the Rayders up 7-5.

"We just kept battling and it was fitting that Tommy got the big hit — he is one of our two seniors and he just didn't want his high school career to be over," Telgenhof added.

East Jordan topped Boyne City in game two of the day, 4-3, as Matt Bolser took the win on the mound, throwing a complete game. He allowed just four hits, while striking out seven.

The Rayders wouldn't mess around in the championship game against the Red Devils, as they piled on a 10-1 lead by the end of the third inning. Charlevoix eventually walked away with a 12-6 win over East Jordan to capture the district crown.

"I think after all of the excitement of the first game, our fans were happy that we kind of took the mystery out of it against East Jordan," Telgenhof said.

Shane Sutherland pitched six innings for the Rayders, striking out nine, while allowing 12 hits. Nate Moon picked up the save, striking out the side in the seventh.

Zach Shepard, Noah Raymond, Bolser, and Colin Petrie all pitched in the loss for East Jordan.

At the plate for Charlevoix, Noah Certa finished the day with three hits and two RBI. Tommy Zipp had six RBI on one hit, Sutherland had a hit with two RBI, Will Telgenhof finished with four hits and two RBI, Austin Putman had two hits, including a triple, and two RBI and Luke Klinger had a triple and an RBI.

"I was really happy that we were able to get all of our guys the experience of playing in a district championship game," Telgenhof said. "The whole team has really worked hard and they deserved the win and they all deserved to play."

For East Jordan on the day, Zach Shepard had four hits and two RBI, Tim Schut had four hits and two RBI, Petrie had a hit and an RBI, Oscar Scheier had two hits and two RBI, Dustin Hejka had two hits and two RBI and Tucker Alward and Raymond both had a hit.

"These young men really did East Jordan baseball proud with the way they played," East Jordan coach Tom Reid said. "The Boyne City game was one of the most well-rounded, well-played games we played all year and after falling into a 10-1 hole in the finals, they didn't give up and battled back to make a game of it."

Dream run ends for Boyne City in 48-45

EAST LANSING — With four teams left in the postseason, the margins between victory and defeat can be razor thin.

Despite an impressive effort, Boyne City fell on the wrong side of that margin in a semifinal loss to Grand Rapids NorthPointe Christian on Thursday, coming up one call and a couple of inches short in a 48-45 defeat that brought the Rambler's best season in 38 years to a close.

"The kids were confident, got off to a great start, and played to win tonight. They gave themselves an opportunity to win, and that's all you can ask for."

Boyne City trailed by as many as 11 in the third quarter and was behind by nine entering the fourth quarter, but rallied with a strong defensive effort in the final quarter to give themselves three shots at taking the lead or tying the game in the final minute.

NorthPointe senior Andrew Holesinger got a block on Boyne City's first attempt with just under a minute to play and the Mustangs up 46-45, but Boyne City got the ball back on a huge block from senior Corey Redman.

With 20 seconds to go, senior Cole Butler drove to the basket and laid in what looked like a lead-changing layup. But in the process of making the shot, Butler collided with NorthPointe senior Preston Huckaby, who drew a charge that wiped out the basket.

Huckaby made two free throws at the other end to extend the Mustangs' lead, but Butler got one more shot to tie the game with a contested three-pointer that hit the side of the rim and bounced away as time expired.

"I thought we gave ourselves a chance," Coach Redman said. "When it comes down to a tough charge call, that gives you an opportunity that could go either way."

It didn't go our way tonight, but it was great to have the opportunity."

Butler was an offensive force all night for the Rambler's, hitting three 3-pointers and scoring 11 points in the first quarter as Boyne City jumped out to a 17-8 lead.

"We just got really pumped up before the game, and I was really excited," Butler said. "This was my first time playing in the Breslin, I just wanted to come out firing and get us off to a good early start."

Redman opened the second quarter with a 3-pointer as well to extend Boyne City's lead to 12, but foul trouble forced Butler to the bench for most of the second and the Rambler's stalled out against a vigorous defensive effort by NorthPointe.

Led by Huckaby, who finished with 26 points to lead all scorers, NorthPointe outscored Boyne City 36-18 over the second and third quarters and looked on the verge of pulling away.

"I thought we were doing a solid job on (Huckaby), but in the second half they did a really good job with their spacing, putting shooters in the corner and spreading the floor enough where it was hard for us to over-help," coach Redman said. "(Huckaby) was the difference maker, he was stronger and more physical than any guy we had guarding him, but we did everything he could to try and slow him down."

But unwilling to let their season end, Boyne City's experienced starting five rallied, holding NorthPointe to just one made basket in the fourth quarter and cutting the lead to one, with 55 seconds left to give themselves a chance.

"We knew to have a chance we had to extend the game and get as many possessions as we could," coach Redman said. "We tried to keep it out of Huckaby's hands, pressure as much as possible and even start to foul a little bit down the stretch just to give us a shot. Everything we asked of them in the huddle our kids did."

Butler closed-out his career with a 16 point, 10 rebound double-double, junior Tanner Kruzel added eight points, the Rambler's seniors and Redman finished with six points and five rebounds.

Senior point guard Zach Napont, added five points, five rebounds, seven assists and four steals for Boyne, and senior Dalton Gardner chipped in four points.

It was a tough ending to a historic season for the Rambler's, who finished 21-6 and overcame an 0-2 start and an 0-2 finish to the regular season to reach the program's first semifinal in 38 years.

Along the way, Boyne City captured a conference, district and regional title for the first time since 1956 and left a lasting mark on the history of the program.

"We wanted kids (in the future) to look up in our gym and see the banners and go, 'Wow, that 2014-15 team was a good team,' and I think we did that," Napont said. "It's a tribute to everybody in the program."

The road to the Breslin Center wasn't easy for the Rambler's, but that made getting there all the sweeter, Corey Redman said.

"It was definitely a dream come true to play on this stage," Corey Redman said. "We've all wanted this for so long, and we've put so much time and effort in-season and in the offseason to make this happen."

"Before the year, if someone had told us we'd make it this far, we wouldn't have believed them."

It took a special commitment from all its players for Boyne City to succeed this year, Napont said.

"Everyone bought in this year, and everyone was for the team, not themselves," Napont said. "No one cared about who was going to score or who was going to lead us in whatever, and I think that really helped unify us."

Boyne City graduates nine seniors, including Redman, Butler, Napont and Gardner along with reserves Mac Alexander, Ben Halstead, Trevor Day, Alec Hoaglund and Mike Dohm that combined with six juniors and a sophomore to make this a special year, coach Redman said.

"All these guys, I coached them way back in Pop Warner, and seeing them grow up in a small-town, close-knit environment and do this makes me really proud," coach Redman said. "I wanted them to win so bad because they're such a great group of kids, and I think that makes you want it that much more when you're surrounded by people like that."

Gaylord's Casey Korte shakes summer struggles, nervousness to become Player of the Year

BRANDON FOLSOM
(989) 732-1111
bfolsom@gaylordheraldtimes.com

GAYLORD — When Gaylord coach Frank Hamilla moved Casey Korte from the junior varsity to his varsity girls basketball team, he never expected the sophomore to do what she did.

Korte showed signs of excellence as a freshman last season. She was taller than most players, could jump out the gym and dominated play on both ends. It didn't matter she played on the JV because she showed talent some varsity players didn't have.

Hamilla gambled on Korte, moving her to the varsity during summer league. She struggled at first but finished as the standout Hamilla knew she was. Entering the 2014-15 season, as the cliché goes, the rest was history.

The Associated Press named her All-State Honorable Mention on its Class A team while the Big North awarded her All-Conference First Team. She led Gaylord to an 18-5 overall record and an appearance in the district championship.

Korte's stellar rookie season now culminates with one final award, as Northern Prep Review named her its All-Area Player of the Year for girls basketball, as determined by a panel of voters.

"It was over the summer when we decided to move her to varsity," Hamilla said. "We saw her on JV as a freshman and thought she had the tools and potential to play at the varsity level."

"But for her to have the season she just had, no, we didn't expect that. We saw the potential early on and understood she had the tools, but we never expected her to do what she did."

No one outjumped Korte for a rebound this season. Not one defender could stop her from burying her signature 10-foot jumper from the baseline. Very few others could slow her down when she would aggressively dribble to the hoop for a contested layup.

Korte — as only a sophomore — averaged 15.6 points, 8.7 rebounds and 2.0 steals and dominated each regular season game she played in.

"I don't know if I've coached a girl who has the jumping ability that she has," Hamilla said. "She's so quick to the ball and is a natural athlete."

However, those weren't the attributes Hamilla saw during the first day of summer league. Korte struggled near the basket and showed a lack of confidence with the ball in her hands.

"It was a little rough at first," Korte admitted.

Things improved for her on the second day. Everything just clicked for her, and her improvement continued to the third and final day of the July league.

"On the first day, she showed a lack of confidence and didn't take the ball to the basket," Hamilla said. "She got the ball on the wing and would give it up instead of taking it to the basket. She had a lack of physical play and wouldn't go for rebounds or follow her shots. She was definitely nervous playing against varsity players for the first time."

"But after that first day, it seemed to click. During the first game of that second day, she got a couple of buckets right away and followed it up with rebounds. She realized she could play at this level, and that's where she went from there."

Hamilla said Gaylord didn't keep stats during the summer scrimmages, but he estimated that she averaged at least a double-double in the Blue Devils' final six games.

"By the second day, it had all come back to me," Korte said. "It took some time to pick up basketball from after not playing since last season."

Another thing that limited Korte, as well as during the regular season, was her nervousness. Before each game, she was nervous and said it took her at least a half to calm down and play focused.

Those who visited Jim Mongeau Gymnasium for games would have never noticed her limited play. Korte always had at least 10 points entering the locker room at halftime and looked like the best player on the floor.

"I'm always really nervous in the first half of games," Korte said. "So Coach Hamilla and (Coach Kevin Foster) help me a lot and encourage me. I'm always nervous before the games and they help with my mental preparation."

Added Hamilla: "At times, she showed she was nervous. I think it was being young and having a lack of confidence. When she was nervous, the girls, Lindsey (Zaremba), Sydney (Kassuba) and Brandi (Wagner), would give her words of encouragement. But as a sophomore, she did a real nice job doing what we asked, despite the nervousness."

Who knows how dangerous Korte could be on the court should she harness those nerves going forward? But Hamilla has a plan to help her improve next season, with or without those nerves. He wants Korte's play near the basket to improve, especially in the post where she can use her height to her advantage.

"I want her to improve

Gaylord's Casey Korte drives to the basket against Cheboygan during the 2014-15 season.

how she plays with her back to the basket," Hamilla said. "She's confident facing the basket from the perimeter, but there's times she'll have an advantage, height wise, if she plays with her back to the basket and takes advantage of her physical attributes."

The team also expects her to be more of a leader next season.

"Now being a year on the varsity, maybe she needs to step up and show leadership skills," Hamilla said. "We had senior leadership skills last year. With her and a couple of this year's juniors, maybe she can step up."

"She's established herself now and needs to show the younger kids what it takes to be successful."

As the best player in the area as only a sophomore, Korte's future is bright. If she continues to improve, it'll be tough for other girls to strip her of her title.
